

Poet Sir Herbert Read Will Give Final Seminar In Literature on April 9

The distinguished British poet and critic Sir Herbert Read will present a reading from his own works in the fourth and final Washington and Lee Seminar in Literature on April 9.

Read's appearance here will highlight the annual western meeting of the Poetry Society of Virginia, to which W&L is playing host. Members of the Poetry Society will be treated to a luncheon in the new Commons, and other activities are planned for the visiting poets and scholars.

Read, who has been hailed by contemporaries as "one of the most important of living critics" and as "one of the most notably persuasive influences upon his age," is noted equally for his free verse and essays. He is particularly recognized as a leading art critic.

Born in 1893 on a Yorkshire farm, Read was educated at a Halifax boarding school and the University of Leeds. When his university studies were interrupted by the war, he served as captain of the Yorkshire Regiment for four years, receiving the D.S.O. and Military Cross.

After the war, he served briefly as an assistant at the Victoria and Albert Museum and as professor of fine arts at Edinburgh University. He has also been a lecturer at the University of Liverpool and at Trinity College, Cambridge, and he served as editor of Burlington Magazine for several years.

In recent years, Read has returned to his native Yorkshire, but he is still widely involved in literary and artistic activities. In 1953 he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth on her New Year's Honor List.

Among Read's literary works are several small volumes of free verse which have been gathered together in his Collected Poems, and a collection of essays entitled The Philosophy of Modern Art.

Dr. Marvin Perry, head of the W&L Department of English which sponsors the literary seminars, stated that Sir Herbert Read is "without a doubt one of the most distinguished of living critics, both in literature and in art criticism."

Read will be the last guest in the series of Seminars in Literature for the 1959-60 school year. The first two seminars of the year featured the British poet Stephen Spender and the literary critic Enid Starkey. The third in the seminar series will feature Dr. Louis D. Rubin, Jr., on Thursday, March 24. Rubin, a noted authority on southern literature, will speak on "The Two Worlds of Modern Southern Writing."

Free tickets to both of the coming seminars may be secured from the Department of English, 24 Payne Hall.

Last year's speakers included Maurice Coindreau, Freedom Bowers, and Katherine Ann Porter.

Cotillion Club Adds 18 Names

New members of the Cotillion Club include Harry Teter, Jr., and Gregory McNab, LXA; Steve Galef and Sam Hellman, ZBT; Rupert Johnson and John Vardaman, Sigma Nu; Tom Luthy and Charles Butler, DTD; Stephen Cherney and James Applebaum, PEP; Norman Frisbie and Robert Dunlap, Kappa Sig; Albert Pierce, Sigma Chi; George VanScriver and Paul Munyon, Phi Psi; Joe Inabett, Phi Gam; and Clint Anderson and Bill Mason, SPE.

Each year it is customary for each fraternity to appoint or elect two new members of the Cotillion Club. These members are invited to participate in the figure of Spring Dances.

Beta, DU, KA, Phi Delt, Pi Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, SAE, and Phi Kappa Sigma have not appointed members this year. Phi Gam and Sigma Chi has appointed only one. It is requested that these fraternities turn in the names of these students to Dick Ranc, 109 Baker Dormitory.

All of the new members as well as any old members who are interested in participating in the figure of Spring Dances should contact Rosie Page at the SAE house.

Troubs Begin New Production

Following the unqualified success of "The Taming of the Shrew," the Troubadours plan to present "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder.

The play will be presented May 10th through May 13 at the Troubadour Theater. Rehearsals will begin after Spring Vacation.

Troub Director Dr. Jack Lanich announced that tryouts will be held on March 22 and 23. The tryouts will be from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in duPont Hall on the 22nd and from 8:00 to 4:00 on the 23rd.

Dr. Lanich stated that the cast for this play is large and that everyone interested is encouraged to try out, regardless of experience.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" is an allegorical comedy of man's struggle for survival. It has been described as a kind of "cosmic variety show," for it spreads over five thousand years of man's history.

The play, which won author Wilder his third Pulitzer prize, was first produced in New York in 1942. Starring in the original cast were Tallulah Bankhead, Frederic March, and Florence Eldridge.

Wilder received his other Pulitzer Prizes for a novel, The Bridge of San Luis Rey, in 1927 and for another play, "Our Town," in 1935.

Sem Girl To Mimic Marilyn In Talent Show Sat. Night

Miss Judy Bryant, a student at Southern Seminary, will be one of the college division contestants in a talent show at the VMI field house Saturday night at 8 o'clock. She will present an impersonation of Marilyn Monroe with original dialogue. The show is being sponsored by the Lexington Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Louis B. Wright To Address Phi Beta Convocation April 12

Jackson Named Possible Choice As Favorite Son

The opening of a campaign for Senator Henry M. Jackson as favorite son candidate from Washington state was announced today by Larry Smell, chairman of the Washington delegation in the Mock Democratic National Convention.

Mr. Alan M. Corwin, PEP sophomore, was named to serve as campaign manager. The College Inn is to be the headquarters of the Jackson forces.

Following the Thursday meeting of state chairmen Smell spoke by phone with Senator Jackson's office in Washington, D. C. Although there has been no public statement by the Senator stating his candidacy, a member of his staff said that there had been indications of support for the Senator in letters received by Senator Jackson and in state's newspapers.

Senator Jackson is known as a leading western liberal in the Senate. Among his achievements is the successful management of the Alaskan statehood bill in the Senate.

Senator Jackson was elected in 1952 in opposition to the Eisenhower tide which swept the Pacific Northwest that year.

Corwin said that he planned to meet with Senator Jackson during the Spring Vacation. Strategy for the convention will be planned at that time. Corwin added that he welcomed any support from the student body.

Several other chairmen have indicated that they will present favorite son candidates, but were not ready to release any names at present.

William Funk Visits Here; Addresses Student Groups

On Monday and Tuesday of next week students will have the opportunity to hear and talk with Mr. William J. Funk, Field Worker from the Methodist Board of Missions.

Mr. Funk will speak briefly at the UCA meeting Monday night at 7, at the Wesley Foundation, and will be available for private interview or informal discussion in the afternoons. Appointments should be made in advance through Dr. Brown or Rev. Tom Weir, Methodist Chaplain.

Mr. Funk has had a variety of missionary experience, having served in Mexico as a missionary, held a post in a work camp for missionaries in Cuba and taught English for three years in a missionary school.

'History as a Cultural Bridge' Is Speech Topic

By ROSEWELL PAGE

Dr. Louis B. Wright noted author and historian, will deliver the address to the annual Phi Beta Kappa-Cincinnati Society Convocation on Tuesday April 12.

Dr. Wright, who is director of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington will speak at 12 noon in Lee Chapel on the topic: "History as a Cultural Bridge." Short classes will be in order that day, and all classes will end at 11:45 to enable students to attend the voluntary assembly.

The convocation coincides each year with the initiation of the men newly elected to Phi Beta Kappa. After Dr. Wright's talk at noon, 15 members will be initiated.

Dr. Wright received his A.B. from Wofford College in 1920, his M.A. from the University of North Carolina in 1924, and his Ph.D. from the same university in 1926.

A Native of Greenwood County, S. C., Dr. Wright has received to date some 16 honorary degrees, including an Litt.D. from Princeton in 1948, an Litt.D. from Yale in 1954 and an Litt.D. from Colby College in 1959.

After his tour of duty with the U.S. Army in 1918, and two years as a newspaper correspondent and editor, Dr. Wright opened his teaching career in the English department of the University of North Carolina.

During that six-year period, Dr. Wright was given leave to accept appointment as a Johnston Research Scholar at Johns Hopkins University. He was also a Guggenheim fellow in England, a visiting professor at Emory University and a visiting scholar at Huntington Library.

He then accepted a position as a member of the Permanent Research Group of Huntington Library where he served as Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships and member of the Executive Committee.

It was during this period that Dr. Wright published a number of his principle books. Some of his works include Middle Class Culture in Elizabethan England, The First Gentlemen of Virginia, The First Americans in North Africa, and The Atlantic Frontier: Colonial American Civilization; all of which appear on the various reading lists of the history and English departments at W&L.

Dr. Wright has been the author of some 50 or 60 short articles. He has been editor of the Huntington Library Quarterly, The Journal of the History of Ideas, The Pacific Spectator, and the William and Mary Quarterly.

He has edited a number of works concerning the colonial period of America and England and most especially Virginia. Dr. Wright's latest book is the "Cultural Life of" (Continued on page 4)

Delegations Are Announced By Convention Committee

The assignment of each student to a state delegation was announced last night at a meeting of the chairmen for the Mock Democratic National Convention to be held here on May 2 and 3.

The lists were passed out to each state chairman, and further copies of the assignments were to be displayed at each fraternity house, on the ODK board, in the Student Union building, and at various other conspicuous places on campus.

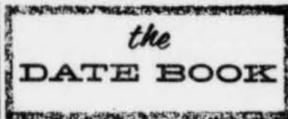

Bill Ling, of the Convention Steering Committee, pointed out last night that it will be the duty of each student to find out which delegation he has been assigned to, rather than the responsibility of the state chairman.

Each delegation head is expected to call an organizational meeting of his delegation sometime before Spring Vacation.

In many cases, student assignments were agreed upon before the list was drawn up. The primary purpose of the final assignment of students was to place those students who had not joined a state delegation.

The sizes of the smaller state delegations was made to correspond with actual representation in the national convention, but the larger states were cut down, due to the limited number of students available for the event.

Graduation invitations for seniors will be on sale in the Co-Op next Monday through Friday, March 21-25, at the following times Monday, 2-4; Tuesday, 9-11; Wednesday, 11-1; Thursday, 9-11; and Friday, 8:30-10.

Tickets for the SWMSFC musical are now on sale in the Co-Op. They are being sold on a first-come, first-serve basis.

There will be an important meeting of the Arkansas delegation at 5 p.m. Monday in the Student Union.

There will be a meeting of the Illinois delegation at 7:15 p.m. in the old dining room of the Dutch Inn.

"Musical Is Work" Say the Girls

By ROGER PAINE

Much has already been said about the SWMSFC musical written by Steve Danzansky called "The Cannon's Mouth." It is such a tremendous production that too much can never be said about it, but I would like to approach the entire play from a different angle. There is a great deal of personal self-sacrifice on the part of every member of the cast involved in this musical.

One thing which makes the sacrifice worthwhile is the fact that the musical is an excellent one, and it is being produced and directed entirely by the students as well as having been written by a student. There is no hint of an amateurish stage production during rehearsals—this musical has taken on from the very beginning the aspect of a professional effort.

The various characters who are giving up valuable study time to work on the musical have found their own reasons for doing so. Addie Kamke is undoubtedly the one girl of all those working on the play who has devoted more time and effort to it than anyone else. Addie comes over from Sweet Briar four nights a week to rehearse. Her grades, she says, are on the upswing. Said Addie last night at one of the most vigorous rehearsals to date: "Girls at the school keep saying,

'Have fun.' This is work—hard work, but the most wonderful thing I have discovered is the fun of working with a group of boys and seeing the side of them I don't see at parties—that sense of responsibility and en-

Spring Dances To Feature Paris, Lautrec and Moulin Rouge Theme

The theme of this year's Spring Dances will be centered around "Paris and the Moulin Rouge" it was announced yesterday by Harry Foltz, president of the dance set.

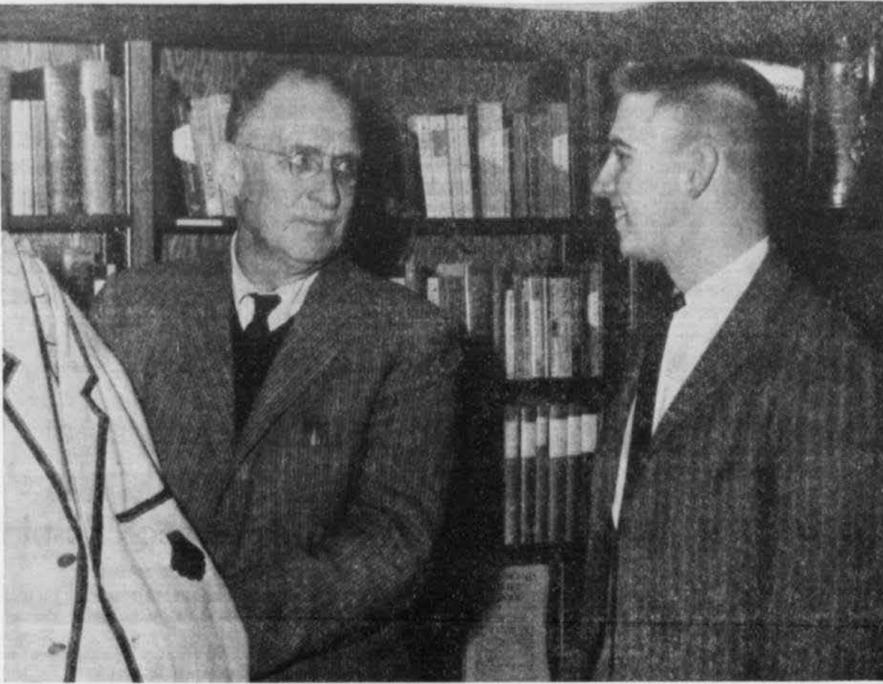

The traditional dance-concert will be staged in surroundings lived in by the works of Toulouse-Lautrec, 19th century French artist. Ed Ladd vice president in charge of decorations said that as has been the case in past dance sets the walls will be decorated with murals furthering the theme.

Most of the murals this year will be reproductions of lithographs made by Toulouse-Lautrec while being entertained at the Moulin Rouge. The lithographs will also depict some of the more famous scenes of Paris.

In addition to the side wall scenes, there will be a reconstruction of the actual Moulin Rouge at one end of the gymnasium and at the other end a sidewalk cafe will be set up. The side walk cafe will be the faculty section this year and the band will be in the Moulin Rouge scene.

Ladd said, "The board is going to make an all out effort to make this year's Spring Dances one of the best ever and as authentic as possible."

The set will be on the 8th and 9th of April and will feature the band of Claude Thornhill for the Friday night formal dance from 9 until 1. Saturday night's activities will consist of the traditional concert which will be given this year by popular recording star Joni James. The concert will be in conventional dress and will be from 8 to 10 p.m.

Rhodes Scholar Jon B. McLin Prepares for New Experience

By FRANK PARSONS

From Earle High School in Arkansas to Oxford University in England is a big jump, but Senior Jon McLin is going to make it in two hops.

The first leg of his journey brought him to Washington and Lee four years ago on a General Motors National Scholarship. The second will take him to England next September on a coveted Rhodes Scholarship.

The seventh W&L man to win a Rhodes Scholarship since they were inaugurated in 1904, McLin is a quiet-spoken young man of 21 whose classroom and extracurricular feats have won him the respect and admiration of students and faculty alike.

He will graduate third in his class in June, receiving his Bachelor of Science degree summa cum laude. Although his difficult physics major required long hours of laboratory work and study, he still has found time to edit The Ring-tum Phi, be a member of the Executive Committee, and serve as a senior class president. He is currently a member of the steering committee for the Democratic Mock Convention

His academic work won him membership in Phi Beta Kappa and his leadership abilities resulted in election to Omicron Delta Kappa, both honors coming in his junior year.

At Oxford, McLin will "read" physics, the English term for study in a particular field. He will be one of some 300 students at Wadham College, one of 36 colleges at the ancient university, whose total enrollment is approximately 8,200.

McLin's special interest is nuclear physics, and he will be working toward an Oxford B.A. degree in this field. At the completion of his two year's work, he will take a series of examinations to qualify for the prized degree.

In the meanwhile, he will be mostly on his own. Under Oxford's famed tutorial system, he will not be required to attend regular class lectures, but there will be long hours of supervised laboratory work.

The Oxford school year is broken down into three terms of approximately eight weeks each, separated by six weeks of vacation at Christmas and Easter. And there are four months of vacation in the summer.

McLin says he will be expected to "travel" during these vacation periods as part of his educational program at Oxford. He hopes to spend his summer in Germany, the other vacations traveling in England and Scotland.

During his first year, McLin will live in Wadham's dormitories, according to university regulations, but for his second year he will be permitted to live out in "digs" or private student apartments in the Oxford community.

"I'm going to be pretty much on my own in every respect," he points out. "It will be an entirely new emphasis on my responsibility for doing work on time. And much of it will have to be done during vacation."

Since his selection as a Rhodes scholar in December, McLin says he has spent hours reading about Oxford and its many traditions. He expects to find study and life there vastly different from anything he has known in high school or at Washington and Lee. But he is confident that he can meet any challenge.

McLin earned his Rhodes scholarship through rugged nationwide competition that eliminated all but 32 of the best-qualified young men in America. In order to win the scholarship, he first had to receive the unqualified endorsement of the Washington and Lee faculty, then submit a 1,000-word statement of "general attitudes, intellectual interests, and proposed line of study at Oxford."

On Newspapers, Life Magazine, And Sociology

by hugo hoogenboom

It was interesting to see, in last week's Friday Edition of the Ring-tum Phi, that Life is sponsoring a locally written column with the obvious intention of making more college students buy Life than now do. That they feel this necessary is one of the few indications that the college student is more intelligent than most give him credit for being. It brings to mind the old saw (I don't know who first said it) that Life is the magazine for people who can't read and Time is the magazine for people who can't think.

Lately one of the television stations has been carrying advertisements for the Roanoke papers offering a large wall world map "to assist you in keeping track of current events." This is an excellent idea, and would lead you to believe that the disseminators of news in Roanoke are concerned over public ignorance of national and world events. This is not true. The Roanoke Times, a morning newspaper, carries primarily local and state news on the front page. Murder trials, Caryl Chessman and other sensational stories also make the front page. World news is inside, usually on page two, and gets almost half a page. The rest of the paper is devoted to the insane goings-on of the Roanoke City Council and other such trivia. The afternoon paper is owned by the same people and is presumably the same. The two television stations are even worse. Channel Seven offers one national news

A Disappointing Tourney

It was with regret this past week that we noted the disappointing fate of the intramural wrestling tournament, annually one of the high spots of the year in intramural sports.

Many of the participants apparently failed to meet the qualifications for the event, with the result that only a relatively few competitors remained in the tournament by the time it got underway.

Why there were so many disqualifications seems to be a combination of ignorance of the regulations and apathy on the part of the participants. At any rate, the result was a considerable decrease in interest and enthusiasm for intramural wrestling.

As a suggestion for the prevention of such occurrences in the future, may we urge the intramural department, and intramural managers as well to make clear the stipulations for entry as well as pursuing a more active plan of encouraging wrestlers to fulfill the requirements for participation. Washington and Lee has long been considered a strongly wrestling-conscious school, and it seems unfortunate that this interest should be sacrificed because of a few technicalities.

An Athletic Crisis

The time is rapidly approaching when the University must make a decision whether to stay in the ACC and make an effort to field representative teams. Withdrawal from the conference might well be the first step in total de-emphasis, something a large faction at the University would like very much to bring about.

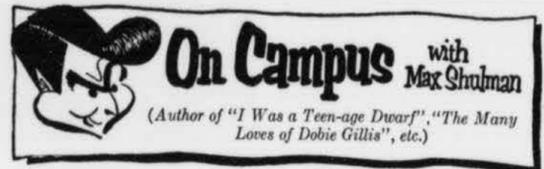

If Virginia is to have a chance to compete on near-equal terms, the athletic program must be aided by financial help from the University. The Student Aid Foundation cannot carry the entire burden. Better athletic facilities are needed. That is why a drive was launched for a field house even though it was 10 years late.

If alumni and friends of the University are to continue to contribute their support to the grant-in-aid program they should be assured that the University's administration itself, from the President down, wants and recognizes the value of a sound varsity athletic program.

We have always felt that Virginia, with its high academic standards needs better supervision over its scholarship athletes. Other schools in the ACC have resorted to full-time recruiters who are responsible for guiding the athletes in every phase of University life. It is particularly vital to have better supervision over first-year athletes. Too many have been lost because they were never really instructed on how they should act, not only as athletes, but as students.

The construction of a field house along with leadership in athletic department is also vital toward selling Virginia to athletes in its own state. While there are undoubtedly many Virginia high school athletes who can't measure up to the admission requirements here, there are others who have never really been sold on the University.

Virginia with the proper leadership can compete in the Atlantic Coast Conference and we firmly believe it can be done without lowering the academic standards one bit. But it will never be done unless leaders, from the president on down really want to see the University compete on a major level in athletics.

"AN EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES"

Twinkly, lovable old Dr. Wagstaff Sigafoos, head of chemistry at the Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry, cares naught for glory and wealth. All he cares about is to work in his laboratory, to play Mozart quartets with a few cronies, to smoke a good Marlboro, and to throw sticks for his faithful dog Trey to fetch.

So when, after years of patient research, Dr. Sigafoos discovered Reverso, a shaving cream which causes whiskers to grow inward instead of outward, thus enabling a man to bite off his beard instead of shaving it, it never even crossed his mind that he had come upon a key to fame and riches; he simply assigned all his royalties from Reverso to the college and went on with his quiet life of working in the laboratory, playing Mozart quartets, smoking good Marlboros and throwing sticks for his faithful dog Trey. (Trey, incidentally, had died some years earlier but habit is a strong thing and Dr. Sigafoos to this day continues to throw sticks.)

As everyone knows, Reverso turned out to be a madly successful shaving cream. Royalties in the first month amounted to $290,000, which came in mighty handy, believe you me, because the college had long been postponing some urgently needed repairs—a lightning rod for the men's dormitory, new hoops for the basketball court, leather patches for the chess team's elbows and a penwiper for the Director of Admissions.

In the second month royalties amounted to an even million dollars and the college bought Marlboro cigarettes for all students and faculty members. It is interesting that the college chose Marlboro cigarettes though they could well have afforded more expensive brands. The reason is simply this: you can pay more for a cigarette but you can't get a better flavor, a better smoke. If you think flavor went out when filters came in, try a Marlboro. The filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. You, too, can smoke like a millionaire at a cost which does no violence to the slimmest of budgets. Marlboros come in soft pack or flip-top box and can be found at any tobacco counter. Millionaires can be found on yachts.

But I digress. We were speaking of the royalties from Reverso which continue to accrue at an astonishing rate—now in excess of one million dollars per week. The college is doing all it can to spend the money; the student-faculty ratio which used to be thirty students to one teacher is now thirty teachers to one student; the Gulf Stream has been purchased for the Department of Marine Biology; the Dean of Women has been gold-plated.

But money does not buy happiness, especially in the college world. Poverty and ivy—that is the academic life—not power and pelf. The Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry is frankly embarrassed by all this wealth, but I am pleased to report that the trustees are not taking their calamity lying down. Last week they earmarked all royalties for a crash research program headed by Dr. Wagstaff Sigafoos to develop a whisker which is resistant to Reverso. Let us all join in wishing the old gentleman success.

SAEs Lead I-M Contests, Spring Sports Start Soon

The intramural wrestling tournament began yesterday with a little over 50 entries from all the fraternities. The semifinal matches were held last night, and the finals in most events will be tonight. However, in the heavier classes, 177, 191, and heavyweight, the matches may continue on into next week.

One thing that was noticed, however, by the managers of the intramural activities was the lack of entries this year in comparison with last year's tournament.

Most of the difficulty was in the failure of the participants to complete their required number of practices. Pete Merrill, student intramural manager, expressed disappointment at the results of this year's wrestling tournament.

The handball tournament was won by the Phi Psi's with little competition from any of the houses.

The final volleyball playoffs will be held next Monday and Tuesday nights. On Monday, the Phi Gam's will play the Delta's at 7:15 in the gym. On Tuesday night, the winner of Monday night's game will play the Phi Psi's for the first place title. The winner of the game will go to the State Intramural Volleyball tournament which will be held sometime later this month or at the first of next month.

Weather Causes 3 Cancellations

Athletic director Cy Twombly has announced that because of the snow and bad weather conditions and the poor conditions prevailing on the athletic fields the department has been forced to cancel most of the home schedule to be played before spring vacation.

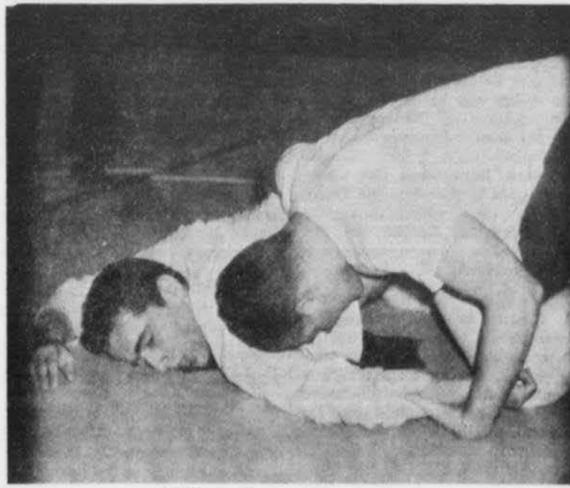

The only exception will be the track meet scheduled with High Point College for Wednesday afternoon. If the outdoor track is not cleared of snow and dry by that time, the meet will be held on the indoor track at VMI.

The golf match and the baseball game scheduled with Dartmouth College and the lacrosse game with Williams have been cancelled and will not be rescheduled.

Due to the cancellations the baseball team will not play its opener until March 26 when the team faces Elon College. On the same day the lacrosse team will travel to Baltimore to play Loyola College.

The golf team will not play its first match until the opening round of the Greenbrier tournament. In this tournament W&L will host seven other college teams including Colgate, U.Va., West Va. Univ., George Washington, Davidson, Ohio University and Dennison.

The tennis team which has had no practice as yet this season is not scheduled to open the season until April 1 when it faces Colgate.

I-M wrestlers grunt and groan.

Diamondmen Open Against Elon, Play in Marine Tournament

Because of the cancellation of the Dartmouth game originally scheduled for March 22, the W&L baseball squad will not get into action until March 26 when they face Elon College at Elon.

The Elon game will be the opener of what should be an active spring vacation for the baseballers. Following the Elon game the team will travel directly to Parris Island, South Carolina, where it will face Cornell University, Springfield College, and the Parris Island Marines in the annual Marine tournament. In past years W&L has done well in the tournament and it has provided the team with a chance to get some early season experience against good competition.

Following the tournament the Generals will wind up the spring tour by facing East Carolina College on April 1 and Norfolk W&M in a double-header April 2.

Although greatly hampered by the weather, Coach Joe Lyles feels that the team is beginning to shape up well. However, he is concerned over the hitting situation as the team has had virtually no batting practice. Lyles is pleased with the early appearances of pitchers Roy Carpenter and Phil Sharp and feels that they should be ready to go on the mound.

As a tentative line-up, Lyles named Jim Russ as catcher; Park Gilmore, second base; Ned Hobbs, short stop; Chuck Lane, third base; Bob Williams, left field; Robin Wood, center field; and Cal Couch, right field. Rosy Page and John Amos will be used as relief pitchers. The first base position is still open.

Stickmen Begin 13th Year, Have Fine Record at W&L

When Washington and Lee's lacrosse team takes the field against Loyola College of Baltimore on March 26, it will mark the thirteenth consecutive year that this university has fielded a lacrosse team.

In 1947 Washington and Lee's first lacrosse team compiled a respectable 5-2 record. Such teams as Penn State and the University of Virginia bowed to the W&L novices. That year the Generals defeated the Wahos twice. The 5-2 record established in that first year was held up as one of the best season's marks yet formed by the stickmen.

Perennial powerhouses in this sport including Maryland, Johns Hopkins, and Hofstra have been on the Generals schedule each season since the inaugural one. In the past few years W&L has played one of the roughest lacrosse schedules in the country.

With scheduling such as this it was not until 1955 that the Blue and White again had a winning season. That year the Generals turned in a fine 6-2-1 record, downing the powerful squads of the Maryland Lacrosse Club and the University of Baltimore.

In 1957 the W&L lacrosse team had its first All-American, goalie Jimmy Lewis. That year, sparked by the great play of Lewis, the team again had a winning record with a 7-6 mark.

In 1958 with the nation's best goalie in Jim Lewis the team was only able to compile a 5-6 season's mark. However, the stickmen had the satisfaction of beating Virginia for the first time in five years. W&L has not been able to defeat the Wahos in lacrosse again since that date.

Last year's season again held another first for W&L lacrosse history. The Generals upset Hofstra, 7-6, for their first win against that school since 1947.

Last year another milestone was made in W&L lacrosse. A team composed of players from the University of Virginia and Washington and Lee toured Australia while playing the best teams of that country. The team was coached by W&L's Bob McHenry and Gene Corrigan of U.Va. Corrigan was McHenry's predecessor as lacrosse coach at W&L.

While on the Australian tour the members from Washington and Lee's team gained much valuable experience. Coach McHenry is hoping that this "summer of extended road work" will pay off in the coming season. Once again the W&L team will face an extremely tough schedule including Johns Hopkins and Maryland, ranked one and two in the nation respectively.

Although the quality of this year's team is as yet unknown, it appears

More on News; 'Little Knives'

(Continued from page 2) broadcast a day. Channel Ten used to, but cut it out. The rest of the broadcasts are devoted to film clips of the latest meeting of the octogenarian society and other important stories.

No one says that trivia shouldn't be reported, but surely the "Star City" deserves better news than it is getting now. Because of the poor work of the local news media, those interested in finding out what's going on in the rest of the world are left to the tender mercies of the Washington Post, whose reporting is generally extremely biased in one way or another. The world does not begin and end (thank God) with Roanoke and the "Mountain Empire."

I am following with great interest the most recent expose of veil at Washington and Lee, the story of the "little knives." I am afraid that too much is being made of them, however. In any social group those who do not conform are usually ridiculed until they conform or leave. Imagine, for instance, admitting in an intellectual group that one liked television, Rachmaninov or Nixon. The nastiness of the "little knives" would pale next to the scorn prompted by such an admission. In other words those carryings-on are not peculiar to fraternity life at W&L.

Last year, when "A Grain of Salt" was written under a pseudonym, I thought that it was the result of an imperfectly digested Ancient History course, and that it was written by the re-incarnation of Madame Blavatsky, Mrs. Annie Besant, or some other leading theosophist. This year the imperfectly digested course seems to be Sociology, and of course we know who the author is.

Stewart Arrangement Excellent

Snow has kept rehearsals from taking place as scheduled, and the cast is now behind in its work. This is placing an added burden on all of the girls in particular. Both Jeanne Egolf and Chris Christie were having to work especially hard last night to make up for the three weeks of rehearsals they both have missed due to Wednesday night snows over the past month.

All-American Candidates

Has Many Activities

In addition to his literary achievements, Dr. Wright has found time to accept various fellowships and has served on a number of professional bodies, including the Modern Language Association of America, the American Historical Association, the Phi Beta Kappa Senate and a member of the editorial board of the History Book Club.

He is also a member of various foundations, museum boards, and library boards or committees. Since 1948, he has served as the director of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D. C.

The cast is now beginning to coordinate, however, and the ensemble which will be playing in accompaniment to the musical is playing with each scene to try to determine what effect can be achieved. Next week the whole company will move into the Troubadour Theatre where combination producer, assistant director, and art director Tim Morton will have things ready to roll.

The musical arrangement done by Mr. Stewart belongs on Broadway rather than the Troubadour Theatre, and the ensemble itself sounds very impressive. It consists of: Mel Marvin on piano, Alan Stubbs on drums, Pete Lynn on the violin, Harry Levine on bass, Bill Lowry and Howard Zimmerman on clarinets, Barry Epperson on the sax, Sandy Smith and Gene Johnson on trumpets, Gene O'Dell on the trombone, and John Turner on the French horn. Said Mr. Stewart in regard to the musical, "It's refreshing to know that something really creative is going on among the students here on campus."

Scenes are done basically on the usual method by which a musical is run. There is dialogue and singing intermixed, with some solos and some group singing. Bill Young, playing the part of the presidential hopeful Henry Clay Adams, is alone worth the price of admission to go to see.

Talks with Committees; Sails for England in Sept.

McLin now looks forward to the September sailing for England aboard the Queen Elizabeth. Aboard with him will be the other 31 Rhodes Scholars for 1960. Once at Oxford they will be spread among the university's many colleges, surrounded for the most part by Englishmen.

Truman Visit Unconfirmed

General plans for the various phases of the convention were outlined last night, and the responsibility of the delegations was reviewed.

Each member of the student body will be assessed a small fee, through his state delegation, to help support the convention. In addition, some states are planning separate assessments among their respective delegations to help defray expenses of the particular delegation.

No word of confirmation had been received from former President Harry S. Truman at press time today, but convention officials are hopeful of receiving word from Mr. Truman before Spring Vacation.

Harvey Allen Looks at

Is the day coming when there'll be no new flicks at the State and Lyric? No one expects the Screen Actor's Guild strike to last that long, but if it did run long enough, that's a possible outcome. Going to a flick would be like a nightmare continuation of the late show and the late late show!

This week's LIFE gives an inside look at just the moment when the strike hit. It caught Liz Taylor in nothing but a sheet. She was in the midst of a bedroom scene for her new picture "Butterfield 8."

For the big companies, it looks like the end. At least one man at Paramount, not to be confused with Bob Chipley's place and Happy hour, has a job, no matter how long the strike goes on. He's Dick Webb, who has the backbreaking job of keeping the Paramount indoor lawn green, of all things.

The Dark Continent

If the religion department around here thinks they have a problem getting profound thoughts across at 8:25, "sunrise service" classes, a look at LIFE's report on Billy Graham's African crusade on the dark continent might be encouraging.

A couple of things they don't have to cope with are the chance of being rained out and translation. Although it was the rainy season, Graham lucked out with only one rally being rained out.

They might look into local angles, as did Billy Graham. He used 19,565-foot Mount Kilimanjaro to emphasize the power of God.

Groans and Sweat

Freshmen and sophomores in Coach Miller and Lord's classes will find possible comfort in seeing some of the old pros going through the daily dozen. We're speaking of individuals like Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst, who are groaning and sweating to get in shape for spring.

Some of us, as entering freshmen, were in pretty lousy shape, but none quite so bad as Red Schoendienst. When he started working out he could only do one push-up. Now, after six weeks, he's up to 29. That's no great feat, but it may be comforting to know that some of us beating a path to the gym three times a week do have company.

With spring vacation fortunately drawing near, it means time to travel to far away places, not usually home. LIFE might be taken as suggesting, as an ideal place to go that is unusual and surprising, none other than New Zealand.

Granted not many will have the funds or unlimited cuts to do it, but it's worth at least looking at what's in store for one making the trip.

Big Trout

Among other things, New Zealand is a land of wide open spaces and mountains. For the student who's already been to Florida, Nassau, and Bermuda, there's another beach or two awaiting him, down under. And, if there're any fishermen about, a medium-sized New Zealand rainbow trout weighs a scant 13 pounds!

For The Speelunkers there's a variation on the cave theme. Down there it's grottos in glaciers that people like to wander through, map and poke at the walls of.

At last it's getting out to the world, in print. We mean the fact that deb parties can be such a real drag, and a downright chore. Some people are almost glad to return to school in January just to get back so they can rest and recuperate from the big whirl.

Debutante Debauch

LIFE explores various aspects of the rounds in "Living It Up on the Debutante Circuit." Such skills as handling three glasses of champagne without spilling a drop are mentioned as one of the true achievements of a seasoned and well-trained escort.

And you've never seen a receiving line like that at the International Debutante Ball. Some girls even pull up stakes completely, in such places as Washington, D. C., and haul up to New York, just to be a part of the season! Is this really necessary?

If you want to really throw an elaborate buffet, in recent years, in the New York area, try having your little party on a ship, like a German consul general did, aboard the liner Bremen.

Some of the parties even turn out like the horror shows seen recently in most fraternity houses due to the snowed in weekends. We're advised that these are less than rarely broken up, the deb party horror shows we mean, because the social secretaries are fearful of a revolt on the part of the escorts. A revolt to such things as going off to shoot craps.

Our problems of financing a weekend at Randolph-Macon, Hollins, or Sweet Briar seems pretty small, considering you can't throw a halfway decent deb party for less than $3,000!

Wee William

Then there's "Wee" William Walker, the 53-year-old grandfather who hasn't really waited for a change to go back to school. It came to him. Instead of accepting the job opportunities to further educate himself, he now makes it 65 miles by bus to the Western Carolina College for classes, lasting from 1:30 until 9:00 p.m. Thirty to forty hours of the rest of the week is spent studying. This makes our efforts look pretty sick, particularly when you consider that it's going to take him about six years to get the bachelor's sheepskin.

Just for example, how'd you like a 2 1/2 hour English class? Of course, he only carries three courses each term, but still receives less credit than a regular student would for the same amount of effort.

Wonder if cuts are a problem with him? Probably not. Even if he has unlimiteds, a rare distinction around here, he's just the kind of guy who wouldn't use them.
