

GENERALS END GOOD SEASON ON GRIDIRON

Team Shows Varying Flashes of Brilliant Playing in Several Games

Another Washington and Lee football season has gone into history! While not remarkably successful from the standpoint of mere scores, still it displayed flashes of brilliancy that compare favorably with the brightest scintillations of former seasons. Any Fall that witnesses a Washington and Lee victory over V. P. I. may be considered a success.

The individual members of the team stack up most favorably against players of any team in the South and most of the teams of the East. Just why their combined brilliancy could not be efficiently exerted against every team played during the season is rather difficult to understand. With men like Captain Lindsey Moore, peer of all tackles; "Monk" Mattox, backfield man, par excellence, Rangeley, Potts, and Collins, linesmen admitting of few equals; Cameron, McDonad, Tucker, Frew and Wingo, backs individually powerful; Bemis, Leake, Arbogast, Herndon, and Thomas, five ends equally strong on attack and defense; men of such calibre as Vogel, Walters, Terry Tilson, Hamilton, Dawson, Hall and Beard—all coached by "Bill" Raftery, assisted by Joe Silverstein, "Ted" Shultz, and "Al" Pierotti, it does seem that the record of the past season should have been more impressive.

During the season the Generals amassed a total of 172 points while their opponents secured 74. The first games of the season were comparatively easy. Randolph-Macon opened the season on Wilson Field by allowing the White and Blue to pile up 41 points while they remained scoreless. The Generals uncorked a flashing attack that was invincible and put up a stone wall defense through which but a single first down was made.

The next game was almost as easy, Emory and Henry falling by the score of 28 to 0. The team from Emory and Henry used a shift that was somewhat puzzling during the first quarter, but its mysteries were

WRESTLING TEAM WILL BEGIN WORK MONDAY

Call Given for Five o'Clock On Monday Afternoon; Experi- enced Men Desired.

Coach Brett has issued a call for candidates for the wrestling team for Monday afternoon at five o'clock.

In spite of the fact that Ogden, of the 158 pound class of last year's team, is the only member of the 1921 team that did not return to the University competition is of course open to all.

A stiff schedule of seven meets has been arranged by Manager F. R. Sutherland taking in West Virginia, Army, and Princeton among others. It is particularly hoped that a large number of men will be out particularly those which have any experience.

soon solved and the Generals were easily victorious, though employing only straight football.

The first real test of the season came when Washington and Lee journeyed to New Brunswick to meet the strong Rutgers eleven. The Scarlet team was held scoreless for three quarters, while the local warriors pushed across two touchdowns, but were able to kick but one goal. During the desperately fought contest, Sanford sent in 20 substitutes, while the Generals used but two. The combined strength of these three teams at last wore down the White and Blue defense, until two touchdowns trickled across the goal line, followed by successfully kicked goals which spelled a heart-breaking 14-13 defeat for the lads from Lexington. It was a hard game to lose.

The fourth game of the season was played here against Morris-Harvey and resulted in a 33-7 rout of the visitors. Practically every man on the W. and L. squad participated in the game. The Barboursville outfit managed to score against the locals in the last half minute of play—a feat unparalleled on Wilson Field

MOORE HAS GREAT FOOTBALL RECORD

First Played for W. & L. In 1915; Has Varied and En- viable Football Record.

Lindsey Lee Moore, an outstanding star of the "Fighting Generals" for four years, ended a successful football career when he led the White and Blue to a 7-0 victory over Johns Hopkins on last Saturday.

Lindsey entered Washington and Lee in the fall of 1915 as a green Freshman, powerfully built but totally without football experience. That year he made every trip with the team and played along with Ted Shultz, Al Pierotti, and Johnny Barrett in the famous game against Cornell. Failing to make his monogram his first year he came back in 1916 with a rush. That year he and Tex Bryan were considered two of the most powerful guards in the South.

In the Spring of 1917 Lindsey left school with the Washington and Lee Ambulance Unit and was stationed at Allentown, Pa. Here he played with the famous Usac team which was made up of stars from all parts of the country. He was first noticed by Walter Camp while with the Usacs, who pronounced Lindsey Moore and "Pike" Johnson, a former W. and L. star, as the "greatest pair of linesmen he had seen in years." He was commissioned a first lieutenant and sent abroad soon afterwards. Returning to Washington and Lee in 1919 he was shifted from guard to tackle by Coach Raftery because of his speed and strength. He and

VARSITY PLAYERS AWARDED SWEATERS

Dry Dances Considered Great Success; Monograms and Sweaters Given.

Weidmeyer was right, the girls were right, the boys were right—dry, and the figure was beautiful. This summarizes the first Cotillion Club dance of the year, led by the president, R. M. Barker, with Miss Sarah Winfree, of Lynchburg.

If Old Man Volstead could have been there his face would have undoubtedly been wreathed in smiles and he would have congratulated "Rocky" Holt and his efficient floor committee for their untiring efforts in behalf of the edict which bears his name. This dance proved beyond a doubt that a dry dance could be an enjoyable affair.

During the supper break Eddie Parks Davis, alumni secretary, with a few appropriate remarks presented the monogrammed sweaters to the South Atlantic Champions, the Fighting Generals, and announced that "Monk" Mattox had been elected to captain the 1922 Generals. The following men and coaches received sweaters: Coach W. C. Raftery, Manager W. B. Webb, Captain L. L. Moore, and R. C. Potts; tackles, W. W. Rangeley, C. L. Walters, and G. I. Vogel, guards; L. P. Collins and C. L. Terry, centers; T. M. Bemis, B. H. Arbogast and J. M. Herndon, ends; R. M. Frew and D. P. Wingo, quarterbacks; M. B. Mattox and D. M. Tucker, halfbacks; E. M. Cameron and J. W. McDonald, fullbacks.

LOCAL MASONS HAVE RE- PORT ON WORK DONE BY W. & L. SQUARE

Work Started by Locals in 1917 Has Developed Nationally; Louis Tyree President.

On last Wednesday evening the Square and Compass, a Masonic Club made up of all members of duly constituted lodges of Free and Accepted Masons, held their regular meeting in the rooms of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Louis Tyree, the National President of the organization, gave a very interesting discussion of the work that is now being carried on, and in outlining the work for the next term, assigned papers to be prepared by the members which will be read and discussed after the Christmas holidays in the regular meetings.

The Square and Compass had its origin at Washington and Lee in 1917 and after remaining dormant during the war, again took up its work in 1919 and since then has had a remarkable growth, both externally and internally. Now comprising

SIGMA UPSILON STUDIES HOMER

The Sigma Upsilon fraternity held its regular meeting last Friday. The study of Homer's works was continued from the last meeting and especial study was put on the story of Troy.

In the last meeting after a short paper on the place of the story of Troy in literature today, and its universal diffusion over the world, several books of the Iliad were read. There were no new men elected to the fraternity at the last meeting.

TROUB. SHOW IS BEST YET STAGED

Varied Program Is Well Re- ceived By Large Audience of Students and Girls.

The first Troubadour show of the year was given yesterday afternoon at the New Theatre before a well filled house. This performance, the result of a month's hard work by the members of the cast, an event looked forward to and dated for by the whole Student Body was heartily enjoyed by the large number present, and is something the cast can look back on as a job well done.

Too much credit cannot be given to the producers and cast of the show for the perfect presentation and vigorous action of the whole performance. It was far above what might be expected of a college organization. Even to those familiar with the past work of the Troubadours it was a revelation.

The show opened with a number by the combined Glee and Mandolin Clubs including two pieces by the renowned Washington and Lee quartet composed of Art Zoll, L. D. Danforth, J. C. Morrison, and R. H. Carr. Mr. Danforth's magnificent rendition of the grunts of a pig in distress is worthy of note.

Next in order came Samuel Gay, Esq., of football fame with his monologue "Reminiscences of East Lexington." These memories were heartily enjoyed by everyone, but particularly by those who were familiar with

FACULTY CHANGES HOLIDAY RULING

Heavier Penalty for Those Re- turning Late After Christ- mas Holidays.

At a meeting of the Faculty several days ago the following resolutions were passed regarding examinations the Christmas holidays, and regarding the penalty imposed on students who return to the University more than two days after the close of the holiday period:

"That the Christmas vacation shall begin this session at noon on December 21, instead of December 22, as announced in the catalogue.

That instead of not having examinations on the afternoon of the third day of the examination period, as at present, it shall be the custom, except in cases of emergency, to have no examination on the forenoon of Monday of the examination period.

"That for the present session the examination period of the second term shall close on March 25 and the third term shall begin on March 27.

"That in case of the delayed return of students after the Christmas holidays there shall be imposed a penalty of $3.00 for the first day of delay after the registration day and an additional $3.00 for the second day, and in case the student fails to return by the close of registration hours on the second day after the first day of registration, his name shall be dropped from the roll of students, subject to reinstatement by the Executive Committee of the Faculty upon written petition stating satisfactory reasons for the delay. The Registrar's office is to be kept open until 10 p. m. the first three days of the second term."

SEASON'S DANCES ARE BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Three Dances and Troub Show Make Good Card; Large Num- ber of Girls Up for Occasion.

The students took full sway of the annual Thanksgiving festivities, ending sometime during the hour just before dawn on Wednesday morning.

Formally opening the social season at Washington and Lee came the Sophomore Cotillion on Monday night led by W. Sidney Foreman, president of the Sophomore class of '24, with Miss Nina Quarles. Tuesday afternoon the Troubadour's first show of the year, consisting of vaudeville and short skits, gave its opening performance. A dansant in Doremus Gym followed this. The Cotillion Club German last night, led by Mr. Barker, president of the Cotillion Club with Miss Sarah Winfree, of Lynchburg, proved to be a fitting climax for the occasion.

Escorting over 90 girls to the dances, the students put the taxi service on a boom. Finally after Weidmeyer's Orchestra had continued its syncopation until the wee small hours of the morning and the snores of the sleepy became loud enough to drown the music the chaperones declared a strike and the festivities were off.

Among the young ladies attending the Thanksgiving hops were:

Misses Katherine Jeffries of Va. College, Emily Cheney of Hampton, Va.; Gertrude Peny of Washington; Jane Louise Torrence of Lynchburg; Margaret Atkins of Marion, Va.; Katherine Spencer of Lynchburg; Elizabeth Pritchard of Raleigh, N. C.; Elizabeth Walter of Washington; Margaret Lee; Minnie Queen; Ellen Pitts of Hollins College; Elizabeth Sheffield of Hollins College; Pauline Stater of Marion, Va.; Mozelle Myers of Danville, Va.; Berta Jebes of Hollins College; Mayrene Corley of Clarksdale, Miss.; Dorothy Rike of Richmond; Elizabeth Murrell of Lynchburg; Rebecca Jones, of Petersburg, Va.; Mabel Satterwhite of Hollins College; Teet Coleman of Lynchburg; Sarah Winfree of Lynchburg; Louise Swope of Lexington, Elizabeth Hines of Hollins College; Janet

BRETT ISSUES CALL FOR W. & L. PUGILISTS

Hope for Intercollegiate Team This Season; May Have Bouts With Virginia.

A call has been made by Coach Brett for Monday afternoon at three o'clock for all men who have any experience in boxing in the hopes that sufficient material may be secured from the Student Body for a University boxing team.

If the candidates who respond to the call are promising, in all probability a meet will be staged with the University of Virginia some time after Christmas. If a sufficient number of men turn out a regular schedule may be arranged, to be announced later.

An intercollegiate boxing team to represent Washington and Lee will be entirely a new feature in athletics and a large number of men, no matter how much experience they may have are being urged to answer Coach Brett's call.

SO FAR, SO GOOD

The conduct of the Student Body during the dances Monday and Tuesday is a gratification to anyone who thrills to see the name of Washington and Lee stand for all that its high traditions suggest. There was very little drinking at the dances, and a great deal less than usual elsewhere. The difference could be clearly recognized.

We have no hesitancy in discussing this subject with frankness, for it is one that cannot be solved by evasion, nor with rubber-gloved methods. It is one that is by no means peculiar to this campus, but is being contended with, by various means, at a great majority of the universities and colleges throughout the country.

There were a few men removed from the floor at the Sophomore Cotillion. A smaller number were affected by similar necessary action Tuesday night. We hope that not the slightest factional or other unworthy motive prompted any member of the committee in charge, and we believe that the committee sought only to do its duty.

Such a plan as the present one for regulation of the dances, requires time and a fair trial to succeed. Some students feel that it is not a success because they saw evidences of drinking. Others complain that it affected the "pep" of the dances. This last contention is not only a confession of weakness on the part of those who maintain so, but it is a reflection upon the entire Student Body. Often such statements are merely cloaks for concealment of personal desires. It is not conceivable, however, that they will place personal and selfish pleasure above the welfare of their University.

"Dry dances" at Washington nad Lee are here to stay. Whether the plan now being tested will prove adequate, remains for the work of the combined Executive Committee and the special committee to prove. If this system does not result in continued improvement, we have little doubt that another will be devised.

Temporary reaction will soon die away.

That the Student Body has cooperated with its leaders and stood by its resolutions, is hardly open to question and its members deserve the highest kind of praise for seeing through what they sought and adopted as a forward step for the University. Duties yet remain to the men placed at the head of the regulative system.

Thus it stands—so far, extremely good.

CAMPBELL CONVICTED OF MURDER OF LADDIE

Insanity Is Unavailing Plea of Defense; Prisoner To Be Relieved of Life.

At the Mock Trial in the Graham-Lee Literary Society, November 26, Robert B. Campbell was convicted of first degree murder in the killing of Laddie White. Mr. Campbell was sentenced to be hung. The request for a second trial was refused the defending counsel by Judge Bryan. The defense had to work under a great strain because of the mental insufficiency of Mr. Campbell to testify in his own behalf. All through the trial the accused was attended by a physician, and at the end of the trial the jury suggested that it would be far better if Mr. Campbell could be immediately relieved of the trials and tribulations which he had to bear in this life. One witness for the defense was sure that he saw Mr. Campbell on the campus of the University the night before the murder dressed in a pair of teddies and a full dress coat. On account of this fact Mr. Campbell was judge insane but the judge thought that it was to the benefit of everyone that the prisoner be removed from the campus in order to insure the lives of all citizens that are loved and cherished to such an extent as Laddie White was.

The Voice of the Student Body

A LETTER IN REGARD TO THE BAND

Lexington, Va.,
Nov. 22, 1921.

Editor of the Ring-tum Phi.
My Dear Sir:

From the standpoint of a disinterested spectator, I should like to take this opportunity to call the attention of the Student Body to an action on the part of one of the campus organizations which seems to me to be inconsistent and incompatible with the ideals and standards of Washington and Lee.

At the beginning of the present session, the Band organized under the auspices of the Troubadours as an integral part of that body and as provided in its constitution. The members of the Band paid the dues required of the members of the Troubadours and were enrolled as a part of that organization. At the time of this organization, the president of the Troubadours, in a talk to the Band, informed them that the Band would be included in the trips to be taken by the Troubadours and that definite provision would be made for them as one of their inherent rights as a part of that body. On this understanding, the Band organized and looked to the Troubadours to provide for it.

There is no member of the Student Body who does not recognize the services of the Band during the past two months. It has been present at every rally and at every home game. It has supplied the pep for several of our pitiful attempts to give the Big Team an enthusiastic send-off and has been ever prompt and willing to play for any Student Body function. No small part of our athletic successes can be laid, without hesitancy, to the services of the Band.

But how much of this credit shall we assign to the Troubadours? This body has taken no interest in the Band. At the time of the organization, the Band was in need of both music stands and music. It still needs the stands and the music has been purchased by the members from their own pockets, although the Troubadours had collected dues from them, ostensibly for that purpose, at the time of their organization.

When the Student Body went to Lynchburg, a collection was taken to send the Band. This collection was also taken under the auspices of the Troubadours, and on which they took, in addition to the Band, the three cheer leaders, thereby falling short of the amount necessary to take the entire Band.

Now, in addition to this lack of interest and provision, the president of the Troubadours has announced that since the football season is over, that there will be no more use for the Band and that it may be disbanded. This means that the Troubadours will pocket the money paid by the members of the Band and devote it to the use of other departments of the organization. Thus, the Band is disowned by the mother body and left to shift for itself, while the "mother body" maternally pockets the dues and even goes so far as to refuse to give recognition to the most important and most serviceable of the several parts of the Troubadours.

The orchestra and the glee club get trips to display their budding histrionic abilities; the orchestra, in addition, is to receive a new cello; it is not denied music. But the Band is disowned. It buys its own music, pays for its own trips, and its members lose their membership fees without even receiving recognition or representation. Think it over, fellow students, and if you think this attempt of the Troubadours to "kick" the Band is worth a protest—then let yourselves be heard.

A Disinterested Spectator.

Bethel were the outstanding stars that year. At the close of the season he was elected captain for 1920. Last year Moore made All-South Atlantic and was mentioned for All-American.

Elected captain for the second time this year, the first time a captain has succeeded himself in the history of Washington and Lee. Throughout the season he has been the center of strength for the team and has caused comment from football authorities everywhere. Charlie Moran, coach at Centre College, says he is the greatest tackle he has ever seen and has placed him on his All-American team. Charlie Brickley, famous Harvard fullback, has also selected him as an All-American tackle. He closes his college football career at Washington and Lee with an enviable record.

GENERALS CLOSE 1921 SEASON SUCCESSFULLY

October 29 Washington and Lee Student Body took up temporary quarters in Lynchburg to watch the Generals beat V. P. I., their ancient rivals, through the medium of a field goal by Tom Bemis. The cadets were outrushed, outgeneraled, and outplayed and although the 3-0 result is not indicative of the true comparative strength of the two teams, yet it is satisfying, because it was a victory.

The following Saturday the dope was upset, when the Generals slumped, and bowed to the West Virginia Mountaineers 28-7. The team did not display its usual efficient team-work and frequent fumbles aided West Virginia's victory. The sole flash of real form came at the beginning of the final quarter when Thomas, while on the dead run, caught a beautiful 30 yard pass from Mattox and raced to a touchdown.

A week later Roanoke proved an easy victim for the Big Blue team, losing 41-0. The lighter team fought pluckily but secured but one first down. This was Capt. Moore's last home game, and he led his team in what was perhaps the best played game of the season.

And then came Centre! The Generals were beaten 35 points before they stepped upon the mud-soaked field at Louisville. The final result was 25-0 in favor of the Colonels, but in this game the Generals accomplished something that no other team has been able to do against Centre in recent year—they held the clan of "Bo" McMillin for downs, six times within the ten-yard zone. On one of these occasions the ball was two feet away from the line, and upon another it was a scant six inches away, when the last desperate charge of Red Roberts had failed.

The season was concluded in Baltimore on Thanksgiving afternoon when the Blue and White trampled the Black and Blue of Johns Hopkins to the tune of 7-0. It was a clean cut victory, and in thus defeating the champions of Maryland, the Generals in a great measure, atoned for the several previous adverse scores.

TROUBADOUR SHOW IS BEST STAGED

the locality under discussion.

Little can be said of the marvelous talents of the "Mystery Man" for it was requested that his identity remain unknown and the methods he used in displaying his incomprehensible powers be kept a secret as he is shortly to appear abroad before royalty. But it suffices to say that he amazed the audience by answering questions written on paper which he did not see simply by subordinating their wills to his.

When the "asbestos" next rose, Charlie Wright as Greasy and Jimmie Rountree as Greasette, two Apaches of gay Paree, stepped out and presented to view a dancing scene, the like of which has never been equalled in Lexington. The shapely Greasette of beauty unsurpassed was the cynosure of all eyes. Not the slightest of her movements or contortions as she danced around the stage in the arms of Greasy was missed by the eager audience. No doubt this act was appropriate for the occasion as it gave the numerous girls in the audience an insight into the latest steps.

The two one-act plays were admirably rendered. In the first one, "Box and Cox," the parts were taken by R. W. Terry, W. S. Foreman, and Newton Black. The action of the performance was never allowed to drag and the interest of the audience was kept up to a high point until the curtain fell. The other sketch executed by A. C. Bryan, F. M. McGinty, J. W. Ross, and H. E. Rietze, was an extremely interesting portrayal of a mix-up in identity and the many amusing scenes which result from it. J. W. Ross as the girl whom the play centers about made a very charming specimen of femininity.

In addition to these the famous L. T. Brown and Gifford, Inc., presented a very enjoyable dialogue, while O. H. Windhorst at the piano gave the audience a little "deep stuff."

Viewed as a whole and in detail the show was a complete success. It exhibited a remarkable display of campus talent and shows that we have in the Troubadours a great variety of actors who will make the winter and spring productions the best yet.

Character in Clothes

Those men who prize character in dress will find the new models especially interesting this season.

SOCIETY BRAND CLOTHES

Are the result of genius in designing, craftsmanship in the making, and character in the materials. They impart the keen joy of good apparel. If you have never worn such clothes try one of these suits.
