

Sweet Briar Seeks Four W-L Actors; Casting Is Sunday

J. E. Michael Travels Here For Try-Outs

Noel Coward's 'Hay Fever' Is 'Paint and Patches' Production

Tom Tennant, president of the Troubadours, announced today that J. E. Michael of Sweet Briar college will be in Lexington Sunday to cast for the four male parts in "Hay Fever," next scheduled production of "Paint and Patches," Sweet Briar dramatic club.

All Washington and Lee students that are interested in trying out for parts in this play are requested to be at the Troubadour theatre at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Tennant stressed the fact that no previous experience is necessary, and it is hoped that many men will try.

If Michael is not able to cast four male parts it will necessitate the selection of another play entirely. "Hay Fever" is by Noel Coward, and is generally considered to be one of his most interesting works.

Production of the play will begin at Sweet Briar on February 6, with the date of performance tentatively set for March 3.

Tennant also announced that the Troubadours were considering presenting as a sequel to "Criminal at Large" an entirely different type of play, Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock." This and several other plays were discussed at the meeting Wednesday, and the drama which is said to realistically present modern social problems received much favorable comment.

As a sort of slapstick comedy vehicle, the Troubadours may offer a good old nineteenth century melodrama, probably "A Lost Soul," or "East Lynne." If such a creation is given, it will present remarkable opportunities for the cast and the audience both to make a hit.

Lee Assembly Is Compulsory

New University Rule Will Assess Unexcused Absences

Founder's Day will be observed with a compulsory University assembly on Lee's birthday, Thursday, January 19, at 11:30 in Doremus gymnasium, it was announced today. A prominent speaker will be present but has not been announced as yet.

Under a new regulation every student will be required to be in attendance or must turn in a satisfactory excuse within a week after the assembly. Should the excuse not be turned in or be unsatisfactory the student will be dropped for the rolls of his classes and can be restored only on formal application to the president and on payment of a re-registration fee of two dollars.

Calyx Photo Drive Ends; 625 Students Cooperate

Six hundred and twenty-five photographs were taken during the Calyx picture drive which ended before the Christmas holidays, Editor Bob Watt announced today. All juniors and seniors who have not completed their record cards for publication in the yearbook should do so at the Calyx office in the Student Union building sometime this week. New honors should also be recorded.

Carter To Issue Permits For Fancy Dress Photos

Richard P. Carter, W-L publicity director, yesterday announced that Camera club members and others who plan to take pictures of the Fancy Dress ball must secure permits from him.

He explained that this is not a bar on photographs, but a measure to avoid press and amateur photographers from interfering with dancers and spectators at the affair.

Sam Ames, Camera club president, announced that the organization will not hold a meeting until Tuesday, February 7, because of examinations. At that meeting the club will reorganize for the second session of the year.

A collection of pictures from the Richmond Museum of Fine Arts will be displayed here soon under the auspices of the club.

Nine Lawyers Pass State Bar Examinations

Twelve W-L Law Students Take State Examination At Roanoke

Nine of the 12 Washington and Lee law students taking the bar examination in Roanoke on December 13-14 are now recognized lawyers in the state of Virginia, it was announced yesterday.

The students were among 40 throughout the state who passed the examination. Though they are now allowed to practice law in the state, all but one plan to remain in school until graduation.

Alfred C. Junkin, of Lexington, Virginia, is not in school this year but is an alumnus of Washington and Lee, having received his college education here.

Others who passed the bar examination are Vincent Cassell Adamson, of Garden City, New York; James Vaughan Beale, of Franklin, Virginia; Richard L. Howell, of Roanoke, Virginia; S. C. Jones, Jr., of Norfolk, Virginia; John B. Pearson, of Hartford, Connecticut; James E. Quisenberry, of Roanoke, Virginia; Edward T. Whitehead, of Chatham, Virginia; and Clifford Jason Yudkoff, of New York, New York.

Six of these who passed the examination are from the state of Virginia and will not have to take the bar examination over in order to set up a practice. Those who passed the exam but who will practice in other states will have to re-take the test in their respective states.

Also passing his bar examination was J. P. Baker, Jr., of West Helena, Arkansas, who graduated from Washington and Lee last year. He plans to practice law in Arkansas.

Mysterious Panther Terrorizes Nocturnal Denizens of Campus

Warning: All students are advised to keep off the campus after six p. m. A large four-footed panther, fresh from the Rocky mountains, is reported at large. Any student venturing into the wilds of Lexington after dark does so at his own risk.

Two dogs have already fallen victim to the man-eating specimen and further encroachments upon the safety and sanity of the University are feared at any moment. So the night watchman says, anyhow.

Trembling with fear and horror, the fearless guardian of the school's property relates the following startling episode to an astounded student body:

Midnight on the Washington and Lee campus. The night watchman, stealthily slinking through the maze of dark buildings with his trusty revolver occasionally reflecting the glint of a winter's moon, suddenly starts and draws back with abject terror.

Hitler Cannot Last, Claims Dr. Meyers

Says Germany More Potent Now Than Ever Before

"No power on earth has any chance of survival if it is built on immoral ground." This declaration was made by Dr. Ernst W. Meyer in a speech Thursday morning at 10:15 in Lee chapel. The subject for the talk was "National Socialism and German Foreign Policy Today."

Expressing the opinion that Germany today is more powerful than it was even under Bismarck, Dr. Meyer stated that this power could not last, as it had been acquired through force and by unethical means. He cited the case of France and Great Britain, two countries which possessed great power immediately following the World war, but whose power and influence have steadily declined since that time.

Worship Limited

"National Socialism and Christianity," he said, "are basically opposed to each other. The doors of the churches in Germany are open, but worship is not free; and a minister who wants to preach according to his own conscience is in danger of being arrested." To illustrate his point, Dr. Meyer stated that there are today over 1300 German ministers in prison camps because they have refused to conform to Hitler's decrees.

The speaker declared that there was a decline of art in Germany after the war, and that the recent revival of German art has been erroneously credited to Mr. Hitler. He asserted that Hitler is trying to establish a dictatorship over art, a thing about which Der Feuhrer knows absolutely nothing.

Law Abused

"Germany's law is not used; it is abused," stated Dr. Meyer on the subject of justice in Germany. He declared that since Hitler's rule has started, law has gone from the country, and has been replaced by a mere formality which is called law. He told of the Nazi concentration camps, to which thousands of prisoners have been sent without the slightest hint of a just trial.

Dr. Meyer said that there is truly no unemployment in Germany, but gave as reasons for this fact the army of one million men, the increased demand for arms, munitions, and clothing to equip this army, and the fact that Germany's emergency workers, whose duties are similar to those of our WPA workers, are counted as being employed, rather than unemployed.

He compared the German labor policy to that of Russia, saying that strikes are forbidden in the two countries. He condemned this law against strikes, however, declaring that "to build up independent minds is the best guarantee for well functioning government and state offices."

Free countries such as the United States, asserted Dr. Meyer, are at a great disadvantage in trading and competing with totalitarian countries like Germany, because

Fifty-Eight Are Picked by Taylor To Walk in Fancy Dress Figure

Fancy Dress To Be Kemp's Fifth Set Here

Judy Starr, Wow At Finals Last Year, To Render Vocals

By NED BURKS
When Hal Kemp's brilliant, staccato brass section and smooth saxones swing into "When the Summer Is Gone," Kemp's well-known theme, the night of Junior prom, it will mark the fifth dance set the genial southern maestro has played for at Washington and Lee in the past four years.

Kemp specializes in a smooth, easy-to-dance to, sweet style of music which features muted trumpets and saxophone choruses. However, when hot swing is demanded, Hal and the boys can get right in the groove as evidenced by the famous arrangements of "Powerhouse," "Dodging a Divorcee" and "In Dutch with the Duchess." His arrangements of "The Swing" is regarded as tops.

Judy Starr

Diminutive Judy Starr, who wowed an enthusiastic Finals crowd last June, with swell vocals of "Music, Maestro, Please," "Be-wildered," and "Week End of a Private Secretary," will be back. Husky Bob Allen sings the sweet ballads and jolly Saxxy Dowell of the sax section steps to the mike now and then to offer a novelty tune.

Hal plays several instruments himself and often joins the sax section or gives out with a clarinet sub-tone solo. Number one get-off man in the band is ace trumpeter, Mickey Bloom, who can really hit the hot notes.

Best Sweet Band

Kemp is now engaged in a close race with Glen Gray's Casa Loma crew for first honors in the sweet band division of a poll conducted by musicians in Down Beat magazine. Kemp copped first place last year.

The orchestra first appeared with Glen Gray and his band for finals in 1935 and immediately proved a success. The band was featured again at Finals in 1936 and 1938 and Fancy Dress in 1937. Pretty Maxine Grey was vocalist with Hal up until 1938 and often came down on the floor to dance with students. It is not known if Judy will be as obliging.

Kemp has probably been the most popular maestro at W-L for the past few years. He has gained widespread popularity on the Chesterfield and Griffin shoe polish Columbia network shows. Down Beat gives Kemp top rating especially plugging the "punch and precision" of the brass section and the smooth reed section. Last year he played on the Astor roof in New York city and at the Drake hotel in Chicago.

Poetry Society Plans to Print Book in April

The recently organized Poetry club last night announced that it will publish in April a booklet of poems by Washington and Lee authors.

The volume, containing 30 to 40 poems, will contain a number of verses by members and also those contributed by students who are not in the club. Anyone wishing to submit poems should hand them in to Dave Miller or Earl Milligan by February 1.

The club, which was formed last September, has been meeting each week since that time to read and criticize the work of its members. It was formed by a small group of students interested in poetry for the purpose of improving their own writing and was organized with the publication of this volume as a goal.

The members had not announced their organization until it was definite that the booklet could be published by the club and the English department and will contain about 30 pages. Printing will probably be done by the W-L print shop, and about 500 copies will be put out.

It was stressed that the publication will not be a competitor of the Southern Collegian, since a number of the club members are on the magazine's staff, and several Collegian poems may be republished.

Poems will not be restricted as to subject matter or form, and variety will be stressed in an attempt to show the type of verse written here.

Helderman's Historical Works Lauded By Nation's Authorities

In Leonard C. Helderman, associate professor of history at Washington and Lee, the University possesses one of the rising historical research authorities of the day.

Author of several important articles and reviews during the past few years, Professor Helderman has just had published in the Mississippi Valley Historical Review a treatise on the Northwestern expedition of George Rogers Clark during the winter of 1786-87.

Published by the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, this magazine is one of the foremost historical publications in the country and accepts only the best and most authentic pieces of historical research.

During the summer of 1937 while on a vacation in Wisconsin, Dr. Helderman ran across some original unpublished papers and letters of Clark in the Draper collection at the library of the University of Wisconsin. With the information taken from this as a nucleus he conducted an extensive research in the state libraries of Wisconsin, Indiana, and Virginia, and compiled sufficient material for an illuminating article on this famous expedition into the northwest.

The article was sent to the Mississippi Valley Historical Association

All Visitors To Dance This Year Must be Vouched for by Students

Fifty-eight men and their dates will walk in the figure of the Fancy Dress Ball to be held on February 3, Cecil Taylor, president, said today. These men were selected to represent the historical personages which attended a ball given by Governor Spotswood and his wife in Williamsburg way back in 1716. Taylor also announced that the Dance board will stress the new rules made for the Fancy Dress as to the style of dress, and the general rules of conduct. He said that he wished especially to make it plain that no person not a student will be admitted to the dances without being vouched for by a student. While this has been the rule for some time, Taylor said, this year the floor committee will enforce this rule fully.

Heavy Schedule Faces Debaters For '39 Season

Four Home Meets, Eight Trips And Forensic Tour- ney Are Slated

Washington and Lee's debate schedule, announced yesterday by Debate Manager Hugh Avery, will include at least four home debates, eight debates on trips, and participation in a forensic tournament.

The home debates which have been scheduled are with Hampden-Sydney, Randolph-Macon Men's college, William and Mary, and Purdue. Several other home debates may be announced later.

Two trips are being planned by the squad, a southern trip and a Virginia trip. Included in the southern trip, scheduled for February 20-26, will be Duke University, Davidson college, Furman college, the University of Georgia, and Atlanta law school.

The team will meet William and Mary, Randolph-Macon Men's college and Hampden-Sydney on the state tour, March 15-17, in which a number of freshman debaters will be used.

For the first time, W-L debaters will participate in the Grand Eastern Forensic tournament at Rock Hill, South Carolina, April 13-15. Approximately 100 southern schools will be represented here. Washington and Lee will enter two debate teams and one or two in the oratorical contest.

The subject for practically all of these debates is the national debate topic for 1939: Resolved, that the United States cease the use of public funds (including credit) for the purpose of stimulating business.

TIME FOR EXAMS

In slightly over a week, Washington and Lee will face what would-be humorous college students have rather grimly termed the "death watch"—the period of semester examinations.

It is not our purpose to remark on the omissions or mistakes of the past fifteen weeks which may give meaning to the phrase—"death watch"—but rather to call to the attention of the student body the importance of these examinations in their academic growth.

To all goes the sincere hope that they will be able to take the hurdles without a spill. Those who have trained hard and regularly all fall and face the barriers with little fear of mishap. Those who have been lax and irregular in training will have to count on some luck and a great deal of last-minute work to finish in the money.

For both the well- and poorly-trained, there are a few pointers which might be in order. First of all, turn the pressure on all the way to the finish line. While educators may generally insist that you can't learn a whole course overnight, you can certainly learn a lot of it.

Such educational debate is not our purpose here, however, nor do we intend a moral lecture on the necessity concentration and of protecting the health. What we would do is to cast out a little warning signal that the time is almost here.

And whether it's just a little more serious effort to add to previous preparations or whether it's time-out from socializing for exams, students can well start getting in the mood for that which lies ahead.

CAMERA CONFERENCE

Newspaper photography with its modern scientific accompaniments has become a vital force in the communication of the world's news. A significant record of the place of camera journalism in today's news was manifested at the University's press photography conference last weekend.

The display of pictures in Washington college and in Payne hall were indicative of the high type of work being done today on America's camera front. We were particularly impressed with the social messages so many of the states displayed. Poverty and injustice have nowhere been portrayed so clearly as the enemy of humanity as in photographic record.

Technical discussions, which were a little above our capacity to understand, filled many an hour of the three days the delegates were here. One demonstration which particularly appealed to us as a university student was the film projection of Darwin's "Origin of Species." With equipment of this sort and film records of significant human documents, more and more students may become familiar with these books.

A not-to-be-forgotten part of the program was the entertaining discussion of Miss Bourke-White about her experiences in photographing the news. Her stories of work in mines, within the Arctic circle, in Europe, with the President, and in Mayor Hague's strictly-controlled Jersey City, might make even a newsman blink.

All in all from both the delegates' point of view and the students', the first news photography conference was a success and a tribute to Mr. Riegel, the Journalism school and the University. We hope that this may be only the first of a number of similar conferences to be held at Washington and Lee for a world that has become conscious that a camera man as well as a reporter is needed at the event of the day.

THE PEACE CLUB

Over the past nine months we have had pause to observe the meetings and counsels of the Peace club at Washington and Lee, which under the direction of Bill Brown and Charlie Hart has made heard a soft yet strong voice in the loud blatant discussions of militarism.

Without giving accord necessarily to the views of this group, we can only praise it for its stand for peaceful settlement of international disputes, for its strong opposition to war and the scourge which accompanies war.

There is probably nothing which hangs over youth's head today with more danger than the sword of war. Any body which has a possible answer to removal of this danger deserves to be heard. The counsels of the Peace club are Washington and Lee's expression of this movement which has become rather obscured in the past few months by European events and by a new national policy of re-armament and continental defense.

To these views we can express our hope that their counsels will lead us out of the present chaos and that sooner or later they will prevail in the interest of the entire world.

THE FORUM

A College Man Described

When it comes to describing the college man of 1938, so many and varied are the paragraphic portrayals that he is at once a master-mind and a dolt, a play-boy and a great student. None has so brilliantly painted the picture as Kent State university's Dean R. E. Manchester, who sets the man-of-the-campus on his pedestal in the following manner:

"The college man is a living paradox. Most people cannot understand him and those who do, come to their conclusions by indirect proof. He talks of the future but worships the past. He is liberal in his conversation but conservative in his action. He is radical in his opinions on politics, but elects stand-patters to the class offices. He demands freedom of thinking but defends with all his strength the traditions of his institution. He takes wild stands on religious theories yet attends college and universities that are created and maintained by orthodox creeds. He preaches democracy yet supports the most rigid campus caste system. He demands that his university maintain the highest athletic standards yet in the same breath also demands a professional football team. He scoffs at his profs yet defends them strenuously when they are criticized. He rebels against rules but sets up more rigid ones when given the opportunity. He hazes the high school graduate who comes with a boy scout badge on his coat, but he covers his own vest with medals and keys. He invents and uses the most outlandish slang on the street, but reads and writes pure English in his room. He clamors for self government but doesn't want it after he gets it. He laughs at convention but insists upon it. He cuts classes the day before a vacation but comes back three days early.

"You ask 'What are we going to do about it?' We are going to praise the Lord that we have him and that he is just what he is, a walking contradiction of himself."
"Like it? We thought you would—From Mississippi State Teachers' "Student Printz."

Personal OPINIONS

Representative Mitchell (Dem., Ill.) and Representative Gavagan (Dem., N. Y.) are all prepared to drop an anti-lynching bill into the legislative hopper. For those who do not know what an anti-lynching bill is, I am delighted to take this opportunity to inform. The objective of such a measure is to invoke Federal authority against lynching, to apprehend those who are responsible for inciting the mob to violence and punish them in a fitting and proper manner.

In the Senate, Messrs. Wagner (Dem., N. Y.), Van Nuys (Dem., Ind.), Capper (Rep., Kan.) and others plan to ask the present session of the Congress to approve a new and somewhat simplified form of the anti-lynching bill.

The history of the bill is long—and I am not acquainted with all its many defeats, but last year the House Judiciary committee approved the bill. Next the Rules committee bottled it, corked it, and set it in a dark corner to age. Fortunately the Rules committee was forced to bring the bill to the floor and it passed the House. Making its appearance in the Senate, southern senators were surprised and alarmed. The result was a filibuster which gave more favorable publicity to the bill than it otherwise might have received under similar circumstances. If Mr. Gall-up should be interested in this question and take one of his famous little polls, I daresay that the publication of the results would indicate that over 70 percent of the people would be in favor of anti-lynching legislation.

At the end of last year, Tuskegee institute published the fact that there were only six lynchings in the south. Last year there were eight, and the year before that, there were more. These figures seem to indicate that lynchings are beginning to die out altogether. The mere fact that there were six murders this year, however bears out the fact that anti-lynching legislation is necessary, for these six are just six too many.

I have nothing to say about the integrity of the southern senators as I have mentioned before, but the fact that these gentlemen are ready and willing to stand up before a congregation of intelligent people and exhale such a great deal of stupid, nay asinine, wind is truly remarkable.

Mr. L. Watkin, author and professor, remarked after he had written his "On Borrowed Time" that he did not know where he had obtained the source for his idea. For those who are interested and for Mr. Watkin himself, may I refer to page 113 of the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly to Mr. E. Chavannon's translation of a traditional legend of northern France.

To my friends in the law school and to those who are not wont to take cans of beer home with them for that midnight snack of beer and cold meat, let me inform one and all that the simple beer-can opener has recently been qualified by the felony court of New York as a burglar's tool. Such an implement is often used for show-windowed theft, and it is a handy device for jimmying open windows of parked automobiles. It can also be used for opening cans of beer.

I have been reading a great deal about President Roosevelt, and the more I read, the better I like the man. Of course we should arm and all that sort of thing, for everyone else is doing the same thing and we must be prepared. The historians state that one of the causes for the World War was the arming programs of the various nations. Why it is so necessary for the nations to arm frantically is beyond me when the money could be used for purposes much more sensible and sane. How the countries of Europe, etc., can see ahead to where they can afford a war is also beyond me, but all the leading commentators swear that we will have a war before the year is out. Have a war indeed! There are wars going on at the present time. The "China Incident" for one and the "Spanish Affair" for another. Dorothy Thompson, however, declares that there will be no war this year. I am inclined to agree with Miss Thompson (Mrs. Lewis).

I remember last year, it was in May, that a member of the staff of a Baltimore newspaper stood ready and willing to take bets that there would be a World War within a period of six months, and that the United States would become involved therein . . . and no one cared to take the bet.

DAVID MAULSBY.

The student body would be deeply grateful if The Most Illustrious Controller of our new scoreboard would stop it once in a while. The game last Saturday with Lynchburg was only two minutes short. Times gallops on.

Campus Comment

By TOM MOSES and PAUL MULDOON

Timeo Danaos . . .

The quotation from which the above two words were taken, even though our stooge who quoted it could not remember it all, means "I fear the Greeks, even bearing gifts."

Even though we hate to keep mentioning those ATO's, still the Vergilian lines are distinctly a propos (that's French). Bobby Stein rooms with Jimmy Burkholder. For Christmas, Stein gave the Burk one of everything: one shirt, one tie, etc. A subtle hint. In retaliation, Burk gave Stein a pillow with his name on it, the year, and "Generals." Agitation is on foot to present it during some game before long.

Timeo Danaos . . .

Hail the Hero . . .

Ed Shannon declares that he has not had his name in this column the whole year. We're sorry, Ed, and to show you how we feel, we'll tell a lot of facts about you that are generally unknown.

Ed Shannon is the man that stole the fifteen cents out of the blind man's cup. That loud crying you heard was a little baby crying for his candy, and the inhuman laughter was coming from Shannon as he greedily devoured same. His greatest delight is in borrowing money from freshmen and turning in those who refuse to the Assimilation committee. None of his fraternity brothers have spoken to him since they caught him pawing the house silver.

Hello, Ed. We'll put your name in again when we find out more about you.

Fancy Dressings . . .

The battle of the century continues to continue, practically continually. We refer, of course, to the mild discussion that is raging between Charley Hart and Bubby Schnoops, also known as Baby Snooks and Bucky Snoops, as to his going to be the number one man on Miss Lois' files.

This battle has been going on now for some time, and the first round has apparently gone to Charley Heart. He is going to have Miss Lois over for Fancy Dress.

But this is by no means the end. We have inside information that a dark horse may yet triumph over both Snoops and Heard. Because we have it on practically unimpeachable authority that the man of her Hart is really Arnold Marcum. The only thing that is holding them back is that Marcum's heart is with another.

Resolvings . . .

One of the brothers told us today that it is now 1939. We can not vouch personally for the truth of this statement, but if such is the case it is time we were making some New Year's resolutions. And so:

1. Never again will we mention our interview with Priscilla Lane.
2. Never again will we miss our deadline.
3. Never again will we do certain things which for strategic reasons we will not mention here.
4. Never again will we see Hedy LaMarr.
5. Never again will we let Ernest Woodward write this column. Goodness, he stinks.

Peregrinations . . .

Jack Watson says he can so get a date. All he had to do was to ask her to lead the Junior Prom. . . Report reaches us that Bob Blanding took the fatal plunge over the holidays. If this be true, somewhat belatedly, congratulations. . . Bob Nicholson is in the hospital again. The beds there are almost as hard as steel cots they have in other large, square buildings which are, however, only hard to get out of. . . This is the time that boys start to get romantic, and think of going all sorts of places. Now is also the time that snow comes, doggone it. . . Ernest Woodward, our worst friend and oh how we hate him, has a nice little scheme up his sleeve, we grudgingly admit. He is going home very early during the exams, about the first Saturday, and bring back his girl for Fancy Dress, which is the next Friday. This is bad enough, but he is also going to bring about five or six other girls, including those who ostensibly belong to Junie Bishop, Jimmy Burkholder, Courtney Wadlington, and possibly about six more. He says he doesn't know where he's going to put them all, but they're going to take turns driving. . . Jim Lindsey made a very funny remark in the University Supply Store this morning, but obviously we can't repeat it. . . The Lyric featured a very astronomical week: Comet over Broadway and Starlight over Texas. . . We are indebted to Al Fleishman for that one. . . After the Staunton-Brigadier game a gun was heard about two minutes after the final whistle. That was just Ellis. . . Incidentally, Bill Ellis apparently has a very good chance of getting the coaching job at Louisville Male high school. We'd hate to lose him, but we're all pulling for him just the same. . . Take me drunk, I'm home.

The Governor Says

It looks like Coach Bill Ellis will soon be singing a new dirge to characterize his freshman court powerhouse: "A-Tisket-A-Tasket, my boys can't find the basket."

Now that the University is the proud recipient of $155,000 we suggest that the Intramural field project be abandoned. With the addition of the recent gift we can now build that much-needed bird sanctuary.

With Communism to the left of us and Fascism to the right of us, we note with fear the announcement that a new faction has thrust its shaggy head into the light of day—the Poetry society. And they will publish a book in the spring. Ah dearie me—the spring.

The Calyx has done well with its stop drive. More golden lining for the silver coffers of the editor and business manager.

On Basketball

Lexington, Virginia.

Dear Sir:

Our basketball team has acquired a new name it seems. I don't know when or for what cause it was originated, but it was introduced, to me at least, in Associated Press sport columns. Its use has since been endorsed implicitly by The Ring-tum Phi in its appearance on the sports page.

Blue Comets. In all loyalty and respect to the team that name is coming to identify, the name itself sounds altogether cheap and somewhat harshly, often. I am reminded against my wishes of a grocery store quintet. I view it in distinctly unfavorable contrast to the dignity and power connoted in the Generals of Washington and Lee. From comments here and there about the campus I am convinced that many others share this view. If it is in fact representative of student opinion I'm sure that those responsible for its usage, will upon proper suggestion, respect our wishes in this matter, and let us be the Washington and Lee Generals again, singly, and to the exclusion of any and all astrological phenomena regardless of color or description.

BILL BURNS.

On Sanitation

Lexington, Virginia.

Dear Sir:

Soon the new bridge between the Lambda Chi house and Main street on Highway 60 will be complete, and we will be driving or walking over that sturdy construction. When we cross this bridge, let us glance to the right as we go out and observe the houses, or so called, that constitute the worst of the Lexington slum district. This is the part of Lexington we never see pictured or written about in the catalogue. The occupants of these houses are both black and white and most of the people employed work for either VMI or some phase of W-L.

One fellow I talked to said he worked for W-L eight years, of which four of them were for a fraternity. His father had also been employed by W-L. That man rents and lives crowded in one house with another family. Under these conditions he and all the other employees of VMI and W-L are more susceptible to diseases and the spread of disease is accelerated. What if one of the cooks at a fraternity house caught some very contagious disease and transmitted it through the food he prepares to the boys of the house?

In case of a fire there is very little chance of putting it out. That loose timber would make a very hot fire and sparks naturally will fly, perhaps spreading the fire to other parts of Lexington.

What can be done about it? The federal government is now trying to eliminate slum or poor-house districts and would be glad to share the expense with the municipal government here. Perhaps the city of Lexington could not furnish all the money? I think it would pay W-L and VMI to help with the expense. Quite a bit of money could be raised through subscriptions among the students after they are shown how they will benefit by such a project. There are enough block degrees in this little town to build one house; why can not such people use their influence to help all these human beings living under such mental and physical strains? Think it over; it may be worth something to you.

ANONYMOUS.

Blue Builds Up Handsome Lead In First Period

Generals Gain Seventh Win In First Eight Starts Of Season

By BUD LEVY

A whirlwind attack gave Washington and Lee's passers a convincing 62-42 victory over William and Mary's widely-heralded quintet on the Doremus gym boards last night.

The triumph was the seventh in eight starts for Cy Young's sharpshooters, who will swing back into action tomorrow night when they take on North Carolina's outfit in Lynchburg.

Teams Battle Evenly

The first ten minutes of last night's fracas saw the two teams battle along on fairly even terms. The lead changed hands six times during that period, but the Generals pulled away as the half wore on, and built up a handsome 32-21 advantage before the period ended.

Oddly enough the Generals, despite their lineup generously punctuated with substitutes, outscored their foemen by an identical margin in the second chapter.

William and Mary got away to a 2-0 lead when Virgil Andrews hit the cords from long range after half a minute's play. Dick Pinck gave the Generals their first tally when he tossed in a free throw a few seconds later, but Vince Taffe hoisted the Indians' edge to 4-1 when he scored a two-pointer from the side. Ronnie Thompson and Bob Stein tossed in field goals in rapid succession and Pinck dumped in another free shot to put the Generals on the long end of a 6-4 count.

Indians Take Lead

Howard Dobbins added two points to double the score on the visitors, but Morgan Mackey arched a long one in and Taffe dropped one in from the side to knot the score at 8-8. Bob Gary put the Blue in the lead again with a charity flip a minute later, but Charlie Gondak registered on a follow-up to give the Indians a 10-9 advantage.

Gary countered with a double-lecker to regain the lead for the Blue, but Tom Andrews hit the rim from the side to give the invaders a 12-11 edge. The Indians couldn't maintain that pace, however, and the Generals forged well ahead during the next few minutes' play.

Reinartz Sinks Two

Leo Reinartz, who replaced Pinck when the latter was injured by an accidental blow to the mid-section, started the Generals off on their spurt when he rattled off four points on a pair of long heaves to give them a 15-12 lead. Eight straight points stretched the count to 23-12 before the Indians could hit the scoring column again.

Frequent substitutions failed to slow up the Generals' attack in the second half, which took on a mild free-for-all aspect.

Dobbins copped scoring honors for the night with a dozen points, while Pinck dumped in 11. Dick went out of the game midway through the first half, but was able to return a few minutes later. Gary contributed nine points to the winners' total and Reinartz six. Mackey and Taffe shared the losers' honors with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

ATO Is Victor In Consolations

Defeats Phi Delta Theta Volleyball Combination 15-17, 17-15, 17-15

Coming back strong in the second and third games after dropping the first, ATO won the consolation volleyball tournament from the Phi Delta Theta sextet in a "photograph finish."

In the first game the ATO team seemed no competition for their mouth-working opponents, losing 17-15.

In the second game the ATO sextet showed a remarkable improvement and completely outplayed the winners of the first game. The final score was 17-15.

In the second game the ATO team played an inspired brand of ball for the deciding game of the match. The Phi Delta Theta contingent, not to have victory snatched from its clutches without offering resistance, also steadied down in the last game. After two extra points had been played, the game resulted in a 17-15 victory for the ATO's.

Baker, Gillespie, Garges, Lykes, Avery and Harper took the floor at the opening of the contest for the Phi Delta team. ATO started its best team, consisting of Dobbins, Richardson, Marcum, Billingsly, Steops, and Barr.

Indoor Track Squad Begins Regular Drills

Ragon And Harvey To Coach; Seven Lettermen Returning

Washington and Lee's varsity indoor track team has started working out in preparation for its coming season. The General thin clads were able to move their activities outdoors during the recent balmy spell, but the sudden reappearance of cold weather has forced them back indoors.

The W-L team has but one meet carded so far, the annual Southern conference indoor title scramble, which will be held at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill next month. The Generals have a date pending with the University of Virginia for some time before the Southern conference meet.

In the absence of track coach, Forest Fletcher, the indoor preparation is being handled by the two co-captains, Heartsill Ragon and Flash Harvey.

At the present, there are seven monogram winners, holdovers from last year's crack squad, who are seeking positions on the indoor combine. This group includes Harvey, Ragon, Curl, Crocker, Thurman, Whaley, and Melville. Several other lettermen who have not reported yet are expected to come out soon.

The squad includes several likely looking sophomores who are bidding fair for positions on the team. Prominent among this group are the Murray twins, George and Bill. Both youngsters have shown a great deal of talent which could be put to good use on the varsity.

The main purpose of the indoor track team is to get the boys in school track-minded and to whip the team into shape in advance. Athletic Director R. A. Smith stated that "nothing very definite could be accomplished until Mr. Fletcher returns on February 1, but by the early conditioning period it is hoped to have the team in as good a shape as possible for the forthcoming season."

The Generals finished a good fourth in the Southern conference meet last year. They were second in the state meet and in the regular season lost only to Virginia and Maryland.

Basketball Scoreboard Is Installed In Gymnasium

With the advent of another basketball season at W-L, the University has installed a scoreboard of the latest type. Situated above the track, and a little to the right of the handball courts at the far end of the gymnasium, it is equipped with large white numbers showing the opponents' and W-L's scores.

Outstanding feature of the scoreboard is the large clock with a face showing 20 minutes. It is a great help to spectators and players, and is a decided improvement over last year's scoreboard.

Twombly Worries With Too Few Men To Fill Nine Events

Cy Twombly is having his troubles these days.

The genial swimming coach, whose Washington and Lee teams have long dominated Southern conference waters, seems really worried. "The way things shape up now I don't see where I'm going to get enough men to give us a balanced team," Twombly lamented. "There are nine events in a swimming meet, and you can't get very far with only a couple of good swimmers."

Diving is the least of Twombly's worries. Bob Shreve and Bob Watt, members of last year's championship array, and Bob Boyce, a sophomore, seem to have the springboard end well in hand.

Brent Farber and Captain Charlie Hart, both members of last winter's team, are Twombly's main hopes in the winning events. The lack of more good men is partly due to the fact that a couple of men who showed up well last year failed to return this year.

The General tankmen, who are scheduled to open their 1939 campaign on February 10, went on pledge last week as serious work got under way. Their first foe will be Virginia Tech.

Twombly brightened up a bit when asked about his freshmen. "We've several good first year men," he said, "and ought to have a pretty good season. The yearlings, who will compete for places on the team this week, will open against Fishburne Military academy."

VMI Meets NCU

Virginia Military institute's basketball team will open its Southern conference campaign against a weak North Carolina university quintet in the VMI gymnasium at 7:30 tonight.

Green Brigs Beaten 23-19 By Staunton

Erratic Passing And Frequent Interceptions Mark Freshman Opener

Stan Carlsson, With Six Points, Leads Scoring Pinck, Cavanna Follow

By ED TRICE

A highly favored Staunton Military academy basketball team nosed out the Brigadiers, 23-19, in Doremus gym Wednesday night after leading most of the way in one of the sloppiest cage exhibitions staged here. It was the first tilt of the season for the freshmen.

During most of the game the home team had trouble getting in position for shots. Their passing was erratic and too-frequent interceptions by both teams marred the play.

Led by Stan Carlsson, who followed up several rebounds for markers, the losers held the Cadets to a 15-13 count at the half, but were unable to score during the entire third quarter. In the last period tosses by Fisher and Pinck found the hoop and Cavanna counted twice from the foul line. The game ended with SMA freezing the ball.

Carlsson with six points led the scoring, followed by Pinck and Bob Cavanna. Dick Bolleau turned in a good performance, as did Sparky Mallory and Johnny Fisher.

According to Freshman Coach Bill Ellis, the Brigadiers will show to a better advantage after they get a few more games under their belts. Experience is more wanting this year than in any class in the history of the school, and the team as a whole was nervous and lacked confidence in its debut.

'Dawn Patrol' Roars Into State While Western Plays At Lyric

Errol Flynn and Basil Rathbone, who will star in "Dawn Patrol," the womanless drama of war-time aviation, playing at the State theatre Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

By HAROLD GADDY

Tex Ritter rides roughshod and ripping into the Lyric today and Saturday in "Starlight Over Texas"—another wild western. Ritter plays the role of a cowboy troubador who battles brawny bandits, serenades a smiling senorita, and overthrows a band of scheming swindlers masquerading as Indian renegades. In addition, the North-westerners—a radio hill-billy band—add their bit to this versatile show.

"The Dawn Patrol" wings into flight at the State theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It's a suspense-packed tragic drama of wartime aviation, starring Errol Flynn, Basil Rathbone, and David Niven, and not a single woman darkens the cast!

Basil Rathbone plays the role of the hard-boiled and heartless flight commander whose duty it is to order men into the air, even though he knows that it means almost certain death. He is succeeded in this position by Errol Flynn, who is torn between love for his comrades and duty to his superiors and his country.

"Dawn Patrol" offers suspense, action, and thrills. Many of its best air scenes are taken directly from the picture of the same name, which first appeared six years ago. Furthermore, it furnishes indelible proof of the futility and the stupidity of war, and the heartbreak that must inevitably follow it.

You will get taken for a ride at the Lyric on Monday and Tuesday; in fact, you'll "Ride a Crooked Mile," for that's the name of the little melodrama which will be shown on the screen at that time. It's another comedy effort, and stars Frances Farmer and another. We've seen worse, but we've also seen better.

Coach Young commended the Generals particularly for their ability to come from behind in the clutches and concluded, "We're going to be tough."

The Comets have been good and tough so far, with only one loss, and that to a nationally-touted Kentucky outfit, in their eight starts. The North Carolina five's record is not as impressive as the Generals'. In their first loop game the Phantoms bowed to little Davidson college's powerhouse, 39-46. The Tar Heels were beaten 30-20 by Princeton, drubbed Atlantic Christian and Catawba of the North State conference, and last night dropped their second Southern conference contest, losing to Virginia, 29-37.

All old members of Graham-Lee and Washington literary societies and members of the Forensic union are requested to be at the literary society room in the Student Union building at 7:30 Monday evening for Calyx pictures to be taken.
