CHANGES MADE IN LAW SCHOOL; THREE YEAR COURSE DRAFTED FOR 1915-16

Two New Subjects Added—New Course Optional—Schedule Hours Different

Sweeping changes have been made in the Washington and Lee University law school. A regular three year course has supplanted the two year course in favor of the faculty. Two new subjects have been added to the course, while the term of a number of subjects has been lengthened. Announcement of the changes were made in the April University Bulletin.

The three year law course will be optional. The incoming students have the prerogative of electing either the two or three year course of study. However the requirements for a degree will include all of the subjects recently adopted in addition to the topics included in the present prescribed course. The two new subjects, which have been added, are Sales and Personal Property and Damages.

The length of the terms of Contracts, Equity Real and Property Evidence, which heretofore have been imparted in one term, has been increased to two terms. Agency, Negotiable Instruments, and Bankruptcy, which pre-

INVASION OF EAST TO BEGIN MONDAY

Thirteen Will Be Taken on Final Trip

Thirteen strong, Washington and Lee will start eastward on the final trip of the 1915 season next Sunday. The inaugural clash of the eastern invasion will be staged at Blacksburg, where the undefeated V. P. I. team will be forced to defend its title. On Tuesday, the Generals will meet St. Johns team at Annapolis, while Catholic University and Georgetown University will be contended with in Washington on May 6-7. After a battle with Villanova College, at Villanova, Pennsylvania, Washington and Lee will jump to West Point to close the 1915 campaign with the U. S. Military Academy nine on Saturday.

Coach Donahue has not announced the exact personnel of the squad that will take the eastward flight. Three pitchers, the regular infield, four outfielders and one catcher will compose the party. Manager Beckwith will not accompany the team, pressure of work in the law school forcing him to remain in Lexington, he states.

It will take five victories in the six engagements to give the Generals an even break for the season. The form shown against A. and M. has given Coach Donahue hope of this accomplishment.

Dr. F. A. Scratchley, of New York City, an eminent neurologist, left Sunday for Lynchburg after a visit to the Sigma Chi fraternity. He graduated from Washington College in 1877.

ROUSING OVATION TENDERED "MIKE" DENNY DURING VISIT

Students Show That Affections For Former President Remain Undeified—Dr. Denny Welcomed Noisily—Addresses University Assembly and Receives Token of Regard

A rousing ovation was tendered to Dr. George Hutcheson Denny when that able man, who for ten years guided the destinies of Washington and Lee, returned to pay his respects to the University and to the members of the class of 1915—the last class to matriculate under his administration. When Dr. Denny arrived Thursday evening, he was met by the student body, which was in a buoyant and demonstrative frame of mind. Amid the acclaim of his admirers the procession journeyed through the staid streets of Lexington, which reverberated with shouts and whoops of joy.

Within the Lee Memorial Chapel on Friday morning, the former executive addressed the University assembly with every seat and nook filled with an intent auditor. Preceding his address, the Senior class presented Dr. Denny with a magnificent cane as a token of the high regard and esteem which his former charges bore to him. Pleasant reminiscences of Washington and Lee of the past occupied the opening moments of his speech, but he then turned to the more abstract subject "The Larger Duties of College Bred Men." By interspersing his speech with jokes and quips that illustrated his points, Dr. Denny kept his hearers in a jovial mood.

To add to the pleasures of Dr. Denny's visit, President and Mrs. H. L. Smith tendered a reception to the former president at the president's mansion. His visit was short lived as pressing duties forced him to return to the University of Alabama on Saturday morning.

SEVENTEEN ARE IN INTERSCHOLASTIC GENERALS LEAVE FOR V. P. I. MEET

Six States Represented Already—Will Be Big Meet

Seventeen preparatory schools from six different states have signified their intention of participating in Washington and Lee's third annual Interscholastic Track and Field Games, which will be staged Saturday on Wilson Field. The entry list has not closed and the entrance of several other schools is expected before the time limit expires.

The teams to enter thus far are: Detroit University School; Central High School of Detroit; Augusta Military Academy; Staunton Military Academy; Fishburne Military School; Woodberry Forest School; Bloomfield, N. J. High School; Roanoke High School; Lynchburg High School; Geenbriar Presbyterian School; Knoxville High School; Cluster Springs Academy; Asheville School; Tome School, of Fort Deposit, Md.; Lexington High School; West Virginia State Preparatory school of Kaiser, W. Va.

An early announcement is expected that Mercersburg Academy will enter the meet, together with other leading preparatory schools.

The medals to be awarded to the winners of the relay races, individual events and the pentathlon have been placed upon display at McCrum's Drug Co. and have provoked a vast amount of favorable criticism. They are very handsome medals.

Coach Fletcher has announced that no one will be allowed upon the field

GENERALS CLOSE LOCAL SEASON WITH WIN OVER NORTH CAROLINA AGGIES

University of North Carolina Trounces Generals—Jennings Baffles Aggies

The cunning of Hughie Jennings' mighty left arm enabled Washington and Lee to add a fitting close to the disastrous 1915 local season by humbling North Carolina A. & M. yesterday 8 to 4. With the Aggies in the fore with a three run lead as the result of hitting Hastings in the first two innings, the little southpaw was dispatched to the slab to hold the Aggies. And for five consecutive sessions, Jennings downed the Carolinians without permitting a single batsman to reach first base.

While the Aggies were baffled, the Generals fathomed the offerings of Jaynes, after four futile attempts, in the fifth inning and, aided by four misplays of the Aggie infield, scored six runs. Washington and Lee played a brilliant game afield, Brown's bobble in the second inning on Johnson's fast gunderr being the only error recorded. Gallagher handled difficult chances at short easily, while Colville contributed a feature by

CIRCLE INITIATES MEMBERS FRIDAY

Dr. Latane to Make Address at Public Initiation

The annual public initiation exercises of the Virginia Alpha chapter of the Omicron Delta Kappa Society, familiarly known as the "Circle," will take place on next Friday night in the University chapel, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. At this time the names of the newly elected members will be made public, and the fortunate ones will be initiated into the mysteries of the organization. The speaker of the occasion will be Dr. John Holladay Latane, late Professor of History at Washington and Lee, and now Professor at the Johns Hopkins University. He will deliver an address on the subject of "America's Interest in the European War and in the Outcome," which promises to prove of special interest in view of the present world situation. Dr. Latane is widely known as an authority on all questions of international law and polity, and is one of the best-informed men on his subject in the country today. He will be remembered by a large number of the students now in college as a polished and forceful speaker.

The exercises will be open to the public.

RANDOLPH-MACON WAS EXPECTED

A statement from President C. A. Webb to the students of Randolph-Macon Woman's College that all the holidays available for the 1914-'15 session had been used alone prevented the denizens of College park from journeying to Lexington yesterday.

ROUSING OVATION TENDERED "MIKE" DENNY DURING VISIT

President Smith yielded the platform, after a few remarks relating to the cordial greeting with which the students had received their former president, to Thomas Glasgow. He gave a humorous reminiscence of an episode that occurred during Dr. Denny's administration, showing the interest he manifested in each individual and concluded his address with a wonderful tribute to Dr. Denny, "a true friend and a truly great man." He then presented a handsome gold-headed cane as a token of regard from those who were here in scholarly travail under his regime.

The presentation provoked a delightful session of reminiscences from Dr. Denny. He harkened back to the balmy days, when there was no Newcomb hall, no library, no sidewalks about the campus, and then traced the development of Washington and Lee under his administration until he turned it over to his successor. While he did not slight the physical side of the University, he showed how the entrance requirements had been increased and how even the mighty automatic rule had found a place in Washington and Lee. During his recollections of the past, he illustrated its deficiencies in equipment, funds and scholastic requirements by a series of sprightly humorous tales.

But the speaker decided that he had a far more serious message to the Assembly than the reminiscences of days of yore, pleasant as they were to him. He announced that he would essay to show "The Larger Duties of College Bred Men," by pointing out the more prominent positions the college occupy in the progress of civilization and the demands of the public upon those men who wish to be leaders, using Washington and Lee as an example.

He discussed the college of today—its needs, its work and its objects. Naturally the consideration turned to the men who go to college, setting up his ideal of character and laying stress upon character as the all-important object to be cultivated and trained. With "Love thy neighbor as thyself" and "Seek the truth" as the two principle tenets of his creed of character building, he explained its pre-eminent position in life. "Character is the touchstone of our whole lives," said he. "What profit it a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

In establishing the requirements for success in life, Dr. Denny emphasized both general and technical training. He averred that education was not all; that a college was for men of ambition and energy. "The one high virtue that I most covet is that of courage," he asserted, "the kind of courage that drives malice from the heart." Social service, devotion to the needs of humanity and self-sacrifice were his ideals for a true public leader to embrace, and he recommended these to college men. He closed his address with some verses from the poems of John Trotwood Moore.

The principal social event during Dr. Denny's visit was a delightful reception tendered the guest of honor by President and Mrs. Henry Louis Smith at their residence on the campus. The reception afforded the members of the Senior classes and the members of the faculty an opportunity to meet Dr. Denny. Some of his intimate friends among the townspeople were invited to attend.

Refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake and punch, were served the guests by the young ladies of Lexington, who attended in large numbers. Until 10:30 the guests enjoyed the hospitality of the president.

Neither the habitual tardiness of the C & O. train nor the hastily perfected arrangements for the reception prevented the Washington and Lee student body from giving Dr. Denny a rousing ovation on his return to Lexington last Thursday evening. The arrival of the president was a signal for a storm of cheers and applause, as the band boomed forth the familiar and inspiring strains of the "Swing."

After expending its vocal energy in a series of yells, the crowd, which included over 300 students, formed in line behind the automobile, bedecked in white and blue, which was to convey the guest of honor. Headed by the Band, the procession began its noisy march through town. The escort continued to the home of Dr. Howe where Dr. Denny thanked the students for their warm reception and the celebration closed with a long yell for "Mike."

THE APRIL COLLEGIAN MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

Brimming over with attractive literary effort, the Southern Collegian for April made its appearance last week. Two stories of fiction, four poems, an essay and an anecdote, together with the usual departments, compose the contents of the Collegian. The "Spotlight" has been discontinued.

One of the most conspicuous accomplishments in the magazine is "A Description of the Storm," a translation into poetical form of a passage from Virgil by A. B. Shepperson. It is rather unique in that it manifests an interest in the classics, which receive such scanty attention nowadays.

William Lamont has contributed a creditable essay, on "The Hope of Progress." It presents a vast amount of literary and philosophical study and the writer feels that the irrepressible determination of humanity to seek the truth is that hope. Bill Keleher and P. C. Thomas have contributed two gripping short stories of an opposite type. "The Priest of Volga" by Thomas and "The Journey's End" by Keleher are indeed unusually attractive.

N. B. Adams has contributed in "General Lee's Coffin" an anecdote incident to the great general's death.

Four poems complete the literary department—G. W. Diehl's "Nocturnal Showers," B. C. Moomaw's "Unarmored," A. B. Shepperson's "A Description of the Storm" and John Dudley McCreedy's "To Georgia's Sweetest Peach." The last poem is one of rather unique conception, showing great intensity of emotion and unbounded joy in the course of narration. The poet has bared his very soul in the contribution and it is indeed a signal achievement. It tells of how a young hero has defied death, the wrath of the elements and veritable destruction for "Baby Bunting." After having recounted the many perils to which he has been subjected, he concludes that his many hazards were well merited. And, if one follows the verse closely, it will have been discovered that the poet has done some tall travelling during his search.

The friends of Dr. J. W. Kern will regret to know that his son, Dabney Kern, is ill in Baltimore, where he was recently forced to undergo an operation.

INTER-FRAT LEAGUE TO BEGIN MONDAY

Eligibility Rules Cause Argument—Dr. Farrar Re-Elected President of Council

The fifth annual season of the Interfraternity league will be opened next Monday when the Phi Gamma Delta's clash with the Sigma Chis. The Phi Kappa Psi's are scheduled to meet the Pi Kappa Alpha's at five o'clock on the same afternoon. The other games scheduled for the first round follows:

May 4—Sigma vs. Nu Phi Kappa Sigma at 3 o'clock.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Alpha Tau Omega at 5 o'clock.

May 5—Phi Delta Theta vs. Kappa Sigma at 3 o'clock.

Delta Tau Delta vs. Kappa Alpha at 5 o'clock.

May 6—Alpha Chi Rho vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon at 3 o'clock.

The second round will be begun on the following Monday, May 10. The winner of the contest between the Phi Psi's and P. K. A.'s. will clash with the victor in the Sigma Nu-Phi Kappa Sigma game, while the winners of the Phi Delta Theta-Kappa Sigma and Delta Tau-Kappa Alpha games will play at five o'clock. On May 11, the successful teams of the S. A. E.-A. T. O. and A. X. P.-S. P. E. battles will meet. The winner in the setto between the Sigma Chis and Phi Gamma Delta's will not be forced to play in the second round, having drawn a bye.

The semi-finals will come on May 14 and May 15. The deciding battle will be staged sometime shortly after the last date.

The matter of eligibility precipitated a warm discussion in the interfraternity council meeting. It was finally decided, by a vote of 8 to 6, that "All men who were members of the Washington and Lee baseball squad at the first game or thereafter should be ineligible to participate."

The fraternities proffered their hospitalities to the preparatory school athletes, who will participate in the Inter-scholastic meet on May 1, and will entertain the visitors as last year. Announcement was made that a meeting would be held tonight to apportion the guests to the different fraternity houses. At this meeting, it is understood that some effort will be made to adopt a less stringent code of eligibility rules for the interfrat league.

ed, without opposition, as president of the council for 1915-16 session, and Lorentz T. White of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, was chosen without opposition for secretary.

W. & L. TO ENTER ORATOR IN STATE ORATORICAL MEET

The preliminary to chose an orator to represent Washington and Lee in the State Oratorical Contest will be held in one of the literary society halls tonight at eight o'clock. The state contest will be staged at Roanoke College, Salem, Va., on May 7. As yet only a few men have expressed their intention of competing for this honor, and there seems a likelihood that there will be no more than three from which to select the exponent of Demosthenes. An alternate will be chosen at the same time.

The University of Virginia is the present holder of the title, having won it last year. With this state of affairs existing, Washington and Lee should put up a good fight to contest with her old rival for this intellectual honor.

VIRGINIA PHI GAMMA CHAPTERS HOLD THEIR CONVENTION HERE

An elaborate banquet at the Dutch Inn last Saturday evening formed a fitting close to the third annual convention of the Virginia chapters of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, which was held in Lexington Friday and Saturday.

Following the arrival of some ten delegates and guests Friday, a reception was held in their honor from 8:30 to 11 by Mrs. J. B. Shultz.

On the following morning the business of the convention was transacted at a session held in the Y. M. C. A. meeting room from ten until two. Upon the completion of this an automobile trip to Natural Bridge was inaugurated, where many of the participants saw for the first time this wonder of nature and indulged in a dip in the hotel swimming pool.

The final event of the convention took place with the holding of a banquet Saturday evening at the Dutch Inn. This pleasant affair formed the climax of the convention. With Professor D. C. Humphreys presiding as toast master, the flow of wit and wisdom, to say nothing of delicacies, was continued until a late hour.

In addition to the members of the local chapter those in attendance on the convention were: Prof. D. C. Humphreys of the faculty; C. C. Chambers of Pittsburg, Penn., one of the national officers of Phi Gamma Delta; G. R. Brothers of Richmond, Va. A. B. Clark of Wadesboro, N. C., B. F. Kirkpatrick, of Lynchburg, Va., and the delegates from the other chapters. These were: from Richmond College, G. P. Jones; from the University of Virginia, W. P. Fite, D. H. Thompson, J. G. Hardie, J. W. Lockhart and C. W. Strickling, center and captain-elect of the University of Virginia basketball team.

Change in Law Course

THE institution of a three year law course will serve to place Washington and Lee a notch higher in the ranking of the Universities. A three year course has been desired for years and the need of it has been obvious. It will serve to lighten the work on the law students, which has been excessive, and will give them an opportunity to take an active part in other activities in college.

The movement can not but be productive of good. It will bring to Washington and Lee a larger number of scholarly students, who have previously gone to other institutions for a longer course than two years. While the three year course is preferred, a degree may be conferred after two years travail. But, with the institution of two new courses and the lengthening of the terms in other, it will be rather unusual to see degrees conferred for the shorter course.

President Smith feels that it is an important step in the development of the University, that has given to the country a vast array of Senators, Representatives, Governors and eminent jurists.

GENERALS CLOSE LOCAL SEASON WITH WIN OVER N. C. AGGIES

sprinting back of the bleachers and capturing Hodges' foul.

Jaynes was solved for nine hits. Six of the safeties fell to Bailey and Bagley, who banged three each. Bailey singled in the fifth and sixth and tripled in the eighth. Brown, Gallagher and Sweetland scored the other hits. But it was a case of too much Jennings.

The Aggies descended swiftly upon Hastings in the first. Wheeler singled through short, while Gammon was hit by the slabsman. Hodges sacrificed deftly, Hastings to Bailey. Winston was walked deliberately in hope that a double play would result from Jaynes' trial at the plate. The pitcher upset expectations by singling to center and scoring both runners.

In the second, two bunched hits gave the third tally. Johnson drove a grounder through Brown's legs. Van Brocklin sacrificed, Brown to Bailey. Colville knocked down Johnson's line drive, but failed to nip the runner at first. A foxy maneuver was nipped in the bud, when Sweetland threw the first sacker out as he attempted to pilfer second. However Wheeler singled to left field and W. Johnson scored.

Generals Solve Jaynes

Jaynes yielded but one hit in the first four sessions but in the fifth the Generals entered into a scoring frolic that gave Washington and Lee a clean sweep over the Aggies in three branches of athletics. Brown's single over short opened the rally. Jennings grounded to Wheeler, whose fumble allowed both runners safety. Young bunted to the first baseman, who juggled the ball and permitted the bases to be loaded. As Brown raced toward home on Colville's grounder to third, Gammon bobbled and the Generals scored the first run. Gallagher hoisted a fly to center field and Jennings sprinted over the rubber. Wheeler stabbed at Bailey's sizzling liner over second base, but the momentum of the wallop was too much to permit the rap to be arrested and the ball carried to center field. Despite the fact that Thrash fumbled the ball in the outfield, faulty tactics held him at third. Harrison's fast grounder to first base forced Young at home, but Bagley hit a slow bouncer to short and reached first, while Colville scored.

Then came a neat spurt. Sweetland lofted a Texas leaguer just back of first base. Bailey scored easily but Harrison drew a peg to plate and tallied only by a clever slide. Sweetland darted for second base and pilfered the bag. Bagley took advantage of the throw and counted from third with the sixth run. Brown reached first on Wheeler's error but Jennings was out on strikes and the fireworks subsided.

In the eighth, Gammon walked, after two were down. Hodges beat out a slow grounder toward second, while Winston's infield hit that Gallagher attempted to field scored him.

To offset this spurt, the Generals came back strongly in the eighth. Jennings walked and advanced to third on grounders to second by Young and Colville. Gallagher scored the hurler with a sizzling double against left field fence—the first extra base hit of the battle. Bailey tripled to deep center and Gallagher tallied the last run. The Aggies were retired in order in the ninth.

NORTH CAROLINA WINS

Devising a new array, the Generals battled desperately for a decision over the University of North Carolina last Tuesday, but three home runs off Pierotti's swift shoots enabled the Carolinians to amass a lead that the Washington and Lee batsmen failed to surmount. Williams pitched in invincible form, the Generals fathoming his speedy offerings but five times. The giant right hander was strong at all stages of the game and received sterling support. Pierotti twirled for the Generals and pitched courageously, in face of costly bobbles, but the ten hits—three of them homers—yielded, afforded North Carolina eight runs and an 8 to 2 decision.

Home runs were prominent in the session of clouts. Four of North Carolina's eight tallies and both of Washington and Lee's may be attributed to drives over the left field fence. In the third inning, after two barren rounds, Lewis drove the ball over the left field fence, scoring Zollicoffer, who had reached first on an infield hit. With two down in the same session, the Generals tied the count by the same means. With Pierotti on first, as the result of a fielder's choice, Young slashed a drive over the sunfield border and tied the count.

After that eventful inning, Williams, by virtue of his bursts of speed and fast support, held Washington and Lee scoreless while the Carolinians solved Pierotti. In the fourth, Bruce, the leadoff batsmen, dissolved the tie with the third homer over left field fence. In the sixth, Patterson tripled to deep center field. Gallagher made a sensational stop and recovery of Woodall's sizzling grounder to short and held Bruce without advance. Bruce hoisted a short fly to center, which Young landed after a long sprint. Patterson essayed scoring and succeeded as Sweetland dropped Young's peg, which preceded the fleeting runner from third.

In the last three innings, the Carolinians continued to swell the handicap. Honig opened the seventh with a drive to Pierotti that was deflected and hit Umpire Raftery. Bailey, in attempting to advance Honig bunted to Pierotti, who forced Honig at second. Zollicoffer's grounder to Gallagher sent the runner to second. Lewis' liner to left field was misjudged by Bagley and Bailey scored. Pierotti uncorked a wild pitch and Lewis advanced to third. He completed the circuit when Sweetland threw wildly to Pierotti, who stood in wait at the plate. Another bobble by Sweetland endowed North Carolina with a tally in the eighth. Patterson walked and was sacrificed. Bruce singled, sending the runner to third. Sweetland attempted to catch Patterson off third but pegged to left field and Patterson scored.

In the ninth, with Honig out, Bailey slashed out a line drive over left field fence for a home run.

Three of the five hits secured off Williams went to Penny Bailey, who singled on each of his last three trips to the plater. In the first inning, Colville made a marvelous stop of Woodall's drive, while Gallagher fielded in sensational form at short. Pierotti retired seven on strikes.

On the train that carried Dr. Denny from Lexington Saturday were Registrar N. D. Smithson and Professor J. R. Long, who spent Saturday and Sunday in Lynchburg.

Professor W. LeConte Stevens has been out of town for several days. He represented the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, at the inauguration of Dr. E. K. Graham as president of the University of North Carolina.

BUENA VISTA DOWNS CHEMISTS

In a fast game, marred by numerous errors, the Buena Vista Athletics defeated the Washington and Lee Chemists at Buena Vista Friday, 3 to 1. Caldwell scored the lone tally for the Chemists by a theft of home run in the fourth inning. Lynn scored the first run for Buena Vista in the second when he reached first on an error and scored on Johnson's hit. In the fifth, Anderson's wildness, coupled with several costly errors, gave the Athletics the other two runs.

The fielding of Smith and the hitting of Switzer featured for the Chemists.

120 yard hurdles in practice the other day. Hallman should capture the pole vault handily, as no Tech vaulter has approached 11 feet. Starnes' broad jump mark has not been exceeded by V. P. I. In the quarter, half, mile and two mile races, the Techs are strong. Miles' failure to participate in the discus throw will probably cost the Generals a few points, as he was looked upon as a certain winner.

There will be thirteen events and a relay race, the result of which will not figure in the scoring.

Those who will represent W. & L. are:

100 yard dash—Young and Curtis.
220 yard dash—Young, Curtis and Schultz.

440-yard dash—Schulz, Gladney, Rogers, Wadsworth and Young.

880-yard dash—Wadsworth, McNitt, Englebert and Saunders.

Mile run—Sanders, McNitt, Adams and Fox.

Two mile run—Fox, Johnson and Adams.

120-yard high hurdles—Starnes and Shultz.

220-yard low hurdles—Shultz and Starnes.

Pole vault—Hallman, Hansel and Starnes.

Broad jump—Seeley, Starnes and Shultz.

High jump—Shultz and Seeley.

Shot put—Shultz, Starnes, Hallman and Bryan.

Discus throw—Shultz, Starnes and Bryan.

Relay race—(Four to be chosen from: Schulz, Gladney, Wadsworth, Young, Starnes and Rogers.)

The Washington and Lee team will reach Blacksburg about 6:30 this afternoon and will enjoy a good night's rest. It will depart for Lexington Thursday morning, returning at 3:05 that afternoon.

MILITARY TRAINING AMONG COLLEGE STUDENTS DECREED

Lofty-Browed Receive A Jolt in Literary Societies

The Washington Literary Society Hall was the scene on Saturday night of one of the longest and most interesting programs held in that hall since Christmas. With three declamations and one oration, besides the debate, the society was constantly entertained. The debate was unusually spicy and full of clash, elements absolutely necessary for an interesting discussion.

S. L. Robertson opened the program by a declamation, reciting Ingalls "Eulogy of Benjamin Hill." He was followed by F. B. Potter, who declaimed "The Last Words of Emperor Otto of Rome." A postponed declamation was then delivered by W. O. Burtner, who recited Senator Boar's speech on "The Subjugation of the Philippines. The sole orator of the evening was L. W. Harris, who took for his subject, "After the War."

One of the great questions of the present day is, shall the U. S. increase her army and navy, and thus be better prepared for war? And how is the best way to do this without leading to the Germanistic policy of militarism? With regard to these inquiries, four members of the society undertook to argue about the question; Resolved, "That the Colleges and Universities of the Country should adopt Military Training for men." A. L. Bennett and J. W. Blake for the affirmative, debated that our educational institutions should do this, but D. S. Noble and C. C. Chambers for the negative, showed that it would not be consistent with the historical policy of the United States. The judges, Samuel Wofsy, M. B. Ridenour and H. L. MacGregor, rendered a two to one decision in favor of the negative.

Next Saturday night the two literary societies will hold their third joint meeting off the session.

Defeat For Lofty-Browed

Hopes of the lofty-browed were attended with a setback in the Graham-Lee literary society meeting Saturday night. With the question "Resolved: That Students Making A and B Grades Should Be Excused From Examinations at Washington and Lee," H. M. Shumate and H. M. Rowan urged that the intellectual stars be given this reward for their excellence. Morgan Keaton and W. C. Bleight opposed this argument so forcibly that the judges, W. A. Lamont, J. S. Hansel and N. M. Bell decided that the negative should be given the decision. Thus, a noble hope heard its death rattle.

C. H. Miller opened the program by a declamation of Conwin's "Speech on Mexico." Two extemporaneous speeches were delivered that were keenly received. William A. Lamont speaking upon "The Administration's Foreign Policy" explained how the United States was seeking to preserve her neutrality, while C. P. Heavener told of "The Present Commercial Conditions of the Country" laying particular stress upon the effect of the present war on the industrial and economic life in the United States.

viously occupied but one-half term, will require a full term under the new prescribed course. There has been a division in the ground covered in two subjects. Equity Pleading, which has formerly been dealt with in the course of Common Law Pleading, and Criminal Procedure, which has been included in Criminal Law, will be taught as full term courses during the 1915-'16 session.

The recitation periods will be shortened fifteen minutes and thus conflicts will be avoided. Four recitations, each one hour and fifteen minutes long, have been arranged daily and will permit a much more satisfactory arrangement of classes. The subjects, which heretofore have been taught each day for one term, will be given three or four times each week for two terms.

The newly adopted regulations will not affect the students, who matriculated during the 1914-15 session, by requiring them to take the two additional subjects, but they will be subject to the rearrangement of the order in which the classes will meet.

With the institution of the new courses, will come a shift among the professors. Professor H. B. Schermerhorn will teach Agency, which was imparted by Professor Long during the past session, while he will also be in charge of the courses in Corporations and Bankruptcy, formerly under the direction of Professor Clovis Moomaw. Professor Moreland will take charge of the enlarged courses in Criminal Procedure and Equity Pleading.

Of the new courses, Professor Moomaw will teach Sales and Personal Property, while Mr. Schermerhorn will instruct in Damages. While the University will offer the two year course, it will be so difficult to procure a degree in that time, it is believed, that the vast majority will matriculate for the three year programme.

The course of study for the three year course is:

First year. First term—Introductory Course, Contracts, Domestic Relations, Criminal Law; Second term—Contracts, Torts; Third term—Personal property, Insurance, International Law.

Second year. First term—Real Property, Corporations, Constitutional Law; Second term—Real Property, Equity Jurisprudence; Third term—Negotiable Instruments, Equity Jurisprudence, Roman Law.

Third year. First term—Pleading and Practice, Criminal Procedure, Bankruptcy, Damages, Carriers; Second term—Pleading and Practice, Evidence, Federal Courts, Partnership; Third term—Evidence, Municipal Corporations, Equity Pleading Conveyancing.

ALUMNI RESPOND TO CALL FOR FINALS

Thirty-Eight Pledge Presence at Commencement—More Com- ing

With the alumni responding in gratifying numbers, the plans of the Birmingham alumni committee for a grand reunion at the 1915 commencement events are assuming a roseate hue. From Arkansas to West Virginia, assurances have been received that different alumni will return to Lexington. Thirty-eight have already pledged their presence.

From far away Arkansas comes the assurance that Cliff Foster, Earl S. Wood and Ben Harvey will attend. The party will make the trip from Pine Bluff by motor.

Under the spur of Jimmie Caskie, the Lynchburg alumni are responding nobly. The following will be here: B. F. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Barker, Saunders Fleming, R. H. Anderson, Sam Williams, C. E. Burks, T. S. Kirkytrick and J. D. Christian. Mr. Caskie writes that he expects to swell this list considerably before finals. In addition to bringing themselves, the Lynchburg delegation is planning to bring a galaxy of the fair sex. Three or four autos will accompany the party.

As inquiries have been received as to whether the younger Lexington alumni will enter into the festivities, the list of these notables is added this week.

L. R. Hanna, who is the moving spirit behind the movement in Birmingham, asserts "The alumni are responding in a very gratifying manner and without a doubt there will be a large number when June rolls around. Letters from all over the country are coming in daily with favorable reports. We expect a number of additional pledges soon."

VINCENT MILES APPOINTED NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Arkansas Honors Young Alumnus of Washington and Lee

The latest alumnus to achieve prominence in Arkansas, where Washington and Lee furnishes a governor for the state, is Vincent M. Miles, '07. Despite his youth, Mr. Miles has been elected Democratic National Committeeman for Arkansas by the Democratic party, succeeding the late Senator William Marmaduke Kavanaugh. The position is one of great influence and the election of V. M. Miles was the cause of hearty congratulations from his friends.

Saturday except the officials and the contestants. The officials will meet in the English room on Thursday night at 7:30 for final instructions.

The last few arrangements for the meet are being perfected. Manager N. C. Evans left today for Roanoke, while Assistant-Manager W. P. Houghton is in Lynchburg arranging the program.

Earl S. Wood L. L. B. '12 has been elected City attorney for the city of Pine Bluff.

BAILEY LEADS THE GENERALS AT BAT

Gallager Is Leading Scorer— Young Ranks First In Thefts

By hitting safely six times in the last nine trials at the bat, First baseman Penny Bailey has swooped into the lead of the Washington and Lee Swatsmen, boasting of a mark of .393 in the eight games that the Generals have played. Smith and Porter have registered better records, but they have been at bat but four times. Johnny Gallagher, though he possesses a hitting mark of .187, has the largest number of runs.

From a glance at the figures, it will be seen that the hitting of the infield has been woefully weak. Brown, Gallagher and Captain Colville are slugging below the .200 mark. Little Battle Bagley, by denting Jaynes for three wallops in the A. and M. game, secured a position among the .300 hitters. Ben Rives was slugging .333 when Bailey supplanted him at first base.

Cy Young, the leader of the Generals in hitting during the 1914 season, is ranking but .250 as the result of a slump with the willow. Colville, who batted over the three century mark in 1914, has descended, below the .200 mark to .192.

Before the clashes with the two North Carolina aggregations, Outfielder Johnny Harrison was hitting over .400. As the result of his failure to solve either Williams and Jaynes safely, he had dropped to .280.

Bailey has driven out the greatest number of hits—eleven. Johnny Gallagher with two homers and a double is the leading slugger, although Young has two home runs. Bailey has a triple and a double, while Rives and Sweetland have two doubles to their credit. Harrison and Mahood have registered a lone two bagger.

Young is leading in thefts, having pilfered three bases. Sweetland, Bagley and Bailey have two each, while Brown, Gallagher and Porter have a lone purloin.

The batting averages follow:

	G	AB	R	H	Pct
Smith	5	4	0	2	.500
Porter	3	4	1	2	.500
Bailey	8	28	3	11	.393

CORTESE GIVES HARP RECITAL

Angelo Cortese, the harpist, gave a delightful harp recital at the Library last night. Despite a scant attendance, the harpist gave an impressive recital. In his interpretation of "Triumph March of David" and "In a Garden," he scored his greatest hits. He rendered the "Barcarolle" from Tales of Hoffman with a master hand.
