W. & L. THRASHES PENN STATE, WALLOPS CAROLINA, AND BLANKS V. P. I., FOR TOTAL OF 8 CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES

GRAHAM ALLOWS PENN STATE BUT THREE HITS

Mattox and Sutton Lead Attack With Stick..... Henderson and Gregg do Splendid Work in Garden

The Generals defeated Penn State last Tuesday in an interesting game by the score of 4 to 0. The visitors who are invading the South made many errors and were somewhat a disappointment as they were reputed to have a championship aggregation.

For the first three innings it seemed as though it was going to be a pitching duel between Merce Graham and Gramley. However, it was not long before Bill's sluggers got next to the Penn moundsman. In the third the slants of Mr. Gramley began to lose their mystic elements and the batsmen of the Generals connected at will. A walk, a hit by Gramam and an error accounted for a run in the third. Again in the fourth, a hit and a stolen base by Jimmy Mattox and an error by Killenger brought in another tally. Things went quietly until the seventh, when the Penn State machine went to pieces, the Generals scoring two runs mostly on their errors. During all this time Penn was unable to put a run across but was as helpless as a lost child.

The pitching of "Long Boy Graham," the hitting of Sutton and Mattox and

W. & L. Catcher Gets Four Hits. Generals Tie Score in 8th and are Victors in 9th. Final Score 6-5.

Displaying an unbeatable fighting spirit, the Generals overcame a three run lead by University of North Carolina in the eighth inning in Lynchburg and kept their victorious record untarnished. The game was played on a poor diamond, before a very small crowd and in the teeth of a cold wind that seemed to try to hinder the Generals as much as possible. It blew Powell's fly to the left in the fourth, which should have been the easy third out, away from Gregg and allowed three runners to score, giving the Tarheels the lead.

Sam Rines made a sensational catch of Feimster's drive in the seventh. It was right up the foul line and Sam, leaning over and running at full speed, grabbed it off his shoes. Mattox procured four safties, the last one driving Gregg home with the winning run.

GAME BY INNINGS

First Inning: Louis grounded to Jones. Sutton missed Herty's grounder. Herty stole second. Feimster went out, Jones to Drye. Powell fanned. No runs, no hits, one error.

CORBETT HOLDS V. P. I. HITLESS AFTER THIRD

Strikes Out Three With Eleven Pitched Balls in Last Act. Generals Play Perfect Ball Throughout

Washington and Lee defeated V. P. I. in the second road-game Saturday, outplaying the Techs in every department of the game. The Generals displayed the best form they have yet shown this year and demonstrated that they are improving each day. They supported Corbett perfectly and managed to get nine blows off of Marye, the Tech pitcher.

Corbett allowed V. P. I. one hit in the first and one in the third, and after that he had them eating out of his hand. Due to the cold weather he could not control his fast ball and this caused his wildness in the first two innings. But after that when he started his hooks, the Tech batters retired to the bench in short order. As an example of the fact that V. P. I. was not supposed to score, Corbett whiffed Whitmore, Brooks and Wharton with eleven balls in the ninth.

Mattox continued his stellar work, getting two hits and giving him an average of .667 for the trip.

Daily Advance Predicts Bright Future on the Diamond for Jimmy Mattox, Generals Hitting Catcher

Jimmy Mattox, who was well known as an amateur ball tosser before he went to Washington and Lee, is now a star on the Generals' staff, if his work at the fair grounds yesterday in the home game against the University of North Carolina, can be taken as a criterion as to his real worth to the Washington and Lee outfit. Mattox was in the game with his head, hands, feet and chatter. He was never quiet and his work added not a little to the ginger of the Lexington team.

But that was not all that Mattox did for as young as he is, he steadied Graham in the tight pinches and his work did not a little in helping to pull the tall pitcher out of several holes which looked sure to sew the game up for the Tarheels.

Maddox has a wonderful whip and a splendid way of getting the ball away, his snap to second being just as pretty, just as quick and hard and as accurate as the exhibition given in pegging by Ainsworth in the Detroit-Boston game a short time ago at the fair grounds. Despite the wind, all his pegs to second went practically in the spot where the receiver needed it for quick action. His throws to first and second were right in the hand every time. He gets the ball away with apparent ease and the sphere sails on about as straight a line as any

"13" CLUB HOP AND COTILLION GERMAN DELIGHTFUL AFFAIRS

Opening Dance of Unusual Brilliance Enjoyed by Many. Host of Alumni Are Present for the Celebration.

The annual Spring dances opened Monday night with the "13" club hop, which proved to be an affair of unusual brilliancy in the social calendar of Washington and Lee. Many of the fair sex were in attendance, some for the first time while others were familiar to the followers of terpsihore. The gymnasium was artistically decorated, adding much to the beauty and intensity of the occasion.

The regular "13" figure was led by L. T. Brown, president of the "13" club, with Miss Elizabeth Adams of Lynchburg, assisted by W. F. Barron with Miss Frederica Harris of Roanoke, and J. R. Fain with Miss Reeves Hammer of Bristol. The figure, though simple, was very attractive and consisted of several marches, which ended with the couples forming the figure "13."

At 11:30 a delicious supper was served which appealed to the weary dancers.

Easter Festivities Brought to Successful Close Last Night With Cotillion Club German Led By John Witt.

The Easter Hops of Washington and Lee were brought to a very successful close last night with the Cotillion Club German, which was led by John W. Witt, president of the club, with Miss Marie Cordes of Memphis, Penn. H. F. Trotter, secretary of the club, ably assisted with Miss Elizabeth Embry. About sixty couples and twice as many stags attended the raiety which was enjoyed to the fullest extent.

The figure, which consisted of two large C's, one formed inside of the other, was presented at about 10:30 and it made a very pleasing and attractive sight to the well-filled balcony. Between 12 and 1, a delicious repast was served consisting of sandwiches and coffee.

The dancers showed lots of "pep" and Old Man Wright was right as usual. The committees were as follows: Reception, N. L. Dickinson, chairman; R. S. Paulett, W. B. Watts, L. S. Musgrove, M. W. Paxton. Invitation, T. S. Jones, chairman; R. H.

DR. THOMAS WILSON LINGLE ADDRESSES UNIVERSITY ASSEMBLY

On short leave of Absence from Service Overseas With Y., Speaker Tells of Experiences.

Dr. Thomas Wilson Lingle of the Y. M. C. A. service in France was the speaker at the University assembly held in the Chapel on Wednesday morning, April 23rd. He told of his experiences during thirteen months at the front with both American and French troops.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. H. L. Smith, who has known him since boyhood. Dr. Lingle presented a very imposing appearance in his Y uniform and the humor and interest of his address held the attention of his audience throughout the hour.

A great many of his anecdotes, personal experiences and narrations were made clearer by reference to a map which had been hung in the archway above the rostrum. This map gave a fine idea of the lay of the land around Verdun and the St. Mihiel sector, railroads and highways being indicated.

Dr. Lingle prefaced his interesting address by telling of his enjoyment at being able to return home and quoted some very appropriate verses appreciative of that feeling. When the United States entered the war he entered the Y work and was assigned to a very dangerous post at the front to be with the 13th American Engineers, who were the first American troops to parade the streets of London.

He told very entertainingly of his experiences while with this division, and then gave some idea of the desperate struggle for the invaded soil of France. Villages changed hands again and again in this sector, buildings were crushed, trees were torn down by the bullets from the machine guns and the sacred soil which was then the goal of both armies was plowed up by the shells. Today, in the 20,000 square miles around the place where he was stationed at this time, one is seldom seen out of sight of the grave of a French soldier.

Dr. Lingle said that in his opinion the next war, if there be one, would be a war of extermination. It would be impossible to hold out against hydroplanes from overseas which had numberless bombs filled with gas. "We must substitute moral for physical force." He said that there would be a league of nations whether we join or not, and that it is better to be on the inside than on the outside of such a League.

After two months with the American Engineers, Dr. Lingle was sent to a French camp, where he remained for ten months. While here he suffered from almost incessant shelling and bombing and there were several weeks during which it rained, every day with the exception of four.

His work among the French soldiers was very interesting. They were shown American moving pictures, were treated with American tobacco and were taught how to play American games and sports such as horseshoes and boxing.

During the period he was with the American Engineers, Dr. Lingle became well acquainted with both of Dr. J. W. Kern's sons, one of whom died in France. Lieutenant Kern, who sacrificed his life, was in charge of one of the most dangerous sectors of the battle line and his post was a constant target for the bombing planes of the enemy.

DR. HOWERTON GIVES MASTERFUL TALKS ON THE SUBJECT OF HELL

Most Instructive Talk of Those Given so Far... Will Speak on Atonement of Sin Tonight.

Dr. Howerton gave one of the most interesting, instructive and inspiring talks that the Y has been favored with in a long time last Wednesday night when he spoke of "Hell." It was not one of the old time hell fire and damnation sermons which have become objectionable to most people but a sane statement of the seriousness of the question as to what is to become of a person after this life is over. He showed that even the most liberal thinker could not get away from the fact that there must be some punishment of sin and that this punishment is one to be escaped if possible.

Starting on the subject proper, the speaker said that he was not going to speak along any orthodox or doctrinal line. He said that he wished to show that even on the very broadest conception that a person may take, the question of what is to come on the next world is a matter of the most serious importance to everybody.

Speaking from his own experience, Dr. Howerton told how he had gone through the states of belief from those of the old time Methodist camp meeting to those that are more commonly accepted today. He said that the question of what is to become of all those who have had no chance to hear the word of salvation in heathen lands or home lands troubled him for a while but that he came to the conclusion that it was best to acknowledge his inability to decide and leave the issue with God. And he added that he thought it impossible for a human being to decide this question. "But," he said, "that does not let me out. He who know better must not try to get out on this ground" * * * * "I know that I must say at the bar of God that I committed some sins for which I have no excuse and could at the time have kept from committing them."

In substance the speaker said, "I don't believe in arbitrary punishment. All sins are not seen to be punished here. But all sins are punished some time, some where. In other words I believe in a hell made by sins. I came to the conclusion that the punishment lasts as long as the sins last. If I am not saved from sin here it seems that there is no chance to be saved in the world to come." He mentioned some of the outrages committed in the past war and said, "If there is any justice; if there is any sense of ill desert, then there must be a hell." Speaking of those who do not believe in any God, he said, "The most that any man could hope for on any agnostic ground would be for his soul to die with his body, for him to be blotted out of existence. And who wants to be blotted out of existence?" And further, "It is the most vital concern that can affect any man as to what is going to become of him in the world to come * * * * But the question now is how to get saved from sin. That will be my subject for my next meeting."

DEBATING TEAM GOES TO DAVIDSON MONDAY

Will Uphold Affirmative of Question, Resolved, That the Government Should Own and Operate Railroads.

Prepared with unanswerable arguments, the Washington and Lee debating team will journey to Davidson, N. C., where they will engage in a forensic tussle with Davidson College Monday night, May 5th. The question to be debated is, Resolved, That the Government Should own and Operate the Railroads. Wilson and Rushton, who compose this team will uphold the affirmative of the question. W. M. Currie and E. G. Lilly with Liston as alternate are Davidson's representatives.

Wilson and Rushton have been working faithfully for several weeks on this question under the able coaching of Professor Hall, who himself has quite a debating record behind him. This combined with the fact that each speaker will have twenty minutes to present his argument and the fact that the question, though an old one, is pertinent at this time, argues well that there will be a hard fought contest at Davidson next Monday.

Wilson will go first to Hampden-Sidney where he will represent Washington and Lee in the State Oratorical Contest Friday night. The White and Blue representative last year captured first honors in this contest.

SERIES OF TALKS AT Y WORTH WHILE

Speaker Prepares Message of Interest to College Men, Throwing Light on Complexities After Life.

Dr. Howerton has been giving a series of talks to the University men on Wednesday evenings in the Y. M. C. A. room. These meetings have been planned to meet some of the doubts and problems of college men, and while attended fairly well, more men could get real inspiration and food out of them than do.

These meetings are not weak insignificant ones, but are the kind that would draw large crowds if held occasionally. Dr. Howerton prepares a real message for each meeting with interest to college men. These messages will make you think if you expose yourself; so if not afraid to think like this on religion, come to these meetings. Such topics as the following will be taken up in the near future: What has Atonement to do with the sins I am committing every day? Why do we think beyond the grave? If these sound interesting and you do not know all you care to about them come and hear Dr. Howerton each Wednesday at 8 o'clock in the Y room. The meetings are just about thirty minutes long and they are fully worth the time.

EIGHT STRAIGHT

With the defeat of Penn State University of North Carolina and V. P. I. in the past week the Generals have established a record which will be long remembered by the supporters of the White and Blue team. They have won eight consecutive games, some with apparent ease and others only after a desperate fight in the last innings of the fray. Much credit is due to each individual player and especially to the pitchers who have been doing work of an exceptional character and which was somewhat a surprise to the most ardent fans.

But we must not forget that some one else is more directly responsible for these victories than the players themselves. And this man we all know, without the mention of his name. When baseball practice began things looked none too bright for a successful season. With only three letter men on the campus, Coach Raftery had the task of building up a machine around these men. He had promising candidates and he made ball players out of them as the result of past games has shown. Coach Raftery has accomplished something almost phenomenal—unexpected by the students and the Alumni and for that reason the Coach deserves the greatest credit. He has succeeded in putting Washington and Lee on a level with the foremost institutions in the country in the athletic world. The defeat of Penn State speaks well for the General's nine. And the defeat of V. P. I. for a second time this year is a matter of much satisfaction to the anxious Alumni and the eager student body.

The season is just half over and many hard games are left on the schedule. We can show our appreciation of the work of Coach Raftery by doing a little more concerted talking at the games and by our presence on Wilson field during the hours when the boys are doing real hard practice. Gym classes are a thing of the past just now so there is no conflict in this respect.

Sergeant H. K. Young, '17, has landed from overseas. He was stationed at Base Hospital 43.

Mr. E. Stuart Moore, who now holds a position with the war labor board in Washington, spent Easter with his mother, Mrs. Samuel R. Moore.

F. Tiller and wife spent the week end here. When he received his discharge he was an ensign in the navy. He will make his future home in Emporia, Va., where he will enter the hardware business with his father.

seen here in many a game.

Three stolen bases were registered by Carolina yesterday, but two of these were the result of Graham's letting the runner get a good lead, while the third was when Mattox threw to third, hitting the man poling back to the bag squarely between the shoulders.

In his position he had nine putouts, getting a couple of difficult fouls; getting one runner at third and cutting off an attempted steal at second.

At the bat and on the base lines, he showed even more brilliantly than behind the bat. In five times at bat he got four singles and the other time he got on on an error and started the rally which enabled the Generals to win later. If it had not been for unusual base running in the eighth by Mattox, Washington and Lee would today hardly have had credit for a victory. This was the only ball he hit in the air and it looked so easy to Robbins, who was at second, that he stood in a nice position and then muffed the ball. From that Mattox stole second and did a real stunt a moment later when he scored on Sutton's sacrifice. Joyner handled the slow roller to first in good shape and the runner was out. Ordinarily a runner would have been satisfied with west corner, but it was not so with Mattox, for when he rounded the corner he saw that Bryant was not getting the ball in a position to make use of it, so Mattox continued home, without the loss of a step, beating the ball by a yard, though it took a good slide to turn the trick.

Mattox's first hit came in the first inning when Yancey was at second. It was a drive over third to left and Yancey scored. In the third he drove a grounder so hot by first that it was as clean as if it had been a mile from Bryant who tried to handle the rap. In the fifth, with first occupied and two out, Mattox could not bunt so he had to hit it out. This try was a beautiful drive over the box to center.

And this combination of work seems to show that this Lynchburg boy has a real future on the diamond if he cares to follow it.

PENN STATE DEFEATED BY SCORE OF 4-0

the fielding of Henderson and Gregg featured the game for the Generals. It seems as though Graham gets better each game he starts and the opposing batters are always at his mercy. The hefty swatsmen of Penn were able to garner only two clean hits and a scratch off of the W. and L. star twirler. Sutton celebrated his first appearance with the varsity by slamming out a double and two singles. His base running was equally as good, the box score giving him credit for two steals. Jimmy Mattox fattened his batting average with two singles out of three trips to the platter. Incidentally he swiped two bags, the pegging of Craig for Penn State being somewhat off. The wide territory covered by Gregg and Henderson in the field and Henderson's long peg brought these two in the limelight.

For the visitors, the fielding of "Red" Korb, together with his comical gestures and the argumentative ability of Mullon, the Penn captain, featured their opposition. Mullen made some pretty catches in center field.

The Generals secured six hits and had many opportunities to score, having men on bases in practically every inning with the exception of the first two. Had the breaks of the game been a little more inclined in favor of the team, the box score would have mounted a little higher. However, the game was interesting all through and the results satisfactory to all White and Blue supporters.

GRAHAM-WASH HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

Affirmative Given Decision on Question That it Would Be Beneficial to Adopt the System of Simplified Spelling.

A short but interesting meeting of the Graham Washington Literary society was held last Saturday night. An excellent program was rendered, the chief features of which were a declamation by W. H. Barrett and a debate on the question: "Resolved, That it would be beneficial to adopt the system of simplified spelling."

Barrett took as his declamation a selection from Bryant's "Thanatopsis." He delivered this in a very eloquent manner, and is to be congratulated upon the progress which he is showing in Literary Society work.

Holmes Rolston gave a short talk on "Current Events." He gave a short account of the rise of the Non Partisan's League in North Dakota. This was followed by an explanation of President Wilson's stand on the Fiume issue and an attempt to find the real cause of Bolshevism.

Only two of the debaters were present, and it was decided to limit the debate to two speakers. B. A. Davis spoke for the affirmative while H. H. Page upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved, That it would be beneficial to adopt the system of simplified spelling." Davis argued that the new system was much easier to learn, and that it would eliminate many of the difficulties that foreigners have in learning the English language. Page replied that the new system was impracticable and could never be installed into everyday use. The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

DIAMOND CUTS

Penn State had the "Beef" in weight and also in chin music, but they could not put a win across. Perhaps if they would study "Essentials of Argument" they could have more effect.

Looking over the record of assists we find that Merce Graham has a perfect fielding record and that he has accepted more chances in the field than any opposing pitcher. When we add this to his batting and pitching record for the present season—nuff said.

"What did you do at S. M. A?" This question was alright to ask Porter Sutton. But do not embarrass the Penn State pitcher by asking what the same gentleman did to Penn State.

"Outfieldingly speaking" did you see Mat Henderson grab a few from the ether, and nab that man at home plate? As the coon in the Coal bin said, "Dat was some peg, jes like a rifle shot, yassir."

There was more pep evidenced in the Penn State game than any that we have had. "Hold his head up, Hicks," was the byword of the bleachers, and the bleachers had the pitcher slightly rattled by the continuous use of it.

Jimmy Mattox still has his eye on the old apple. He got two hits and a walk in the Penn game, and the last time that he was up it was only phenomenal fielding that robbed him of a three bagger.

DANSANT SOCIAL A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

The baseball dansant was held Tuesday afternoon. This was one of the most delightful events on the Easter social program, and was enjoyed by a large number of students and nearly all of the visiting girls. The dansant started at 4:30 and ended about 6:15. W. F. Barron, manager of the baseball team, reports that the financial results were much better than had been expected, so that the event was very successful in every way.
