Washington Literary Society Annual Celebration

Before a fairly large and appreciative audience the Washington Literary Society on Friday night, Feb. 22nd, 1907, gave their 95th annual public celebration. The chapel was tastefully decorated with the colors of the society, which greatly added to the already attractive interior of the building.

Mid the strains of appropriate music by the V. M. I. orchestra the officers of the occasion were escorted to their places on the platform. In a few well-chosen words President Grey Moore, of Ind. Ter., then outlined the double function of the society in holding these public celebrations yearly, namely, to honor the great man whose name the society so proudly bears, and to celebrate the foundation of the society in 1812.

The president introduced as the first orator of the evening Mr. H. H. Ragan, of Arkansas, who took as his subject "The Motive and Mission of the American Wealth Producer." As his subject designates, Mr. Ragan's speech was in defense of the wealthier class of Americans. He dwelt upon the misconstruction of the motives of this class of persons by the press, the pulpit and the politician. He presented, with forcible effect, the earnest work and untiring efforts of the capitalists in forming great corporations and launching gigantic enterprises; and that necessarily and rightfully his reward lay in the surplus stock. In this field of activity, Mr. Ragan contended that the great "captains of industry" were essential elements of our economic and political position. Mr. Ragan's manner of presentation was good and his enunciation exceptionally fine.

Mr. Berry, of Virginia, the second orator of the evening, gave a fine oration on "Culture," which showed careful and thoughtful preparation. He traced the advance of enlightenment and civilization from the "dark ages" to the present day. He showed that "culture" is the main-stay of our political institutions. Mr. Berry presented his subject in a forcible manner, his words being readily caught by those farthest back in the chapel.

After the reading of the question: "Resolved, That Cuba should be immediately annexed to the United States," the president introduced as the first debater of the evening Mr. Crews of New Mexico. The point that Mr. Crews strove to maintain was that Cuba was so situated geographically that our safety as a world power lay in the acquisition of the island. Also that our moral duty required us to take possession of the island, in order to fulfill our plighted faith to other power to protect and defend the lives and property of their citizens in Cuba. Mr. Crews' arguments were brought out forcibly and with great effect.

Mr. Kenny of W. Va., was the first speaker in defense of the negative side of the question. The speaker had somewhat of a lengthy introduction but he soon settled down to the single claim that the annexation of Cuba would be unconstitutional and in direct conflict with our national policy. Mr. Kenny's manner was free and easy but he was prone, at times, to drift from the question. As a whole, though, he presented his points in a clear and straightforward manner.

Mr. Richardson of W. Va., the second speaker for the affirmative, was free and easy in his manner of presentation. The object of the speaker was to prove the incapacity of the Cubans to maintain their independence after it had been given to them, and that the only natural thing for the United States to do was to make the island "one of the stars of the Union."

The last speaker of the evening was Mr. Randolph of Illinois. The speaker started out by stating his line of defense, namely, that the Cubans were capable of self-government. Mr. Randolph probably stuck closer to the subject under discussion and used more well chosen statistics than any of the other speakers. His greatest defect was his delivery, but considered as a whole his speech was strong and to the point.

The judges awarded the orator's medal to Mr. Ragan, and the debater's medal to Mr. Kenny.

Harry Lee Boat Club committee on Calyx representation beg leave to report to the members of the club that an appropriate representation has been arranged and submitted to the management of the Calyx.

BASKET BALL

Washington and Lee 23; George Washington University 21

On Wednesday night Washington and Lee defeated the five from George Washington University by the close score of 23 to 21. It was a very close game, but from the standpoint of the spectator was greatly marred by frequent delays and disputes between the officials.

The first half started off with a spurt, but fouls were frequently made by both teams, George Washington, however, having the advantage in this respect as they also did in passing the ball, Washington and Lee's passing being very poor. Score at end of first half Washington and Lee 11, George Washington University 10.

In the second half Washington and Lee settled down and the passing was greatly improved, while each man played close to his opponent. At the end of twenty minutes' play the score stood tied, 21-21.

After a few minutes of playing in the second half Washington and Lee succeeded in scoring two points more, which were the last made during the game.

The teams lined up as follows:

G. W. U.	W. & L.
Rice	L. F. Streit
Ackelburg	R. F. Whittington
Prosperi	C. Osbourn
Whiting	L. G. Bagley, T. O.
Gable	R. G. Moore

Summary: Goals from field, Osbourn 3, Whiting 3, Rice 1, Gable 1. Goals from fouls: Streit 15, Whiting 11. Officials: Krebs, W. & L.; Rokey, G. W. U. Time of halves 20 minutes each. Final score: W. & L., 23; G. W. U., 21.

Last Friday the team played the University of Virginia five at Charlottesville, losing by the close score of 22 to 18.

While on this trip our boys also played the Charlottesville Y. M. C. A. team and won from them in a hard-fought game.

MOOT CIRCUIT COURT

The session of the Moot Circuit Court Thursday night was brief. The first case on the docket was Spencer's administrator vs. the Southern Railway Company and James Maddox, Caraballo for the plaintiff and Axleroth for the defendant. This was an action of trespass on the case, and upon demurrer to the declaration the question was raised as to the right to join a railroad corporation and its employes, a telegraph operator, as defendants in an action for death by wrongful act due to the negligence of the operator. The attorneys in this case had evidently not expected to argue this question Thursday night, as the discussion was by no means as exhaustive as the importance of the point involved would have justified. The gentlemen were given until next term of court to prepare their arguments.

Wakefield's administrator vs. Standard Oil Company, trespass on the case, involving the questions of negligence and proximate cause, Wickham for plaintiff and Benson for the defendant, was the only other case called and was quickly disposed of. The defendant demurred to the declaration and upon request of the plaintiff a continuance was granted. Court then adjourned to next term.

Newcomb Hall for the Home of Commerce School

Newcomb Hall, now the University library, will soon be the home of the School of Commerce, which will include Economics and politics. About $10,000 has been appropriated for the equipment and refitting of Newcomb Hall. The change will probably be completed during the academic year 1907-8. The building will contain the offices of Dr. Willis and Professor Lauck, class rooms for the departments, and a fully equipped library for investigation.

Graham-Lee Society

The last program of Graham-Lee was much better in quality than in quantity. Both declaimers were absent. Mr. Milling, orator, gave one of the most interesting speeches heard in the society for some time. His subject was "Alexander Hamilton." The debate,—

"Resolved, That California was justifiable in her treatment of the Japanese school children," was hotly contested. Messrs. Pilkington and Devane, of the affirmative, won the decision of the judges.

Mr. Larrick announces that the new constitutions are ready for distribution. Let every member be present tonight and secure a copy.

An Apology

Editor of the RING-TUM PHI:

It is regretted that—if any attention was to be paid to the squib in last week's RING-TUM PHI—it was not interpreted in the same jovial spirit in which it was written. The writer is exceedingly sorry that the communication caused anyone's feelings to be hurt and wishes hereby to publicly apologize for any aspect of the letterettes that could possibly be construed as a personal affront, or personal criticism.

J. W. ADDISON

Communication

To Editor of THE RING-TUM PHI:

On last Wednesday night the George Washington University Basket Ball Team was here to play against the representing our University. Everything started well and for a few minutes all went well, but after that it has never been my misfortune to witness such a farce under the guise of an athletic exhibition. To have an athletic contest on our grounds turned into a squabble; the officials questioning the decision of each other; the players, in nearly every instance, kicking on the decisions of the officials and wrangling among themselves; and, worst of all, the spectators jeering and hissing at the officials and opposing players, is a disgrace, and unworthy of the students of Washington and Lee University.

Regardless of whether the judgment of an official in any particular instance is right or wrong he is entitled to the respect of players and spectators. If it appears that he is acting unfairly there is no reason why we should forget to be gentlemen. Visiting teams when they come here are not only our opponents but our guests, and should be treated with all the courtesy due them as such.

Such an occurrence as that described above shows a seeming misconception on the part of some of the idea of sports traditionally held by the students of Washington and Lee. To win a game in a clean and gentlemanly manner is laudable, but, for the sake of victory, a resort to questionable practices or ungentlemanly behavior on the part of players or spectators is much more discreditable than to lose to superior opponents in a clean game. If we wish to maintain our reputation for clean athletics and keep our good name untarnished let us avoid a recurrence of last Wednesday night, for George Washington University can but carry away, and reasonably so, an unpleasant recollection of Washington and Lee.

Inasmuch as the baseball season opens very soon and there will be numbers of visiting teams here these words seem to the writer not inappropriate, and this criticism is written by him from an entirely impersonal view-point. If the cap fits any one let him put it on.

Gymnasium Contest Set for March 2

The annual gymnasium tourney will be held in the University gymnasium on Saturday, March 2, at 8.15 p. m. The contest will be along the line of former ones with the additional features of wrestling, rope walking, Indian clubs and a wand drill. Prizes will be awarded for excellency of work on the various pieces of apparatus. A silver cup for the all-round champion, this winner also being entitled to the athletic monogram. Gold medals will be given to winners on horizontal and parallel bars, german horse, flying rings and tumbling. Prizes will also be awarded the winners in the wrestling match and in the Indian club contest.

The team bids fair to be the best turned out by the University for some years, and the new features mentioned above will add considerably to the program making the exhibition the most interesting that has ever been witnessed in Lexington.

No admission will be charged of students.

The management, in behalf of the student body, wishes to thank the several merchants of Lexington for their generous and hearty contributions to the fund for purchasing medals to be given to the winners of the different events. We note especially the gift from Mr. Graham of a handsome silver loving cup to be presented to the all-road man; and that of Lyons Tailoring Company, who sent one of the gold medals complete. The other contributions are acknowledged as follows:

It is interesting to note the different kinds of advertisements found in college papers. Those of publications of seminaries for girls vary from hosiery, fur and millinery, to Lowney's, jewelry, photographs and hair dressers. While in the Washington and Lee Ring-Thum Phi, AS A NUMBER OF EXCHANGES HAVE NOTED, we find advertisements for cigars, cigarets, dillard and pool parlors, and all the leading brands of the best liquors.—W. Va., Weekly.

Though true in some respects it is maliciously false in other respects. We would like to have the author produce exchanges that have commented on the above fact.

Shenandoah Men Baaquet

The Shenandoah Valley Club held quite an elaborate banquet at Quisenberry's Cafe last night about 11 o'clock. The supper was served in courses. President L. T. Stoneburner acted as toastmaster, and the following toasts were responded to: "To the Shenandoah Valley," by J. H. Larrick; "To Lexington," by T. R. Cather; "To Our Girls at Home," by C. A. Engle; "To the Lexington Girls," by A. K. Hopkins.

Various impromptu speeches were made by these men during the toast drinking. About thirty members of the club were present.

Kentucky Club Meeting

The contingent from the Blue grass State met in regular session Thursday night as guests of Mr. L. J. Desha at his apartments in the Lee's dormitory. The most important item of business transacted was the election of officers for the ensuing term, which, however, required but a short time and resulted as follows: C. C. Crockett, Pres.; V. S. Beatty, secretary and treasurer. After adjournment of executive session some two hours were passed in a social way. Mr. Desha proved himself an ideal host. It is not necessary to explain what is an ideal host in the opinion of a student.

Rockbridge County Fair at Opera House

The ladies of the Mary Custis Lee chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy will hold a county fair at the Lexington Opera house Thursday evening next. In its interesting exhibit young ladies and gentlemen of the community, students and Cadets will participate. Very laughable: Highly entertaining! Admission 35 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents; on sale at Stuart's store.

The W. & L. January catalog, showing the students for the session '06-07, have just been distributed. In the classification of students the catalog shows that twenty-eight states and territories are represented in the student-body, while Mexico and Brazil are also represented. The total registration of students up to January is 417, but quite a number of new students have since matriculated. There are several changes in the catalog, among which is the additional School of Commerce, and a statement of its object and requirements is given.

Poor Co-Eds

Segregation is almost complete at Northwestern University. Dean Holgate has announced that co-eds must not take their meals where the men do. Everything possible is being done to discourage the co-eds from associating in any way with the men, as the following list of rules will testify.

Segregated chapel services once a week.

No roses or chocolates from men.

No after-theater cab rides from railroad stations to their homes.

No callers allowed to stay after 9:30 p. m.

No "spooning" on college steps or courting on college campus.

No moonlight walks without a chaperone.

No sorority houses.

And the co-eds are now planning revolt.—Ex.

Thursday afternoon and night the S. B. C. ribbon society held their annual initiation. After the "goats" had performed various stunts, ranging from "oratorical displays" to "peanut racing," to the amusement of the Lexingtonians, they were admitted to membership and a delightful supper.

Following are the men who were admitted to membership: MacDonald, McCrum, C. M., Hall, Chenoweth, Ragan, Hodges, Strassel, John Lykes, Joe Lykes.

Sigma Goating

Yesterday the "Sigmans" held their annual celebration. The ceremony commenced at 12 o'clock and continued until the wee hours of Saturday morning.

Many and varied were the characters introduced but perhaps the most realistic was that of "Evelyn"—the only genuine and original.

Following were the initiates: Penn, Joe Lykes, Hood, McCrum, C. M., John Lykes, Fort Pipes, Dow, Crews, Chatham, Stephenson, Davis, S., Caperton, Strassel, Fleming, Glogrow, McDonough.
