BASKET BALL.

Growing in Popularity

The year 1907 marks an era of increased popularity in the already popular game of basketball. Such colleges as Yale and Harvard are playing schedules of from 30 to 40 games, and many other Northern colleges (such as U. S. Naval Academy) are putting out teams for the first time. This popularity not only exists in the North but is rapidly spreading to our section of the South. University of Virginia and W. & L. played their first schedules last year. This season many of the smaller colleges in the state will be represented in the field.

This is not a game in which mere strength predominates, but one in which superiority is measured by skill, speed and team work. The game is excellent training for football men, teaching them accuracy in passing the ball and fleetness of foot.

Basketball promises this year to be one of our most prominent features of athletics. Anderson is the only one of last year's team who failed to return. In addition to this there are many more new men in college than usual who excel in this game. Among the new material are Streit, captain, who played on Auburn and Birmingham Athletic Association teams; Whittington, who played on the Culver Military Academy team; Robinsen and Derr of the Cumberland High School team; Moore, Smart and Peas. Among the old men, Osburn, Moomaw, Hood, McMurren, Bagley and Charlton are playing in their usual good form.

This year's team will be coached by Mr. Krebs, who has played several seasons with Dickinson College. At present they are being drilled in the rudiments of the game, such as passing the ball and throwing goals. Mr. Krebs as usual has his men well in hand and is getting good results.

The schedule is being prepared by Mr. Toms, whose ability calls for no comment. Several games have already been arranged with Virginia, Charlottesville Y. M. C. A., Staunton Military Academy and Staunton Y. M. C. A. It is hoped that Manager Toms will be able to arrange a trip to Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis. The first game of the season will be played with University of Virginia in Charlottesville Jan. 19th.

There are many men in college who have played basket ball who have not been out as yet. It is to be hoped that these men will report for practice and that the student body will give good support. It is only by so doing that we can expect our team to meet with success.

All Loyal Washington and Lee Men

The student body of the university so far this year has not supported their college weekly as they should, but we feel that this is due to the fact that their attention has not been sufficiently called to this matter, and we feel that after reading this notice every man who has not already done so, and who can, will subscribe to his own weekly.

Last year, at the request of many students, THE RING-TUM PHI was magnanimously turned over to the Student body as their own publication, to be handled as they wished. The entire plan of management was changed, and among the most important changes was that 25 per cent. of all profits should go the Athletic Association.

Now, so far, the student subscription is not as large as it was last year. Do we intend to support a publication not our own, better than one which belongs to us? Surely not.

The baseball season is fast approaching and you will need THE RING-TUM PHI to get all the news. We are offering you a subscription for the remainder of the session for $1.00. We believe that loyalty for your college weekly and for your Athletic Association will prompt you to sign and mail the enclosed card.

New Year Dances

The Cotillion club gave its New Year's dances on last Monday and Tuesday nights. Both hops were very much enjoyed by all and the club is to be complimented.

The chaperones were; Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Kern, Mrs. Walker, and Mrs. Corse.

The young ladies present were: Misses. Heald, Glads Heald, Apperson, Caske, Terry, Christian, and McDaniel, of Lynchburg; Miss Simmons of Norfolk and Misses. Howe, Staples, Moore, Gadsden, Gadsden, and Glasgow of Lexington.

The club will give its mid winter dance on Feb. 21.

LAW DEPARTMENT

SENIOR LAWYERS

At a meeting held this week the following elections took place:

D. S. MacDonald, class orator.

J. H. Flannagan, historian.

R. H. Crews, additional member of the Calyx board.

At a later meeting the motion to have the law class represented in the Calyx by individual pictures was voted down. The class will be represented as heretofore by a group picture.

W. & L. STUDENT WINS DISTINCTION

"It is announced today that A. W. Rutan, of the firm of Daniels & Rutan, of Santa Ann and Fullerton, will be deputy district attorney under District Attorney-elect Davis. Mr. Rutan is a prominent and well known young attorney and has charge of the Fullerton office of the firm. He is a graduate of the Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. Mr. Rutan has only been in Fullerton a few months, but has made many friends who wish him much success in his new office in the county court house."—Fullerton (Cal.) Tribune.

[The many friends of Mr. Rutan will be glad to hear of his success in the practice of his profession.]

QUALIFIED TO PRACTICE

Mr. Leo Wineberg, of this city, has passed a successful examination before the state board of examiners of the Maryland State Bar Association and will be recommended by them to the court of appeals for admission to the bar. Mr. Wineberg is a very popular young man and has the congratulations of his many friends. He is a graduate of the Male High School of the class of 1903, and the degree of bachelor of law was conferred upon him by the Washington and Lee University, where he graduated in 1907.—Frederick County (Md.) News.

Subscribers

All subscriptions to THE RING-TUM PHI are now past due. There are several subscribers who have not paid up. Kindly make an effort to pay for your paper at once, and oblige, FRANCIS G. JONES, Manager.

J. H. Howell, of last year's law class, is now practicing his profession at Waynesville, N. C.

West Virginia University Glee and Mandolin Clubs

Will Appear in Concert at the University Chapel Tonight at 8.15

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs of the University of West Virginia will make their first appearance before a Lexington audience on Saturday, Jan. 12th, 1907. The concert will commence at 8.15 p. m. sharp.

From the success they are meeting with at other places a fine performance is guaranteed. This is the most extensive tour ever arranged at the W. V. U., taking in fourteen towns all together.

Let all W. & L. students turn out and show them a royal W. & L. welcome.

"Lexington Disorder"

In the account of "Faust," which was rendered at the Lexington "Academy of Music" on Jan. 2, 1907, the Lexington Gazette stated that "the pleasure of the audience was slightly marred by interruptions by several young men who were somewhat boisterous while pathetic scenes were being enacted." And the mayor of the town told the culprit that he need not trouble himself about getting witnesses to prove his innocence as he had determined to fine him two dollars. "Oh! judgment, thou art fled to brutish beasts and men have lost their reason."

NOTICE I

On the 19th of January the centennial of General Lee's birth will be fitly celebrated at Washington and Lee University.

There will be a formal University Assembly at 11 o'clock on that day, addressed by Hon. Charles Francis Adams, of Boston.

Seats will be reserved, as usual at such meetings, for every member of the student body, and every student will be present.

On January 18th, from 12:40 to 1 p. m., there will be an informal meeting of the University Assembly (i. e. without academic costume or procession), at which the faculty will meet the student body to discuss for 15 minutes the arrangements for the celebration on the 18th. Every student is required to be present and in his own seat.

Students recently matriculated will have sittings assigned to them before January 18th.

GEORGE H. DEMNY,
President.

Rockbridge County News Print

We wish to welcome the return of the students from their vacation and to wish them a prosperous year for 1907.

"The management of RING-TOW PHI at Washington and Lee some time ago offered prizes for the best college song and yell submitted within a given time provided twenty-five of each were handed in. However, it seems that the offering of prizes stirs up no interest in the matter. The students of W. & L. show no less enthusiasm in regard to songs and yells than do those at W. V. U.

"Purdue and Lehigh are also complaining that they lack college songs."

From the above article, which appeared in the West Virginia University Weekly it will be seen that W. & L. is not alone in its demand for songs and yells.

The offer referred to in the above article has expired, but, as the baseball season will soon be here, we feel sure that it will be renewed. So let all the men get to work and be ready when the offer comes out. With plenty of good songs and yells W. & L. will surely play a winning season on the diamond this coming spring.

Communications:

To The Editor of THE RING-TOW PHI:

To one who, though not fortunate enough to have seen a football game this season, has watched the sporting news eagerly, the reports of the Washington and Lee games, indicate that the team was an exceptionally good one. They evidently showed only a part of their real strength in the game with St. John's and when they tied the A. & M. of North Carolina they proved that they were worthy foemen of any team in the South. Even the Washington papers admitted that the contest with Georgetown should have resulted in a victory for W. & L. Hence, their record until the middle of the season was indeed a good one. But why only until the middle of the season?

What became of the W. & L. team after the game with Maryland? Did they disband, fearing that their star would set? With the exception of that small coterie who have availed themselves of the information gleaned from THE RING-TOW PHI, to those outside the pale of Lexington life, that question is a puzzle. Even our college organ is not lucid in its explanations, and there are few indeed who know why Washington and Lee hid her candle under a bushel. It is plain that what would undoubtedly have been a brilliant season was eclipsed because of the lack of games and good games.

However, as the writer is not familiar with the facts, it is not his intention to criticize the management. What is done is done, or rather what wasn't done, just wasn't done.

I merely wish to state my views concerning the schedule for next season. When the new manager assumes his duties, and he should do so at once, the first among them should be a search for next year's dates, and for good dates. I do not mean by this that he should go to the length and breadth of the land in doing so. Right here in Virginia there is good mettle to be tried. W. & L. has not played V. P. I. and Virginia for one and two years, respectively. Why not take immediate steps to secure the Thanksgiving game with V. P. I. in Richmond, or failing in that, arrange to play them some time during the season in Richmond? Why not get a date with Virginia to be played in Norfolk? It is true that Washington and Lee regards these two institutions as sportsmanlike in some of their dealings, but why not bury the hatchet, and play them? The trouble with W. & L. is that she is too local or on the other hand too foreign, so to speak, in athletics. You have but to look up the records, and you will find that most of her good games are played in Lexington or outside the state. When has W. & L. played a team, which is in her class, in Richmond, in either football or baseball? Her Virginia alumni rarely see her on the gridiron or the diamond. When it is stated that she is afraid of her neighbors they have no way in which to refute the claim. If Washington and Lee made an enviable record among the colleges of her own state, her athletic standing would be much strengthened. This she can do if she will but play her sister colleges, and play them at the football centres of the state. She could then seek fresh laurels with the colleges of the neighboring states, to better advantage. The games with the A. & M., Georgetown, Virginia, and V. P. I. should be made annual contests. This would leave room for two or three other games, which would make an excellent schedule. It is to be hoped that the next schedule will give the team an opportunity to show its ability. Laurence C. Witten.

Editor of THE RING-TOW PHI:

Probably some of the students of Washington and Lee University have never read "Young Magazine." If there be any such who desire to know what this publication is like and find themselves unable to procure a copy, let them subscribe to the "Southern Collegian," if they have not already done so, and read the story in the November issue entitled, "An Eastside Horror." The author of that piece of fiction (or is it fact?) is, I am afraid, unable to grasp the opportunities and to turn his talents to profit. If he had forwarded his manuscript to the editor of the above mentioned magazine of suggestive stories he would, in all probability, have received a pecuniary reward, and placed his name high up in the front ranks of those writers who aspire to the French style and who flatter themselves that they are disciples of the author of Sappho. And what is infinitely more important to the University, he would have saved the editors of the Southern Collegian the disgrace of placing that publication in the ranks of those which deal in sensationalism, horror and impurity; and the student body of Washington and Lee University from the humiliation of putting out a publication which they would not allow their families to read. That the editor of the Southern Collegian should allow such an article to be published seems well nigh incredible. It is a disgrace to the University.

Personals

Mr. Ernesto A. Paredes of Jimenez, Mexico, is among the new students enrolled after Xmas.

Dyer, of Kentucky, has been visiting friends in college for several days.

Firebaugh, '08, is back in college after a severe attack of typhoid fever last fall.

George Miles is enrolled for the session at W. & L. after being out of college for the first term.

Mr. H. M. Sartelle of Winchester, member of junior law class, is now in West Virginia in the banking business.

E. R. Rankin presents quite a soldierly appearance in the captain's blues at the Shenandoah Valley Academy, Winchester, where he is teaching chemistry.

Baseball for 1907—Our Prospects

It will not be long until Coach Brown will be assembling the old W. & L. "fans," together with the prospective ones, on Wilson field to test their ability in handling the little sphere. In view of this it is worthy of notice as to what our prospects on the "diamond" for the season of 1907 will be.

The success of the men who represented our alma mater last season needs no comment. It goes without saying that a team that defeated the strong nines from Carlisle, Penn. and the Navy merits all the praise that can be bestowed upon them by an appreciative student body. The question, therefore, arises, will our chances of success be as good this season?

We have as manager of our team this year Mr. L. A. Toms, whose ability in that line has been amply demonstrated; his record last year eclipsing that of any previous manager. As captain of the team we have Johnson, who has an established record as a pitcher and who's generalship on the diamond has not been surpassed. As to Coach Brown it only need be said that if the material is here "Buster" will turn out a winning nine.

So with these men at the head of our baseball team it only remains for the students to give them their active support. Let every man in college who ever played ball go out and help turn out a team that we can all feel proud of.

The preliminary contest for the selection of debaters to represent W. & L. this session will be held tonight.

Wash Society Doings

The last meeting of the Wash Society for the year 1906 was held on Saturday, Dec. 2nd. Officers were elected for the first term of 1907, and are as follows:

- President, Mr. Smithson.
- Vice-President, Mr. Ragon.
- Treasurer, Mr. Koontz.
- Censor, Mr. H. Crim Peck.
- Critic, Mr. Gassman.
- Reporter to RING-TUM PHI, Mr. Burton.

After the election of officers the program was carried out and was interesting to an unusual degree.

Messrs. Randolph and Grey Moore rendered excellent orations. The question for debate was:

"Resolved, That society would be best subserved by a national marriage and divorce law."

It was the most hotly contested debate that has been heard in the Wash hall in a great while. Messrs. Osbourn and Ragon upheld the affirmative, and Messrs. Durrance and Page ably defended the negative. Messrs. Randolph and H. Crim Peck volunteered to espouse the cause of the negative, while Mr. Grey Moore, of Muskegee, I. T., in a ringing speech, was the voluntary exponent of the affirmative. Decision was awarded the affirmative.

FIRST 1907 MEETING

The first meeting of the Washington Literary Society in 1907 was called to order by President Smithson Saturday, Jan. 5th.

No program had been posted and the assembly proceeded with the regular business.

A report was rendered by the retiring treasurer, Mr. Cather, who has so vigilantly watched our treasury for the past three months.

Mr. Cather and Mr. Turnbull were appointed as a committee on questions.

A joint session was held with Graham-Lee society and the Wash adjourned directly after the joint session.
