Bean Approves Muzzey Roster Of Immortals

Would Include Lawrence Lowell And Carter Glass, Omit Sheppard

NEWTON D. BAKER REPRESENTS W. AND L.

List Consists of Forty-Nine Men Who Will Go Down In History

Commenting on the list of forty-nine "immortals" prepared by Dr. David S. Muzzey, Professor of American History at Columbia University, and eminent historian, Dr. William G. Bean, professor of history here, stated that he considered the list "excellent and representative." He added, however, that he would include President Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University and Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, and suggested the omission of the name of Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth amendment, to be consistent with Muzzey's omission of Andrew Volstead and his statement that the dry laws "may be forgotten fifty years from now."

Dr. Muzzey prepared the list of Americans, whom, he believed, would figure prominently in histories written fifty years from now, at the request of a newspaper reporter in St. Louis. The names chosen by him were given extensive publicity in newspapers throughout the country, and excited widespread comment.

Prepared in 20 Minutes

When interviewed last Saturday, Dr. Muzzey stated that he had prepared the list in less than twenty minutes, and that it contains the names of several not worthy of inclusion and omits those of others deserving it. Asked to give his reasons for selecting some of the forty-nine "immortals," Dr. Muzzey declined to defend his judgment, and discounted his or any one else's ability to predict those contemporary figures who would be honored by history in 1983, declaring that "it would be a rash historian, indeed, who would venture to predict who will be deemed important fifty years from now."

He explained his attempting to make such a prediction by the lateness of the hour when the request was made, his fatigue, and his good-natured desire to help the reporter have a story.

Dr. Muzzey was disinclined to discuss the entire incident, stating that he hoped "the whole thing would be forgotten."

One Woman Included

Only one woman is included in the list: Edith Wharton, the novelist. Herbert Hoover was included, not because of his record as president, but because of his services as war-time food administrator and Secretary of Commerce. Dr. Muzzey said that the name of Calvin Coolidge had been omitted "advisedly." He regretted his failure to include Jane Addams, the welfare worker, declaring she merited mention high on the list. Howard Scott was not even considered because "the theories of technocracy certainly will be forgotten before prohibition."

Newton D. Baker, '94, is the only alumnus of Washington and Lee to be included in the list.

The complete list follows:
Woodrow Wilson
William E. Borah
Charles Evans Hughes
Oliver Wendell Holmes
Louis D. Brandeis
Herbert Hoover
Morris Sheppard
Henry Cabot Lodge
George W. Norris
Andrew Mellon
Charles and William Mayo

Graham Lee Holds Election For New Semester Officers

Holding its first meeting of the current semester, the Graham-Lee society elected new officers for the second semester of the present term. J. A. McClure was elected president, succeeding Herbert Rudlin. Watkin was named to the post of vice-president replacing C. B. Newcombe. Hugh McNew will take the place of Henry Ravenhorst as secretary-treasurer, while George Clinch was elected in the place of McNew.

Contrary to the storminess of past elections, this semester's election was somewhat quiet and routine. Prior to the election the business of keys and the declamation contest was discussed, with the contest being scheduled for the Monday after next.

The meeting was marked by an unusually large attendance.

Frosh Boxers Win One Bout Over Staunton

Jean Is Only Winner; Two Regulars Forced To Forfeit

Minus two of its regulars, Mower, 175-pounds, and Marwick, unlimited, the Washington and Lee freshman boxing team lost to Staunton Military Academy at Staunton Saturday night, 7-1.

Jean, 165-pound class, scored a technical knockout over Earle of the Cadets near the end of the second round.

In the opening bout, Pitcher of Washington and Lee, lost a hard fought battle to Eisler by a decision. Pitcher started out as the aggressor but slowed up in the second round as a result of a body attack by Eisler.

In the 125-pound class Cooke dropped a close bout to Fryer in an extra round. Cooke was the aggressor for the first two rounds. The third round was marked by a slowing down of both men and the referee called for an extra round.

In the fourth, both men were tired but Fryer of Staunton seemed to have a slight edge.

Wharton Loses

Wharton, fighting in the 135-pound class, lost to McGrail in a match featured by clever fighting and footwork.

Robertson lost to Captain Morse, South Atlantic Prep School champion in the 115-pound division in 1931, and 128-pound champion in 1932, by a decision in the feature bout of the evening. Davis, 155-pounder, lost to Donovan by a technical knockout. This was Donovan's first fight of the season. In the last bout of the evening Jean won over Earle by a technical knockout.

Earle, plunging fullback on the 1932 football team, proved to be a slugger, but Jean outclassed him.

Summary:
115-lb. class—Eisler (S. M. A.) won over Pitcher (W. and L.) by a decision.
125-lb. class—Fryer (S. M. A.) won over Cooke (W. and L.) by a decision.

Alpha Tau Omega Sets Record With Six Captains of Teams

As a leader in producing all-around star athletes, the local chapter of Alpha Tau Omega has to its credit six captains of various sports at Washington and Lee for the 1932-33 season. Jarrett, Rivers, Morris, Pound, and Ellis have all earned the distinction of leading Washington and Lee teams through the year. Amos Bolen will captain the 1933 football team.

Jack Jarrett, who was elected one of the co-captains for the 1933 basketball team, is a star forward on Cy Young's quintet. This is his third season of varsity competition and, at present, he rates fourth in number of points scored by individual players. Besides being a regular on the basketball team, Jarrett is a member of the Washington and Lee varsity baseball team and is a star pitcher on Captain Dick Smith's combination. Last season, Jarrett was successful in most of the contests he pitched in and chalked up an excellent record as a twirler for the Blue and White.

In March, he will begin his final year of playing when the Big Blue starts out on its 1933 campaign. To lead on the fast-moving Washington and Lee varsity swim-

Tossers Hope To Terminate Losing Streak

Play North Carolina Tonight After Having Lost Four Games

BIG BLUE TO MEET INDIANS THURSDAY

Defeat Will Greatly Impair Chances of Tournament Invitation

With their losing streak now extended to four games, the Generals return home tonight to play host to North Carolina University. This will be the first of two home games this week, as the William and Mary Indians step out of the Virginia Conference to battle the Big Blue on Thursday evening.

After having made such a brilliant start at the first of the season, the North Carolina Tarheels have dropped from first place to a tie for fourth place within the last week. Duke halted the University forward drive last week, and the Blue Devils are now virtually on top of the Southern conference.

A win tonight will definitely put the Generals back into the running for the Southern Conference tournament, though a loss will greatly impair their chances. Only eight teams will be invited to the tournament, and the Generals are now practically in the cellar, held above that point only by Clemson which has lost its only conference game. South Carolina, which has won its only game, is leading the conference, although Duke, with its six wins and one loss, is accepted as holding down the top rank.

Great Comeback

N. C. State has made as great a comeback as N. C. University has made a fall, and the Red Devils are now safely berthed in second place, only one game behind Duke. Virginia and N. C. U. have tied for the fourth rank, with three wins and two losses. Maryland is fifth with four wins and three losses, while V. M. I., who started out so brilliantly at the beginning of the season, is lodged in sixth place with two wins and five losses. V. P. I. follows with two wins and seven losses, and the Generals bring up the rear with one victory and four defeats. Clemson has lost its only game.

Thursday night, the Generals tackle William and Mary, who though they are not a part of the Southern Conference, are leading the Virginia Conference with five straight wins and are also leading the mythical state of Virginia race with five wins and one loss. The Virginia Cavaliers are second in this standing with four victories and a single loss, while the Generals are tied for the basement position with both state competition games lost.

The Indians are bringing a very strong team to Lexington, and a team which is not made up of any

Calyx Business Staff To Start Collecting From Fraternities

Beginning this week, representatives of the business staff of the Calyx, Washington and Lee annual, will open a drive to collect monies due from the various social and honorary fraternities on the campus. At the same time subscriptions will be solicited from those members of the student body who did not subscribe to the campus tax.

Social fraternities pay a fee of $55 yearly for which they receive two full pages in the yearbook, including pictures of active and faculty members in a fraternity grouping, and a list of all members grouped according to classes, surmounted by the fraternity seal, date of founding, and date of institution of the local chapter. The honorary societies on the campus pay $35 for either one or two pages.

A drive will be conducted at the same time for subscriptions from those men who failed to pay their tax but desire a yearbook. These are being sold for six dollars, and anyone desiring to order one is urged to get in touch with a member of the staff as soon as possible. Dick Edwards is editor of the Calyx.

Ringmen Idle As St. Johns Cancels Meet

Lack of Men Causes St. Johns To Call Off Match; Roanoke Next

Due to St. Johns college boxing team cancelling their meet with Washington and Lee Monday night, the Blue and White fighters will be idle until February 13, when they will exchange blows with the Roanoke College team. St. Johns did not have enough men to carry on a regular contest with the Generals, and the meet will not take place in the future.

Last season when the Johnnie boxers traveled to Lexington to face the Blue and White fighters, they were also short two men in the first two divisions and Washington and Lee started out with a 2-0 score before any fighting had been done. St. Johns claimed the same trouble this year but agreed to fight if they could substitute freshmen in the classes left vacant by varsity men; but this is against Southern Conference rules and the meet was called off.

Two Concerts Set By Singers

Plan To Visit And Be Host To Hollins In Spring Concerts

According to the business manager of the Glee Club, there will be two concerts with Hollins this Spring to be held either the latter part of this month or the early part of March. One concert to be held at Hollins, the other here.

Work has begun on the music for the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs College Contest to be held at the State Teachers College in Farmville on Friday, April 21, at 9:30 A. M.

The contest numbers are: "In Silent Night," by Brahms, "The Road to You," by Flager, and "John Peel," arranged by Mark Andrews. Although the contest has been held for many years, this is the second year that men's colleges have competed. Those of the Glee Club who went to Richmond last year to participate in the contest had a very enjoyable time.

The response to the sale of the Washington and Lee Song Book has been very gratifying and there are only a small number of copies left for sale.

The Glee Club has also published the "Dead Men's Song," a setting to music of the words of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous, "Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum," done by Mr. John A. Graham and dedicated to the Washington and Lee Glee Club. There are a limited number of autographed copies of this song for sale. Anyone interested in securing a copy of the song should see the business manager of the Glee Club, J. Robinson.

Frosh Matmen Easily Defeat N. Carolina U.

Mattox Only One to Lose as First Year Men Take Meet, 27-5

SEITZ EKES OUT WIN IN THRILLING SCRAP

Captain Bonino, Holland, and Crew Win Matches by Pinning Foes

In a one-sided meet held in Doremus gymnasium last Saturday afternoon, the Washington and Lee freshman wrestling team overwhelmingly defeated North Carolina University's frosh grapplers by a 27-5 score. Coach A. E. Mathis's cohorts won seven of the eight matches, three of which came as a result of pinning their opponents.

The North Carolina school's only victory came in the 175 pound class when Ransom pinned Mattox. Blue and White grappler, in the last few seconds of the first four minute period. Captain Bonino, Holland, and Crew were the three Brigadiers who succeeded in pinning their men.

Shively Sets Time

Crew, 118 pound representative, gave the Blue and White a big boost in the first match by pinning Blaylock with a bar arm and half nelson in the first eight minutes of the ten minute period. In the 126 and 135 pound divisions, both Phinsey and Sloan won their matches with time advantages of well over seven minutes. Shively, the Brigadier 145 pound representative, had a much harder time with his opponent but finally won with a time advantage of over four minutes.

In the next division, Holland tossed his man late in the match to give the Blue and White another five points. Seitz, 165 pound grappler, won one of the most closely contested matches of the day when he finally eked out a time advantage of two and a half minutes over Shipman, the North Carolina wrestler.

Mattox Pinned

Washington and Lee's only defeat came in the next match when Mattox was pinned late in the first four minute period by Ransom. Although he came back in the second period to gain a substantial time advantage, the match was awarded to Ransom because of his fall and North Carolina gained their only points. Captain Bonino wound up the match by pinning his man in six minutes with a head scissors.

The Brigadiers proved themselves easily superior in every phase of the game and except for two occasions, when a coin had to be flipped, got the first fall of their respective matches.

Summary:
118 pounds—Crew, W. and L., won over Blaylock, N. C. U., by a fall. Time, 7:35.

Cast of Fifteen Start Rehearsals On Troubadour "Louder Please"

The cast of the new Troubadour production, "Louder Please," has entered into their second week of practice. The date planned upon for the presentation of the play has been changed, but the new date has not yet been announced. The building of the scenery under the direction of Duncan Groner has been completed, and the painting of it will start this week.

The cast of experienced actors as announced last week will remain the same. George Poster, who has scored successes in several other Troubadour productions, will take the lead part of Herbert White, the publicity director, which was played by Lee Tracy when "Louder Please" was presented in New York last year.

Those taking parts in the play who have had previous experience in shows given at other places are: play the part of Kathryn Block, Mrs. Frances B. Hurt, who will appear in "Pigs," "Best People," "Mikado," and "The Prince of Pilsen," productions put on at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Hugo Bonino, who took parts in the plays, "Square Crooks," "Patty," and "The Florist's Shop," produced by the De Molays, of Hawthorne, New Jersey, will play

Students Plan Special Excursions to Bermuda During Spring Holiday

Taking advantage of the unusual length of the Spring holidays this year, Monday, March 27, through Saturday, April 1, student representatives have arranged special rates and facilities for a trip to Bermuda at that time.

Besides the natural charm of such a trip, it is also pointed out that the vacations of Goucher college and Arlington hall coincide with that of Washington and Lee; and that parties to take the trip on the same boat are being formed in those schools, as well as in a number of other Eastern institutions.

Such extensive trips have been impossible in the past because of the short holiday, usually but three or four days in length. This year, however, besides the proposed trip to Bermuda, students have made other elaborate plans for the holiday period.

Altered Team Almost Downs Mountaineers

Overcomes Eleven Point Lead In Second Half, But Loses, 47-46

After trailing eleven points at half-time, the revamped Washington and Lee basketball team came through with a scoring orgy which almost netted a victory over West Virginia last Saturday night at Bluefield and which was snuffed out, 47-45, in the last minute of play by the stellar shooting of lanky Stydahar, high scorer of the evening.

The Generals featured a brand new lineup last Saturday night and used it to a decided advantage in the final period. The first half was weak from the Big Blue angle, and West Virginia, led by Stydahar and Patsy Slate, pushed the Mountaineers up eleven points, the intermission coming with the score 21-32.

Smith Plays Forward

The second half witnessed a new Washington and Lee attack, which resulted in less individual starrng, more points scored, and a better basketball team. Joe Sawyers again led the Generals in scoring with 11 points, although Stydahar and Slate led the field with 21 and 15 respectively. Charlie Smith, erstwhile center and now performing better at forward, was next in line with 10 points, while Chip Jones scored four baskets and a free toss for nine.

The new line-up, included Sawyers and Smith at forward, Holbrook at center, and Jones and Field playing guard. Every regular, under this new lineup, scored at least four points, while each player was credited with some sort of score. Both teams dropped 11 free throws and the only difference was in the field baskets of which the Mountaineers rang 18 to the Generals' 17.

Grapplers Take North Carolina In Tough Meet

N. C. U. Rallies After Generals Take Early Lead In Winning

MUNGER AND THOMAS WIN VIA FALL ROUTE

Hodges Loses Decision; Captain Bolen and DeVan Both Pinned

Pushing aside the strong North Carolina university grapplers by a score of 19-13, Coach Mathis' Southern Conference champion wrestling team ran true to form and chalked up the third victory of the season over the Tar Heels Saturday night.

Washington and Lee took an early lead when the Generals scored two falls and a pair of decisions in the first four bouts of the evening. The Carolinians also won two falls in the set when they pinned the local fighters in the 175 and heavy divisions.

Sarkis Misses Fall

Roland Thomas, contesting for the Lexington boys in the opening bout, missed gaining a fall over Kellenberger when the wrestlers rolled outside after eight minutes of fighting but earned an easy decision with a little better than nine and one half minutes time advantage. Sarkis followed Thomas' progress and after a near fall won a time advantage with a creditable margin over Mathewson, the Tar Heel grappler, whose leap frog efforts to escape were ineffective at the hands of the Washington and Lee man.

Bob Munger, repeating his act performed in the meet with the Red Terrors of Carolina State, worked a body slam, wore his man down for a few minutes, then in lightning style applied a head scissors to gain a fall over Davis. Cromwell Thomas fought last Saturday in his true weight, and being right at home in that division, put Hiller of the visitors through nine of the most uncomfortable minutes of his life before he worked a head scissors to gain a fall in the 145 pound class.

S. C. Champ Wins

At the half way mark, the advantage changed when Conklin, Southern Conference champ two years ago, won a decision over Lerroy Hodges but was unable to down the General wrestler. Hodges fought in the place of Harvard Smith, regular 155 pounder when Smith was kept on the bench because of injuries.

Pritchard at 165 wrestled Spell to a close victory earned over the time advantage route. In the 175 pound division, Bolen gained a complete advantage of four minutes in the first of the special periods which were made necessary when neither man had taken the top after two minutes of fighting. In the next session, with Bolen on the top, the General football captain tried to roll his man off but instead placed his body in position for Auman to gain a victory with a fall.

DeVan Thrown

Idol, University's Southern Conference champ and leader of the Tar Heel wrestling men, threw Tod DeVan after the heavyweight bout had been in progress nearly six minutes.

With three wins already earned, Mathis is faced with the difficult problem of downing V. P. I.'s Techmen and the strong aggregation from the Navy before he can tuck the 1933 season on the shelf with the undefeated records of the past four campaigns.

Summary:
118 pounds—R. Thomas, W. and L., won over Kellenberger, N. C. U., time advantage, 9:37.

126 pounds—Sarkis, W. and L., won over Mathewson, N. C. U., time advantage, 7:36.

135 pounds—Munger, W. and L., won over Davis, N. C. U., by a fall, 5:59.

145 pounds—C. Thomas, W. and L., won over Hiller, N. C. U., by a fall, 9:10.

155 pounds—Conklin, N. C. U., won over Hodges, W. and L., time advantage, 8:05.

165 pounds—Pritchard, W. and L., won over Spell, N. C. U., time advantage, 3:12.

175 pounds—Auman, N. C. U., won over Bolen, W. and L., acting captain, by a fall, in second advantage, 0:29.

Heavyweight—Idol, Captain of N. C. U., won over T. DeVan, W. and L., by a fall, 5:45.

AN UNNECESSARY EVIL

Winter sports always offer to the fan who likes to find fault, the opportunity to see the officials at athletic contests. Proximity to the action perhaps gives the average fan the idea that he is in a position to criticize correctly. Individual remarks are more clearly heard in the enclosed area and carried through the crowd.

To those critics who complain of what they call the "unneeded" booning in Doremus gymnasium recently, let it be said that Washington and Lee has always been free from promiscuous complaining on the part of the crowd. But lately there has been more than the usual amount and attention should be brought to the fact before it becomes a habit. There has been no reason for the increasing noise on the part of the fans against official decisions at recent sporting events.

This is not meant as a criticism of Washington and Lee fans, but of those few who are always trying to find fault. Intercollegiate contests are conducted under a different code than professional ones, and the rights of the fan to raise his voice in complaint are different in both cases. Southern Conference rules in boxing and wrestling strictly forbid any noise while the fighting is in progress. Good sportsmanship demands that the fans treat visiting teams courteously and not yell when the home team is penalized.

Probably the basic cause for all booning is that Mr. Fan is conceited enough to believe that he knows the rules better than the referee, who has made a study of them. The crowd should follow the plays and watch the decisions, but the right spirit is not shown when there are outbursts against the official because he is following the rules which he knows.

Booning brings about the opportunity for serious consequences. Schools have been known to break off relations because of treatment accorded the visiting team by the partisan home crowd. No matter how heated the rivalry, the same treatment should be given a visiting team that is given a visitor.

REMOVE THE HALO

Several months ago it will be remembered that a letter was written in this paper signed "Three Upper-classmen" in which the general inconspicuity of the Ring-tum Phi was intimated. In return, this paper suggested that the writers of the letter suggest some of the constructive reforms which they demanded we undertake. Apparently such reforms were not plentiful, for nothing more was heard until now.

But elsewhere in this issue we now print a criticism written by one of these "three upper-classmen," a criticism that is truly constructive and entirely justified. Although moved to pardonable color and imagery, he paints a truthful picture of a situation as it now exists on the Washington and Lee campus.

A considerable number of complaints have been voiced daily by countless upper-classmen as to the general prevalence of freshmen rules disobedience. Several have expressed surprise that freshmen whom they had formerly noted as being extremely obedient to the custom of speaking had suddenly become weary of their usual courtesy. We wondered at this, and co-incident with the receipt of the mentioned revealing letter we discovered that V. C. was in a high state of doldrums.

In fact, matters have resolved themselves to a point where the freshmen, recognizing that V. C. had become nothing more than a postponed lame duck session, have been conducting themselves in the grossest of spirits, completely disregarding every freshman rule and regulation. It is nothing unusual to walk along the campus and encounter dozens of freshmen who do not even deign to nod a head. And as for being in at ten-thirty at night, why perish the thought.

In short, the unmistakable grossness of the freshman class must be curbed. Their reign of self-congratulation must end. V. C. must function again, and it must function with greater efficiency and deliberation in order to make up for the condemnable attitude assumed by the majority of freshmen. We repeat the recommendation made by the student whose letter appears in these columns, that the box for depositing charges be placed immediately on the window-sill of Washington College and that co-operation between the student body and the V. C. be resumed in order that freshmen rules and regulations might be effectively enforced, and we also recommend that presiding officers at V. C. show a little more discretion in their great bent towards leniency. Nothing is more harmful to the best operation of V. C. than to have a freshman report how easily he avoided any punishment or chastisement after being sent up.

Four prominent university professors and a large number of organizations, including the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, were classed as "anti-American," and as working to "destroy our government," in a report issued by the Americanization committee of the American Legion Auxilliary.

The professors named were Dr. John Dewey of Columbia University, America's first philosopher; Prof. Alexander Meikeljohn of the University of Wisconsin, formerly president of Amherst College; Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago, and Prof. John Lapp of Marquette University at Milwaukee. These four, the report said, are "university professors who add their voices to the chorus of un-American propaganda."

The four professors so denounced are in the forefront of the increasingly active group of educators, students and writers who have been demanding a new social and economic order for the United States.

Dr. Dewey was known for 40 years as the man who revolutionized the American school system by freeing it from the German belief that knowledge was an objective in itself. In later days, since his retirement from active teaching at Columbia in 1930, he has been engaged principally in attempts to revise American philosophy, particularly political philosophy.

Like Dewey, Dr. Douglas has been active in the world of ideas and in a number of organizations which have attempted to apply the ideas. He is author of many books and papers on economic and sociological subjects.

Dr. Lapp has been an active worker in the field of public health and social relations. Dr. Meikeljohn's most prominent contribution to education has been the experimental college which he started at Wisconsin under the guidance of President Glenn Frank.—(IP).

Oh, for the life of a basketball player. It must be fun trying to get to the site of your next game. As it happened, things could have been much worse. Curtailment of athletic budgets has necessitated more college teams than usual traveling by auto, and the weather is the most important thing they have to contend with.

Did you know that the Wahoos, not to be outdone by the Generals, entertained girls from Randolph-Macon and Sweet Briar on one week-end? With plans in the making for a Hollins day here, it looks like a new game has been invented.

Students at Denison University have launched a drive to aid the families of destitute miners.

WISEACRES

When college men wore pegtop trousers, rented talyhos, grew mustaches, courted ladies, put on winter underwear after the football season closed—in those days reading was common. Some rational collegians actually visited the Main library in their spare time to read.

They missed the real entertainment. While sitting in a well-lighted, properly heated room and gazing enraptured at a book they were wasting time. Their sons and daughters prefer to slouch in a coffee shop, sipping weak cokes, inhaling cigarette fumes, making foolish conversation. Evolution is a marvelous thing.

We seldom see a college student spend his vacant afternoons in the library unless he is compelled to do so. This is a fine thing, for college students should not pass up opportunities to talk and attend downtown movies. When they do invade the library it is as the sentenced man trudges into his penitentiary, forced to do so much time before they may be free. Modern youths recognize values.

Let us compare the collegiate attendance at afternoon movies and day in the week with the meager crowd found in the libraries. We repeat: college students have finally come to their senses. What fun could one possibly find in reading a book at the library?

We're asking you, but we know the answer.—The Daily Nebraskan.

JOE MAGEE

With the assistance of Eddie Cantor, Lyda Roberti, Sidney Franklin (the boy from Brooklyn who made a name for himself in the land of hot tamales), hordes of beautiful girls, and bulls—some of them contented and some of them not—"The Kid From Spain" strikes a fast pace. It's a good picture, full of wisecracks, legs, dancing, and music. That of course is typical of any Cantor show, but this one rather outdoes his other efforts. The critics thought the picture somewhat of a disappointment, to tell all, but why quibble in this day of few good pictures when you get Cantor, girls and music? If Cantor is not enough for you, then there is Lyda Roberti—a small sensation in her own way. Her imitation of the Cantor style of singing is good (while the picture was being made, Eddie took off her hotcha method of singing, and not to be outdone, Miss Roberti came right back at him with an A-1 example of how he sounded. This spontaneous fooling was not called for in the script, but it stayed in after that).

Late show Tuesday night. "Uptown New York" presents Jack Oakie in a new role. For the first time, he attempts some serious acting, and makes an excellent job of it, according to those critics. You should see this one if only for the fact that the Oakie tries a new method of acting.

"Airmail" presents another side of aviation as yet unattempted. There's nothing new in the story particularly, but the angle is different and well-handled. Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy, Lillian Bond, Frank Albertson, and Slim Summerville make up the cast. There's a lot of excitement and good flying in this one to make up any deficiencies in plot, with Ralph Bellamy, who is climbing rapidly in popularity, giving an excellent performance.

According to Ralph Daves, there will be a late show every Sunday night until further announcement. This move has been made owing to many requests, and if the arrangement proves to be what the students want, the week-enders can be assured of a midnight show the rest of the semester.

The movie rights have been secured to W. Somerset Maugham's latest, "The Narrow Corner."

"Goona Goona" upset a northern ministerial alliance when the city was plastered with advertisements showing ladies with little or no clothes. They protested and the weary but triumphant sign posters were forced to take strips of paper and make clothes for the maidens.

The Virginia censors are doing their best to keep Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong," the adaptation of "Diamond Lil," out of the state. However, if a little argument does any good, we may get to see it, for their ban is being protested.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor's Note — The Ring-tum Phi must know who the author of any letter addressed to it is before it can print that letter. If the author so requests, he may use a nom-de-plume when the letter is printed.

Sir:
Forsaken toys, abandoned teddy bears have little or nothing on the forgotten men that roam this learned and revered campus of ours. Indeed I perhaps am guilty of using the wrong word when I say "Forgotten" since the freshman class this year is treated with the utmost deference.

As Beowulf, Seigfried, and Lincoln belong to the ages, so does it seem that the august body heretofore addressed as the V. C. seem to belong to posterity. Last fall, after repeated urgings from the editorials in your paper, I sent a very gross young gentleman to be tried at the hands of them, who ere now have ever brought quavers to the voice of a "first year man," as we must henceforth call them, strewing garlands before them as they come our way. A dictator would dissolve such a worthless "lower chamber," but alas, we have no dictator, though there are those who would be.

Of course it all comes down to the fact that the presiding officer of the Vigilance Committee does what he pleases and when. And anyone who does not care for it, well, we all know what he can do. I ask that through the columns of your paper that you demand: (1) that a new box be placed immediately in the window-sill of Washington College. (2) that an approximation by the presiding officer of the percentage of first year men beat this year of those sent up be published. (3) That co-operation from the student body of Washington and Lee in taking the grossest class down a peg or two be inaugurated.

Journalism?

Thomas W. Gerber of the executive staff of the United Press says: "Seeking, reporting, interpreting and distributing news is today a complex business, an exciting profession, a responsible career. It is a field only for serious-minded, clear-thinking men and women. The day of romantic, adventurous assignments is largely over."

THERE'S no more "newspaper game." Today, it's a business—still exciting, but calling for all-round resourcefulness. That's why newspaper men agree with college men in choosing a pipe as their favorite smoke. A pipe helps a man organize his mind for clear thinking.

Why did college men choose Edgeworth as their favorite smoking tobacco? Because it's individual! A blend of fine old burleys that's different.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. So drop a line to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and let them send you a free sample of Edgeworth to try before you buy. You'll like it!

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Students Give Alarm As Fire Destroys Inn

The unusual occurrence of a house blazing away in a populated neighborhood with no one aware of it presented itself when a spectacular blaze of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Valley Inn, well-known tourist home on the outskirts of Lexington, early Sunday morning.

The fire was discovered at approximately 2:30 Sunday morning by three students, Bob Hudson, Calvin Dold, and Herbert Rudlin, who were returning from Roanoke. Noticing the flames about two miles away, they sped up their car expecting to find the fire department and the usual crowd of spectators. Driving up to the Valley Inn, they were surprised to find that, despite the fact the entire roof was ablaze and the winds whipping the flames high into the sky, not a single person was in sight. The entire area was deserted.

Fearing that the occupants of the Inn would be either suffocated or burned to death unless awakened, they jumped from the car, shouting that the house was on fire. Despite the clamor of all three, there was no sign of anyone awakening. Attempting to reach the front door, Dold was nearly overcome by the dense smoke, but was pulled away in time. Rudlin managed to reach the windows on the first floor and crashed several in an effort to rouse the occupants. Noting that the fire was gaining headway every moment, Hudson drove into town to spread the alarm. Although several minutes had elapsed from the time of reaching the fire, no one in the neighborhood seemed to have awakened or were aware of the raging fire threatening their homes.

Unable to awaken anyone in the Inn, the two students who remained at the scene went next door to the residence of Burton Deaver and awakened the residents, all of whom ran out on the snow-covered lawn in a belief that their own house was afire. By this time, firemen had arrived but were unable to do anything beyond preventing neighboring houses from catching ablaze.

The early morning blaze presented its share of comical aspects. A group of doughty A. T. O.'s who came to witness the fire took up seats of vantage in wicker rockers on the front lawn, and calmly surveyed the scene for two hours, despite the icy gale and the snow. Firemen, heroically attempting to save some of the furniture, became befuddled by the dense smoke and brought out such valuable pieces as two toilet fixtures, a radiator, and a roll of paper. When the fire reached the first floor, a steam radiator mysteriously catapulted onto the lawn at the feet of Frank Young, who promptly left his comfortable rocker for the warmth of the radiator.

But we forgot to reveal what happened to the occupants of the Valley Inn whom the three students strove so valiantly to awaken. Much to their mingled relief and chagrin, they later found out that there wasn't any.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Jackson Memorial hospital reports that four students are ill with the grippe, J. M. White, H. L. Robinson, David Wharton, and P. C. Mathes.

L. F. Washington is under treatment for an infection of his hand, while J. B. Thomas and F. B. Simmons are still confined to the hospital.

The University of Georgia took an extensive trip north recently when their basketball team played Maryland at College Park and William and Mary at Williamsburg. The Bulldogs managed to take a close game from the Old Liners.

In the Duke-Washington and Lee basketball game played at Lynchburg, Joe Sawyers was high scorer with a total of twelve points. Clark for Duke was second with eleven points.

Following the BIG BLUE..

By De Clark

The Generals certainly must step along at a rapid pace if they have any idea of going to the Southern Conference basketball tournament at Raleigh this year. At present the Big Blue stands eighth in conference rating or in other words next to the bottom position. The last two teams in conference rating will not be invited to the tournament and in that case it will be necessary for the Generals to start winning tonight when they face North Carolina University.

The Tar Heels are bringing a fast-moving quintet to Lexington. Last week they had their off time just as any basketball team does and dropped three games. Duke turned the trick the first time and then Maryland came along and repeated the same act. Following the Maryland game, the Tar Heels moved over to Annapolis to play Navy and there suffered their worst defeat of the season, 66-40. The Naval Academy has one of the best teams that has ever played on the Middles' floor and are undefeated to date. North Carolina just didn't have a chance.

Last night North Carolina played V. M. I. over at Ninety-Four hall and came out of their annual battle with the Cadets with another win to their credit. V. M. I. fought every minute but they could not keep up with the swiftness of the Tar Heel players. At half time the Cadets were ahead, 20-19, but the Tar Heels came back and, with the assistance of Hines, forged ahead to take the game by a score of 32-29. Downey, guard, played his usual brilliant game for V. M. I. and kept the Cadet cheering section in an uproar all during the game.

The Tar Heels will bring a squad of clever basket shooters. Hines, a forward, is built for speed and when he gets his eye on the basket, there is no letup. In a recent game with Guilford which Carolina won, 66-9, Hines accounted for five field goals and five free throws. Weathers, another forward, chalked up ten points to his credit while Aitken, guard, made a total of ten points. Brandt, regular center, is also talented along these lines and figured eight points for his total in this same game. The Big Blue will have to be on the lookout every minute of the game.

Counting the game tonight, the Generals have six more contests to play before the Southern Conference tournament begins. On Thursday they will clash with the William and Mary Indians on the Doremus court. William and Mary isn't so bad either and the Generals will be in for a tough battle. I noticed in the paper the other day that they were leading the Virginia Conference and that shows that they have power. Last season the Big Blue defeated the Indians in a home game by the score of 31-27.

Following the William and Mary contest, the Big Blue will hit for College Park where they will tackle the Old Liners in a return game. The Generals were victorious in their first game with the Old Liners and won by three points. Maryland, on the other hand, seems to be having good luck on their home court and the losses on trips away from home have been made up. Last week they defeated North Carolina, 42-29.

Four days after the Maryland game, the fire works will begin again for the Big Blue when they meet the Wahos over in Charlottesville. A Wahoo-Washington and Lee game is a battle until the final whistle. The Generals have been defeated once by Virginia and I can see where the Big Blue will be out to get revenge for that early season setback. The Generals led at the half by a good margin, but Virginia crashed through and took the game by five points. However, this will not be the final game with the Wahos as Virginia is scheduled to come to Lexington February 21 to meet the Generals in the last game of the season just before the Southern Conference tournament. Virginia defeated the University of Georgia last night, 31-17.

In between the two Virginia games, the Generals will play host to V. P. I. in a return contest. This will be an opportunity for another revenge act as the Big Blue was defeated again by the Cadets, 41-38. The Big Blue seems to have formed the habit of going down by just a few points. If they can reverse this habit for the remainder of the season, their rating in the Southern Conference will be different.

Last Saturday night when Washington and Lee played West Virginia over in Bluefield, Cy changed his lineup and it seemed to function a little better. Charlie Smith, who has been playing center all season, was shifted to forward position. Jaul Holbrook, regular guard, took Charlie's place at center and played a good game. Even with the change in line-up, the "few point complex" of losing games stuck with the Generals and they took it on the chin by two points. Cy is expected to use the same revised lineup tonight against the Tar Heels.

According to Captain Dick, the annual football banquet will take place this year as it has in the past. This time it will come the same day that spring football practice begins. Coach Tilson will call all men out for spring practice on February 27. The banquet, sponsored by Laurence Witten, '10, of Cincinnati, will be held for all football players and coaches.

The basketball team had a tough time traveling over to Bluefield Saturday. Starting out from Lexington in plenty of time to get part of the team to Bluefield by one o'clock in the afternoon, one of the cars slipped on the icy roads over towards North mountain and ended up in the ditch. The players in this car came out with a few scratches and cuts. A quick transfer was made to Dean Gilliam's car which went along all right until it reached Lewisburg where it stopped and refused to move another inch. Here a car was hired and the players started on for Bluefield, finally reaching their destination about five o'clock. Snow seems to cause a great deal of trouble in the South and that's what caused the delay.

The same day the track team was scheduled to journey over to Charlottesville in cars for an indoor meet with the Wahos, but the roads around Afton were found to be impassable and the meet was postponed until tomorrow.

Trackmen Go To Virginia

Indoor Meet Was Not Held Saturday Due to Icy Roads

Tomorrow afternoon the varsity and freshman indoor track teams will travel to Charlottesville to hold a duel meet with the University of Virginia. Some of the athletes will leave Lexington from the gym at 3 o'clock, while the men who have classes will not leave until 3:30.

This affair was originally scheduled to be run off last Saturday, but the inclement weather caused a postponement of the meet until tomorrow as the trip over the mountains in the bus was thought to be dangerous in face of weather conditions last week.

Around thirty track and field performers are expected to make the journey. These men will aim at the record established in 1931 when the schools last met and the General representatives won both the varsity and freshman contests in a meet staged in Doremus gymnasium. The thinclads entered in the various events for both teams are:

Generals Lose Twice, Ranking Next To Last

Defeats By North Carolina State and Duke Costly To Big Blue

Losing to both North Carolina State and Duke last week, the Washington and Lee varsity basketball team took a decisive drop in Southern Conference rating and now stands in eighth place, one above Clemson who is at the bottom of the ladder. The Big Blue has won one and lost four.

The Generals will attempt to turn back to the winning column when they face the strong North Carolina University quintet in Doremus gym tonight. Carolina started the season in fine shape and won most of their games by large scores, but last week they were set back by Duke and Maryland in away-from home games. On the same trip, the Tar Heels also suffered defeat at the hands of the undefeated Naval Academy quintet, 66-44.

Holds First Position
 South Carolina now holds first position in the Southern Conference with no losses, but they have played only one game. Their big test will come this Friday night when they meet the fast-moving North Carolina State team. The Red Terrors were victorious in all their games played on a recent trip through the Old Dominion, winning from V. P. I., Washington and Lee, V. M. I. and Virginia. They jumped from fifth to third position, having won five and lost two.

Standings of conference teams through February 4 are as follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.

Freshmen Set Back S. M. A. Cadets in New $100,000 Pool, 48-18

Washington and Lee's yearling swimmers gave Staunton Military Academy a severe setback in their new swimming pool on last Saturday. The final score was 48 to 18, with the freshmen gaining a first place in every event. Although the times were not exceedingly fast, the freshmen clearly showed their superiority.

This was the second meet of the year for S. M. A. in their new pool and the first they have lost. Staunton now has what is probably the finest swimming pool in the south, according to Coach Twombly. It cost about $100,000 to build it.

Lanier, who placed first in the 100 yard free style and the 50 yard free style, and Allen, who placed second in these same events, besides being members of the winning relay team, were the stars for the freshmen.

The summary follows:

- Dives—Ferris, W. and L., Brooks and Cole (Staunton).
 Relay—Allen, Willis, Reed, and Lanier, W. and L. Time 1:54.4.
 Breast-stroke—Vardaman, W. and L.; Stich, and Ackart, Staunton. Time: 0:39.

Emerson Wins Over Quintet Friday Night

Washington Team Wins In Final Minutes of Play by Six Points

For the third consecutive time, the Washington and Lee freshman basketball team had a victory snatched from their grasp in the last few minutes of play here last Friday night, this time at the hands of Emerson Institute of Washington to the tune of 40-34. Only recently, Augusta Military Academy defeated the freshmen in a return engagement, 29-28, at the last minute. Following this, Louisburg College of North Carolina eked out a 27-25 win over the Brigadiers just before the final whistle. The Yearlings' record for this season stands with two wins against three defeats, the triumphs being over Augusta in the initial engagement with the prep school, and Jefferson High school, of Roanoke, in the opening of the season.

Lucas, diminutive forward for Emerson, scored practically all of his team's points during the first half of the game last Friday night. Time and time again, the little forward dribbled around the Brigadier guards to score. With Magrath assigned to him during the second period, Lucas accounted for the victory. Lucas, W. and L., and Gilbert, of Staunton. Time: 2:44.

Back-stroke—Magee, W. and L., Raider, Staunton, Melvin, W. and L. Time, 34.4.

The lead changed from one team to the other frequently during the first half, but Emerson held a slight advantage at the half.

The freshmen took on a new hold in the second half, and within four minutes of the end, tied the score. Emerson suddenly woke up, however, and looped in three baskets in rapid succession to cinch the game.

Wednesday night the Brigadiers journey to Roanoke to meet Jefferson High school in a return engagement. In the first meeting between the two teams, the Washington and Lee representatives won handily. The Magicians will be playing on their own home court and they are preparing to give the frosh a stiff battle.

Sawyers Adds Fifteen Points

Retains Lead and Brings Total To 99 Points in Scoring Race

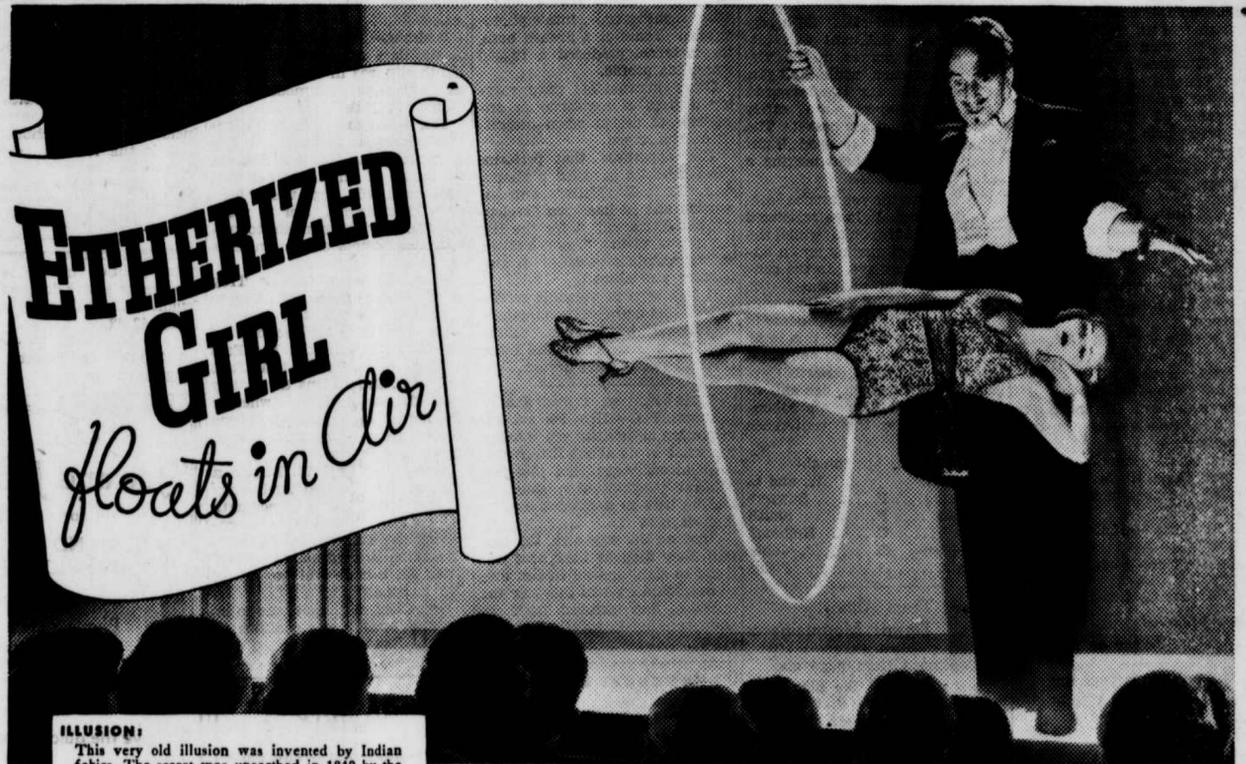

Chalking up five field goals and five free throws as a result of his fine shooting in both the Duke and West Virginia basketball games, Joe Sawyers retained his grip on first position in individual scoring of players with a total of 99 points. Sawyers was high point man in both of these basketball games.

Little change was made in the position of the rest of the players on the Blue and White quintet. Chip Jones, guard, increased his total to 20 points when he scored four field goals and one free throw in the West Virginia game. He was third high scorer for the Generals in the Mountaineer contest.

ETHERIZED GIRL
floats in air

ILLUSION:
 This very old illusion was invented by Indian fakirs. The secret was unearthed in 1849 by the great magician, Robert-Houdin. At that time, ether had just been discovered, and little was known about it. Houdin claimed that he had discovered that this new anesthetic could make people light as air. To prove it, he caused the subject to rise into the air and float apparently suspended. He passed a hoop around the body to show there were no wires or supports.

EXPLANATION:
 There are many, many explanations for this old trick. One is that the girl wears a concealed harness, which ends in a socket between her shoulder blades. This is attached to a piston below the stage. The piston is pushed up from below, causing her to rise in the air. The piston is invisible, because it is covered with mirrors which reflect surrounding draperies, similar to the background. The magician can pass the hoop over her body because it is cut in one place. It can be pulled apart for a second when it passes the piston.

Another "magic show" is cigarette advertising.

One of its greatest tricks is the illusion that cigarettes can be made miraculously "MILD" through manufacturing methods.

THE EXPLANATION: All popular cigarettes today are made in modern sanitary factories with up-to-date machinery. All are heat treated—some more intensively than others, because raw, inferior tobaccos require more intensive treatment than choice, ripe tobaccos.

The real difference comes in the tobaccos that are used. The better the tobacco, the milder it is.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why Camels are so mild. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

It's the secret of Camels' rich "bouquet" ...their cool flavor...their non-irritating mildness.

A. T. O. Establishes Record With Six Team Captains

Continued from page one being a gridded of ability, Morris is also a clever boxer. He was scheduled to make his first appearance before Washington and Lee fight fans yesterday in the heavyweight division in place of Nace Collins who was injured. The meet was cancelled by St. Johns and Morris will have to wait until a later date.

At the same meeting that Morris was elected captain of the 1932 football team. Amos Bolen was awarded the position of leading the 1933 eleven which has one of the most difficult schedules ever drawn up for a Washington and Lee team. Bolen for the past two seasons has also been a linesman of noted ability. He is a hard-hitting guard that is hard to stop and will be an efficient man to lead the 1933 eleven.

Bolen was chosen by coaches in the state of Virginia as guard on the all-State mythical eleven for 1932. He was the only Washington and Lee player to make the mythical team this last season. Besides being a football player, Bolen is a member of Coach Mathis' undefeated and South Conference champion wrestling team. He wrestles in the 175-pound class and made his first home appearance this season when he lost to Auman of North Carolina University by a fall.

In boxing, the A. T. O.'s are represented by Jim Pound who was elected captain shortly after the 1933 season had commenced. This is Pound's final year on the varsity boxing team and his loss will be greatly felt. He is a clever fighter in the 155 pound division and is known for his easy going appearance while in the ring. Pound represented Washington and Lee in the Southern conference tournament held at Charlottesville for the past two years but lost both years in close fought battles. He is expected to enter the tournament again this year.

Following the close of the 1932 freshman football season, William Ellis was elected captain for the year. Ellis was a linesman on Coach Young's combination. He was a star end and played a brilliant game all season. He will be of great help to Tilson's 1933 eleven.

Ringmen Idle as St. Johns Cancel Meet

Continued from page one last Saturday night and were turned back by the Maroon fighters, 5-3. This means Coach Tilson's men will have a tough assignment when they tackle the Roanoke team next Monday night. This will be the final home meet of the season as the two following the Roanoke meet will take place away from home. V. P. I. will be met at Blacksburg on February 18 and the Blue and White fighters will journey to Annapolis on March 4 to battle it out with the strong Middies team.

At the time of the St. Johns meet, Coach Tilson was handicapped by injuries and other troubles among his men. Nace Collins, unlimited, due to an injured hand, was scheduled to sit on the bench and Robert Morris has been working out daily to take his place. It would have been Morris's first appearance before Washington and Lee's fight fans. De la Ossa, 115-pounder, was overweight and scheduled to move up to the 125-pound class. Tilson has been working a new man to replace De la Ossa in the 115-pound division. Mehler was due to enter the ring for the Generals in this class.

With a week ahead of him, Coach Tilson plans to hold practice every day in an attempt to have his men in top shape for the Roanoke College meet.

Toosers Hope to End Losing Streak

Continued from page one single individual star. Both regular guards, Gallinant and Litwin, are top scorers in the Virginia Conference, while Halligan, at center, and the two forwards, Lynn and Lembeck, are safely counted on for many baskets. The Indians recently trounced Richmond severely, without making a single substitution.

To date, in the conference scoring, the Generals have registered a total of 163 points while the opponents were ringing up an advantage to score 194. In the general scoring of all games, the Generals, aided by the fray with Gallaudet, lead their opponents in scoring, 300 to 288. Of this total, Joe Sawyers has scored one point less than one third. North Carolina, the foe tonight, has amassed a total of 187 points to opponents' 144 in the conference scoring.

Give Out Discoveries

New York—(IP)—College scientists and laboratory workers were urged to make it a practice of giving out their discoveries to the public, in an address before the American College Publicity Association by Waldemar Kaempffert, science editor of the New York Times.

Too, often, he said, important scientific discoveries and theories remain hidden for years because the newspapers never hear about them. A case in point, he said, was the publicizing of the Einstein theory in 1919, which was fifteen years after it had first been advanced.

There can be no actual disarmament unless there is a complete and universal abolishment of all armament.—Baron Dudley Marley.

PROFILE MEASURED BY SOUND WAVES

Cleveland—(IP)—"Ah, her profile sounds lovely!" This may be heard at future beauty contests as a result of an invention exhibited last week at Case School of Applied Science here by Dr. Dayton C. Miller, professor of physics and outstanding authority on sound in this country.

The mechanical device transforms the curves of a profile into sound waves. If the sounds are in perfect harmony the curves get a rating of 100 per cent. Every defect or nicety of human features is detected by this latest and crudest of machines, which makes vision audible.

In his demonstration of the machine, Dr. Miller exhibited the profile of the formerly famous screen star, Mary Miles Minter. The purity of the curves in her face were measured by Dr. Miller's device, and their composite vibration waves resulted in a corresponding purity of sound. The net result, in fact, was a major chord perfectly attuned; or, to put it in another way, sounding the perfect mathematical relationships of the overtone series.

Not only were photographs decomposed into sound, so to speak, but sounds of various instruments were synthesized into photographs. Tones of a French horn, for instance, produced a rugged masculine profile.

Other instruments gave varying degrees of regularity or angularity of design when projected on the screen.

The apparatus that performs these miracles is called a phonodeik. It is Dr. Miller's own invention and he has been developing and perfecting it for the last ten years, giving demonstrations before scientific societies in this country and abroad.

It has been of valuable service in studying and correcting defects in musical instruments, microphones, loud speakers and many sorts of reproducing devices.

Flea Political Persecution

Miami, Fla.—(IP)—Federal immigration authorities are wondering what to do about fifteen Cuban university students who fled political persecution in Cuba by coming here in a 40-foot boat in four days at sea.

Once on the way over, the lads said, they thought their boat was going to sink, and all fifteen dived overboard. When they saw the mistake, they climbed back in, and continued to the United States.

Successful Coach

Coach E. A. Mathis whose Southern Conference championship team scored its twenty-first consecutive victory when they defeated North Carolina Saturday night, hopes to see his team continue their winning streak against Virginia Polytechnic Institute on February 11. This is Mathis' seventh year as coach at Washington and Lee.

TO EXCAVATE ANCIENT CITE WHERE TROY STOOD

Cincinnati—(IP)—Excavations will go on again at the site of ancient Troy next summer in an effort to trace the birthplace of modern civilization.

The work will be directed by Archeologists of the University of Cincinnati, headed by Dr. William T. Semple. This time, their interest aroused, European institutions will take part. Digging beneath a broiling sun last year, the Cincinnati expedition revealed that nine cities had stood successfully upon the site of Troy, five of them before the city of which Homer sang and three more after the days of Helen, Achilles, Paris and Ulysses.

It also unearthed a theater built in the days of Rome, when the eighth city was in flower, a theater that could accommodate 5,000 people.

Yet, when the Cincinnati archeologists started work, the site of ancient Troy was a wilderness, the home of snakes, tarantulas, storks and wild hogs which harried the explorers. For 33 years no effort had been made to unearth the secrets of the ancients buried there.

They dug there because Troy in the days of Ancient Greece controlled one of the greatest trade routes of the old world, from the civilizations of the Far East to those of the rising Near East and West. Excavations there, they believed, would settle whether the hordes that peopled Europe invaded from the north or rushed up through Persia.

Already Dr. Carl W. Blegen, a professor of Classical Archeology at the University of Cincinnati, has started for the scene after receiving the Turkish government's permission to continue the work. Later Dr. Semple will go, taking five assistants. Operations at the site are to be resumed April 1 and continue to July 1. Extreme heat of the des-

PLAN TO CHANGE PASSING RULES IN FOOTBALL

New York—(IP)—When a football team finds itself hopelessly behind, what does it do? It begins a hodge-podge of forward passing, anywhere on the field, with the result that most one-sided football games end up in a very unscientific tossing of the ball all over the stadium.

To correct, if possible, this apparent deficiency in the national college game, a "committee of twenty" football coaches will meet here within a few days to make suggestions to the national football rules committee. Suggestions already made are:

- 1. That the penalty for two successive incomplete passes be increased from five to fifteen yards.
2. That forward passes be permitted from any point behind the scrimmage line instead of at least five yards behind the line.
3. That a forward pass caught by the defense after it has touched an ineligible receiver be ruled an intercepted pass instead of an incomplete pass, as at present.

Pigeon Opens Door

Cleveland—(IP)—A pigeon opened the 1,000-pound doors of the School Administration Building's underground garage here last week.

When the doors swung open in the afternoon, Eddie Pelcin, the attendant, was considerably surprised that there was no automobile waiting to come in. He walked over and saw a pigeon in the driveway pecking at a peanut. A few days ago the garage installed an "electric eye" to open the doors automatically when an automobile approaches. The "eye" is a beam of light thrown across the drive on a photo-electric cell. When an automobile drives up to the door the light is shut off, a chemical reaction takes place in the cell and it operates a relay to a motor attached to the door. Incidentally, the school garage here is the first to employ the device.

The pigeon last week had flown through the beam of light, setting the whole works going.

WAR HABIT IS HARD TO SHAKE OFF

Washington—(IP)—Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College and the only woman member of the disarmament conference at Geneva, said here last week that she was confident the time would come when killing men on the battle field would seem as illogical as it now would seem to burn a witch in front of New York City's Public Library.

She made the statement at the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, of which she is one of the leaders.

"The habit of war is so old," she said, "it is hard to shake off. The delegates are agreed that killing men over national differences is barbaric, but behind their willingness to scrap war machinery survives still some fear of the other man and of leaving the homeland unprotected. Even so, when the delegates finally agree on a point the treaties will have to be ratified by Congresses and Parliaments at home."

Bloomington, Ill.—(IP)—Illinois Wesleyan College has taken another step in its efforts to help students go through college without cash. It has agreed to accept from students coming from families of Chicago teachers, payment of tuition in scrip and tax anticipation warrants issued by the schools of Chicago.

Last fall the college took the lead in helping sons and daughters of farmers to attend college by agreeing to accept farm produce in exchange for tuition, room and board.
