Minstrel Show Schedules Live TV Program in Roanoke

Set WBDJ-TV Show Tuesday

Washington and Lee's "Deevine Comedy" Minstrel cast has scheduled a live television performance on a Roanoke station Tuesday afternoon.

The program is set for WBDJ-TV (channel 7) at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. End men Ike Smith, Steve Nachman, Roger Doyle and Kelly Young will be featured, as well as the four girls from Hollins College appearing in the Minstrel.

Frank Parsons, W&L Director of Publicity, will appear on the television station WLS-TV (channel 10) tomorrow between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. Parsons will discuss the Minstrel production with Jim Garrett, master of ceremonies of the "Saturday" show.

Both programs are being planned for the promotion of the Minstrel's Hollins College performance, Wednesday evening, March 21, said Andy Greenman, Minstrel Publicity Director.

Gordon Gooch, chairman of the sponsoring Student War Memorial Scholarship Fund Committee, and Jack McQuiggan, director of the production, will also appear on WBDJ-TV to explain the purpose of SWMSFC and of the Minstrel Show.

Fraternities State Hazing Opinion; Attitude Changes

By BILL MILLER

Although the opinions of the fraternities on the Washington and Lee campus concerning paddling are not final, there seemed to be a definite change in attitude this week.

As far as could be determined, the opinions run like this: seven houses favor the adoption of paddling or a status quo in the present system which includes paddling; seven houses voice disapproval of the practice; and three houses have not held meetings this week and no official opinion is available.

The Kappa Sigs almost completely abolished paddling this week. They have delegated all paddling authority to the pledgemaster and a special committee has been organized to investigate all other aspects of hazing. The house said that the IFC representative should carry a "no paddling" decision to the next Monday IFC meeting.

Other Houses

Phi Kappa Psi does not have paddling and its decision is that the treatment of the pledges should be left up to the individual houses.

Delta Tau Delta gave a similar decision. The Deltas don't have paddling, but they don't want "to force any action on the other houses."

Zeta Beta Tau voted against paddling and a fraternity spokesman said they have not had paddling for over five years.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has paddling but they have not had a house vote yet. The decision will be left to the house president at the next IFC meeting.

Beta Theta Pi has paddling but they are taking no definite stand on what the IFC should do.

Sigma Nu plans to keep paddling, a spokesman said.

Phi Delta Theta reported that they have no paddling and that any change would not affect them. They are also leaving a final decision up to the house president.

Lambda Chi also voted against paddling.

To Speak on Wilson Policy

Gordon Alexander Craig, one of the nation's distinguished young historians and professor of history at Princeton University, will speak on "Woodrow Wilson and American Foreign Policy" at the annual Phi Beta Kappa assembly in Lee Chapel, April 12.

The initiation of the 17 Washington and Lee students selected by the scholastic society will follow the talk. The initiation ceremonies and a banquet will be held at 6 p.m. that evening.

Professor Craig joined Princeton's history department in 1941 and nine years later—after twice interrupting his career for public service—was advanced to a full professorship.

Valedictorian of the Princeton Class of 1936 and late a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University, he attracted attention in this country and Europe with the publication of his most recent work, "Politics and the Prussian Army, 1640-1945."

Collaborating Editor

He was collaborating editor for "Makers of Modern Strategy: Military Thought from Machiavelli to Hitler" and with Felix Gilbert edited "The Diplomats" from 1919 to 1939.

Following World War II, Professor Craig served as Chairman of the Editorial Board of the Princeton University Marine Corps History Project, which in 1951 published the unique volume, "The U. S. Marines and Amphibious War."

Earlier during the war he served as a consultant with the Office of Strategic Services as with the Special Division of the Department of State.

"Inspiring Lecturer"

Rated by Princeton undergraduates as one of the University's "most inspiring lecturers" and a frequent lecturer at the National War College, Professor Craig in 1944 was co-author of "The Second Chance: America and the Peace" and four years later was an editor of "The Search for a Principle of Authority in Europe, 1715-Present."

Craig was Visiting Professor of German History at Columbia University in 1947-48 and Visiting Professor of Diplomatic History at the same institution in 1949-50. In 1952 he was invited to give the Webster Memorial Lecture at Bryn Mawr College and in 1951-52, while on leave from the University, was a member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton.

Coif Elects Three Students To Membership Listing

Three law students were elected to the Washington and Lee University Order of the Coif for maintaining graduation averages in the upper ten per cent of their classes.

Those named this year are Bev Stephenson, Ed Ellis and George Wilson. Election of the new members was held March 15.

The officers for the next year are the following: Professor E. M. Faris, president, and Professor Wilfred J. Ritz, secretary-treasurer.

Governor Stanley To Introduce Barkley at First Session, April 30

By DICK ANDERSON

Virginia's Governor Thomas B. Stanley has accepted an invitation to be at the April 30 opening session of Washington and Lee's Democratic Mock Convention and introduce Senator Alben W. Barkley's keynote address.

Senator A. Willis Robertson, Virginia senator and resident of Lexington, is also expected to be on hand for the two-day convention, Carl D. Swanson, convention chairman, said today.

Stanley and Robertson are among the first of state and national Democratic party leaders to express an interest in attending the convention. Swanson said that he expected sev-

Members of all 48-state delegations and six territorial delegations for the 1956 Democratic Mock Convention were posted today by the Convention Steering Committee.

Lists have been placed on the ODK bulletin board in front of Payne Hall, on the Law School bulletin board in Tucker Hall, and on the Co-op bulletin board.

Swanson said 990 names were on the list and that every member of the Washington and Lee Student Body was either on a state delegation or on the staff of the convention.

The chairman of each state delegation will receive a copy of the list next week after more copies have been mimeographed.

Ft. Lauderdale Will Prohibit Student Abuses

Due to the number of college students committing acts of destruction, trespassing, and illegal use of public property, the City of Fort Lauderdale has passed an ordinance controlling such actions and has notified the University of this.

The letter, arriving Monday from the Fort Lauderdale Apartment House Association, said "the students who refuse to cooperate and abide by this ordinance will be referred to local law enforcement personnel, arrests will be made, and the press will be permitted to publish names of the students, as well as the schools they attend and the fraternal organization to which they may belong."

Ordinance Prohibitions

The ordinance includes the prohibition of (1) playing ball on the public and private beaches, (2) fishing on public beaches between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m., (3) operating motor vehicles on beaches, (4) robbing or changing in a moving vehicle or on the beaches, (5) throwing trash on the beaches, streets, sidewalks and lots, and (6) picnicking on the public beaches except in designated areas.

Emphasis was also placed on the prohibition of drinking alcoholic beverages on the public beach or in the public picnic areas. Fires are not to be built except in designated spots.

Bathing while nude, the use of abusive or indecent language and the use of public beaches while under the influence of intoxicants are also prohibited.

"Catch-all" Section

A "catch-all" section of the ordinance labeled "Disturbing Peace on Public Beach" says that no persons may cause any disturbance or disorder on the beaches. "Any person who refuses, when commanded by a police officer of the city, to leave the public beach immediately, shall be guilty of an offense for refusal to obey the order or command of a police officer, and deemed to be a rioter or disturber of the peace."

by a close vote after a split developed between the Democratic forces led by Senator Harry Byrd and the "Young Turk" wing of the party.

The 64-year-old native Virginian was born in Spencer, Va., and was educated in the public schools of Henry County and at the Eastman Business College in Poughkeepsie, New York.

He was elected to the Virginia House of Delegates in 1930 and served there until 1946. He was a member of the Governor's Advisory Board on the Budget during that time and was Speaker of the House in 1942, 1944, and 1946.

Following this, he was elected to Congress in November, 1946, to fill an unexpired term from the 5th Congressional District. He was re-elected twice before leaving the House of Representatives in 1952.

Senator Robertson was born in Martinsburg, W. Va., in 1887, and received his B.A. and LL.B. degrees from the University of Richmond. In 1945 he received an honorary LL.D. degree from Richmond and was similarly honored at Washington and Lee in 1950.

He began practicing law in Buena Vista in 1908 and served in the Virginia State Senate from 1915-22. From 1922 to 1928 he was Commonwealth Attorney for Rockbridge County.

After serving in the House of Representatives from 1933 to 1947 as Congressman from the 7th District and as a Representative-at-Large, the Lexington Senator was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1946 to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Carter E. Glass. He was re-elected to the Senate in 1948 and 1954.

Senior Interviews Posted by Farrar

The Burrows Corporation will be represented on the Washington and Lee campus on March 20 and seniors graduating in June are asked to contact Assistant Dean James Farrar for appointments. The representative is from their sales department.

On Wednesday, March 21, a representative from the State Planners Bank of Richmond will visit the W&L campus.

The General Electric Corporation will be represented here Thursday, March 22 and the Corning Glass Company will be represented on the next day. The interviews for the Corning Glass Company will be for students interested in sales and personnel.

Hollins Tickets

Tickets for the Hollins performance are still on sale, said Greenman. Some 850 seats are available for the 8 p.m. show in Hollins Auditorium, and the price of the tickets will stay at $1.00. The Hollins appearance marks the first time the show has been produced outside of Lexington.

Greenman said that tickets will be available at the door for W&L students who were unable to get to see the production here this weekend.

The production opened here last night, and the final stagings will be given in the Troubadour Theater at 8 p.m. today, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. tomorrow.

"The Deevine Comedy" is an original musical comedy based on a minstrel format. It concerns four angels who become bored with their haloes and decided to revisit Mother Earth with her many temptations. Many of the songs are original compositions by Carl Hall, Sweet Briar sophomore, and Jim Lewis, W&L senior.

W&L Seniors Get Service Assignments

Washington and Lee seniors in advanced military training have received their service assignments from the Army for the period following their graduation. Thirty-five of the students have been assigned active duty for two years and reserve duty for four. Thirty-three students will enter for six months of service and seven and one-half years of reserve duty.

Of those men assigned two years active duty, five were assigned to the infantry, three to armor, 18 to artillery, one to the engineer corps, and two to the signal corps. Also among those assigned two years of duty were two men to the chemical corps, two in transportation, and one to the quartermaster corps.

Of the 33 men assigned to six months of duty, 13 will serve in the infantry, nine in the artillery, eight in armor divisions, two in the engineer corps and one in the quartermaster corps.

Applications for these assignments were made last fall. After having been approved by the instructors, the requests were sent on to higher authorities to be acted upon.

Southern Collegian Meets

There will be a meeting of the editorial staff of the Southern Collegian at 7 p.m. Monday, March 19, to discuss plans for the Spring Dance issue of the magazine.

'True Story' of Gymnasium Told; Campus Bearing Pleases Donor

By HARRY MOSES and ELLIOTT JOFFE

In view of all the late articles about Doremus Gymnasium we thought that you might want to know the true story concerning our athletic building. It has been stated that because of the courteous efforts of a student, even before the Student Service Society was in existence, Washington and Lee obtained its This is the way it really happened: (The scene is a college campus in Lexington. A well-dressed gentleman approaches a student who has just come from class.)

Doremus: Pardon me young man, I wonder if you would give me a little information.

Student (snapping to attention): Certainly sir, what can I do for you?

Doremus: I was passing through and was attracted by your beautiful campus.

Student (interrupting): I'll be glad to show you around, if you wish sir, since my next class isn't until 1600.

Doremus: I hear you have quite a history of tradition here.

Student: Yes sir, we are proud to be associated with that great Southern Civil War general who fought so gallantly for the rebel cause.

Doremus: I've heard much about your architecture. But where are your Greek columns?

Student: Oh no sir, we have Gothic styling. It fits in more with the atmosphere of the school. We like to place ourselves back in ancient times, medieval of course.

Doremus: Very interesting. Let's see some more.

(For the next hour Doremus is shown the rest of the campus by the courteous young student. We now find Doremus saying goodbye to the student in the center of the campus.)

Doremus (puzzled by the orderly column of students who are forming in line on the campus): Thanks very much for your help. You're a fine young lad. By the way, one thing has troubled me. I've heard about your conventional dress here, but don't you think you're carrying it a little bit too far.

Student (puzzled, but jokingly): Oh no, sir, we all enjoy wearing the same outfit.

Doremus: I've been so impressed by your patience and friendliness that I've decided to donate a gym to the school.

Student (protestingly): But sir, we already have a gym.

Doremus: Nonsense, my boy, I admire your humility, but don't try to put me off. I'll see the school receives my personal check in the morning. (He adds jokingly) Say hello to General Robert E. Lee for me.

Student (convinced that Doremus is completely off his rocker): All right, I will sir. (In sotto voice to himself) He must mean General Stonewall Jackson.

(With that, he climbed into his car and gazed back at the school.) Looks just like West Point, he mused.

Letters to the Authors

Recently we received a letter from a Sem girl telling us enthusiastically about a night she spent on the foot bridge some weeks ago. It seems she had such a delightful evening that she wrote this verse in commemoration of the event.

To be sung to the tune of "The Great Pretender". It stretches wide across the Maury, And on it marches the band with flags unfurled. The day is cold and there in all its glory Stands the longest non-suspension foot bridge in the world.

That's all.

Fraternity Loyalty Needs Probing; Carr Questions Caskie's Column

By CLAY CARR

Notes to Max: One, you said, 'he has never made clear to me what is organically wrong with conforming.' I said (in my last column), 'Conformity itself is not a positive evil... It becomes a positive evil when it is forcibly impressed on everyone.' I made the same point four columns ago. I am not attacking conformity—just bovine conformity.

Two, you referred to 'the necessity of a certain amount of personal conformity.' I said (in my last column), 'For most people—and most of the students here—it (conformity) is the only way they will ever get anything resembling a set of values.' Same point four columns ago.

Three, you said, 'The inner-directed person is on the numerical decline, ... making (them) ... relics of the past.' You would make relics of Roosevelt, Picasso, Shoenberg, Stalin, Tillich, Hitler and Mussolini? It might be worth the note that the last two rose to power and destruction because their followers blindly conformed to their bombastic pronouncements.

But now to the column proper. The ancient Roman swore allegiance to family, country and God, as does the modern Boy Scout. In the immediate situation of W&L, this might be more adequately phrased as loyalty to fraternity, to university, and to God. I would like to take the next three columns and set down my own ideas on these—perhaps even in a positive way.

First, let me make a general point. None of the three phrases refers to loyalty to a particular institution as much as loyalty to a set of values—or ideas. Consequently, I shall talk primarily in terms of values and ideas.

Fraternities Profaned

To paraphrase Keats, fraternities are too often profaned. But there seems to be one question too seldom asked: What is the ultimate value of the fraternity?

If we examine the name, this value seems to be 'brotherhood'—a most hackneyed term. Let me develop my own idea of what this brotherhood should be.

I take brotherhood to mean a very personal inter-dependence of one person on another. This means mutual respect and understanding; mutual acceptance; a desire of each for the other's welfare; in sociopsychological terms, the highest development of the desire to be accepted, to be in the in-group; in Christian terms, the intense development of understanding and cooperation in a small group.

Place of Security

A fraternity should be a place where each member is secure—where he accepts and is accepted. It should bring out in him both his personal strivings and inculcate a sense of group life. There a student should learn to lead where he has the potential, to follow where he does not—and to learn the all-important social virtue of the right compromise.

Okay, don't say it—I know that this picture is hopelessly idealistic. Remember, I'm talking in terms of ideals, not actual fraternities. Besides, what I have just said probably appears in most of the rituals on campus.

The question is: How well do we live up to our ideals, and where do we reject them?

Happy Limitation

Because we have the happy limitation of being human, our fraternities are far from being perfect. Often they are the means of inculcating mass values at the expense of individual personality. They seem grounds of social evaluation—the subjection of the individual to the type. They promote stereotyped personality interaction. They are too much a meeting ground for various warring cliques, and the locus of the 'sure I like him, but...'

At their best, they promote individual initiative for the group. They present a fertile bed for the training of leadership. They always teach the lessons of living with compromise. They provide the basis of lasting friendship and a tighter personal attachment that is possible even on the basis of a small university.

Defender of Status Quo

In my vaude way, I have been leading up to this point. We tend almost always to be defenders of the status quo, and confuse our particular fraternity, and its particular idiosyncrasies with the idea 'fraternity.'

This is why such bitterness is aroused when there is an occasional attack on the fraternity system. As far as I know, all those who have attacked the present system (faculty and students alike) are in favor of fraternities. They just don't happen

Fraternities Take Up the Cross

At Monday's Interfraternity Council meeting, IFC President Sid Kaplan asked all house presidents to discuss the possibility of eliminating paddling and lessening Hell Week severities.

Each year, following (and sometimes preceding) initiation week, columnists and editors rant and rave about wiping out Hell Week. And each year something is done. The activities are not abolished altogether but either the week is shortened, a part of the activities lessened, or some other small facet is declared "unfavorable for the University."

The sorrow of it all is that after a few weeks have passed, or perhaps as late as two or three weeks before the next Hell Week, all these efforts are scrapped. Unfortunately, such actions, no matter how conscientious they may seem in their founding, prove futile not long afterwards.

We are still advocates of the entire abolition of Hell Week. Other colleges and universities have done away with all hazing—generally, in one fell swoop—and we can see no reason why this cannot be done here.

But, the students protest that no one can abolish this "tradition" through legislation. "It must be eliminated, if at all, slowly," they say.

This week several individual fraternities abolished paddling or placed all paddling in the hands of the pledgemaster. An opinion concerning the severities of Hell Week (paddling and overnight trips in particular) has been gathered. And the whole topic of "what to do" is again being tossed about with no little amount of sincerity.

We hope that what is accomplished this year will approach some semblance of permanence. The fraternities seem to be making these regulations and restrictions themselves. This is as it should be.

We hope they do not stop here. Instead, we hope they will look ahead with a clear and open mind and see what could happen if they do stop.

Fort Lauderdale: A Warning

On the front page you will find a rather stringent listing of rules (a partial listing of the more pertinent regulations) which the City of Fort Lauderdale has been compelled to adopt for what may be termed "self preservation."

Very naturally this Southern resort considers the collegiate vacation time an important and valued part of their over-all Winter season. Of course the Chamber of Commerce hopes that many Washington and Lee students will settle on their beaches and in their restaurants and hotels for the holidays.

However, since a small number of visiting students commit acts of "delinquency and vandalism" it has become necessary for the resort "fathers" to deal more drastically with the offenders now than they have been in the past.

The letter from the Apartment House Association and the copy of the new ordinance which arrived here early this week must not be overlooked. We do not care to think that Washington and Lee students have had any part of the activities described in the correspondence in past seasons. Yet, we do not want anything of this sort to occur this year.

The rules are tough. They very probably will be rigidly enforced. Let's keep the University's name from appearing in the local Florida newspapers under circumstances described in the ordinance.

Democrats Catch Their Breath

Miller Gives Ike Brief Reprieve; Discusses Liberalism in U. S.

By BILL MILLER

The regular column which delights the Republicans or Democrats for Eisenhower will not appear this week. Instead, to further arouse the minds of the students toward politics and political theory, a general article on Liberalism as a movement in American politics will be run.

There seems to be a general dissatisfaction among many—Republicans in general—in respect to Liberalism. Ever since the New Deal and F. D. R.'s "political soup," any mention of liberal policies and programs has been looked down on with a certain degree of distaste.

MILLER

From the New Deal on the liberal program has been almost synonymous with socialism. Liberalism has been termed radicalism. Yet in spite of all this, liberal programs are here to stay and no one can avoid them. Political parties as well as businessmen can no longer adhere to laissez faire principles.

There is a large amount of dissection on what is meant by Liberalism. What is "radical" to one mind may be "conservative" to another. To give the Negro his civil rights in the South is radical to the Southerner and conservative to the Northerner.

For this reason we find a wide division in the ranks of the Liberals. Once one becomes a Liberal the question is how far Liberal he is.

New Deal

Perhaps the quickest way known to man to find out who is a Liberal is to ask the person in doubt what his views are on the New Deal. An answer to this question will run something like this: (1) "greatest movement in American history" or (2) "a prostitution of American rights" or (3) "what is the New Deal?" On getting one of these answers, the questioner knows his whole political philosophy if he has one.

A working knowledge for or against the New Deal can make one a recognized political genius in his fraternity. If you don't believe this, try it!

In general, Liberalism holds to the theory that one man's political, religious, and economic rights end where another man's begin.

Anyone who hopes to enter politics or to understand the workings of politics must have a basic knowledge of liberal politics.

The time has passed when one can shove off the term "Liberalism" and get away with it. "The next step is Communism" is the defense of an imbecile and will be looked on as such by others who hear it.

Letter to the Editor:

Talking in Library Is Annoying Students; Kressler Wants Halt

Editor, The Ring-tum Phi The Friday Edition

Dear Sir:

The decline of the speaking tradition seems to be a topic of great concern to a number of tradition-minded gentlemen on the campus. Surely their fears are unfounded though, as a visit to the McCormick Library any week night would convince them.

Seriously, the situation is deplorable especially in view of the fact that the students themselves, through the Student Library Committee, are responsible for controlling the use of library facilities. The main reading room is practically useless during "rush hours" for any work that requires concentration and even the cloisters behind the stacks are frequently the scene of bull sessions, the reverberations of which are efficiently conducted to all levels by the steel super-structure of the building.

A drastic improvement in the situation would be realized if conversations in the working areas were made as brief and quiet as possible, and extended conferences, as well as radios, moved elsewhere.

Since the library is the only place many men have to study, fraternity houses being notoriously poor for the purpose, it would seem just and fitting that we remember, in true traditional spirit, that consideration for others is the hallmark of a gentleman, Washington and Lee and elsewhere.

JIM KRESSLER

Ed. Note: How true. Soley to clarify a minor point, we'd like to point out that the Student Library Committee has no authority to control or supervise the behavior of students in the University libraries. In the long run, the only answer to this problem lies in the self-control of the individual student.

Stickmen Scrimmage Tomorrow; Bailey, Johnson Named Captains

The Blue and White ten meets their first outside competition on Saturday as they scrimmage the University of Virginia. On the following Saturday, the Cavaliers will come to Lexington for another scrimmage.

The starting lineup has not been decided upon by Coach Gene Corrigan, but is just a problem of what units to play, not of individuals. Slated for starting positions on the defense are Dick Johnson and Carl Bailey, both of whom were starters on last year's team. The third man will be Tom Moore who was the number four defenseman last year.

Midfield Strong

The starting midfield unit has not been chosen yet and the problem has been intensified by the excellent work of the first two units. The starting nod could go to the all

Trackmen To Begin Specializing In Individual Events This Week

Track coach Norm Lord announced today that his trackmen will all end their general group workouts, and each man will begin to concentrate on his own particular event. Coach Lord also announced that Dick Miller will be in charge of weight events, Charlie Harrington will supervise the jumpers, and Lord will direct the runners.

Last year's track team was a big disappointment, finishing the season with 7 losses and only one win. The seven returning lettermen, however, along with a particularly strong freshman class, should boost the team's hopes of winning at least 3 games this season.

Freshman Class Strong

Heading the list of newcomers is a very promising broad jumper, John Cherrybone, who won his letter in track four years at Roslyn High School. Among his past achievements, Cherrybone was first in both the Nassau County and Long Island championships in his event, and he holds the North Shore broad jump title as well.

Freshman Ralph Lee is another newcomer with distinguished high school record. Lee, who does the broad jump, 100-yard dash, and mile relay, won first place honors in his District Broad Jump competitions, and was a four-year letterman at Thomas High. Skip Villerot is another broad jumper, who proved that he could excel in the high jump as well as he did at Choate last season.

Coach Lord was particularly impressed with the fight and determination shown by two men who have almost no previous experience in track, Irby Walton and Bill Bowers. Walton and Bowers have caught on to the sport remarkably fast, and they will be tough men to beat out for a varsity position.

Art Warner, a long distance runner, Zack Blalock, a 440 man and a pole vaulter, and frosh Jack Muirhead, 440 champ from his district in Pennsylvania, are all potential starters along with Gary McPherson, a varsity cager who may come out after spring vacation. Barclay Smith, a hurdler, miler and an 880 man, will be a great asset to the team if he shows up soon as expected.

The track team is not only counting on its seven returning lettermen, Dan Ward, Gene Keith, Randy Creel, John Arnold, Dick Crutchfield, Frank Hoss, and captain John Pipkin, but also the six cross-country men out for the squad, Crutchfield, Joe Stevens, Dick Sherrington, Bob Coates, Mike Berry, and Bob Kane should add depth to the team. Berry and Kane haven't shown up yet for practice, but coach Lord expects them out soon.

Golf Team Opens March 22 With Northern Illinois

Warm weather has finally come, and with it, the Golf team is readying itself for the first match on March 26 against Northern Illinois.

The boys are still in the qualifying rounds of 72 holes, with 54 holes already having been played. The remaining holes should be played by Saturday, and then the low six will move into match play.

The team is bolstered by four veterans, three of whom played on last year's Southern Conference championship team. Heading the group is this year's captain Teddy Kerr, who was Southern Conference individual champion last season. Also returning from last year are Don Farriss and Don Rosenfeld. A welcome addition to the squad is Dick Vedder, who played under Coach Twombly three years ago.

Heading the list of impressive freshmen are Ned Beaver and Jim Sowell.

The scores of the qualifying rounds have been very high, but Coach Twombly feels that this is due to the poor weather, and as soon as the warm weather comes to stay, the scores will go down.

Baseball Team To Meet Marines; Pitching Is Team's Strong Spot

Despite cold weather and poor ground conditions, Coach Bill McCann's baseball Generals have been going through grueling spring practice conditioning period for two weeks. The turnout numbered 35, ten of whom are returning lettermen.

The first game with Davidson on April 6 will be preceded by three practice games with the Marines at Parris Island on April 2, 3, and 4. Coach McCann will then have a chance to determine who will get a starting role in the Davidson game.

A change from last year's lineup will see Dom Flora playing the outfield with Cal Couch, while Dick Belden fills in at shortstop. Center field is still open while either Charlie Broll or Don Morine will get the nod at second. At third base will be John Turner.

Coach McCann figures the team's strength thus far to lie in the pitching. He will be relying heavily upon captain Dick Skolnik, Joe Knakal, Buddy Dey, who recently returned from the service, and freshman Dick Newberg, who had a 13-0 record previous to his attendance at W&L. In all, McCann has approximately 15 pitchers to round out his mound staff.

Last year's record saw the Blue and White baseballers come out on the short end of a 4 and 15 slate. Although they will be encountering the same opposition as last year, Coach McCann believes that his main problem last season was weak hitting.

Netmen Meet Kenyon On Upper Courts March 30

Tennis coach Bill Chipley recently announced an important change in the varsity tennis schedule. The netters will inaugurate their season here on the upper courts against Kenyon College on March 30. The team will then face Marshall College as scheduled on April 10.

Kenyon is making its first southern trip to this area in a number of years. The Ohio college has had top-notch tennis teams in the past, and should provide the Generals with the same stiff competition that such teams as Davidson and Virginia have given them.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer works on new ways to remove heat from atomic reactors

An atomic reactor running at full efficiency creates a tremendous amount of heat in its core. By removing this heat and putting it to work boiling water to make steam, atom-made electricity is produced.

One of the men responsible for designing new, more efficient ways to remove heat from atomic reactors is 29-year-old Doctor Salomon Levy — Design Analysis supervisor in the Atomic Power Equipment Department's Reactor Engineering Unit.

Levy's Work Interesting, Vital

To study this problem of heat transfer, G.E. recently constructed a heat-transfer system. By electrically simulating the heat produced in a reactor, it is possible to determine the maximum rate at which heat can be removed from a reactor to make steam.

Dr. Levy conceived the idea of building this complex system, designed it and supervised its construction. At present, Levy works with this system to study new problems of heat transfer and fluid flow encountered in atomic power plants.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Salomon Levy came to General Electric in 1953, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

DR. SALOMON LEVY joined G.E. in 1953 after receiving his B.S. in M.E. from the Univ. of Calif. in 1949. In 1951 he received his M.S., and in 1953 his Ph.D. From '49-'50 he was teaching assistant at U. of C., and '50-'53 he was Junior Research Engineer at the Institution of Engineering Research.

Paddling Vote

paddling.
Pi Kappa Phi wants to maintain Hell Week as it is and has paddling. Sigma Chi abolished paddling three years ago.
Delta Upsilon has paddling now but there is a reported movement within the house to abolish the practice. They have not held a meeting yet.
Phi Epsilon Pi has no paddling and the house voiced disapproval of the practice on the W&L campus.
Pi Kappa Alpha has paddling now but they also have had no meeting yet.
Kappa Alpha has paddling and believes that the decision should be left up to the houses.
Phi Gamma Delta has paddling and favors maintaining the present Hell Week system.
Last year the elimination of paddling and hazing practices was voted down in the IFC by a house vote of nine to eight.

to be blind to the obvious faults which we have. And I would guess that a good many of these attacks are motivated by a deep sense of what the fraternities could be—but aren't. Why not be sensible about the whole thing? Why not decide what a fraternity should be, and then judge ourselves by that? Why not expend some of our energy in finding out where we want to go, and how to get there?

In short, why not be realistic?
