TRINITY DRUBBED AT TENNIS

W. & L. Net Artist Too Much for Opponents — Snively
Makes Unusual Showing

The Washington and Lee net artists again illustrated their superiority and adeptness with the racket easily defeating Trinity's tennis team 3 to 1 Thursday afternoon.

The Generals were represented by Burch, Snively and Cohn in the singles, while Glickstein and Cohn cooperated in the doubles. Snively and Burch each won rather handily from their opponents, the score of both matching being 6-2, 6-2, and when Cohn was defeated by Cornwell 6-4, 6-3 straight sets seemed to be the order of the day. However, the doubles were necessary, the games going 6-4, 4-6, and 6-4 in favor of the diminutive W. & L. net men.

In the first match Cornwell's net game seemed more than Cohn could fathom, it appearing impossible to either slip one by or over the head of the lanky Trinity athletes.

Burch easily defeated his man, Shinn, without any trouble, his effective loffert and deadly placing coupled with a mechanical consistency did not long leave the outcome of his match in doubt.

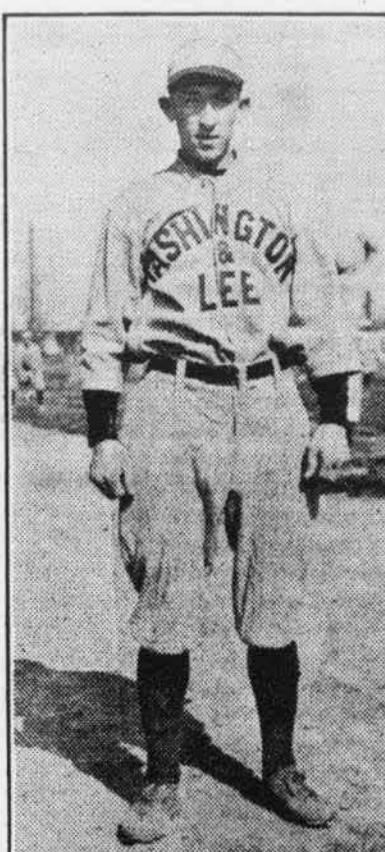

Snively, a '23 product, followed in the footsteps of Burch. This boy is the master of an unusually strong serve and time and again counted with an ace. This serve, together with a good back hand, makes the Freshman a dangerous opponent for any collegiate player and much should be heard from him during the next four years.

RICHMOND COL- LEGE WINS ORA- TORICAL CONTEST

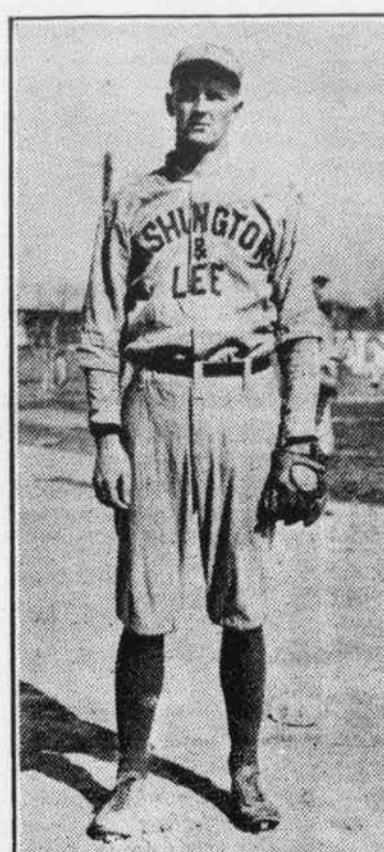

Flournoy Represents W. and L.
—Meet To Be Held At William and Mary Next Year

E. B. Willingham of Richmond College was victor in the thirteenth annual Virginia State Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest, held in the auditorium of Richmond College on the night of Friday, May 7th. Mr. Willingham's subject was "World-wide Peace." Five colleges, Richmond College, Randolph-Macon, Emory and Henry, University of Virginia, and Washington and Lee took part in the contest. Competition was keen, as evidenced by the fact that it required fifteen or twenty minutes for the judges to reach their conclusion.

The meeting was presided over and the speakers were introduced by Dr. Bryan, professor of psychology at Richmond College, and President of the Virginia State Intercollegiate Oratorical Association. The first speaker on the program was F. Flournoy of Washington and Lee,

LINCOLN MEMO- RIAL DEFEATED IN EXCITING GAME

Cobb Knocks Home Run—Score
14 to 11

In one of the most unusual and most exciting games ever staged on Wilson Field the Generals made a magnificent rally and overcame a ten run lead held by Lincoln Memorial. Little hope was there in the hearts of the fans as they saw the first of the fifth roll around with the score standing 11-1 and W. & L. was holding the smaller end of that score. Just how that lead was overcome is a matter concerning which students will always entertain doubt, but among those who aided were the faithful bleacherites, one "Ty" Cobb, and to no small degree the diminutive McCallum, peer of little pitchers.

Things looked gloomy in Lexington that day, when Corbett was pounded for three hits and two runs in the first inning. But things were even darker after the third, when three singles, a walk and a home run netted four more tallies, and a seemingly entirely safe lead. The counter which the Generals procured in this same frame seemed a mere drop in the bucket. And three more juicy markers rolled over in inning number four, followed by two in the fifth, before afore-mentioned Mr. McCallum was summoned to stem the tide. Those attending the game will agree he stemmed it—in all probability the visitors will not deny it.

Things started happening right then for the locals, and an error, a walk and a passed ball soon had men on second and third. Then did Mc-

S. ATLANTIC TRACK MEET HELD AT V. P. I.

W. & L. Takes Third Place—U.
of Va. Wins Meet

Washington and Lee won third place in the South Atlantic track meet held at Blacksburg on May 8 with a score of 31 1-2 points. The University of Virginia captured first place with a total of 82 points, while V. P. I. came second with 38 1-2 points. Of the three other institutions participating North Carolina had a score of 29; Johns Hopkins, 17; and Catholic University 8. The highest individual scorer was Nichols of North Carolina, who won the discuss, javelin and shot put, thereby gaining 15 points.

At a meeting of the South Atlantic Association held on the same day, H. C. Byrd, of Maryland State, was re-elected president; Coach Forrest Fletcher of W. and L. was elected first vice-president, and W. A. Lambert of Virginia second vice-president. H. H. Loyd of Johns Hopkins is the new secretary and treasurer. The meet next year will be held on the Georgetown field at Washington.

Following is a summary of the events:

100 yard dash—Seward, Virginia; Thomas, W. and L.; Aaronson, Johns Hopkins; Delaverge, Catholic University; Thompson, W. and L. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

220 yard hurdle—Rhinehart, Virginia; Wilson, Virginia; Price, W. & L.; Pierce, V. P. I. Time, 25 3-5 seconds.

TROUBADOURS ELECT OFFICERS

Debut Brought To Close—Keys
Awarded

The meeting which the combined organizations of the Troubadours held in the "Y" room on last Thursday night marked the climax of a most successful debut made by that organization this year. The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers for the coming year and to award the organization's key to those who had earned it by good hard work all year long.

The officers elected were: J. W. Dupree, President; S. S. Moore, Business Manager; C. M. Shelton, Secretary-Treasurer; Prof. L. W. Tyree, Faculty Adviser, and N. W. Burgess, Alumni Treasurer. The various separate divisions of the Troubadours have selected as their presiding officers for the coming year: J. L. Peck, Vice-President of the Dramatic Club; W. B. Patterson, Vice-President of the Glee Club; J. F. Somers, Vice-President of the Mandolin Club.

W. and L. has long needed just such an organization as the Troubadours and the credit for its foundation goes to V. E. Kemp, E. B. Shultz and Dr. J. L. Howe for it was V. E. Kamp who first suggested the idea and in colleague with the other two gentlemen drew up the first constitution and submitted it to the Executive Committee, petitioning for a charter for the organization. But the entire credit the splendid success that the Troubadours have had is due to the officers and members, who under the leadership of E.

COPIES OF SWING TO BE HERE BY 22ND

Weinberg Buys Partnership in Publishing Rights

In the issue of the Ring-tum Phi published on April 28th there appeared an article headed "Swing to be published soon," and that statement is more true today than it was at that time. But instead of being published by the Fifth Avenue Music House of New York, as was stated in that issue, the "Swing" is to be published and distributed under the control of I. Weinberg and T. W. Allen, the composer.

The Fifth Avenue Music House, for reasons quite unknown to us, have failed in their task and Mr. Weinberg has secured from Thornton Allen the right to publish and sell copies of the "Swing" on a partnership basis with him.

An order for several thousand copies of the "Swing" was sent to the printers several weeks ago and Mr. Weinberg hopes to have them on sale here in Lexington by the 22nd of this month. I. Weinberg will be sole distributing agent for the "Swing."

Mr. Eddie Davis,
 Lexington, Va.
 Dear Eddie:

It is very good of you to write me a personal letter in return for that little mite of a contribution I sent you. I would certainly come to the Alumni reunion in June if I were anywhere within reaching distance. But at the present moment I expect to be somewhere on the other side of the Atlantic at that time. Three of us are sailing next week, with the intention of going on to Moscow if the way is possibly open, and there laying plans for the resumption of Y. M. C. A. work in Central Russia.

Best regards to all the old crowd.

Cordially yours,
 JAMES SOMERVILLE, Jr.

To the Editor of The Ring-tum Phi,
 Washington and Lee University,
 Lexington, Virginia.

Dear Sir:

I trust that this will reach you in time for the Alumni issue. As Secretary of the Law Class of 1911, I take great pride and pleasure in informing you and the alumni of Washington and Lee that our Class will attend the Finals this year almost as a body and on behalf of the Class a challenge is hereby issued to any Class that has ever graduated at Washington and Lee to have as many of its members present at Finals this year as our Class will have. It may not be modest on our part to claim so much for ourselves but we feel that we can take just pride in saying that there never was a Class, law or otherwise, that graduated from our Alma Mater that has had the class spirit of the Law Class of 1911 or that has been as loyal and as faithful to the traditions of Washington and Lee as our Class has been and this assertion will be proved to your entire satisfaction next month.

Very truly yours,
 OMER T. KAYLOR, '11.

Morrisett-Nance

Miss Gertrude M. Nance and C. H. Morrisett were quietly married in the First Christian church of Jacksonville, Fla., Monday. Mrs. Morrisett, who is a native of Alabama, has been teaching school in Florida this session, and the groom is director of the state legislative reference bureau.

After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Morrisett will be at home in Richmond. The groom is a former Lynchburg man and is an alumnus of Washington and Lee University and graduated in law there as a member of the Class of 1914. He was named by Governor Davis in 1919 to succeed Lewis H. Machen as director of the legislative reference bureau.

HARRISONBURG NORMAL TO PRESENT PLAY

"The Eastern Gate" Is Title Entertainment To Be Given May 14th

Once more will the noble little town of Lexington be thrilled with the sight of oriental dancers, for on May 14th the Stratford Dramatic Club of the Harrisonburg State Normal School will present at the New Theatre a little play entitled "The Eastern Gate." The production depicts the life of the Orient in all its fascination and horror with special attention given to the dancing girls of whom it is said they excel even Mme. Rouskaya in the art of the "terpsichore." Dressed in the native costumes of China, lithe and wonderfully graceful, they will make you forget your anxiety and lure you with them to the very portals of the Eastern country.

This little production has been presented in both Harrisonburg and in Blacksburg, and the highest praise has been given it by the newspapers in both places. Some critics have pronounced it a very unusual production. Don't miss it.

(Continued from Page One) who spoke on "Following the Star." He was followed by Lovenstein, of Virginia, on "The Alternative to Bolshevism," and by Rudy of Emory and Henry on "The Uncrowned King." The Randolph-Macon representative spoke on the "Race Question," and Willingham came last with his winning oration upon "World-wide Peace." While the judges deliberated, music was rendered by some sweet young things of West Hampton Woman's College.

The speech-making was well attended, largely by the student body of Richmond College and that of its sister, West Hampton; and the interest of the audience was manifested by the enthusiastic applause that every speech received.

Mr. Willingham, winner of the medal, was also Secretary of the State Oratorical Association.

At this meeting of the State Oratorical Contest William and Mary College was once more admitted to the contest, having been out of it since the war, and the meet will be held at this institution next year.

PHI DELTA THETA ENTER- TAINS WITH SMOKER

The Phi Delta Theta's gave a delightful smoker last Tuesday evening to a few of their intimate friends. Fruit punch was served throughout the evening along with coffee, doughnuts, and sandwiches. The first amusement was a good old knock-down-drag-out prize fight between two members of the dusky race in the persons of "Rusty Fish Hook" and "Darkbrown Hash-slinger." The next on the program was a "Badger Fight" in which that little and ferocious animal literally tore the terrified and inferior canine to pieces. Good negro harmony was furnished by a darky quartette who played and sang throughout the whole affair. About twenty outside men were present; the guests of honor were Dr. Granville Campbell and Captain Walker.

Amos L. Herold, M. A., '12, after serving in the Adjutant General's Department of the U. S. Army, resumed his studies in Graduate English at Columbia University. His special field is English and American Literature of the nineteenth century, and his dissertation is on the life and work of James K. Paulding. Herold is also instructing in Columbia.

How About Your Contract?

Much has already been said in the columns of the Ring-tum Phi about "digging in" and doing your bit toward helping to make a much larger and better equipped athletic field for our dear old W. and L. U. that will be more adequate to meet her needs. And yet during the past week apparently very few men have remembered to carry out their contract, made at a student assembly not long ago, to appear on the Wilson Field at least one afternoon each week for just two hours and help the good cause along.

This statement of failure to carry out contracts made is as true of the faculty members as it is of the students, for thus far Professor Addison Hogue is the only member of the faculty that has done his bit. Mr. Hogue has appeared on the field more days than any single student in college, and he still comes out regularly to do his bit and other members of the faculty's bit, too. Too much thanks and praise can not be given him for the excellent spirit that he has shown in the matter. He has been out to work seven times when he only contracted to appear on one day per week, which would only total three times thus far.

Spruce up, fellows; Show your W. and L. spirit and do your part of the digging.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

To the Editor of the Ring-tum Phi:

Elections are near, preparation for elections is already underway, and to all who have examined the situation, it is a known fact that politics this year promise to be as usual rotten to the core. It is needless to go into the combinations being formed, the promises of support for counter support being given, and all the other numerous devices being used to make our politics as corrupt this year as they have been in the past. That they are deplorably corrupt is a known, undisputed fact, and we must face it as a fact.

But there is a more hopeful factor in the situation. Although a large per cent of the student body admittedly engage in this kind of politics, yet a great majority of the men in school are not in sympathy with the present regime. Rare indeed is the man who does not admit that it is wrong and that it is harmful to the best interest of the college. The majority of men despise it and would like to see it overthrown.

If this be true, why then does the system continue? Why if the majority of the men dislike politics as they are, do they not overthrow the present campaign methods and place our elections on juster basis? There are three factors which suffice to answer this question. First is the power of ancient custom or precedent on the campus. Too many men content themselves with saying that the system has always been corrupt, that it always will be so, and that they might as well fall in with the trend of the current, not bruise themselves kicking in vain against it. A more potent factor is the selfishness of the individual office seekers. Men want jobs for which they are not fitted or for which some other man is better fitted than they, and being afraid to risk the issue to the unbiased judgment of the public as to their respective abilities, they must line up and get their job even though at the same time they help to keep out good men and put in men who are inefficient. Last and most important, the system continues because it is now in vogue and others must adopt it as a matter of self protection. Men, who are good men and fitted for the job which they want, feel that they must fight fire with fire, must adopt low methods to keep some other man who they know is using these methods from taking the job away from them.

What are the results of our "dirty" politics? The question can be answered in one word, inefficiency. The positions go out to the most capable man but to the keenest politician. Good men who are unwilling to stoop to these methods stay out of the race. Jobs are sought not for the service which the holder can do through them to his fellow students, but simply for the honor that goes with them. Real progress in student body issues is at a standstill, because the men who are capable of leadership are not in the offices of leadership. We have been filling our big jobs with little men for so long that the jobs have shrunk to the size of the men holding them.

Can the present system be broken up and a better put in its place? Yes!! But it will take courage, courage of the candidates to assert their manhood, step out without alignment, and run on the estimate of their fellow students as to their fitness for the position to which they aspire. And more important than this, it will need courage of the voters to vote solely on this principle, and if need be to vote against friend, fraternity brother, or roommate for a man that they do not like simply because they know he is best fitted for the job.

You candidates and you voters accept a challenge. Will you candidates show the courage to announce that you will not line-up and that you will run solely on the platform of your fitness for the job, and will you voters show the courage to vote for the best man regardless of all other considerations? Here is a chance to do something that will really help your college. Try it, candidates. Try it, voters. It is possible. Will you do it?

The students of Washington and Lee University during the session 1920-21 are to have the opportunity of taking a course in Shorthand under the management of Garland Alexander, a student of four years' stenographic experience.

The course is designed primarily to aid men in taking lecture notes, but any one wishing to take typewriting at the same time may do so with no additional cost beyond that of rental of a typewriter if he does not already possess one.

This course will consist of three one-hour periods a week during two months of each term. The class will be discontinued about three weeks before the regular examinations of each term in order to avoid conflict.

Although the University Authorities heartily recommend this course to all students who expect to return for another year's work, it is not under the direction of the University and no college credit can be given for it.

Those taking the course will be charged a fee of $25, payable $15 on October 1, and $10 on January 6. It is requested that all students who are interested get in touch with Mr. Alexander at once as only a limited number of men will be accepted for this class, and many of next year's Freshmen are expected to enroll.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE BEGUN

Spring football practice is being held daily on Wilson Field but so far there have been very few men reporting. These practices should be attended for the good that comes out of them in handling the ball, kicking and the like is very important. It has been urged that more men come out and it is hoped that they will do so in the future.

THE GARDEN SPOT OF NATURE

The winter with its ice and snow
Has left this world of ours,
To usher in the balmy spring
With budding trees and flowers.

The spirit of love and happiness
pursues,
Pursues us everywhere,
As we breathe the lovely fragrance
Of its sweet and balmy air.

Oh, the sunbeams play about us,
To the song of the early bird;
The grass blades nod on the velvet
sod,

And the call of the wild is heard.

The love of nature grips us
As we slowly wend our way
Through this great and famous campus

And they all do seem to say.

Yes, the spirits of its founders
The column, walk and tree;
'Tis the garden spot of nature
Here at Washington and Lee.

W. & L. TAKES EXCITING GAME FROM LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Gallum smite one which bounded from the shin of R. Byrd, and two men crossed the plate. More errors and a walk put things in a position for Pat Collins to drive in two more runs ere the inning ended. Five hits netted four more runs in the 6th and the seventh inning ended with the score a tie, thanks to the clouting of the Generals.

McCallum had Lincoln entirely at his mercy, while during the 8th and 9th the Generals did not get dangerous. The catching of fouls by Monk Mattox at this period was a great assistance to his battery mate.

In the first extra inning, Malcolm, opposing first sacker, messed up McKinney's grounder. After Drye was out, Collins was safe on the shortstop's third error, and the scene was set for "Ty" Cobb's entrance. Now one pitcher on this field has already sadly discovered this year that when "Ty" goes on a rampage he is a dangerous fellow. Cobb had already secured three safe bunts, but R. Byrd was strong for the adage that experience is the best teacher, and was resolved to find out for himself. The result was a loud crack, a ball speeding across the tennis courts, and Cobb crossing the plate before the ball was returned to the park.

Donaldson, of Lincoln, got four hits out of six times up.

CREW PRACTICE PROGRESSING WELL

Many Crack Oarsmen Candidates for Crews

The Albert Sidneys and the Harry Lees are hard at work on the river every afternoon making preparation for the first and second Crew races, which will be held on Monday, the 14th of June, during Finals. The first and second crews will be hard to pick from both clubs, for the competition is keen and a large number of crack oarsmen have been developed.

The two crews will probably be picked from the following men: Albert Sidney, Patterson, Jordan, Holt, Moss, Herndon, Hampton, B., Sturm, Riddick, Browder, Blain, and Stuart Coxwains: Lee, Miller, Humphries, and Jones. Harry Lee, Madison, Riggs, Fountain, Bear, Morrison, Johnson, Cherry, Howerton, Steer, and Quarrier. Coxwains, Henderson, Allen and Lambert.
