Friday Formal Dance Plans Set

"Little Monaco" is to be the theme for the April 12-13 Spring Dances, it was announced yesterday by Sam Monroe, president of the set. The theme was chosen because of the variety of possibilities it allows and because of Stan Rubin's performance during the Ranier-Kelley marriage celebration last year.

"Little Monaco" will provide the decorators with a high degree of latitude in depicting the scenes of Monacan life. "It is our intention to create the atmosphere of a fabled wonderland in all of its exciting activities—to capture the enchanting life as a Monacan would live it and to portray the various scenes which a tourist might observe," Monroe said.

The murals will represent the following: A landscape scene with the waterfront as the main object and the mountains in the background. This will appear on the East wall of the gymnasium. On the South wall there will be a mural displaying a sports-car racing scene, in imitation of the annual racing event which is held throughout the whole of the principality.

The North wall will feature a carriage laden with multi-colored flowers, in an attempt to recreate the images of the Monacan flower festival, held annually. A palace scene, duplicating the actual one, will be placed on the North Wall. In addition the throne of the prince and princess will also appear there.

The Monte Carlo scene with all the various chance devices will imitate the glamorous and exciting atmosphere of the actual gambling palace, which is most often a primary attraction for tourists.

The entrances onto the dance floor will be decorated by guard scenes copying closely those which might be seen about the palace. Decorations for the band stand are still in the planning stage.

On the South wall there will be representations of the colors and standards of Monaco depicted by various flags and shields.

The color tone of the murals is decidedly in the darker shades. Reds, blues, violets, and greens will be most prominent with the lighter colors being used for background contrasts. Colored lights will be employed so as to blend in readily with those shades on the murals.

Monroe indicated that at the moment most of the preparatory work is being concentrated on the murals and he mentioned Ralph Evans and Don Sigmund, both ZBT sophomores, as contributing invaluable assistance.

The Friday night dance is scheduled from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Dress will be formal. (This includes cocktail dresses for the girls.) On Saturday night, Rubin's "Tiger-Town Five" will give a concert from 9 p.m. until 11 p.m., and it is to be a coat and tie affair. Monroe said that a slight overlapping with the minstrel show which will be presented in the evening, was unavoidable. But he added, "We hope there will be a maximum attendance at both affairs, and we do not think the conflict will be a serious hindrance to either."

The traditional cocktail party honoring the president, will be given by (Continued on page four)

FIRES AND HAZING DISCUSSED BY IFC

The IFC moved farther toward tightening hazing regulations as they discussed a recommendation from a faculty sub-committee which would place individual as contrasted to house violations of hazing regulations in the hands of the Dean of Students. However, as the majority of violations are house violations the IFC will instigate increased penalties (Continued on page four)

NOTICES

Measurements for caps and gowns and orders for invitations will be taken at the Student Union from 2 p.m. till 4 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week.

On Wednesday evening, March 27, at 8 p.m., at Reid Hall the Student Bar Association of Washington and Lee University will present a film entitled "The Life of Emile Zola."

The film concerns itself with Zola's life after he had exposed the injustice of Dreyfus' exile to Devil's Island for treason which he did not commit. Admission is free. (Continued on page four)

$500 Is Goal Of Glee Club

Five hundred dollars for the financing of the annual Spring Tour is the Glee Club's goal in an extensive fund raising campaign, announced today by Robert Stewart, club director. The campaign, which will begin officially on the Monday following Spring Vacation, will utilize every possible publicity medium to attract the attention of the students, faculty, and townspeople and to rally their support.

Focal point of the campaign will be a joint concert with the Mary Washington College Glee Club given on April 16 in Doremus Gymnasium, according to Mr. Stewart. Tickets for this concert will bear no specific price but will rather be handed out in exchange for whatever contribution the recipient might wish to donate to the fund raising drive. "Actually," said Max Caskie, publicity director of the Glee Club, "the concert is being given in honor of the contributing sponsors of our Spring Tour, and, strictly speaking, there is no admission charge, since anyone may get in for a penny if he is so inclined. However, we hope that the spirit of altruism will prevail and that a shower of generous donations will affirm our faith in such subtle psychology."

Ticket centers during the drive will be located at strategic points about Lexington, and a bombardment of reminders through public notices, radio announcements, filmed advertisement, and news stories should leave no one unaware that a drive is in progress. "We are going all out," said club manager Brad Gooch, "and that will include canvassers in each fraternity house. We're not going to leave out a thing."

The Spring Tour, it should be explained, is the club's annual four-day pilgrimage to some large metropolitan area, this year to the Washington-Baltimore area, with side trips to Fredericksburg and Harrisonburg. The purpose of the tour, according to Caskie, is not only to reward the members of the club for a hard year's work, but also to carry the name of the university to the public at large, to enhance the school's reputation, and to stimulate interest in Washington and Lee and its activities. Financial support is essential in order to pay for transportation and to help defray the high cost of room and board for the forty-member group (Continued on page four)

Staffs Will Be Named At a Later Date

Theme Is In Planning Stage

Farris Hotchkiss and Bill Roberts were elected as editor-in-chief and business manager respectively, of the 1958 Calyx at last night's Publication Board meeting it was announced today by Larry Adler, president of the Publications Board.

Farris Hotchkiss is a Beta junior from Richmond, Virginia. He is the vice-president of the Student Service Society, a member of Phi Eta Sigma, a dorm counselor, managing editor of the 1957 Calyx, and editorial advisor to the Tuesday edition of the Ring-tum Phi.

Bill Roberts is a Junior from Eu-faula, Alabama, and a member of SAE. He is also a member of Scabbard and Blade and is House Manager of his fraternity. He is out-of-town advertising manager for the 1957 Calyx.

President Adler commenting on the elections said, "I feel that the board has selected two highly qualified men to head next year's yearbook. I anticipate that their book will be an excellent one if their qualifications are a good indication."

Both Roberts and Hotchkiss stated they would release the names of the men who will hold key posts on the business staff and the editorial staff of the yearbook at a later date.

While Hotchkiss refused to make any public statement concerning the theme of next year's Calyx, he commented that "I have already made rather detailed plans in regard to the theme. I feel that if I am able to procure certain cuts and copy from an outside source, I will be able to present the students and faculty with a book that will have a decided unique flavor." The theme, according to Hotchkiss, will bring the concept of higher education into a broader context by literary and pictorial associations with institutions and ideas outside the university.

Roberts added that there may be a possibility that advertising in next year's book will have an entirely new makeup which will attract the eye of the student thereby making the yearbook a complete entity instead of two separate sections.

With the exception of one debate, Smith and Williams ranked "superior" when arguing the negative side (Continued on page four)

Christian Asso. Reads T. S. Eliot

The University Christian Association will present a dramatic reading of T. S. Eliot's poem, "The Hollow Men," tonight at 7:00 in the Student Union with discussion following.

Dr. James Rikard, visiting professor of philosophy, will be the moderator of the discussion. Dr. Rikard is serving also as the head of the philosophy department of Roanoke College in Salem, Virginia, teaching there three days a week and teaching three days at Washington and Lee. He also serves as Chaplain of Roanoke College.

The program tonight will consist of a reading of Eliot's poem with two student readers and audience participation. The poem will be read antiphonally between the readers and the audience, thus providing a sense of participation in preparation for discussion, according to the Rev. Gelwick, director of religious activities.

"The Hollow Men" was chosen as the second in a series of two readings, the first being a play of Jean-Paul Sartre, which depict certain psychological and theological themes.

Tonight's program will be concerned with the "hollowness" of modern man. The discussion will center on the thesis that modern man is the victim of a spiritual sickness, and, according to Mr. Gelwick, the purpose of studying "The Hollow Men" is that "we are concerned with T. S. Eliot's analysis of the loneliness, anxiety, and emptiness of (Continued on page four)

O'BRIEN WILL SPEAK ON GIDE AT SEMINAR

The seminars in Literature will present Professor Justin O'Brien of Columbia University in the third of the 1956-57 series on Thursday evening, March 28, at 8 o'clock in duPont Auditorium.

Dr. O'Brien is a professor of French at Columbia, and is noted as an authority on contemporary French literature. The topic he has chosen for his lecture on this campus is "Andre Gide: Complete Man of Letters." Professor O'Brien has written several books concerning Gide, some of which are on display in McCormick Library.

Free tickets to the Seminar on Thursday evening may be obtained from Dr. Marvin B. Perry in Payne 24 or Dr. William Pusey in duPont 203. Those desiring tickets should pick them up before Thursday at 5 p.m.

Dr. O'Brien holds a Ph.D. from Harvard University and has achieved recognition as an author and as a translator. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he served as an instructor of French at Harvard and then went to Columbia in 1931. He was made professor of French at Columbia in 1948, after he had served in the Army during World War II.

In the U.S. Army he was made chief of the French section with O.S.S. during the years 1943-45. He quickly rose from captain to lieutenant colonel. Widely decorated, he holds the Legion of Merit, the Croix de Guerre with palm, and the Chevalier Legion of Honor by the French government. He also was decorated with the Order of the British Empire by Great Britain.

Dr. O'Brien received the Denyse Clairouin Prize in 1947, and he has written, edited, and translated many works on Gide, as well as others on such well known writers as Marcel Proust. Among his more recognized works are The Novel of Adolescence in France and Portrait of Andre Gide.

The seminar is the twenty-first since the inception of the program several years ago. The final program in the present series will present Randall Jarrell, a contemporary poet and writer, on April 25. Dr. Jarrell is presently associated with the Library of Congress in Washington.

The sponsors of the Seminars are the Friends of the Library, the Graham-Lee Society, the Washington Literary Society, and the Department of English. Joining these as a sponsor for this particular seminar is the Department of Romance Languages.

JUST A REMINDER

With the spring holidays nearly upon us, there are certain points which immediately come to mind. Unfortunately, the most glaring of these is the question, "How many W&L students will be injured in accidents?" Some students, driving as far as Florida, New York, or Texas, just to name a few destinations, will be trying to drive it straight, with no layover along the way. Weariness combined with alcohol, which will probably be present in many cases, are certainly poor incentives to careful driving.

Each year over a hundred W&L students migrate to Florida to enjoy a week basking in the sun. The trip to Florida generally takes over 24 hours, and a majority of those making the journey try to reach their destination without a stopover, so they will have that much more time in the sunshine state. Where there are many students in a car the danger is not so great, but under other circumstances it becomes a most hazardous trip.

Furthermore, students from various campuses throughout the country nearly wore out their welcome in some of the vacation spots just two years ago. The destruction and other actions which come under the general code titled "disorderly conduct" were so widespread in Fort Lauderdale that last year the Chamber of Commerce there sent out printed bulletins specifying the penalties that would be imposed for any such action in the future.

We ask that all Washington and Lee University students bear these points in mind as they leave Lexington this weekend. We hope that the Spring vacation will be an enjoyable and pleasant one for all, free from injury or acts bearing adversely on the reputation of the University.

CALYX ELECTIONS

At the Publication's Board meeting last night two very competent students were chosen for the position of editor and business manager of the 1957-58 Calyx. Both men have ably served on the yearbook staffs for three years. Consequently, they will take their positions with the experience that is so necessary to the maintenance of high quality publications at Washington and Lee.

Reflecting on the past for a moment, we believe that the yearbooks the past few years have been excellent, particularly when one considers the size of the student body here. This year's Calyx, edited by Bill Abeloff, will be something unique in the history of the W&L yearbook. It is dedicated to a special occasion which will call for art work of particularly high calibre.

As we look to the future and to the 1957-58 Calyx, we look forward with confidence to a continuation of the fine history of the W&L yearbook, and we congratulate both the two men selected for this responsibility and the Publication Board for their judgment in selecting them to these important posts.

1957 Minstrel Show Is Extolled; Will Have 'Cast of a Hundred'

By Phil Brown

I guess there's a little bit of show business in everyone. I don't mean to say that everybody has a little of the extrovert in them, although this is also true, but what I do mean is that you put the average college student in an empty theatre, turn on a few lights, play a good show tune and you can't miss seeing that unmistakable twinkle come into his eye. Lately, rehearsing "Odds at Sea" down at the Troubadour Theatre, I've been watching this happen.

APPROXIMATELY one year ago when I was first given this show to write I planned to use as many students as possible in it, feeling the Minstrel Show to be one of the few opportunities most students had for theatrical expression. Why the Minstrel Show and not the Troubadours or Glee Club? Well, for better or worse the actual rehearsals for most of the Minstrel Show along with all of the technical rigmaroll are jammed into a short two week period. Most can afford a couple of weeks of such goings on, few can afford more. Today as the show stands with a week and half of rehearsals to go yet, there are upwards of one hundred students actively taking part.

Many of these boys everyone knows, but there are others who take on the more menial tasks who, except for small type mention (jammed into an inch or two of the program), go unheralded. Some of these are hardly more than whipping boys, but they're there when you need them most, running hundreds of errands that need doing and without which rehearsals could never continue. Tom Eppley and Leigh Allen have been doing just that—and the cast thanks them.

Tim Hixon along with his stage crew are also some of the unsung gang. Guys like Jim Barnes, Al Bibberman, Barry Goldsmith, Ron Ruben, Bob Collett, and John Smyth, and then from somewhere a girl like Betty Humphries pitches in. It isn't really much fun from the hammer and nail end, especially when you have a semester quiz hanging in the fire.

You get confused with a "bit" and call in some fresh minds to help unscramble ideas—Ted McKeldin and Harry Moses give you a couple of hours. You need a couple of tunes orchestrated and Dr. Stewart has them ready by the next morning. Tom Friedman loans you his record player and makes himself generally useful. You need a piano player to rehearse the chorus (Sam's busy passing pre-med quizzes) and a guy like Al White comes through... and does a bang-up job too. You need pictures, lots of pictures, and Avery Juhring works all afternoon and evening in the photo lab for you. Posters... and Fred Heina takes time out from answering the telephone and telling customers, "Sorry, Sold Out," to knock them out for you.

AND THERE ARE OTHERS, the small favors that I've already forgotten... and those few who rehearsed for weeks to have to drop out of the show because of more pressing academic commitments... all deserve a pat on the back for time and effort... Particularly though, you have a producer—MOOSE SCHAFER, who not only produces but directs, delegates, hustles, and without which it would be too much.

New York City Bankers Award W&L $1,200 in Scholarship Aid

Washington and Lee received $1,200.00 recently as its portion in a program of financial aid to higher education by the First National City Bank of New York, according to a bulletin received here.

Mr. E. S. Mattingly, treasurer of the university, said the gift has been received. Washington and Lee is one of 109 colleges and universities sharing in the bank's program.

Totalling $171,600, the grants to the 109 institutions are based on the number of college graduates who have been in the employ of the bank for five years or who have become officers, and they average $400 per employee this year. The grants are unrestricted as to use and are made to non-tax supported four-year, degree-granting institutions.

The three Washington and Lee men who, under the requirements of the program, are responsible for the $1,200 grant are W. Joe Patton,

'22, F. T. Mitchell, '25, and Riley P. Stevenson, '29.

It is the intention of the bank to repeat these grants each year that the employees remain in the active service of the bank. The current contributions have been made on the basis of 429 eligible employees. There are 291 others who will become eligible in the future, including 2 W&L men, thus adding 43 more institutions to the list of those receiving financial aid, and increasing aid to the present recipients.

Commenting on the bank's program of financial assistance, Howard C. Shepherd, Chairman of the Board of the bank, said, "We trust that through sustained efforts such as ours, and increasing support from business organizations, these institutions will be strengthened and better enabled to make their necessary contribution to society. Our prosperity and continued well being depend in a large part on them and their graduates."

Herb Hummers Receives $250 Award From National Fraternity

Herbert J. Hummers, Washington and Lee University senior from Valley Stream, New York, has been selected as one of eight American college students receiving cash scholarship awards of $250 from the Delta Upsilon Educational Foundation of Columbus, Ohio.

Hummers was presented his check by Washington and Lee Dean of Students Frank J. Gilliam in brief ceremonies before members of the university's Delta Upsilon chapter. The award recognizes outstanding scholastic ability and contributions to campus life through extra-curricular activities.

Hummers is a member of Phi Beta Kappa national scholastic fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa national leadership fraternity, and was a member of the varsity basketball and tennis teams.

The Delta Upsilon Educational Foundation was established in 1949 by graduate members of the fraternity to aid and encourage outstanding students.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

SO TIRED TODAY I ALMOST FELL ASLEEP IN CLASS!

Max Does Nothing, Plans Little, And Fails To Write Anything

By Max Caskie

AS I SIT here pecking away in my garret at 12:30 in the morning on the day I have an hour quiz (thanks, a heap, Dr. Stephenson), I am forced to wonder how much sanity still resides in me. Column, bah. This is a bad week for everybody, and there doesn't seem to be much you can do about it. It's a wasted week, the faculty know it, so they don't try to lecture at all; instead, they give hour quizzes to which no one feels able to give much attention or concentration.

"Tell me, Mr. Caskie," barks Sergeant Snorkel, "what was the Union Army's objective at the battle of Dogpatch?"
"Fort Lauderdale, sir."
"It's a bad week all right."

I'm going to Florida, actually; I'm going home. Maybe I shouldn't say that, though, and declare instead that you won't see me at Daytona because I'm going to Port St. Joe (where?), and then I could tell marvelous lies about it until Finals. But, I'm going home—to play golf. I hear the Weather there has been beautiful so far. Knowing exactly what that portends, I have purchased half a dozen red golf balls.

Announcement: I cleaned my room again this weekend—all but one part of it (see Rt. P. Vol LVII, No. 14—Ed.) This time the housemanager didn't come in and see it and faint. He didn't come in and see it. He didn't come in. He couldn't get through the doorway. That's the part I didn't clean.

I notice that the calendar following spring vacation is a full one, what with Spring Dances, SIPA, the Minstrel Show, the Glee Club concert (plug), and innumerable houseparties. The particular calendar I have is short two days—that is, the day after May 12 is May 15. Perhaps this is a printing error. Or perhaps the two days are omitted to allow teetotalers to feel that they, too, have had a lost weekend. At any rate, I think it's a shame, since the girl on the May page is by far the sexiest on the whole calendar.

FARRIS HOTCHKISS will edit the 1958 Calyx, thus confirming the predictions of his friends, who always said that some day he'd be the biggest bookmaker in town.

It has been brought to my attention that various cities in this general area of the country thrive and grow fat each summer on the proceeds from some flowery festival or other. For instance, Washington has its Cherry Blossom festival and nets millions, and Winchester has its Apple Blossom festival and nets tens of thousands. Now if Lexington could only follow suit and have an Orange Blossom festival, I'm sure it would really be able to clean up afterwards.

Final point of information: despite prevalent rumors, the Spring Shenandoah will not boast a cover picture of Sophia Loren.

Language Conf. Here, April 13

Washington and Lee University's Department of Romance Languages will be host to a joint meeting of the Virginia chapters of the American Associations of Teachers of Spanish and French on April 13.

Registration is scheduled for 9:30 a.m., with the business meeting of the French section for 10:30 and the Spanish section at 11:30, both in duPont Hall.

At 1 p.m., Dean Leon F. Sensabaugh will welcome teachers to a luncheon meeting at the Robert E. Lee Hotel. Luncheon speakers will be Professor Hector H. Arjuela, of Virginia Military Institute, and Professor Jean Canu, of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University.

Membership in the associations is college and high school teachers.

Lacrosse Clinic Called Success; Corrigan Pleased With Crowd

By JIM LEWIS

The Washington and Lee lacrosse team went through their paces this past weekend under the leadership of coach Gene Corrigan for the benefit of roughly seventy-five spectators. The performance was a move, on the part of Corrigan, to give the students as well as members of the faculty a general idea of the principals of the old Indian game.

The afternoon started with a brief history of the game followed by a run down of how the game has progressed here at Washington and Lee. It was pointed out by Coach Corrigan that it has only been in the past few years that lacrosse has gained any recognized status here at Washington and Lee. The final culmination of this recognition came last summer when the team made a tour of England where they compiled a very impressive record of eight wins as opposed to only one loss.

The visitors on hand were acquainted with the various types of equipment. The different types of sticks were exhibited and a brief run down of the three positions was given.

The team gave displays of such aspects of the game as defensive maneuvers, offensive dodges and feeds, goal tending, and midfield play. An explanation of the various rules was given as the action took place on the field. The afternoon ended with the separating of the squad and the playing of a full field game. The action was stopped from time to time in order to give Corrigan a chance to explain some of the phases of the game that he was not able to go over before.

This Friday afternoon the Generals will meet a perhaps underrated ten from Williams University.

ty. The northern team is due to arrive at W&L this afternoon and will spend several days in practice. From Washington and Lee, the Williams team will travel on to Duke University.

Game Friday

The game Friday will be the first of twelve. Following the game, the team leaves for Baltimore where they will spend their vacation. During their stay, the team will encounter Loyola College on Tuesday, Dartmouth on Wednesday, Delaware on Thursday, and Hofstra on Saturday. All of the games, with the exception of the Delaware University game, will be played in Baltimore. The Hofstra game will highlight the trip. It will be the second half of a twin bill which sees Washington College pitted against Mt. Washington, a club-team in Baltimore who only this past weekend defeated the University of Maryland, 1956 National Champions.

The Generals will swing into action following vacation when they meet Colgate on Saturday, April 13. The match will be played at home on Wilson Field.

Generals Drop To Cornell, 4-2

Four Pitchers Are Used

The Blue and White baseball team started their play yesterday in the wind and cold with a 4-2 loss to Cornell in a scrimmage game. The weather was terrible on the players and the number of walks spoke of the effect on the pitchers of both sides.

W&L used four different pitchers with each man pitching to six men. The four hurlers gave up only three hits and four runs. Veteran Joe Knakal was the first pitcher and he retired his six men in order with no hits or walks. Frosh Skip Isreal followed up also pitching no hit ball.

Charlie Broll and Dan Payne rounded out the pitching. Wildness plagued both men although they only gave up three hits to the men they faced.

The Generals were held to two hits by the Cornell pitchers with Dom Flora and Frank Hoopes garnering the knocks for the Blue and White. Problems still exist mainly concerning depth at some key positions.

Catching is a particular problem with veteran John Alford sharing the duties with Frosh George Card. Some depth is also needed in the outfield.

A little warm weather is the main ingredient needed and the trip to Parris Island during Spring Vacation should help to iron out some of Coach Billy McCann's problems if the weather is agreeable.

The first season game is Saturday against North Carolina and the first home game is the Wednesday following Spring Vacation.

Baseball Trip Next Weekend

The W&L baseball team met its first opponent of the season yesterday as they played host to Cornell in a scrimmage on Jackson Field.

McCann hopes that early scrimmages such as the Cornell game yesterday will give him time to select his first string team. He believes that Dan Payne and Skip Israel will show enough promise in scrimmage play to enter the starting lineup before the season is through.

The big problem facing the '57 team is the shortage of pitchers. Day Newberg, Amato, Skolnik, Davis, and Gitter are missing from the roster for one reason or another, and only one of them is not in the student body.

The first game of the season will be with the University of North Carolina this Saturday on their field. Knakal, Daughtrey, Broll, and Payne are expected to bear the brunt of the hurling activity. Daughtrey and Broll are converted outfielders and infielders.

The team will also travel to Paris Island and practice with the marine team. The Conference Tournament is on April 4 and 8, with W&L facing The Citadel.

INTRAMURALS FOR SPRING SEASON

This afternoon marked the beginning of the '57 intramural track meet. As indicated from the scratch meeting Monday night, each event should be hotly contested.

According to intramural manager, Ben Hoover, this year's participants should out number those of the '56 event. Qualifying trials were held today in all matches except the high jump, pole vault, distance relay, and the 100-yard dash. Finals in these and all other events will be held Thursday, March 28.

Sigma Chi, winner of first place last year, will be back in search of a second victory. They completely dominated the '56 meet, as they out-distanced runner-up, SAE, by a total of 53 points.

At the three-quarter mark, the over-all intramural standings are: First place, Sigma Chi; followed by Kappa Sig, Phi Gam, Sigma Nu, and PiKA.

AWARD TO OWEN

Last Saturday, at the VMI range, the National Rifle Association Sectional Tournament was held. Firing in the individual match, Washington and Lee's Dave Owen fired a 99 prone; 95 kneeling; and a 90 offhand for a total score of 284. This was enough to give Owen fourth place among the individual entries.

Other teams firing in the match were VMI, VPI, East Tennessee, The Citadel, and U.Va.

Notice

Applications are being received by the editorial and sports staff of the Tuesday Edition of the Ring-tum Phi for reporters and men interested in copy and proof reading positions on next year's paper.

And when that happens, your cigarette smoke makes a mighty Crisp Wisp! Of course, with Luckies, you can forget the weather. Luckies taste fine all year round—and no wonder! A Lucky is all cigarette . . . nothing but fine, mild, good-tasting tobacco that's TOASTED to taste even better. Forecast: You'll say Luckies are the best-tasting cigarette you ever smoked!

and tougher handling of those houses which violate the hazing rules next year as a means toward ending hazing on this campus. The doom on hazing is the result on a mandate from the board of trustees to the administration which has in turn handed the problem to the IFC.

Mr. Bob Simpson, of the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Lexington Fire Department, explained the dangers and pointed out ways to prevent fraternity house fires to the assembled group of house presidents at the Inter-Fraternity Council meeting held last night.

In speaking to the IFC, he pointed out that though most fraternity houses are considered fire-proof structures the danger from fire is still a real one. Setting up of a house evacuation plan, and instruction in fire prevention techniques and extinguisher-operation for the help in fraternity houses were points that he especially stressed.

The IFC voted to send $50 in food and clothes to the Greek orphan child which they are at present sponsoring as an Easter present. Also, the group discussed different proposals for increasing contributions to the Charity Chest next year, including one by IFC president Don Luria, who recommended assessing each fraternity member a certain amount monthly through his own house.

The program begins at 7 p.m. in the Student Union tonight and is open to all interested students.

during the tour. "The alumni groups in the various localities have been extremely generous in their support," said Caskie, "but we can't expect them to do it all. We have to get some money before we leave."

The April 16 concert, whose program has not yet been announced, will thus serve to express the Glee Club's gratitude for local contributions. As far as the program goes, however, it might be mentioned that it will include a number of selections by the Mary Washington Glee Club and several brand-new songs by the W&L group, among them a musical version of T. S. Eliot's "The Hollow Men," and the long-awaited Calypso.

Smith led the team in total points scored with 211. Williams posted 191. Out of five Virginia teams competing in the tournament W&L placed second behind William and Mary. They had the same won-loss record as the team from Williamsburg, but the W&L point average was some
