

Sir Herbert Ames To Give Lecture In IRC Meeting

Former Treasurer of League Of Nations Will Talk On Europe

WILL SPEAK LATER IN ANNUAL CHAPEL

Lectured On Campus Before About European Situation

Sir Herbert Ames, former treasurer of the League of Nations and one of the most well versed men in the world on European affairs, will speak in Lee Chapel Tuesday night, under the auspices of the International Relations Club.

Sir Herbert visited this campus in the spring of 1931, speaking on the danger spots in Europe, and it is largely due to the interest he aroused that the IRC was founded here.

Intimately acquainted with most of the political leaders of Europe and a constant visitor there, Sir Herbert, a Canadian, has an excellent first hand knowledge of the European situation as it stands now. He has just recently returned to the United States after a visit to the major capitals of Europe.

European Interviews

During his stay in Europe last year he conferred with the high officials of Germany, France, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Austria, obtaining much inside information concerning those various nations. He also attended a convention of the German National Socialist Party.

After graduating from McGill University he became interested in international affairs to such an extent that he was named treasurer of the League of Nations upon its formation, a post which he held for seven years.

Those who became acquainted with him on his last visit here are delighted at the prospect of his return. Professor R. N. Latture said yesterday, "He spoke several times to large and appreciative audiences in Lee Chapel."

Sir Herbert's discussion of the European tension of today will be open to the public and will be held Tuesday night at 7:30.

Banquet Will Be Given January 19 By U. D. C. To Honor Lee, Jackson

The Mary Custis Lee chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, together with the Frank Paxton Camp of the Sons of the Confederacy, will hold a banquet to honor the memories of Lee and Jackson on Lee's birthday, January 19.

Dr. W. G. Bean of the History department will deliver an address at the banquet, which will be held at 1:00 p. m. at the Robert E. Lee hotel.

This dinner has replaced the annual veterans' banquet which was held annually until the death of the last veteran of this section several years ago. Anyone interested is invited to come. Reservations may be made with Mrs. James S. Moffatt; $1.00 per plate will be charged.

Dr. Pendleton Tompkins, Commandant of the Sons of the Confederacy, will preside at the dinner with Mrs. B. B. Glover, president of the local U. D. C. chapter.

Sophomore Hygiene Exams To Be Given By Separate Blocks

Contrary to rumors which have been floating about the campus of late, all sophomore hygiene classes will not submit to examinations on the same date.

Due to the inconvenience of setting a date which would coincide with the other examinations and the possibility of confusion resulting from such a large examination the idea has been abandoned.

Forest Fletcher announced today that the examinations will be given at the regularly scheduled time, that is, the dates scheduled for blocks E, F, G, and H. Mr. Fletcher stated, however, that any student wishing to take the test with a class other than his own was free to do so and any of the above mentioned blocks would be open to all students desiring to take the examination at that time.

Special Alumni Issue Brought "Up-to-Date"

In sending out this special issue of The Ring-tum Phi, The Alumni Association has made an effort to preserve the aspects of the actual student publication as well as to give you some up-to-date news of the University and fellow alumni.

It will be noted that some of the stories are "old" so far as their date is concerned; for instance, the front page was preserved much the same as it was issued originally on Friday, January 14, but on page three is a sports summary bringing the winter schedule up to date.

The editors believed it would be well to show just what The Ring-tum Phi looks like in its every-day appearance, as well as to dress it up with special notes and news for alumni.

Rogers States Costume Rules For Dance Set

No Overalls, Pajamas Or Make-Shift Dress Allowed

President Will Rogers today announced costume and conduct regulations, which will be in effect during the Fancy Dress set. The rules were countersigned by Frank Price of the Dance Board.

Particular emphasis was made on costume regulations for the Fancy Dress Ball. Rogers said that all students and visitors, with the exception of professors and parents, will be required to come in acceptable costume. Pajamas, overalls, or other make-shift costumes will not be acceptable, the leader said.

The dance head also announced that students desiring invitation for their parents should apply to Henry Fohlzon, vice-president, in charge. Applications must be made by next Wednesday.

Cecil Taylor, who will lead the Junior Prom on Thursday night, has also requested all juniors who have paid their dues to get a chest ribbon for identification at the ball. These ribbons will be distributed at the entrance door.

Taylor said that vice-president George Myers would be unable to assist in the figure and that the class secretary - treasurer, Art Buck, would assist with Miss Mary White of Randolph-Macon College. Rogers said that late subscribers might get tickets for the set at the reduced rate up until Tuesday night. Costumes will be available up to tomorrow afternoon, and representatives of both ticket and costume committees will be at the Corner Store tomorrow to make arrangements for late-comers. Regulations, as announced, pro-Continued on page three

Dr. Gaines Cites Danger Of War In Europe Today

Quotes Norman Davis In Talk To International Relations Club That Japan Fears Any Alliance of England, France, and the United States

"The last thing that Japan, Italy, and Germany want is for the United States, Great Britain, and France to stand together," quoted President Frances P. Gaines of Norman Davis at an informal discussion of the International Relations in the Student Union Thursday evening. Norman Davis was a member of the board at the recent Brussels conference which specified Japan's position in the Orient.

Two Possibilities "Two important things might occur in the Sino-Japanese crisis," Dr. Gaines stated. "The first is that credit might be withdrawn. The second is the most important and concerns the possibility of a huge blockade of Japan. This blockade would start at Singapore and surround Japan in a great arc. It is this blockade that has been the extent of the European war talk."

"The hope of the world lies in the fact that England, France, and the United States are close together," declared President Gaines. That America could write England's ticket in the Japanese situation and that the two countries could use each other's naval bases interchangeably, are now apparent. "What are the aims of Japan?" was an outstanding question at the Brussels conference. "Evidently to a country overflowing with people, the most needed objective is territory," said Dr. Gaines. Japan seems to have her eye on the highly productive Dutch East Indies, but her troubles with China seem to checkmate her there. The world is now a circle of fear with Australia and the American west coast fearing Japan; Russia aiding China secretly, fearing Germany; while Germany, Italy, and Japan are all fearing bankruptcy and internal dissension.

Yet, "Japan is riding high and are all for the war" at the present time, stated Dr. Gaines. Nationalism and patriotism have been developed to an amazing extent in Japan, although her brave soldiers are no match for the mechanically-minded Europeans and Americans.

Although the outward evidences prove to the contrary, Dr. Gaines states that the world situation is very optimistic due to the union of the world's three great democracies, England, France, and the United States. England's most recent statement to France has been to the effect that "Peace borders in Europe are of Franco-English interest."

Lexington Gets Traffic Lights

Three New Signals Placed On Busiest Street Corners

With the installation of three new traffic lights, making a grand total of four, this city of Lexington has arisen to the status of a miniature metropolis.

Only one of these new lights is in operation at present. Due to neglect at the factory, reflectors were not shipped with the lights, and as a result the two signals on Jefferson Street, at Washington and Nelson Streets, will not put into service until the missing parts are acquired.

No longer can students with cars make the distance from the other side of Main Street to the parking space at the library in 0.08 seconds flat. The terrific pace that existed in Lexington must go, and students must be content at proceeding at a moderate rate to their destinations.

The lights are all controlled by a centrally located switch, and as soon as the other two are placed in operation, all four will remain that way at all times.

Famous Chemist Will Talk Here

Dr. F. C. Whitmore To Lecture On "Hydrocarbons" Monday

Dr. Frank Clifford Whitmore, president of the American Chemical Society, will speak on "Hydrocarbons" in Washington Chapel at eight o'clock Monday night.

Dr. Whitmore, a good friend of Dr. James Lewis Howe of the W-L Chemical Department, has been for years one of the leading chemists of America, especially in the field of organic chemistry. He is at present Dean and research professor of organic chemistry at Pennsylvania State College.

Lecture Monday Night

The lecture Monday night will be, according to Dr. Howe, a "popular lecture" and will be easily understood by anyone with a minimum knowledge of chemistry. It will be sponsored by Chi Gamma Theta, W-L honorary chemical society, and by the chemical departments of Both Washington and Lee and VMI.

Dr. Whitmore has contributed numerous articles to chemical and scientific magazines.

Founder's Day Chapel To Be Held January 19

Founder's Day will be celebrated on the campus by a compulsory assembly to be held Wednesday morning, January 19. The speaker will be Sir Herbert Ames, former director of finances for the League of Nations.

The purpose of the holiday is to celebrate Lee's birthday, which is commemorated at this time every year. The assembly will begin at 11:30.

Seniors will not walk in procession to the assembly. The faculty will wear academic costume and will assemble in the reception room of Washington Hall at 11:15, or in the basement of the gymnasium if the weather is bad.

Sir Herbert Ames was brought to the university through the International Relations Club, which he will address Tuesday night.

Library Shows Rare Printing In Exhibition

Books Four Centuries Old Displayed For "Printing Education Week"

In conjunction with the tenth annual celebration of "Printing Education Week," starting today, an exhibit of old printing and books on this subject is now being shown in the library.

This exhibition is sponsored by the National Graphic Arts Education Guild (headquarters office in Washington, D. C.) and is intended to be shown in connection with the life and printings of Benjamin Franklin, whose birthday comes next week.

One of the most interesting of the books on display is a copy of Virgil's "Works," published in 1596, and bound in leather with the metal clasps common to the period. As an example of early craftsmanship, one may see the seventh volume of "Historium Adversus Paganos," published in Augsburg in 1475, 21 years after the invention of printing.

More recently published but of equal interest is "The Confession of Faith of the Kirk of Scotland" from the press of Benjamin Franklin himself, published in Philadelphia in 1745.

Of interest to modern scholars is an edition of "Rationale Divinorum Officiorum," published in Strasburg in 1488. This volume is printed in early Gothic type and capital letters are painted in by hand. Scattered all the way through the ancient tome are marginal notes in an early handwriting believed to be of the sixteenth century.

Still another volume of "In-Continued on page three

W-L Renews Rivalry With Tough N.C.U. In Game Tomorrow

Out With Injury

KIT CARSON

Interest of S. C. Will Concentrate Here For Battle

GENERALS TO FACE EXPERIENCED TEAM

Capacity Crowd Expected To Attend Cage Contest

W-L Pos. U. N. C. Carson F. Mullis or Worley

By LEA BOOTH

January 14 — The ultimate in basketball phenomena, the White Phantoms of North Carolina and the Blue Comets of Washington and Lee will join in casting a shadow into the Southern Conference spotlight here tomorrow when they renew an old family argument at Doremus gymnasium at 7:30 p. m.

Finalists in the past three conference tournaments at Raleigh, the familiar "Carolina versus W & L" by-word annually augments a quarrel when cage envoys of the loop start traveling.

Individual Rivalry

Individual rivalries always come a dime a dozen when the lads from Tarheelia concentrate on stopping the vaunted Generals. Carolina's Captain Earl Ruth, Handy Bershak, Pete Mullis and Bill McCahren will be seeking no formal introductions to the veterans of Coach Cy Young's squad. This quartet has been substantially fortified by the services of a couple of the best sophomore cagers in the loop, Ben Dilworth and Dick Worley. The latter led the Phantoms in a pulse-defying vanquishing of Davidson's "dark-horses" in an over-time affair last week. Dilworth is the center who has been touted as the "man who will stop Bob Spessard."

Generals Return Tonight

The Generals were due to return from their traditionally honored battle with Virginia's Wahoos tonight to rest for the all-important Carolina affair. The squad left Lexington early this afternoon for Charlottesville in the best condition they have experienced this season.

The Carolinians swung into Lexington this morning from Blacksburg following a clash yesterday with VPI. They were docketed on VMI's schedule tonight. The local board of strategy did not appear uneasy over the possibility of the Generals being handicapped by the Charlottesville trip since the Tar Heels are likewise on the road.

Same Team May Start

Coach Cy Young will more than likely start his usual quint of co-captains Bob Spessard and Kit Carson, Frank Frazier, Ronnie Thompson, and Leo Reinartz.

Probably the largest gallery of the season will jam into Doremus gym with the opening tap tomorrow night. The newly organized band is scheduled to heighten the pyrotechnics.

Conference standings show the two opposing clubs at the top of the heap. Carolina's trio of wins over Davidson, Wake Forest, and VPI place them one notch ahead of the Youngmen who claim a pair of victories over Maryland and William and Mary respectively. An all-time record shows the visitors have won twelve and lost eleven to the Generals.

Swimming Team Plans To Enter Social Swim

As a special added attraction to the festivities of Fancy Dress, it was announced today that the swimming team has planned a Water Carnival for the dual purpose of raising money for new equipment and for a little more amusement during the dance set.

The Carnival will consist of swimming races, diving acts, and novelties. It is darkly rumored that the coach, Cy Twombly himself, may appear in a specialty. There is also the possibility that a water polo match will be held.

A Letter To The Editor Jay Reid

Thursday, January 11. Editor of the Ring-tum Phi.

Dear Sir: I had hoped that I would be permitted to forget the whole unfortunate Southern Collegian case, and to suffer the aspersions cast on my efforts to produce a better publication, without feeling compelled to turn on a few jackals with a little snarl, and a baring of editorial fangs. But that mousy little column of Bill Karraker's, published last issue, is a final straw. When a student is attacked in print as I was by that celluloid-collar-and-bow-tie moralist, I believe he has some sort of inalienable right to a hearing in his own defense. So maybe I'll be pardoned for finally presuming to say a word or two for Jay Reid, and that bad, naughty, crude, filthy magazine, over which your columnist editorially swooned so many times.

Southern Seminary Just to simplify matters, let us first dispose of the Southern Seminary issue. As everyone knows, I did not print that apology. All right, I should have printed it. All right, I was censored as editor, and that's all right, too. So far everything follows rather logically, and I am not presenting any kick.

But, I fail to see that any mistake, however serious, that the editor of a publication could make, is grounds for banning the publication. A publication is what its editor temporarily determines it to be. If his policies become intolerable, another can replace him, altering to suit the tastes of the censors in power. To attempt to punish an institution like the Southern Collegian, is to attempt to punish presses, ink, and paper. For anyone to attack the magazine because they were mad at me, seems absurd. It's as though they got all worked up, and became so angry that they trotted right over to the print shop, gathered around the press, and started kicking the machine which rolled off that infamous cover. Or so it seems to me.

Mr. Editor, your columnist yaps that your mild criticism of the action of the faculty advisory committee, as a little hasty, was "entirely unjustifiable." Let's look at facts.

The last issue was put up the Friday night before vacation. The Advisory Committee did not get their copies until the next day. One of their number admitted to me a doubt that, other than himself had read it, that their sole indictment of the issue arose from the cover. There was no conference with the editor, no conference with the PUBLICATIONS BOARD, no conference with the FACULTY. Without reading the magazine through, with the sketchiest idea of what our staff was trying to do, and had so far accomplished, they took action that Saturday morning. This forms something of a contrast to procedure with the old Mink, over which they deliberated months. By their action, the Advisory Committee threw the affairs of the magazine into a snarl which it may take months to straighten out. They did this on the grounds that the magazine was no longer encouraging literary talent, and that, in brief, it had become like the Mink. The editor of the Ring-tum Phi editorially announced, after "brief glimpses of fragmentary proofs," that the Collegian had completed a transformation to a humorous magazine. And Karraker, after terming me a "wild-man editor," by very little indirection accused me of putting out a magazine whose contents resemble those of "Breezy Stories," "Pep," and "Gay Parisienne."

No Regrets I do not regret that I can not claim Karraker's confessed familiarity with the above magazines. I imagine he ought to be ashamed of himself, though. A "Washington and Lee Gentleman," at that!

The facts are, however, that we endeavored to make it a literary and humorous magazine, with enough cartoons to brighten it up, and induce somebody to read the thing, although this was contrary to tradition when we first started. In three issues we printed serious attempts at every literary form—short stories, satire, parody, even serious essays, a little poetry, and one a-act play. We did at least as much as any former editor to obtain literary efforts. I rejected nothing that I thought worth printing. Another might have differed with me in a very few isolated instances. I exercised my editorial prerogative to print what I thought was creditable literary effort, and reject whenever my random whims impelled. I am a radical.

Cartoons

Only one of our cartoons was drawn by a student here. Please remember that former covers and cartoons were importations, too, and were they knockouts! I secured covers, with better drawing than any other college magazine in the country can boast, by highly paid illustrators, for nothing. I secured cartoons for the rest of the pages, which were certainly far better than anything we have had before, for the mere cost of shipping. In, two of the issues, we had some "canned" copy, the inclusion of this made possible our securing national advertising enough for twice as many issues as last year. It enabled us to print much more local production, with the increase in issues. Everyone who knew anything about it, thought it worthwhile "sacrifice." We turned out a magazine which, if far from ideal, was going in the right track. It exploited literary ability, it was popular with the people who paid for it, and it had only one isolated feature (the Southern Seminary article) which is really regrettable. We did all this, improving the magazine in almost all respects, printing twice as many issues, for an even smaller allotment from the campus tax than we had last year. Paul Holden deserves a word of credit for this, but he need not look for it from jackals.

As for the "dozen excellent writers in school" (I infer that our staff included none) and "those who want to really write," as Karraker put it, I am curious, if skeptical. I suppose we can't include him among the dozen, judging from his playfulness with the split infinitive.

Oh, well. I suppose one never need look far to find someone who knows more about his job than he himself. Perhaps I should count myself fortunate in finding one whose gawps are so obviously ignorant invective. I would like to beg one favor from the Ring-tum Phi, the faculty, and the students at large. In the light of all the effort which I feel I invested in the Southern Collegian, thanklessly, and, when one thinks of its future, ineffectively, I would like to be permitted to do my best to forget the whole matter, to be allowed to graduate from this place without suffering other attacks from those who really haven't the remotest idea of what it's all about. JAY REID.

The Ring-tum Phi

WASHINGTON and LEE UNIVERSITY
SEMI-WEEKLY

Entered at the Lexington, Virginia, Post Office as second-class mail matter. Published every Tuesday and Friday of the collegiate year.

Subscription $3.10 per year, in advance

CHARLES F. CLARKE, JR., Editor
JAMES G. LAMB, JR., Business Manager

Managing Editors

JAMES FISHEL and GEORGE GOODWIN

News Editor

Copy Editor

ROBERT NICHOLSON

DICK HANDLEY

Sports Editor

AL KREIMER

Editorial Associates

Derrell Dickens, John Alnutt, Ernest Woodward, II, Lea Booth, Lew Lewis, Hamilton Hertz, John B. Cleveland, Bill Ball, Bob Fuller, Robert Gaddy.

Reporters

Benner, Bernd, Buchanan, Burleson, Epsy, Farrar, Harris, Quekemeyer, Rassmann, Roediger, Steele, Thigpen, Van de Water, Woodward, Rennick, McConnell, Trice, Kirby, Berghaus, Cunningham, Fleishman, Friedman, Smith, Kaler.

Business Staff

Advertising Managers: Allen T. Snyder, Homer Carmichael. Assistant Advertising Managers: Oscar Ennenga, David J. Isaly. Circulation Managers: Philip K. Yonge, M. Thompson McClure. Assistant Circulation Managers: Asa Sphar, George Foote.

Staff Assistants

S. Ames, L. Avery, B. V. Ayers, R. Bird, Jr., H. A. Carman, E. C. Crook, L. E. Carson, C. Dean, P. Dobbs, L. R. Hanna, S. E. Hiden, A. W. Hill, L. T. Himes, E. Horn, H. A. Jones, F. H. Kibling, A. Moore, J. A. Russell, J. A. Saltsman, H. Shepherd, M. T. Simon, D. L. Stein, T. Strang, C. Taggart, R. C. Turrell, C. M. Walker, H. Wilder, A. M. Wing, H. C. Wolf.

THE RING-TUM PHI EXTENDS BEST WISHES TO THE ALUMNI

The Ring-tum Phi welcomes this opportunity to pass along news of Washington and Lee today to the men of Washington and Lee of yesterday. Trying as we are to catch up and mirror campus life from day to day, we may not yet have the perspective of age, but we assure you of our enthusiasm.

Washington and Lee has changed much in the past few years, as far as its physical plant is concerned. A new student union, a new law building, and a completely renovated college proper have all been completed in our own short stay. Any man who has attended Washington and Lee, however, knows that there are things far more important than buildings on this campus. Nearly two centuries of weathered tradition, an inviolable Honor system and a friendliness between students that is noticeable even to the casual visitor, still form a part of that tradition today as they did in your day, and, we hope, shall for our children. There are an heritage which leaves its ineffaceable mark on every man who has ever carried textbooks through the corridors of Washington Hall.

We have tried, and will try in the future to catch as much of that spirit as we can in The Ring-tum Phi. We try hard to put out a good newspaper, a real "newspaper," in the best sense of the word. We hope our front page has captured enough of that Washington and Lee spirit to take you in memory back to the campus from which it came. We hope you can see in our every day activities the echo of the basketball games, the publication squabbles and the assembly days of your own youth here and we trust that that memory shall be a happy one.

We of The Ring-tum Phi extend you the welcome of the present to the past, from those here now to those who have gone before. "H gentlemen," how do you like us?

THE ANONYMOUS GIFT IS MORE THAN WELCOME

That anonymous Santa Claus who so unexpectedly and graciously presented Washington and Lee with $50,000 to be used to provide scholarships for Virginia boys must have had a spiritual medium's ability to feel the pulse of this university and discover what it the most desired.

New buildings, teachers whose lists of academic degrees are longer than their own names, even high standards imposed by tradition and environment are in the last analysis but trivial incidentals in comparison with the calibre of an institution's student body. Washington and Lee is at present well-gifted with the above elementary requirements, it needs now but to maintain, and, if possible, to constantly strive to better the calibre of the students themselves. Though with the conceit born of close friendships we cannot desire a better or finer representation than the average Virginian at Washington and Lee, any measures which are designed to insure their continuance is to be heartily welcomed.

Washington and Lee is first and last a training ground for Virginians. The fact that it is also a training ground for the most cosmopolitan group of young men under any other such institution in America is what helps raise this school out of the realm of a hundred and one other small schools of somewhat like nature. But without a large and finely chosen representation of Virginians, Washington and Lee would become a sort of "school without a country," for any institution of higher learning must have a loyal and enthusiastic alumni support in the immediate vicinity in which it is located.

Details of the administration of the fund will be worked out at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees. Here once more the anonymous donor showed rare judgment in leaving the specific arrangements for such a plan to a body intimately connected with the school and cognizant of the best means of planning for the distribution of the fund.

It is a fine thing for Washington and Lee to have been given this money, and if the anonymous donor receives as much good from the giving as those boys whom it will help in the future, he will be well paid indeed.

PRINTING EDUCATION WEEK GETS ITS DUE

Next week the fourth biggest industry in the United States, which also happens to have the second largest payroll and be the first in number of establishments, is to celebrate its annual "Education Week."

This fourth biggest industry is not the steel business, the textile business, automobile or any such. It is a comparatively little publicized, independent affair which considers itself a little above the ordinary trade and business world. Its history is bound up with the history of modern civilization, without which that civilization would be scarce better than the Dark Ages. It has boasted many great men in its field, and today maintains as always more intelligent, better educated and higher type workers than any other industry in the world. In a word, we today take off our hats to the industry that makes us possible—the printing industry.

Benjamin Franklin, statesman, philosopher, and embryonic physicist and writer though he may have been, desired to be remembered only as a printer, and that one word is engraved upon his tombstone as emblematic of the best that he achieved.

THE FORUM

In Re Us

For some time now we have been troubled by non-veiled insinuations from the lips of the alumni that the Princetonian should eliminate from its editorial column all opinions in regard to public and international affairs. If this feeling is at all widespread, we should like at this time to state what we believe to be the function of the editorial page of a college newspaper.

In the first place, the college paper cannot be and should not be a mirror of campus opinion. It cannot reflect undergraduate opinion as a whole any more than a metropolitan paper can reflect national opinion as a whole. To hold up a mirror to campus or national life would consume all of the editor's time. Furthermore, to do so would make the paper vastly dull and unwholesome. Rather, it is the function of a college paper, we believe, to serve, not as a looking glass, but as a prism, a prism which absorbs as much light as possible and then refracts the light according to the editor's bent. As an example we might cite the recent Presidential poll when the undergraduates voted heavily for Landon and the Princetonian in turn crusaded for Roosevelt. The Princetonian at that time was not an organ of Campus opinion but an organ of Princetonian opinion only.

As for public and international affairs on the whole, we realize from the start that our opinions are handicapped by a general lack of knowledge, maturity and experience. Nevertheless, we believe that there is a value in undergraduate opinion. If the alumni support so heartily Princeton's School of Public and International Affairs just because it does give the undergraduate an opportunity to study and express his views on public matters, why do they object to undergraduate opinion in the form of a newspaper, even if this opinion does differ from their own?

If the democratic process is to succeed, certainly freedom of speech and freedom of the press, even in regard to undergraduates, must ring.

When Woodrow Wilson was the Editor of the Princetonian, he did not write on Democracy, international affairs, labor problems, and so forth, but on school spirit at the Yale game, conduct in Chapel, duckboards, and so forth. We cannot help but believe that the Princetonian in his day would have been a more vital and worthwhile paper if it had broadened its scope, and we cannot help but believe that Wilson would have desired it to have done so.—Daily Princetonian.

PERSONAL OPINIONS

By BILL KARRAKER

Sunday Movies Won't Just Fly In The Window

Somebody will have to do a little "politicking" with the city council before Sunday movies can become a reality. Ralph Daves alone can't do the job. The council will listen to petitions from voters only, and it is only natural that it should adopt a ruling consistent with popular thought.

A tremendous number of letters from the town's influential citizens defeated the Sunday-movie idea, and only an overwhelming number of petitions from like citizens can hope to bring about a reversal of the council's resolve.

It is perfectly clear that the university student body, and possibly the VMI cadets, are practically unanimously in favor of Sunday movies. But letters of non-voting inhabitants of the town cannot be expected to carry much weight in the consideration of the town council. No amount of agitation among student groups, and no amount of mere talk can have any effect. We who attempt to express our views in print could write ourselves blue in the face, but the town council would remain adamant.

The only possible way to effect our obvious, and oft-expressed desire for the Sunday pastime is to work to bring about the same sort of wish in the minds of leading citizens of the town, and especially in religious circles. You who have intimate contacts with the "right" people should present your personal views to them and attempt to effect some sort of compromise between our ideas and theirs.

As far as I can see it, though I hold no brief for spending of the Sabbath in revelry, or recovery from revelry, there should certainly be no evil, or sin involved in running a movie during hours that would not conflict with the normal time for going to church. Possibly the best plan would be to run one show in the afternoon and one in the evening after church hours.

If, as it has been contended by some of the ministers, it is grossly sinful to see a movie on Sunday, why then does it become acceptable for the ruling elders as well as profligate students to attend them on the other six days in the week? I know that the majority of movies are trashy and useless as moral factors, but so are a great many pieces of literature, and reading is generally countenanced on quiet Sunday afternoons. There is no necessity for condemning the movie industry because some of its productions fall short of the moral and social uplift standard.

The motion picture has become a definite art form, and medium for public edification. Can anyone deny that many pictures have had qualities that would put the finest sermon to shame? Take, for instance, the picture depicting the life of Emile Zola which played here recently. Could any pastor preaching in a Lexington pulpit have hoped to put across the point as that picture did, that adherence to truth and ideals will necessarily result in personal victory for the adherent? Whether the picture was a true portrait or not, and I do not doubt some of its exaggerations, I, for one, was deeply moved by it, and felt conclusively a better man for having seen it.

And, going to the other side of the industry to where gayety and laughter is found, we cannot fail to see the good that can be done by things comic and humorous, in the best sense of the words. As a personal matter, I find it just as easy to believe in a God that has a delightful sense of humor, and a pleasant smile, as to believe in a God who goes around with a long face telling people what bad little boys they've been.

And I'll match that kind of religion with anyone's, be it a minister of the Gospel, or not. Religion that reflects the good, the kind, and the unselfish in both the active and emotional sides of life is all that is really necessary. What God really wants, if you can say that he really wants and expects anything, from man, is some sort of adherence to the principles exemplified in the life of Christ to the degree of which the individual is capable, and I can't believe that escape from boredom on the Sabbath day either violates this precept, or contravenes the commandment on the subject. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. . . . Who can define holiness? . . . six days shalt thou labor . . . and then rest, as God did when he created the world."

So we rest, and find relaxation in modern mediums of art and literature. Are they inherently sinful, I ask again? If so, why are they not soundly condemned all the time? If so, then those who find them sinful, but, at the same time, forceful, should band their efforts toward betterment and uplift of the medium, not toward suppression of it.

It's a changing world, thank goodness, and we must adapt ourselves to man's inventions, at the same time applying our religious ideals to those inventions for their betterment. Motion pictures, as a medium of expression, cannot, and ought not, to be suppressed, but should be made more effective for good.

No one wants to maliciously violate the sanctity of the Sabbath day, and no one, who advocates Sunday movies actually feels that that would be done. I, for one, wouldn't go to Sunday movies, because I find my rest and relaxation in the symphony concerts broadcast Sunday afternoons over the radio. But I plead for the right of men who cannot enjoy that phase of art.

CAMPUS COMMENT

By L. C. SCHULTZ and PAUL MULDOON

Lights Out . . . A Little Mistake . . . We Beat Our Drums, too

The Lighthouse Law

Bill Moscoso tells us that the Cubans have an excellent law which might be adopted in this country, if we had the set-up for it. The Cuban theatres are extremely dark when the lights go out, and the natives can sleep, smoke, or drink during the performance. To relieve these natives from any embarrassment which might arise when the lights go on, the government has ordained that each theatre must warn the patrons by ringing a gong three minutes before the turn of the light switch. It used to be very embarrassing, claims Moscoso, to awaken in a theatre, the lights blazing in your face, a cold cigar dangling from your mouth, and a half empty rum bottle rolling in your lap. The natives have termed the ordinance the "Lighthouse Law", because it gives such fair warning.

Our Mistake . . .

Because our article termed "A Breath of Scandal" was wrong in every insinuating point, because we are conscious of the ill-will which it might so easily create, and, moreover, because the Town of Lexington had every right to demand an accounting for such ill-founded facts, but refrained from taking such action, we draw your attention to the following letter:

Gentlemen:

With reference to your Campus Comment entitled "A Breath of Scandal," I beg to say:

(1) The donation of Warner Brothers Theatres was $100.00, not $125.00.

(2) The donation was delivered to the Board of Fire Commissioners and not the City Council.

(3) The donation was deposited with the Town Treasurer July 30, 1937, in conformity with law (Code of Lexington, Section 77 (1) (d) . . . Accounting . . . "Any and all funds appropriated by the Mayor and Council, as well as funds received from any other source or sources for the use and benefit of the Fire Department, shall be kept by the Town Treasurer in an account under the general head 'Fire Department' and shall be disbursed by order of the Board of Fire Commissioners for the Town of Lexington upon its warrant drawn on the Town Treasurer . . . C. S. Glasgow, Town Attorney.

We apologize to the Town Council for our evident mistake, we thank Mr. Glasgow for setting us right on the matter, and we pledge ourselves to a better perusal of "reputable sources which we may not divulge."

We Beat Our Drums, Too Mr. Karraker's article in ref-

Between The Sheets

By DERRELL DICKENS

Corsages . . .

According to the Associated Press, fraternity men at Washington University at St. Louis will no longer send corsages to their dates for the school dances.

The girls seem to be taking the new turn of affairs with good grace and little protest according to the article. The opinion of one coed on the situation was thus: "Well, if he pays for the dance and feeds me afterwards, why should I kick about flowers?"

The Anti-corsage League movement is fast growing in colleges and universities all over the United States. At Sewanee, Syracuse, and many other schools, this movement has taken root and is working successfully.

Dating bureau . . .

Under the auspices and direction of the administration of the University of Illinois, a "dating bureau" has been established. Such a system is expected to add greater joy and satisfaction to the students of this large university who don't have fraternity or sorority affiliations.

The establishment of this new bureau, however, had the effect of dealing a death blow to romance. Mistletoe was removed from over the board walk that has long been famous as a romantic spot. In a statement explaining the reason for the removal of the mistletoe, the university health officer said: Mistletoe has a great tradition, but science has robbed it of its romantic meaning by demonstrating that kissing is the real reason for the spread of colds, measles, diphtheria, and scarlet fever."

Football . . .

According to a professor at Yale University, football is the most dangerous of all sports in American colleges—but the same man also said it was more dangerous to drive a car to the stadium than it was to participate in the game.

Some staff . . .

1st. Stooze—"You'll never make a lawyer."
2nd. Stooze—"Why not?"
1st. Stooze—"You could never pass a bar."
—Exchange

New racket . . .

Five students at the University of Oklahoma have formed a gigolo firm. They date the "dateless" coeds of that institution for twenty-five cents an hour plus expenses.

LETTERS to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Well, Well! So Karraker thinks that Woodward and Fishel are competent to edit the Southern Collegian. I hate to embarrass anyone, but just what are their qualifications? I remember that Fishel once wrote an article about reporting for the Ring-tum Phi which was in the Collegian my freshman year. Woodward wrote a review of the last Troubadour production that was so nauseating that the players almost went on strike.

I happened to be in an informal meeting of a committee of the faculty which was to discuss whether the Collegian should be brought back in any form to the campus. It was an open forum and Woodward and Fishel were there with a few suggestions. They wanted to use smaller pages which would be cheaper, although there would be as much matter printed. They suggested printing Freshman themes and the speeches given at assemblies, etc. It would be a strictly "literary" magazine.

In that meeting when the members representing the old staff questioned the aims of Woodward and Fishel, we were assured by Dean Gilliam and President Gaines that Woodward and Fishel were not offering any suggestions for their own personal advancement. It would seem that someone made a mistake.

What reason is there for these two men to be mentioned as possible editors? They never did any work on the Collegian (except Fishel's one article representing his claim to literary fame). They have had neither the interest nor the ability to be either regular contributors or staff members of the Collegian. What about the old staff members . . . Neill, Schultz, Sugrue, Milligan, Philpott, Thompson, and the rest? These boys didn't merely offer suggestions. They worked and they worked hard. Don't they deserve something for their interest?

The old staff told the committee that if the committee requested a purely literary magazine, the old staff would print one. They are certainly more qualified to do so than Woodward, Fishel, and Co. If a literary magazine is desired, let's have it, but let's have it put out by the former staff.

Disgustedly,
George McInerney

A special Fancy Dress issue of The Ring-tum Phi will be issued on Thursday, January 27.

erence to the Southern Collegian seemed to present but one side of the story, particularly when Mr. Karraker advocated the overthrow of the old Collegian staff and the sponsoring of Jimmy Fishel and Ernest Woodward for the new management of the publication. Granting, perhaps that Fishel and Woodward are endowed with "literary ability, as well as a satisfactory wit", we are convinced that the old staff had the same attributes, and what is more, the same staff had experience. As a managing editor of the Ring-tum Phi, Fishel should know what he is about in dealing with literary work. Indeed, Fishel was once a member of the Collegian staff—a contributor to last year's publication. That he did not present his services to Jay Reid's Collegian of this year, shows his conservatism and his high ideals. An opportunist, Fishel can now capitalize upon his discretion. Woodward, we know is a brilliant sophomore, and a Ring-tum Phi reporter, too.

PREVUES

By J. B. CLEVELAND

(A) Tovarich (State; Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday) with Claudette Colbert, Charles Boyer, Basil Rathbone, Anita Louise, and others.

To have a bank account of 40 billion francs and live in a garret—well, you say it. Grand Duchess Tatiana Petrovna and her consort, General Prince Mikail Ouratieff, who are really Miss Colbert and Mr. Boyer incognito, are in just this fix although the money is in their trust through the foresight of the Czar. Their credit destroyed, they seek employment as maid and butler. Romance develops between them and the respective members of their employer's household, which happiness is only to be broken by their discovery by the Soviet Commissar (Rathbone). Russia's 40 billion hangs in the balance. The conclusion establishes this farce.

(B) Ebb Tide (State; Thursday and Friday) with Oscar Homolka, Frances Farmer, Ray Milland, Lloyd Molan, Barry Fitzgerald, and others.

R. L. Stevenson's story of three beachcombers in a stolen schooner, with Frances Farmer added by Hollywood as a love touch, produced in Technicolor, is what you have on the surface. There is much more underneath. As an utter rascal, Fitzgerald characterizes his part well. A remarkably good typhoon values lightly the lives of our interesting characters. Plague deprives our adventurers of a crew, and they head for South America to sell their stolen cargo and invest in mines. They risk fate when they stop over on an uncharted island in the South Pacific, which is ruled by a man, a rifle, and a Bible. Does the word "interesting" suit it?

V. M. I. will have a holiday on January 19, Lee's Birthday.

Generals Beat William-Mary By 42-20 Count

Spessard Scores 19 Points To Lead Big Blue Quintet

Washington and Lee flashed much of the power that carried it to the Southern Conference basketball title last year as it overwhelmed a weak William and Mary team, 42 to 20, here Tuesday night, to hand the Indians their twenty-first defeat in as many starts.

The victory opened the Blue Comet's defense of their state title and gave them their second conference victory.

Carson Scores

Taking an early lead on quick goals by Co-captains Kit Carson and Bob Spessard, the Generals went out in front and were never headed, leading 23 to 8 at the half.

The Big Blue turned in what was probably its best performance of the season, with Spessard returning to form to ring up nineteen points. Carson scored nine points and Ronny Thompson followed with seven.

So superior were the Generals in every department that Coach Cy Young used three full teams during the fray. The substitutes, who played nearly a third of the game, battled the Indians on almost even terms.

Tight Defense

Washington and Lee's air-tight defense kept the W-M offense away from the basket most of the evening, forcing them to resort to long shots from the floor. Vince Lusardi, who led the visitor's scoring with ten points, found his mark several times on long shots.

After running up an early 6 to 0 lead, the W-L attack slowed down and the Indians shaved the score down to 7 to 5. The Generals started on a scoring spree that netted them fourteen points before the opposition could again find the basket and the Southern Conference titlists led by a 23 to 8 score at the half.

The Generals continued to outclass the Indians throughout the second half, with Spessard scoring ten points before a team mate could drop one through.

Pinck, Dobbins and Cuttino Star As Frosh Crush Augusta, 66 to 17

Dropping in baskets almost at will, the Washington and Lee freshman team continued its string of victories by defeating the Augusta Military Academy five 66 to 17 here Wednesday night.

Dick Pinck and Howard Dobbins were again the big guns in the little Generals' offense as they gathered 21 and 14 points, respectively. The massacre began from the very start of the game as Dobbins, Cuttino, and Pinck dropped in one basket after another to make the score stand 20 to 4 at the end of the first quarter.

Tank Time Trials Fair, Twombly Says; Meem And Brent Farber Star

After the varsity and freshman swimming time trials which took place last Wednesday, Coach Cy Twombly voiced his opinion on the times as being just "fair." "Although they weren't so bad," asserted the swimming mentor, "nevertheless, I expect a lot of improvement from both squads before their first meets."

Among the most prominent times made by the varsity, those of Co-Captain Gil Meem held the limelight. In the 100 yard free style Meem led the dash men in this event as he was clocked in 52.2.

In the 150 yard backstroke time trials it was Meem again who finished first with a 1:41.1 timing. Finn made the second best time in 1:48.7. Hart and Davis finished third and fourth, respectively, in this race. Willis, with a 1:09.7 clocking and Hart swimming the 100 yard backstroke in 1:09.3, made the best time in this event.

In the breaststroke timing, Brent Farber clearly outclassed every other contestant in this event by covering the 100 yards in the excellent time of 53.7.

Jack Crawford, one of the freshman's promising swimmers, set the pace in the 50 yard backstroke, beating both Schultz and Friedman, covering the distance in 31.9.

Using the "butterfly" type of breaststroke, Crawford again won his heat as he swam the fifty yards in the impressive time of 30.3.

Following the procedure usually employed by Coach Bill Ellis, the freshman coach, the Augusta coach substituted an entirely new team to begin the second quarter. Coach Ellis replaced only two men to begin the second period; however, the Freshmen continued their scoring attack until the end of the first half, with substitutions increasing as the end of the half approached. The half finally ended with W-L leading 33 to 8.

The last period of the game started off with a bang as Ed Cuttino dropped in three field goals in rapid succession. Pinck and Dobbins continued to lead the offense until Coach Ellis substituted his third string. Even the Blue's third team couldn't be stopped and scored freely on their opponents until the end of the game.

Dobbins, Cuttino, Pinck, and Blanding played beautiful offensive and defensive ball, making it almost impossible for the Augusta men to get under the basket while the starting W-L line-up was playing. Outstanding among the General's substitutes were Bob Grey, Ed Trice and Fred Farrar.

Leading the visitors were Robinson with 8 points and Prexas with two field goals.

Mathis Names Wrestling Team

Five Lettermen In Line-up Against N. C. State Here Tomorrow

Five varsity lettermen and three sophomores have been selected by Coach Mathis to represent Washington and Lee's wrestling squad in their opening engagement against North Carolina State here Saturday afternoon.

Led by Captain Cal Thomas at 155 pounds and Bob Kemp at 126, who were both consistent winners last year, the prospects of the Blue and White grapplers seem rather hopeful. George McInerney, the 135-pounder, Chris Nielsen at 145, and Charley Lykes as heavyweight, are three other men who had experience on last year's squad.

Lykes formerly fought at 175, but in the absence of anyone above that weight has been pushed into the unlimited class.

Bob Summerall, Henry Braun, and Barney Farrier will take over the 118, 165, and 175 pound posts, respectively. Saturday's mat appearance will be the inaugural one for Summerall, who has shaped up so well in the past few months that he is rated highly, although he has never performed before.

Big Blue Wrestlers and Quintet Open With Four Wins, One Loss

By LEE BOOTH

January 17 — Washington and Lee's basketball and wrestlers, both varsity and frosh, went to work in inimitable fashion on their winter sports docket here last week-end, scoring four victories against a single reversal.

Coach Cy Young's quintet placed an additional Wahoo vanquishing on the books last Friday night to light the fuse to the brilliant week-end pyrotechnics. The win was extremely costly to the Blue Comets as Kit Carson, all-Southern forward and a potent factor in defense of the conference crown, went down for the count in the early moments of the tilt. Despite Carson's ejection, caused by a badly sprained ankle, the Generals immediately sensed the handicap and went to work to run up a 40-20 lead before the finale.

Returning to Lexington the next night, the Comets were faced by an inevitably dangerous crew of White Phantoms from North Carolina. The Tarheels rebounded from their first half doldrums in the waning period and staged one of their very familiar comebacks to run out on the better end of a 34-31 count.

The big surprise package of the evening was delivered in the form of Bill Borries, who came out in uniform "just to help Cy because he was in trouble." Borries' injured knee was sufficient to bar him from all further competition on the gridiron and hardwood. Knowing that Carson's loss would definitely enhance possibilities of a Carolina victory, the big fiery-thatched Borries offered his services at his own risk. His ability to stabilize the club in the face of defeat was probably the biggest reason in the Generals' halftime lead.

Personally accounting for the first nine points and amassing a total of sixteen in the first half, Bob Spessard, the tall lonesome pine who is always "hot" against the White Phantoms, was bottled up by the rejuvenated Phantoms in the last half, tallying a mere pair of foul shots.

As a preliminary to the Washington and Lee-Virginia varsity struggle, the finest looking Washington and Lee frosh outfit in many moons once again plundered the Baby Cavaliers on the Charlottesville court, 43-32.

Waging his own individual battle against Captain Billy McCann, Wahoo captain, Richard Pinck, whose fame was already established as a football player last fall, left the fray following a 23-point barrage on the Virginia basket to take all scoring honors for the evening. Howard Dobbins, big Louisville product, who has consistently co-starred with Pinck in previous yearling victories, was right behind his contemporary popping away continuously under the basket.

Another a'rooth-looking mat squad opened the defense of its Southern Conference title Saturday afternoon, decisively trouncing N. C. State, 22-8.

Although Coach Archie Mathis had been suffering with mental fevers over ineligibility and retirement from school of some of his "sure-winners," the squad breezed through the meet with six victories out of the eight matches. The feature match brought together Captain Cal Thomas of Washington and Lee and Captain Shimer of State. Shimer outlasted the stable General leader in an extra period and took a close referee's decision. Bob Kemp and Barney Farrier won by falls in the 126 and 165 bouts for the locals. McInerney, Nielsen, Braun, and Lykes were the other Blue winners.

BOB SPESSARD

Coach Mathis' frosh grapplers maintained a record carried for several years of no freshman wrestling team being defeated. The yearlings carried the fight all the way in swamping Augusta Military Academy, 32-5, Friday afternoon.

Rules Released For Dance Set

Continued from page one

vide for taking care of automobile traffic at the set and for handling of crowds at the intermission and end of the dances. The checking system will be similar to those used at previous dances.

Admission to the balcony on Friday night will be sold for $1.00 per person, Rogers said. Tickets for the other individual dances will be available at the following prices: Junior Prom, $3.50; Fancy Dress Ball, $5.50; Saturday tea dance, $1.00; and Omicron Delta Kappa Formal, $2.50.

Library Shows Rare Old Books

Continued from page one

canabula", published in Venice in 1499, was supposed to have its capital letters put in by hand but somehow they were omitted.

Also there is included a very recently published volume by Douglas C. McMurtrie, entitled "The Book," which was loaned for the exhibit by Bob Nicholson.

Treasurer of the National Graphic Arts Education Guild which sponsors the "Printing Education Week" is C. Harold Lauck, superintendent of the Journalism Laboratory Press and Virginia State Chairman to promote observance of the "Week."

CORRECT COLLEGIATE CLOTHES
—at—
ARTHUR SILVER'S
R. E. Lee Hotel Building

Adair-Hutton, Inc.
"Serving the Public over Half Century"
Phone 58 Lexington, Va.

Goldsmith Sport Equipment
Remington Guns, Ammunition
Colt Revolvers
Myers Hardware Store
Lexington, Va.

Rogers, Prater Lead Trackmen In Intrasquad Competition Tonight

In order to provide actual experience for his proteges in meets, Coach Fletcher has divided his indoor track hopefuls into two squads which will compete tonight in a practice session in Doremus Gymnasium.

No Home Meets

Although no meets will be held on the Generals home track, the mentor wants his men to become proficient in their respective assignments and this is perhaps the best possible way. One of the teams is captained by Charlie Prater, veteran distance runner, and the other by Jim Rogers, flash hurdler of the Blue.

The two teams will compete just as would two regular track teams and every event will be run off, including all of the field events.

The Prater assembly is composed of the following men: Carl W. Murray, Harvey Gwyn, Studwell, Nicholson, Melville, Crocker, McConell, Butts, Hynson, Kaler, Justice, Wolf, Bagnal, Martin, Delaplaine, Chapman, and Katelye. The Rogers edition is made up of Thuran, Ragon, G. Murray, Neilson, Whaley, Boisseau, Gilbert, Skarda, Libby, Gist, Wilkinson, Bishop, Sweeney, Roediger, Gargas, Porter, Swindler, Powers, and Evans.

Varsity, Frosh Meet Wahoos

Old Rivals Clash Tonight In Double Feature At Charlottesville

Washington and Lee will renew its time-honored feud with the University of Virginia on the basketball court tonight at Charlottesville when the Blue Comets face the Wahoos in a state title engagement.

Led by Captain Jimmy Edmunds, the Cavaliers have played but two collegiate games this year, losing to Navy, 36 to 14, and whipping Hampden-Sydney, 36 to 25.

Following the BIG BLUE

With LEA BOOTH

... Well, they're here again—those mysterious White Phantoms from Carolina (this isn't the Duke publicity department speaking) ... always a thorn in Coach Cy Young's side. Why? Because you can't relax for a single moment when you're playing a ball club coached by Walter Skidmore. ... For example: When the Comets streaked through those Phantoms down in Raleigh two years ago and at halftime held an overwhelming advantage (it was something like 35-19), those Tarheels just wouldn't quit. ... A rugged individualist named Andy Bershak, just another sophomore ball player to some but a treacherous ball-hawk to the Generals, paced the strongest second half comeback we have ever seen. ... With the governor of North Carolina on all fours down under the Tarheel basket, frantically leading some five thousand frenzied (and partisan) Carolinians with "Let's Go, Carolina," those Phantoms breezed through that lead in supernatural fashion. ... The final, 50-45, has long since been revered by the Tarheel followers as symbolical of one of the diamond-studded comebacks in that University's sports history. ... And that same Andy Bershak, now an all-American football player, will be hawking that same basketball in Doremus gymnasium tomorrow night. ... But don't get us wrong. ... Handy Andy, a monkey inspired by his versatility (he's an honor-student), is not a one-man team. ... Earl Ruth, all-Southern guard who captains the Carolinians for the second consecutive season, Pete Mullis, and Bill McCahren (a good replica of his brothers, Dave and Jim), have been playing basketball in Lexington since 1933. ... Mullis and McCahren still refer to their championship in Washington and Lee's South Atlantic tourney in '33 as their greatest thrill. ... Incidentally, this same Walter Skidmore was coaching that Charlotte (N. C.) high school club five years ago—no doubt this trio is quite familiar with Skidmore's system of basketball ... after these boys left Central high in Charlotte, Skidmore followed them right into the University and relieved Coach Bo Shepherd of his basketball duties in 1936. ... This boy Ruth loves to beat the Generals. Well acquainted with Kit Carson, Bob Spessard, and Frank Frazier, Ruth's exceedingly clever ball handling would remind one of Carson in some respects. ... Ruth, Carson, and Spessard comprise three-fifths of the all-Southern basketball team as it was picked following the tourney last year. (Norman Iler, and Jim Waller of Wake Forest completed the quint). ... Bershak barely missed by the narrowest margin. ... Perhaps a few of these highlights of a 15-year rivalry that stacks up with any in the south would be good enough reason why no man, woman, or child could lure any Washington and Lee student out of Lexington tomorrow night ...

Quoting Daily Tarheel, U. N. C. publication: "Elon's win over Washington and Lee indicates that Russ Young (how 'bout that?), General coach, really has something to mean about this year. He started groaning when they took the center jump out of the game. That out done the efficiency of his Mr. Bob Spessard (who scored 25 points against those heels in Raleigh) by at least one-half. Then Borries was hurt and put out for the season. Against Elon, Washington and Lee presented only two members of the club that downed Carolina in the Southern Conference finals last winter, Spessard and Kit Carson.

"Even if the Generals are having their troubles now, however, you can bet the family jewels that Washington and Lee's outfit will be hitting on all cylinders when it plays Carolina ..."

... Over one hundred points in the last two games have been tallied by the Brigadiers. ... Their high-scoring combine of Howard Dobbins, Dick Pinck, and Ed Cuttino are really warming up this corner. ... Talent is so profuse that it looks like old home week in the middle of Doremus gym when Coach Bill Ellis starts shipping in his shock troops, not by ones and twos, but by fives and tens. ... seems as if they've stopped piddling with small fry. ... if this keeps up, crowds will be just about as large at Brig games as at varsity tilts. ... One for the "Side Glance" department: Bill Borries moans that butter is 45 cents per and eggs are going up. ... that red-head won't look so bad bobbing up and down in the swimming pool. ... Twombly's men soon open with Randolph-Macon. ... Winter sports are hitting their stride. ... The frosh wrestlers opened with AMA this afternoon and the varsity grapplers will throw up their first defense of the conference title tomorrow afternoon when Coach Dave Morrish brings his N. C. State wolves up to knock at Coach Mathis' door. ... Morrish is probably the youngest mentor in the entire loop as 'twas only about two years ago he was declared 118-pound champion. ...

Class Notes

1869
Waller M. Brown recently retired from the Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company after fifty-seven years of continuous service. His address is Spring Hill, Mobile County, Ala.

Thomas H. Wallace writes that he is ninety years of age. He cherishes sacred memories of General Lee and his intimate association with him during the years from 1866 to 1869. He says: "May the Washington and Lee boys take him as their model and strive to live clean and fine lives as did he, the greatest man in history."

1879
Captain H. C. Getzendanner, of Charles Town, Jefferson County, W. Va., says: "I got my B. L. in 1879, and Judge Hugh Sheffey, of Staunton, Va., our lecturer on wills and probate practice, said: "I might say to you young men what the celebrated John Brown of Scotland said to his class of divinity students—Young men, three things you need and must have—Learning, God's Grace and Common Sense. Learning I can give thee if thou hast brains to take and digest it—God's Grace you can get by praying for it, but if ye have not common sense already, take to thy heels and fly away for thee canst get no good here."

1886
Dr. John Vallandigham McCall, Presbyterian minister of Sander-son, Texas, was a visitor to the campus in May. Dr. McCall was a student at Washington and Lee from 1883 to 1886, receiving his M. A. degree in three years. While a student at Washington and Lee he received the Taylor Scholarship, the Robinson Prize Medal and delivered the Cincinnati oration. He also was first stroke on the Albert Sidney Boat Crew, of which Mr. Penick was the coxswain.

1890
Dr. Douglas S. Anderson was honored by Tulane University, New Orleans, La., with the honorary degree of LL. B. at the 1937 commencement.

Joe Lykes is a member of the firm of Lykes Brothers Company, Incorporated, Steamship Lines.

His address is 17 Battery Place, New York. He has a son who is a freshman at Washington and Lee.

Don P. Halsey served last year as president of the Lynchburg Sesqui-centennial Association. In 1925 he was appointed judge of the sixth judicial circuit of Virginia, in which capacity he has served continuously.

Lee Hyatt is vice-president of the Union Bank & Trust Company, Monticello, Ark.

Harrington Waddell is principal of the Lexington, Va., public schools. He has had two sons in the University, who are now out in the world for themselves—one in the insurance business in Lexington, and the other practicing medicine.

1893
D. Hunter Huffaker is practicing medicine in the Roberts-Banner Building, El Paso, Texas.

Elijah Funkhouser is a consulting engineer, 7522 Eastlake Terrace, Chicago, Ill. He has a summer home near Lexington and returns frequently. He has two daughters, both married. Is now senior building appraisal engineer of Chicago and Cook County.

Pliny Fishburne is with Fishburne & Sons, prescription druggists, of Waynesboro, and is interested also in Fishburne Military School.

1894
Preston J. Beale is eastern sales representative of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Allen Rendall is a member of the law firm of Wise, Randolph, Rendall and Preyer, First National Bank Building, Shreveport, La. He has a place, "Green Acres," twenty miles down the river from Shreveport and raises Scotty dogs and roses. His wife is a painter and a member of the art colony of Taos in northern New Mexico. They have a summer home in Taos and spend their vacations in that country.

1896
Ransom Gillette is practicing law in Albany, N. Y., with offices at 19 D. & H. Building. In May he was appointed to fill an unexpired term as Judge of Columbia County Court.

Wells Goodykooz is a member Continued on page four

For Good and Fancy Food come to

McCOY'S GROCERY

Compliments

of BOLEY'S

JACKSON BARBER SHOP

It was good enough for General Robert E. Lee, it must be good enough for you.

A. A. HARRIS
LUNCH ROOM and BAKERY
Free Delivery
129 S. Main St. Phone 2005

Expert Watch Repairing
College Seal
Jewelry

HAMRIC & SMITH
Jewelers

Meet Your Friends At The
Lexington Billiard Parlor
AND THE ANNEX
BEER and WINE—WE DELIVER
Call Us Phone 88

J. ED DEAVER & SONS
Main Street, Lexington, Virginia
Suits Made To Order
$28.50 and Up
All new Fall and Winter Merchandise. Knox and Mal-lory Hats. Michael Stern, Hyde Park and Society Brand Clothes. Bostonian and Friendly Shoes.

McCRUM'S

FLOWERS

for Dances Parties

Birthdays

Telegraph Delivery of Flowers To Any City in the World

McCRUM'S, Inc.

VIC SNOW, Representative
Call 489

Class Notes

Continued from page three of the law firm of Goodykoontz & Slaven, Williams, W. Va.

James W. Lattomus is practicing law in the Citizens National Building, Wilmington, Del.

1897
William J. Lindenberg is in the food products business at 16 California Street, San Francisco.

Frank Mezik is rector of Nelson Parish, Nelson County, Virginia. His address is Arrington, Va. He has held this position for thirty-five years.

Thos. E. Marshall lives in Rocky Mount, N. C.

1898
Henry W. Anderson is a member of the law firm of Hunton, Williams, Anderson, Gay & Moore, Electric Building, Richmond, Va.

Borden Burr is a member of the firm of Benners, Burr, McKamy & Forman, Brown-Marx Building, Birmingham, Ala.

Lon D. Cartwright lives in Beaumont, Texas.

1899
Harlow S. Dickson lives at Elizabeth, Tenn.

Herbert Chermiside is clerk of the circuit court at Charlotte Court House, Va. His son is studying law at the University of Virginia.

John Edward Burwell is practicing law at Floyd Court House, Va. He is trial justice for Floyd County.

James Mullen is a member of the law firm of Williams, Mullen, Williams, and Hazelgrove, American Building, Richmond, Va.

1900
W. W. Keyser's address is 5164 Washington Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.

A. H. Throckmorton is professor in the School of Law, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

L. R. Holmes is with Furness, Withy & Company, Ltd., steamship owners and agents, Philadelphia, Penna.

Charles F. Harrison is commonwealth's attorney of Leesburg, Va.

1902
Morrison Hutcheson is practicing medicine at 209 Professional Building, Richmond, Va. He is a member of the University Board of Trustees, and is always cooperative and helpful in any matter pertaining to the welfare of Washington and Lee.

D. E. Witt is special agent for the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company, 210 Krise Building, Lynchburg, Va.

Sam Price is a member of the law firm of Price & McWhorter, Lewisburg, W. Va.

1903
C. R. Pilkington is with the American Fruit Growers, Inc., Orlando, Fla.

J. C. McPheeters lives at 125 W. Vance Street, Charlotte, N. C.

1904
Arthur Tabb lives at 201 North Fifteenth Street, Louisville, Ky.

George E. "Gee" Haw is practicing law under the firm name of Haw & Haw, Travelers Building, Richmond, Va.

E. W. Poindexter is a member of the firm of Poindexter & Poindexter, attorneys and counselors, Shenandoah Life Building, Roanoke, Va.

Lyle Moffett is the minister of the Presbyterian Church at McDowell, Highland County, Va.

R. D. Thompson is with the First and Merchants National Bank, Richmond, Va.

1906
Jimmie Caske, lawyer, Lynchburg, Va., member of the University Board of Trustees, says he visits Lexington so often that everybody knows all about him. Also reports that he is still single and enjoys a dub-game of golf, and is still a sound "Glass Democrat."

William L. Hoge is president and general manager of Menzel Company, Louisville, Ky. He has been elected director and regional vice-president of the National Association of Manufacturers. During the Ohio River Valley flood last January, at the request of the mayor of Louisville, he had charge of a boat rescue division and built a pontoon bridge 1700 feet long in twenty-five hours continuous work, which carried 1,000 people an hour during the flood crisis.

Basil Manly, Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., says that for the past three years, acting for the Federal Power Commission he was Commissioner-in-Charge of the National Power Survey and the Electric Rate Survey and has completed this work; that he is now back into a job to which he has given much attention and interest for a number of years, i. e. the negotiation of a new Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Treaty, under direction of the President. He also is the proud grandfather of three stalwart grandsons.

1907
Hugh Moomaw is practicing law in Roanoke, Va., with offices in the Colonial American Building.

1908
"Rags" Phillips is in the lumber business at Hardeeville, S. C. He is with the Savannah River Lumber Corporation, with offices at Port Wentworth, Ga., sixteen miles from his home.

Abe Somerville, after graduating from Washington and Lee, returned to Lexington and entered V. M. I., receiving a certificate of military proficiency. These two degrees have been most beneficial to him in his work with the Civilian Conservation Corps. His home is at Cleveland, Miss.

1910
Raymond W. Alley, B. A., 1910, recently purchased Lewis Mountain, estate of the late General John Watts Kearney, overlooking the grounds of the University of Virginia. The estate includes a colonial stone mansion and 137 acres of land. He has been practicing law and specializing in corporate finance in New York for about twenty years.

H. A. Deer is with the Marietta Paint & Color Company, Marietta, Ohio.

Fort Pipes has a son in the freshman class at Washington and Lee this year. Fort lives at 510 1/2 St. Peter, New Orleans, La.

R. P. Ashley is vice-president of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company of Boston, Mass.

Lawrence Lynch is division traffic supervisor in the Manhattan area of the New York Telephone Company. He says he will be very happy to have any 1910 Washington and Lee man give him a call when they come to New York.

Phil Herscher is cashier of the Kanawha Banking & Trust Company, Charleston, W. Va.

Leroy Hodges is with the Social Security Board, Bureau of Federal Old-Age Benefits, Washington, D. C.

Cary Johnston is a member of the firm of Carneal, Johnston & Wright, Architects and Consulting Engineers, Electric Building, Richmond, Va.

Chuck Robinson is president of the Better Business Service Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

1911
Edward E. Brown has completed his twenty-fifth year in the life insurance business with the Penn Mutual of Philadelphia. His home is in Chattanooga, Tenn. He has been married twenty-one years in July and has seven children ranging from ages 18 to 4. His son is a sophomore at Washington and Lee this year.

John H. Tabb has charge of property management and rentals for W. C. & A. N. Miller, property developers of Washington, D. C. His address is 1119 Seventeenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. He has been living in Washington for the past fifteen years.

Jesse Felix West, Jr., is United States postmaster at Waverly, Va. He is married and has two children, William Cabell West and Katherine Baird West.

1912
A. G. Lively resigned his position as circuit judge the first of March and again took up the private practice of law in Lebanon, Va. His partner is Clarence C. Burns, LL. B., 1901.

Lawrence E. Goldman has been practicing law in Kansas City since the World War. He has a son nineteen years old who is a junior at Missouri University. He recounts many pleasant meetings with Washington and Lee classmates.

Francis Hearzel has not been back to Lexington while school was in session since he graduated in 1912. He practiced law in Roanoke, Va., for two years after graduation, then moved to Kingsport, Tenn., where he practiced until 1922. While there he prepared the city charter for Kingsport, and was its first city attorney. In 1922 he moved to Asheville, N. C., and has been actively engaged in practice there since then. He was married in 1914 and has three children, two girls and a boy.

1913
Herbert Tyler Taylor is with A. M. Pullen & Co., certified public accountants, Richmond, Va. His residence address is 3811 Fauquier Avenue, Richmond, Va. He has three sons.

S. C. Rose has a plantation known as Clifton Place, seven miles from West Point, Miss., owns the golf course and keeps his muscles up and his weight down playing the nine holes.

Thornton Allen has his own music publishing company known as the Thornton W. Allen Music Company, National Headquarters for College Music. His slogan is "If It's College Music, Ask Allen."

C. C. (Red) Moore has changed his address to 2170 Arlington Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

Edward S. Delaplaine is practicing law in Frederick, Md.

Pete Gibson is a member of the law firm of Marcum and Gibson, First Huntington National Bank, Huntington, W. Va.

Ed Lee has had a long and serious illness but is now entirely recovered. He is in the insurance business at 176 Fifth Avenue, New York. He is still secretary of the New York Alumni Association and

A Message From Dr. Gaines

Nothing in the recent history of alumni relationships at this college or any other college holds more promise of genuine assistance for the institution or seems more intelligent in its design than what we in our group call the Class-Agent Plan. It is simple, it is not to be a strain upon any one man's abilities, and in the aggregate it can not fail to be a stimulus and material assistance to Washington and Lee. In this brief word I wish particularly to record my gratitude for every son of the University who joins in the plan and especially for those who serve as Class Agents themselves. They are making a contribution greater than even they can surmise and they are placing Washington and Lee lastingly in their debt.

FRANCIS PENDLETON GAINES, President

continues to do a fine piece of work.

Fred McWane is director general of the Virginia Bicentennial Commission with headquarters at the John Marshall Hotel, Richmond, Va.

Henry E. Peoples is secretary and treasurer of O'Neal & McLain, Inc., Real Estate Insurance, Decatur, Ga.

George West Diehl, D. D., is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Corpus Christi, Texas. He is president of the Corpus Christi Civic Music Association and chairman of the South Texas Crippled Children's Society.

P. D. Converse is a professor in the University of Illinois. His address is 402 Penn Avenue, Urbana, Illinois.

1914
Harry L. Miller, upon graduation, accepted a position with the New River Grocery Company, wholesale grocers of Hinton, W. Va., of which his father was president. He resigned this position to enter the first officers' training camp, was commissioned first lieutenant, Infantry, assigned to Company E—354th Infantry—89th Division, at Funsten, Kansas. After the war he again took up the grocery business as assistant manager of the same company, later became secretary and treasurer, and on his father's death, was made president and general manager.

1915
Major Frank B. Hayne has been ordered by the War Department to the Soviet capital as assistant military attache and language student.

C. C. Chambers, LL. B., 1915, has been elected circuit judge in Logan County, W. Va.

Joe Milner is manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Gulfport, Miss.

1916
John M. Raines is state manager of the Little Rock branch of The Travelers Insurance Company. Will send his son to Washington and Lee next year.

Harrison Magruder lives at 326 North Main Street, Woodstock, Va. Lorentz White will have a son in the freshman class next year at Washington and Lee.

David Falk is in the department store business and is president of the Florida Retail Merchants' Association. He is also on the State Welfare Board handling relief in Florida. Is always glad to see his friends who are wintering in Florida.

1917
Bill Burtner is employed as attorney in the office of the assistant solicitor general, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

Charlie McNitt is practicing medicine at 114 East Sixty-Second Street, New York, N. Y.

Billy Cox is assistant professor in the Department of Engineering Mechanics, School of Engineering, Yale University. He was in Lexington for finals and the twentieth anniversary of the class of 1917.

1918
Harper Poling is in the oil business at Blackwell, Okla. His firm is Marileen Oil & Gas Company.

Russell B. Goodwin is a member of the law firm of Hall, Goodwin, and Paul, Board of Trade Building, Wheeling, W. Va.

Ben Tillar is president of the W. T. Tillar Company, "Leaders in Farm Machinery," Emporia, Va. He is married and has a son and daughter. Is putting a great deal of time and thought into building a new home.

1919
Willie Barron is in the Coca Cola Bottling Company business in Rome, Ga.

Leonard T. Brown has been engaged in the wholesale paper trade for seventeen years, first with the New Haven Paper Company, and for the past ten years with the firm of Lott-Merlin, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., the past five years as an officer and executive. He is married and has a twelve-year-old daughter, Muriel Keith, whom he hopes to enter at Sweet Briar. He says he is still an undergraduate as far as Sigma Chi and Washington and Lee are concerned, and will drive miles to see the Generals play any eastern engagement.

Ted Evans has been rector of Trinity Church, New Haven, Conn., since December, 1935. Is married and has a son and daughter.

John A. Witt is in the insurance business with offices in the Peoples National Bank, Lynchburg, Virginia.

1920
E. G. Bailey is with the Federal Home Administration, American Building, Richmond, Va.

Henry Baker is with the Sharon Steel Corporation at Sharon, Pa. He is manager of cold rolled sales.

John Blocker is practicing law in St. Petersburg, Fla., with offices in the Equitable Building. He is married and has three children—all girls.

Harry Burns lives at 108 South Broad Street, Commerce, Ga.

Carl Gilchrist is connected with the subsidiary companies of Columbia Oil and Gasoline Corporation in the capacity of assistant secretary and credit manager, with offices in the Kanawha Valley Building, Charleston, W. Va.

James Pittman Hill, Jr., is practicing law in Jacksonville, Fla. His members of the New York Stock Exchange, 61 Broadway, New York. He and his family live in New Canaan, Conn.

Howard Elder has been teaching Latin and French in the Pine Bluff, Ark., High School (the Junius Jordan High School); will teach Latin and French at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind. He married Margaret Brewster of Pine Bluff, Ark., in 1934.

Wm. E. Nebbett is practicing law in Lunenburg, Va.

1923
"Student" Frew is with the Winstons Mills, United Rubber Products, Winstonsboro, S. C.

Raymond Wickersham is pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Waterboro, S. C. Has been in this charge for four years. He is married and has three children.

J. Franklin Rushton, Jr., prominent Birmingham alumnus, has a winter home and yacht in Key West, Fla.

Ted Harris is writing voluminously, doing radio work, and vacationing on an island off North Carolina where there are palmetto trees and sand.

1924
J. Melvin Lovelace is practicing law in Suffolk, Va. He is married and has a daughter four years old.

Stuart A. MacCorkle is a professor at the University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

John G. Guerrant is with the Virginia Paper Company, Richmond, Va.

1925
Billy McRitchie is with the Guarantee Trust Company of New York, One Broadway, New York. His home is at 9 Beverly Gardens, Bronxville, New York.

1926
Ted Hecker lives at 3538 Ninety-First Street, Jackson Heights, New York.

Jack McGiffin is vice-president of McGiffin & Company, steamship and forwarding agents, Jacksonville, Fla.

A Letter to the Alumni

To the Alumni of Washington and Lee:
A good many years ago a criminal convicted of first-degree murder in New York State mounted the gallows platform for the final ceremony in his earthly career. He was asked if he had anything to say before the trap was sprung. He replied "No, nothing to say, but I will sing you a song." Thereupon he broke loose into one of the humorous ballads of the day and sang all the verses.

The President of your Alumni Association has no desire to draw too close an analogy between himself and any criminal. He will leave that to others. He does, however, feel this in common with the party referred to above: He has nothing in particular to say, but he would like to ask a few questions.

1. Now that you have been from Washington and Lee for one year, or for ten years, or for twenty-five, or maybe seventy years, what do you think of the place?
2. Is Washington and Lee the gift of Providence to mankind in the educational world or is it, as one man about to graduate said, "stagnant"?
3. Are you going to encourage your son to go there, or are you not? And if so, why? And if not, why not?
4. Is Washington and Lee the finest liberal arts college in the South, and why do you think it is? And if you think it isn't, what have you got against it?
5. What do you think of Washington and Lee's position in intercollegiate athletics, and are you in favor of openly or secretly subsidizing football players?

The above questions raise points which many alumni seem to be greatly interested in and are thinking about, but we would like to know just what you have to say on these subjects. Your President places himself at your disposal as a medium through which your comments may be passed. You may address him care of the Alumni Office in Lexington. He feels sure that Dr. Gaines joins him in welcoming your views on these important questions.

Faithfully yours, CLARENCE L. SAGER.

offices are in the Atlantic National Bank Building.

William E. Johnston is with the American Sugar Refining Company, 120 Wall Street, New York, in the capacity of assistant sales manager. He is married and has a son and daughter. The family home is at Tenafly, N. J.

Charles Edgar Kievan is with the Texas Concrete Reinforcing Steel Institute, in the capacity of executive secretary. His address is Box 623, Houston, Texas. He has a son, thirteen year old, weighing 170 pounds—good football prospect.

Robert William Lowe is with the Panther Creek Mines, Springfield, Illinois.

C. D. McCabe is working for the Golden Petroleum Company, San Angelo, Texas.

Ott Magruder is living at 161 W. 78th Street, New York City, N. Y.

1921
J. H. T. Sutherland has been superintendent of schools in his home county of Dickenson since 1923. His letter was written on his fortieth birthday and eleventh wedding anniversary. He has twins, boy and girl, nine years old.

Torrence Wolford is practicing law in Washington, D. C. His address is 1630 Fuller Street.

John L. Patterson is manager of the Eastern Missouri Department of the Massachusetts Bonding & Insurance Company. His offices are at 552 Pierce Building, St. Louis, Mo.

William B. Patterson is working in the Presbyterian Mission at Tenghsien, Shantung, China.

1922
Raymond Smith is still with Biggs, Mohrman & Company,

1938 Class Agents

- Clarence L. Sager, President of Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., announces the following Class Agents for 1938:
- 1936-L Charles B. Cross, 706 Professional Building, Portsmouth, Va.
 - 1935-L William Schuhle, Jr., 1107 Wise St., Lynchburg, Va.
 - 1935-L W. W. Brown, Union Producing Co., Shreveport, La.
 - 1934-A Ruge DeVan, DeVan & Co., Charleston, W. Va.
 - 1934-L Thomas D. Anderson, Gulf Building, Houston, Texas.
 - 1933-A Luther Violett, Jr., Dun & Bradstreet, East Ohio Gas Building, N. E. C. Rockwell Ave. and East Sixth St., Cleveland, Ohio.
 - 1933-L Donald K. Crawford, Elkins, W. Va.
 - 1932-A Kemper Jennings, Mainland High School, Daytona Beach, Florida.
 - 1932-L Martin P. Burks, III, Roanoke, Va.
 - 1931-A Ben M. Ayars, 308 South Gregg St., Columbia, S. C.
 - 1931-L Walter Hoffman, National Bank of Commerce Building, Norfolk, Va.
 - 1930-A Lawrence Y. Foote, Ross Building, Hattisburg, Miss.
 - 1930-L Benjamin L. Rawlins, Jr., 208 South LaSalle St., Chicago.
 - 1929-A Allen Morgan, Jr., First National Bank, Memphis, Tenn.
 - 1929-L Ralph M. McLane, American National Bank Building, Pensacola, Fla.
 - 1928-A George F. Atwood, 118 Clay Ave., Ferguson, Mo.
 - 1928-L T. B. Bryant, Jr., Orangeburg, S. C.
 - 1927-A Kenneth A. Durham, Davonport Hosiery Mills, Inc., Chattanooga, Tenn.
 - 1927-L C. Wells Little, 120 W. Washington Street, Hagerstown, Md.
 - 1926-A Paul M. Schuchart, 2248 N. Third St., Harrisburg, Pa.
 - 1926-L Robert O. Bentley, Peoples Trust Building, Hackensack, N. J.
 - 1925-L H. Edward Rietze, Jr., 977 Logan St., Louisville, Ky.
 - 1925-L George T. Clark, Ingraham Building, Miami, Fla.
 - 1924-A Frank C. Switzer, Harrisonburg Mutual Telephone Co., Harrisonburg, Va.
 - 1924-L Randolph G. Whittle, 6 Kirk Ave., Roanoke, Va.
 - 1923-A D. Raymond Snively, Hagerstown Leather Co., Hagerstown, Md.
 - 1923-L George Holbrook, Century Indemnity Co. of Hartford, Hartford, Conn.
 - 1922-A
 - 1922-L Edmund D. Campbell, Southern Building, Washington, D. C.
 - 1921-A John L. Patterson, 552 Pierce Building, St. Louis, Mo.
 - 1921-L John Bell, Knight, Thompson and Turner, Tampa, Fla.
 - 1920-A Randolph M. Cabell, Covington, Va.
 - 1920-L L. Berkeley Cox, Aetna Life Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn.
- 1931
Lloyd Myers had typhoid fever in the spring but has entirely recovered. His home is in Bristol, Tenn.
- Chan Gordon and his bride were among the alumni at finals. Chan is still in the coal business, traveling from East Lansing, Mich.
- Herb Luria, III, is vice-president of the Grace Iron and Steel Corporation, Iron and Steel Scrap, Brooklyn, N. Y., a subsidiary of Luria Bros. & Co., Inc.
- 1932
Z. V. Johnson, Jr., is living in Danville, Va., and is the junior member of the law firm Aiken, Sanford & Johnson, 422 Masonic Building.
- George Smith is still practicing law in Little Rock with the firm Rose, Hemingway, Cantrell and Loughborough, 819 West Fourth Street.
- Leighton McKinney is still selling insurance in Denison, Texas (301 1/2 Woodard Street); says that he occasionally sees Ed Nesbitt down in Dallas.
- 1933
Cliff Hemming is in the insurance business in Meridian, Miss. He married a Texas girl.
- Irving Bricken is a member of the firm of Bricken Brothers, Inc., real estate, 565 Fifth Avenue, New York.
- Wallace Sheffield is with the Sheffield Company, Americus, Ga. Jack Garrison is living at 16 West Park Avenue, Greer, S. C. Is working with the Crane Company, and is still a bachelor.
- 1934
Sam Engelhardt is married and has a son a year old. He is a cotton planter at Shorter, Ala.
- Ken Davis is with the Simonds Saw & Steel Company, in the Boston office.
- Norwood E. Band is associate minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of Newark, N. J.
- Dick Grafton is with the New York Life Insurance Company. He lives at 104 East Ferry Road, Morrisville, Pa. He married Elizabeth Breneman, who attended Washington and Lee dances. They have a baby girl, born March 27, 1937.
- Fred Funkhouser is with the Harrisonburg Loan & Trust Corporation, Harrisonburg, Va.
- 1935
Isaac Grier Wallace is a designing engineer for the Duke Power Company in Charlotte, N. C.
- George Boyd has completed his first year of study at Harvard Law School.
- Norman Fitzhugh, Jr., Charleston, W. Va., is working toward a certified public accountant's degree.
- Karl P. Willard was married a year ago last June and attended finals at Washington and Lee on his honeymoon. He is with the Porter Mirror and Glass Company, of Fort Smith, Ark.
- Winn Smith is with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Received his M. A. in June from Penn State.
- 1936
C. Boyd Allen is working for the Allen-Squire Company, shoe manufacturers, of Spencer, Mass. Has been sent on tours of inspection of the cattle country two or three times and so has seen most of the United States, Mexico, Canada and South America. In his letter said he was getting ready to "walk down the aisle on May 15." Hoped to come to finals with his bride.
- "Doc" Sloan is studying medicine at Johns-Hopkins.
- Al Kahn is studying medicine at Harvard Medical School.
- Angus Powell is in the Harvard Business School.
- Howard Melton is with the Howard E. Melton Company, Inc., Oklahoma City, Okla., Delco-Frigidaire distributors.
- Lyle Moore is working for Stokely Brothers & Company, growers and canners of vegetables. Is on the road quite a bit. Was married last fall.