Miller First, Kinney Second In Current Events Contest

By PETE HOLLER

William Miller of Norfolk Catholic High School, Norfolk, Va., won yesterday's S.I.P.A. current events contest with a score of 64 points out of 100.

Second place went to Richard Kinney, Annandale High School, Annandale, Va., who scored 61 points. Rebecca Fox, of J. E. B. Stuart High School, Falls Church, Va., captured the third place award with 56 points. Fourth place honors went to two delegates with 54 points; Thomas Tokartz, Douglas S. Freeman High School, Richmond, Va., and Tom Bell of Lee High School, in Staunton, Va. Blair Gardner of Patrick Henry High, Ashland, Va., won fifth place with a 53 tally. And sixth place was won by Pat Kenig of Greenville Senior High, Greenville, S. C., with 52 points.

About 70 delegates reported to Reid Hall Friday afternoon where Pete Holler and Linwood Davis administered the test. Among the answers given on the test were:

"Mass in F Minor" (Electric Prunes hit); "Musical combo at Archbishop's funeral;" and "term used in physics."

Moshe Dayan (Israeli Defense Minister); "New leader of Republic of Congo."

Mexico City (Site of 1968 Olympics); "State or city where boys go sometimes to get out of the draft," and "known for quicky divorces, moreso than Reno."

F-111-A (New U.S. fighter); "Drafting class enabling collegians except those in special fields to be drafted."

Dick Gregory (Negro Comic); "Pop singer of 'Hollies' group."

Bump Ball (New teenage game); "Type of narcotic used to stay awake."

Victor Mlambo (African terrorist executed in Rhodesia); "Picked up in South America as Nazi war criminal."

Most Reverend Terrence J. Cooke (New Archbishop of New York); "Wanted students to burn draft cards."

Charles Evers (Defeated candidate in Mississippi); "Invented new method of deflecting positronic beams."

DNA (Recently synthesized genetic compound); Regulars of North Viet Nam's Army."

Distinguished Service Awards Presented To Advisers, Judge

By ANDY LUPTON

Prof. O. W. Riegel presented three Distinguished Service Awards at the 39th annual SIPA Awards Luncheon today. The tradition of awarding advisers and other outstanding journalists certificates was initiated in 1954 but was discontinued in 1963. Many outstanding names are on the permanent plaques and include several persons still active in scholastic journalism and in SIPA. The keynote speaker, Charles R. McDowell, Jr. was awarded a Distinguished Service Award as was Charles E. Savedge, one of this year's judges.

In awarding Mrs. Ruby Lee Norris one of this year's certificates Prof. Riegel cited her as "a symbol of the enormous usefulness of the dedicated Virginia teacher who extends her influence beyond the classroom and, through her interest and skill in scholastic publishing, becomes a warm friend and wise counsellor of our young people." Mrs. Norris was graduated from Mary Washington College and has taught English at several Virginia high schools. While at John Marshall High School she was the adviser to the Marshallite and when at George Wythe High School she was adviser to The Chancellor. Under her guidance The Chancellor won the top awards given by all of the major press associations.

In addition she has helped with SIPA throughout her career both as a judge and as a member of the Executive Council.

The second Distinguished Service Award was presented to Cecile R. Goodall. In making the presentation Prof. Riegel cited her for her outstanding service to high schools in Kanawha County, West Virginia. Not only is she an outstanding teacher but she also has served as a "perceptive critic of yearbooks for the Southern Interscholastic Press Association." Prof. Riegel ended by citing her "as a progressive force and contributor to the civic life of her community and state."

The final Distinguished Service Award went to Abe D. Jones, Jr. Mr. Jones is a member of the editorial staff of the Greensboro News-Record. Mr. Jones graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1951 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in that year. He is a member of the North Carolina Editorial Writers' Conference, and he chaired the conference in 1963. He also is a member of the National Conference of Editorial Writers. Professor Riegel cited him for his help in organizing and running the Southern Interscholastic Press Association.

SIPA presents the Distinguished Service Award as an attempt to recognize the unselfish efforts of the many advisers to scholastic newspapers and yearbooks. The efforts of these individuals are largely extracurricular, but through their guidance they not only bring honor to their school but they start many young journalists off on the right foot. Not all those who deserve awards are recognized, but these three awards are symbolic of the appreciation of the Southern Interscholastic Press Association to all of those who have worked so hard over the years for the Association and for their respective schools.

'Commentator' Three Others Win Trophies

The Commentator of Douglas Southall Freeman High School (Richmond, Va.), The Blue and Gray of Statesville (N.C.) Senior High School, High Notes of Hartsville (S.C.) High School, and The Owl of Big Creek High School, War, W. Va. were named state press trophy winners at today's 39th annual SIPA awards luncheon.

High Notes also took top honors in its newspaper category, schools with an enrollment of 601 to 900. The Commentator was in the First Place Award grouping of schools with an enrollment exceeding 1500. The Blue and Gray and The Owl were both in the Honor Award group in schools with an enrollment of 601 to 900.

In winning the Virginia Press Association's 20th annual award The Commentator was cited "for its wide range and balance of coverage; for its leadership and depth of thought of its editorials; for its journalistic excellence in layout, headlines and writing; and for its effective advertising presentation..."

The Blue and Gray, winning the 18th annual Winston-Salem Journal and Twin-City Sentinel award was cited for "its enthusiastic support of the school's programs; its promotion of a good relationship between the school and the community; for its excellent photography; and for its effective program of advertising sales and display..."

The South Carolina Scholastic Press Award presented by the Greenville News-Piedmont for the 9th time in

Tobin Proposes TV Programming Provide Front-Page Type Service

Richard L. Tobin, managing editor of the "Saturday Review," proposed television programming to correspond to the front page service of the newspaper in a speech at Lee Chapel today.

Tobin said American newspaper memory of David A. Tillinghast cited High Notes for its leadership in school life, for its high quality editorials, and for excellence in makeup, content and writing.

In winning the 12th annual West Virginia Scholastic Press Award of the Charleston Press Club The Owl was cited "for its acceptance of its vital role of keeping the student body and faculty informed of school activities; for its well-balanced coverage of a wide variety of subjects; and for its successful business operation..."

Statesville High School not only had the winning newspaper in The Blue and Gray but also won the group IV yearbook class with its publication Trial.

Last year five Richmond area schools won group titles, but this year the judges awarded no more than one title to any one locality. Representatives from North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Washington, D.C., and Virginia all won group titles.

front pages have educated the ordinary American. He would set aside prime time for programming toward the same goal by networks.

Whether from 6 to 8 or 7 to 9 p.m., networks could offer public service programming, the day's headlines, in-depth articles, top level government reports, spot pick-ups, reading of the classics, fundamentals of English and other languages.

"Such a public adult educational service would encourage a great advance in this country," said Tobin. This would be on a "higher level than the PBL regarding production because of the resources and talents available to the networks."

Richard L. Tobin, author, newspaperman, and commentator, concluded two days of speeches, short courses, and criticism clinics for SIPA delegates in a speech at Lee Chapel today.

Tobin served for more than 26 years as a reporter and assistant city editor for the New York "Herald Tribune." In addition he would write editorials and deliver news broadcasts.

His father was an editor of newspapers, magazines and books for more than 50 years. Tobin's first job was on his father's paper in Niles, Michigan. He was managing editor of the University of Michigan daily newspaper.

Following service on the "Herald Tribune" Tobin was News Director for ABC. As Director of Public Affairs for the "Tribune" he ran its Forum on Current Issues. From 1940 to 1952 he lectured at Columbia University's Pulitzer School of Journalism.

In 1955 he served as Public Relations Director for the National Citizens for Eisenhower. In 1959 he was similarly involved with the Nixon campaign.

In 1960 he became a communications editor for the "Saturday Review." In 1961 he became the managing editor. He is an author of books and articles for national publications and syndicates and has lectured in every state in the continental United States.

McDowell Says Racial Problems Will Take A Political Solution

By DON HUSAT

Charles R. McDowell, Jr., Washington correspondent for the Richmond "Times-Dispatch and syndicated columnist, said yesterday that the ultimate solution to the racial problems in this country will be found in the political system. Speaking before delegates to the 39th annual Southern Interscholastic Press Association convention, McDowell made reference to the death of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., saying that his death "has more tragic dimensions than have yet been realized." He said the former Nobel Peace Prize Winner was an apostle of non-violence, holding desperately "to control the potential chaos of the irresponsible."

Charles R. McDowell, Jr.

McDowell said that for the present time, he would be willing to settle for remembering the incredible things Martin Luther King did for his people, and the ideals for which he stood. "For those who don't agree with King's goals, he said, "we can try to imagine what he meant to his people."

Referring to the civil rights movement in general the 1948 Washington and Lee graduate said there has been great progress made since 1954, with two qualifications: the criminal or irresponsible fool that can set back all the progress that has been made; and secondly, the great danger of retribution that follows urban riots.

Concerning the 1968 Presidential race, McDowell said the main issues will be Viet Nam and the racial issue. Viet Nam is perhaps the more im-

Gomez Elected New SIPA President

Dennis Gomez won the election for president of SIPA with a 127-vote margin over Gary Salyers.

Gomez wound up with 195 votes and Salyers 68. They were followed by John Crow with 28, Doug Sessoms with 12, and Thomas Miller with 8.

Gomez is from Floyd E. Kellam High School in Virginia Beach. Salyers is from Bristol, Va., where he attends Virginia High School. John Crow is editor of two publications at Rock Hill High School, Rock Hill, S. C. Doug Sessoms is from Kings Mountain, N. C. Tom Miller is from Chapel Hill, N. C.

Dennis Gomez, Floyd E. Kellam High School in Virginia Beach, is copy editor of his school's yearbook, "Challenger," and has won numerous awards for public speaking. He is a photographer for the Virginia Beach papers and the school newspaper and annual.

Gary Carter Salyers of Virginia High School in Bristol, Va., has been a member of Virginia High's Student Cooperative Association Council and its Honor Council. He has worked as sports editor and business manager for the newspaper, "Little Virginian," and has lettered in three sports.

John Crow is an editor of two publications of Rock Hill High School in Rock Hill, S. C. He is sports editor of the annual, "Bearcat," and editorial editor of the newspaper, "Garnet and Black."

'Recall' Takes Gilliam Award

The Augusta Military Academy "Recall" won the second Frank J. Gilliam Award for the outstanding yearbook of SIPA.

The special judging committee cited the "Recall" for sound application of yearbook fundamentals in layout and copy and for outstanding creative photography.

The judges again this year were Dr. Regis L. Boyle of Catholic University and Walt Whitman High School in Bethesda, Md.; Mrs. Cecile Goodall of Charleston, W. Va. and Mrs. Ruby L. Norris of Richmond, Va.

The trophy accompanying this recognition was given anonymously in the name of Dean Emeritus F. J. Gilliam of Washington and Lee.

The committee decided among the trophy winners and the "Torch" of Collegiate Schools, Richmond, the trophy winner of the past two years in the private schools category and ineligible for an award this year.

The "Recall" was chosen the top yearbook in the country at Columbia, winning the S. K. Smith Book Covers Company Award. This award is a full four year scholarship for a student at the winning school.

Col. Charles E. Savedge is the "Recall's" adviser. He has been a judge and lecturer at SIPA this year.

For the second year in a row the "Orator" of Henry Grady High School in Atlanta was the runner-up.

Last year, an anonymous donor requested a trophy be named for Washington and Lee University's Dean Emeritus Frank J. Gilliam. The trophy is unusual in that it can be given to any yearbook entered in the judging of SIPA. In previous years, any yearbook which had won the trophy in its classification for two years was ineligible for the trophy in the third competition. In the addition of the Gilliam trophy it is eligible for at least that trophy.

The first school to win the award was Douglas S. Freeman High School of Richmond. The award is named in honor of Dean Gilliam.

The "Recall" also won the trophy in the Private School Yearbook category. There are fifteen other yearbooks in this category. Augusta Military Academy has an enrollment of 237 this year. There are eight delegates to SIPA from AMA: Jackson Prentice, Ron Ginns, Charles Pascale, Steve Fox, Larry Reed, Frank Ibanez and David Kirkpatrick.

Judges Too Are Human, Suffer Mixed Emotions

By COL. CHARLES E. SAVEDGE,

(The role of the SIPA judge as seen by Col. Charles E. Savelge, yearbook judge and adviser to the Augusta Military Academy "Recall" is used here as an introduction to a judge's eye-view of SIPA.—Ed.)

Too often when 9:20 rolls around on Saturday mornings at SIPA, judges for the "contests" end up feeling as if they are a breed apart from the rest of mankind. But judges are human. And this means that they suffer when they have to give low grades just as teachers do when their students fail to live up to the mark.

SIPA sets guidelines for judges and each judge works on grading yearbooks according to these guidelines. Frequently, judges spend as much as five hours in going over each book, taking notes, analyzing, commenting, drawing diagrams, and really sweating over the most diplomatic way of saying that a book can be done better—better for the school, the students, and the faculty.

And judges are human when they see books which have received care, nurture, affection, and enthusiasm from their staffs. They are quick to note the book which stands out because of the use of the English language and there are several books which are entered at SIPA which would make any "All American" team for the way in which they have been written. Generally those books which have good copy, body, captions and headlines, are the ones which also have layouts which are modern, exciting, and clean and they are the books which feature imaginative photography.

In ten years of judging, there have been fantastic changes. The most noticeable is the dropping of "who's who," "senior superlatives," and last will and testaments. In several groups, judges never see any of the above and in others, only one or two are now still clinging to these old fashioned trivia. Photography has improved at least 100 per cent as staffs try to use the lens as a photo-journalistic device. But the greatest advance has been in the copy field. Yearbooks now are truly history books of one full year and as such, they are mirroring the vitality, the young spirit, and the enthusiasm for the period. Even ten years ago staffs seldom bothered about covering the faculty except with outdated "mug" shots. Today, the faculty are shown in their surroundings and in the truly outstanding books, copy is used to humanize them . . . they actually emerge as flesh and blood, interesting humans.

Even today there is a movement towards more fluid layouts, more clean-cut lines. Copy is more colloquial, capturing the essence of the late 1960's. And cameras are used wisely and with zest. Judges and contest officials have to stay on their toes . . . for eventually new rules will emerge as the imaginative staffs and advisers use graphic arts with even more intelligence in making THE YEAR spring to life. Judging doesn't become dull. It makes a person seek the new, the trend, and it makes that judge suffer when staffs fail to live up to their potential.

Books in SIPA do not have to take a backseat to any section of the country. Just as parts of Indiana, Texas, Arizona, and Michigan are hotbeds of good modern journalism, so are books from Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. So judges go on, gaining gray hairs, worrying about how to tell staffs the way to make their books as great as they can be, wondering if they have been fair, and praying that they have done some good in SIPA 1968.

SIPA Depends On Secretaries For Efficiency

Without Mrs. W. M. Hinton and Mrs. Jay Cook SIPA would be much less efficient and might even fail to come off. Mrs. Hinton is secretary for executive director of SIPA Professor Charles Winston, and during the SIPA convention she acts as an administrative assistant. Mrs. Cook is a newcomer to the full SIPA staff, but she took over the housing department and has done a magnificent job.

Pre-Registration

Mrs. Hinton has been connected to SIPA for several years, and without her the entire convention might be in a shambles. She keeps track of all of the delegates and advisers who are coming. She gets their name tags ready and eliminates the numerous errors that appear on entrance forms by writing countless letters and obtaining the correct information. Because of her experience she is the person the student staffers turn to when things get out of hand. Mrs. Hinton has the correct answer and a smile to get the staffer back to work confident of the fact that he has the right solution.

Mrs. Cook took over the housing department from Mrs. Paxton Davis this year. She has found that it is quite a problem but she has managed to find all of the delegates accommodations that seem to suit them. Mrs. Cook also serves as secretary for Professor O. W. Riegel, director of SIPA since 1930. She has been corresponding with the potential judges and speakers since September, and continued to get out last minute communications until the convention ended this afternoon.

Reception

Both Mrs. Hinton and Mrs. Cook have worked for years with arrangements for adviser facilities. Mrs. Cook is the menu expert when it comes to selection of menus for the two meals served. She also is director of the Advisers' Reception held concurrently with the SIPA dance each year.

Last year Professor Winston credited Mrs. Hinton with "carrying" him because he was a novice and she was an experienced administrator of SIPA. Even though he has a year's experience under his belt Mr. Winston said, "Mrs. Hinton is considerably more than an administrative assistant. Her patience, advice, and sincere interest in SIPA contribute to an enthusiastic and well organized atmosphere in which to work."

SIPA works well because of a lot of hard work by a lot of people and there is no denying that two of the most important are Mrs. Hinton and Mrs. Cook.

Davis To Head Journalism Dept., SIPA

Two promotions and a novel account for significant changes over last year for three SIPA directors. Professor Riegel has reached the age of compulsory retirement as department head. Professor J. Paxton Davis has been appointed to succeed him. And instructor Charles E. Winston has been appointed to the newly created post of full-time station manager of WLUR-FM. Both appointments are to become effective in the fall.

Professor O. W. Riegel

Professor Davis, director of short courses for SIPA, teaches classes of introductory journalism, reporting, advertising, and creative writing. His latest novel, "The Seasons of Heroes," was well reviewed in the New York "Times" as well as in local papers. It is the story of a Scotch Irish family in the Shenandoah valley through three generations of challenge. The period is the ante-bellum, war, and reconstruction South and ends with a race riot in 1912. Since 1961, Davis has been the Book Page editor for the Roanoke (Va.) "Times." He has had several books published.

Professor Riegel will remain in his capacity as professor of journalism. He teaches courses on law and communications, propaganda, film, editorial, public relations and psychological warfare. He will be serving SIPA as director for the last time this year.

Winston, acting executive director of SIPA, last year and this year, is taking Professor John K. Jennings' place in the classroom as well. He teaches reporting and radio and television courses.

Professor Jennings will return this fall. He is currently doing graduate work at Stanford University in California in the field of journalism and communications.

Professor Davis attended Virginia Military Institute and was graduated from John Hopkins University. He worked on newspapers in his home State of North Carolina and on the Richmond "Times-Dispatch" before coming to Washington and Lee in 1953.

17 Judges Rate SIPA Entries

The substance of the honors bestowed today depend directly on 17 judges. No matter how distinguished the sponsors of SIPA may be the entire worth of SIPA rests on the quality of its judges.

Who are they?

Dr. Regis Boyle is chairman of the department of journalism at Catholic University. She founded the department in 1942; she also directs its Journalism Institute for High School students each July. She is the adviser to the University's student publications and to the school newspaper at Walt Whitman High where she teaches English and journalism.

She holds an AB from Trinity College and has been a lecturer in journalism and adviser to its paper. Her MA and PhD are from Catholic University. She has done post-doctoral work at Columbia University. Last year she was a Newspaper Fund Fellow in photo-journalism at West Virginia University.

She is the recipient of the Freedoms Foundation Medal for outstanding educational service in the development of American ideals. She holds a Gold Key from Columbia University and an award from Washington and Lee for service in journalism education.

She is listed in Catholic "Who's Who" and in "Who's Who in American Education," in "Who's Who Among American Women," and "Who's Who in the South." She is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Delta Kappa Gamma and Pi Delta Epsilon honorary fraternities.

Dr. Boyle is a former member of D. C. Commissioners' Youth Council, a former vice-president of the Journalism Education Association, and former president of Quill and Scroll National.

Clark Chism is the assistant news editor of the Chattanooga "Post." He has served on the faculty of McCallie School in Chattanooga as instructor in English and adviser to the newspaper and as director of public relations.

He was for a while part time staff member of the Chattanooga "Times" on sports, city room and copy desk. A graduate of Mississippi State he holds an MA in English from the University of Missouri.

He has been on the staff of the newspaper workshop at the University of Tennessee and four years ago helped to found the Summer Journalism Institute at the University of Chattanooga.

Chism has chaired the SIPA Advisory Committee and is a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award. He holds a Gold Key from Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Father Augustine Cunningham teaches English and public speaking at Benedictine High School in Richmond. He has been the yearbook adviser for seven years. He is a graduate of Belmont Abbey College where he worked on the newspaper and helped organize an on-campus radio station. He also worked with radio stations in the area.

William H. Fishback, Jr. is the Director of Information Services at the University of Virginia. From his graduation from Washington and Lee in 1956, to 1966 he worked with the Richmond "Times-Dispatch" and held the position of assistant state editor.

Miss Cecile R. Goodall teaches at Charleston High School, Charleston, West Virginia where she is the yearbook adviser. She is a member of the SIPA Advisory Council. She holds a BA in English and an MA in social studies and political science from the University of West Virginia.

She has done graduate work in international law at Oxford University, Oxford, England. She is a

Huntley New W&L President

Pres. Robert E. R. Huntley

Robert E. R. Huntley, president of the university, was picked after a seven-month investigation by the trustees for a permanent successor to Dr. Fred C. Cole. His administration began with the start of the second semester.

As those delegates welcomed by Huntley know, he is a very young and capable man. Washington and Lee has been his educator and he has been an educator at Washington and Lee.

An honor student in both the college and law school, he has been a professor in the law school and was raised from the dean of the law school to the presidency. At the same time he was the University's legal adviser and secretary of the Board of Trustees.

Born in Winston-Salem, N. C., he was graduated from R. J. Reynolds High School. At W&L he was editor of the Law Review, and vice-president of the student body.

Huntley is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Order of the Coif, and Omicron Delta Kappa. He received the distinguished service award as a graduating senior.

President Huntley practiced law in Alexandria before joining the law faculty in 1958. He is married to the former Evelyn Whitehurst of Virginia Beach. They have three children.

Advisers Assembly Has First Meeting

At the suggestion of the Area Executive Council SIPA held a General Assembly of Advisers yesterday. It was the first attempt to convene all the advisers for suggestions and ideas on improving the effectiveness of SIPA.

Mrs. Marie N. Morris was the keynote speaker. A former adviser and currently a school administrator, Mrs. Morris told of publication problems, how administrations catch them and how they handle them.

Mrs. Ruby L. Norris, chairman of the Area Executive Council presided. Mrs. Norris represents Douglas S. Freeman High School in Richmond. She has headed the Area Executive Council in its first year of administration. The planning of a general meeting of all advisers is only one of many ways the council has aided the administration of SIPA in its first years.

In 1957 he was a visiting lecturer at the University of Strasbourg (France). Many of his published articles deal with Central Europe today as researched during his travels. His articles have appeared in "New Republic," "Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences," "Public Opinion Quarterly," "Quill," "Christian Science Monitor" and "The Nieman Reports." Riegel is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Director O. W. Riegel Serves Final Year

Professor Oscar Wetherhold Riegel steps down this year as Director of SIPA. The position is held ex-officio by the Director of the Lee Memorial Journalism Foundation (department journalism and communications) at Washington and Lee.

Professor Riegel, 65, has reached the retirement age for department heads. He will remain on the faculty. The 1969 SIPA director will be Professor Paxton Davis.

Riegel has headed the department since 1934. An analyst of central European affairs and of methods of propaganda, Riegel has held Fulbright, Glenn, Ford Foundation, and Rockefeller Foundation research grants.

One of his books, "Mobilizing for Chaos," a study of the causes, effects, and probable results of government control of the press and other mass media won the first Sigma Delta Chi Research Award in 1935.

During World War II, Riegel was Co-ordinator of Information and principal propaganda analyst for the government. He was a regional specialist for central and southeast Europe in the Office of War Information and chairman of the New York Review Board.

He was also OWI general representative for Italy and the Balkans in 1945 stationed in Rome, cultural attache for the State Department and chief public affairs officer in the American legation of Budapest. He was a visiting lecturer at the University of Budapest in the 1946 spring term where he was presented with a medal equivalent to an honorary degree.

From 1950 to 1966 Riegel was curator for the Alfred I. duPont Awards Foundation for Radio and Television.

He is a trustee and current secretary of Science Service, an organization for the popularization of science.

He is a charter member of the Overseas Press Club in New York, a member of the National Press Club, the Overseas Writers Club, the Cosmos Club of Washington, Sigma Delta Chi and Pi Delta Epsilon journalism fraternities, Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Delta Theta social fraternity.

He is an honorary life member of Quill and Scroll, winner of a Gold Key from Columbia Scholastic Press Association, member of the Washington Literary Society, National Conference of Editorial Writers, trustee of Trends Research Assoc., and recipient of a plaque from the Virginia Press Association for service to Virginia newspapers through journalism education.

His wife was Jane Cordelia Butterworth of Philadelphia. They have four sons and a daughter; Kurt Wetherhold, 29, professor of radio astronomy UCLA; Cordelia Jane, 26, instructor in studio and art history, department of art, Hollins College; Robert Hunt Keeler, 23, instructor in special education with the Norfolk (Va.) School System; Mark Butterworth, 19, student at UVa.; John Quentin Melcher, 16, student at the Westtown School, Westtown, Pennsylvania.

Professor Riegel began his journalistic career as a paper boy. In 1918 he worked for a Neenah, Wisconsin paper. Then he was a reporter for the Reading "Tribune" of his hometown in Pennsylvania. He was a reporter and desk editor for the Paris staff of the Chicago "Tribune" and New York "Daily News" and special writer for the Lancaster (Pa.) "News-Journal."

Before coming to Washington and Lee in 1930 he was an instructor in literature at Dartmouth College.

He attended Lawrence College, was graduated from University of Wisconsin with a BA in journalism, did graduate study at the Sorbonne (University of Paris) and received an MA in American Literature from Columbia University.

He has travelled in Europe many times, in communist satellites as well as western countries. He also has visited North Africa, Central America, Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean.

In 1957 he was a visiting lecturer at the University of Strasbourg (France). Many of his published articles deal with Central Europe today as researched during his travels. His articles have appeared in "New Republic," "Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences," "Public Opinion Quarterly," "Quill," "Christian Science Monitor" and "The Nieman Reports." Riegel is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Winston Directs SIPA, Teaches, Manages WLUR

The operation of SIPA for the past two years has rested mainly on the shoulders of Charles E. Winston. Mr. Winston is an instructor in the school of journalism, manager of the university radio station, WLUR-FM, as well as executive director of SIPA.

Winston came to Washington and Lee in the fall of 1966. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri where he received his bachelor and Master's degree in Journalism. His home is in Denver, Colo.

Winston also spends much of the day devoted to the programming for station WLUR. It has just been recently announced that he will remain at the university next year with responsibility only for the station. Professor John K. Jennings will resume the post of executive director of SIPA when he returns from study at Stanford University in the fall.

The operation and planning for SIPA is not easy. As soon as one convention is over, plans are made for the next meeting. The meeting of all members of the staff brings out points needing improvement and further discussion. Thus one can say Mr. Winston has been working on SIPA since last year's convention ended. During the summer much of the literature sent out in October and November must be planned and printed. Judges must be found and plans made to handle the great influx of materials coming to Lexington.

In late November and December, papers, yearbooks, magazines and tapes come flowing in for criticism. These must all be sorted, catalogued and packed to be sent to the judges. In this aspect as well as planning for all parts of SIPA, Mr. Winston is aided by Mrs. William Hinton.

After Christmas vacation the work really begins in earnest. The activities are too numerous to mention. Plans for entertainment, speakers, classroom assignments, delegate housing, registration all must be made. The little things must all be thought of and accomplished. He really begins to spend every moment with SIPA at that time.

The planning is a difficult task and ultimate responsibility rests with the executive director. It is not a petty job, but it must be done. Winston does this as well as teaching a course in television with one laboratory a week in Roanoke. The day is not long enough.

The operation of an efficient and smooth convention is his responsibility, and the past three days have shown what can be done even without a spring vacation of any kind.

South African Attends

Ensor Transfeldt, a South African foreign exchange student representing Hickory High School, Claremont, N. C. at SIPA, finds Americans exceptionally friendly. Transfeldt, who came from Mafeking 200 miles west of Johannesburg, South Africa, has traveled throughout Africa, Western Europe, Israel and Jordan.

Transfeldt says the American image in South Africa is one of affluence formed by exposure to American movies and tourists. He thinks Americans underestimate South Africa's industrial, scientific and technological advancement, and think of South Africa in terms of safaris and savages. He believes the press in South Africa and the United States distort each other's racial conflicts.

Delegates Feel Crowded at SIPA

What do delegates and advisers think of SIPA? A very select random sample of opinion drew such comments as "I've really enjoyed it"; "It's really been great"; and "I've learned so much."

Although most of those interviewed thought the short courses and the program in general were "very good," complaints and suggestions for improvement were numerous.

Overcrowding, especially in the short courses, was the most common complaint. One delegate remarked, "I went to five sessions and only got to sit down at two." He was far from the only one with tired feet.

Advisers and short course instructors suggested that this problem might be reduced if more courses were offered at a given period or if very popular courses were scheduled more than once.

One adviser blamed the crowding on poor planning. He said advisers should sit down with delegates and try to send representatives to each short course or discussion rather than picking the most attractive offering at any given time and sending several delegates to it.

An adviser suggested that the criticism of the judges be given at the first of the convention instead of on Saturday morning as is done now. While saying she understood the reasoning behind having it at that time (surprise, holding the delegates for the whole program), she added "You hear a general criticism in one of the courses, and you don't know whether he's talking to you or not."

Praise was far more frequent than criticism. Most delegates expressed approval of the mixer Thursday and the dance Friday, and the friendliness of everyone involved was noted. Delegates didn't miss Washington and Lee students who are on spring vacation, and advisers who have attended SIPA conventions when students were on campus strongly favored having it during W&L's spring break.

One criticism was confined to the advisers. Most thought the band Friday night was a little noisier than necessary. One, as far away from the band as cozy Doremus Gymnasium would permit, shouted, "Do they have to play so loud?"

Charles McDowell Says Campaign Will Focus On Race And Viet Nam War

important for the long-run history of the world, McDowell said, but at the moment, the racial issue is far more emotional. He predicted that Hubert Humphrey is perhaps the man who may be able to put the country back together again, saying that he is not the "raving liberal" he has been made out to be.

Concerning the candidacy of Richard Nixon, the columnist said he can be admired very much for his experience and ability, but because of over-exposure since 1951, there just isn't very much enthusiasm for him. Furthermore, McDowell contended that the Republican Party is a third party in this country, behind the Democrats and the uncommitted independents.

McDowell also touched on various phases of high school and professional journalism. "To go into the newspaper business and stay there, you have to like it a lot," he said. He emphasized the importance of going to a college that teaches more than practical journalism, saying that one needs a proper background in history and political science with which to work.

In learning to write, McDowell noted, one must have faith in himself and his reader. One should let his own natural style develop, and one should not "write down" to his reader and his intelligence as though he were a twelve-year-old.

Non-Violent Life Ends In Violence

The opening of the convention of SIPA was marred by the death of an American in pursuit of the ideals of the Constitution we hold as the basis of our nation.

The SIPA edition of the Ring-tum Phi does not usually comment on topics outside of the realm of our convention, but, we feel the death of Dr. Martin Luther King demands some comment to a convention of journalists.

The mood of the nation at this time is very tense. The feeling of the public is influenced by the actions of what seems to be a single man. The ideal of non-violent protest is in great challenge at this moment. The non-violence which Dr. King stood for is lost in the expressions of griefs.

The role of the journalist at this time is very important, especially the role of the scholastic journalist. The role of non-violent demonstration is formed in the teen year, and we must guide the philosophy for which Dr. King died.

We mourn the death of a great American who had the courage to stand for what he believed. We will always remember with great warmth the ideal which he brought forth of the fulfillment of the Constitution through non-violent means. We appeal to all who feel as we, that they follow the road he set out. Violence is not part of the American ideal. Dr. King felt rightly that the road to fulfillment is peace. The memory of his ideal should be his greatest memorial.
