

Washington And Lee And English Debaters Will Argue Coeducation

Open Forum Style Of Debating With Audience Participating Will Be Used—Entertainment For Debaters Will Follow Contest

LOCAL TEAM IS COACHED BY BAUER

Local Football Team Will Act As Ushers and Good Crowd Is Expected To Hear Wordly Tilt

"Resolved: that coeducation is a failure" will be the subject debated in Lee Chapel on November 19 by the Washington and Lee team and three representatives of England.

Members of the football team will act as ushers.

Each team will be allowed 45 minutes to present its side of the question, and will be given no rebuttal. Following the example of a number of the leading American and English universities, the decision in the debate will be made by a vote of the audience.

After the debate, an open forum will be held. The audience will be given an opportunity to participate, and to ask any desired questions concerning the subject.

Plans are being made for the entertainment of the English visitors, and a banquet will be given, probably at the Dutch Inn, for the debaters, ushers, and chairman.

Professor Bauer who has charge of the debate, wrote to several leading men for their opinion on the subject of coeducation. Among the replies received were those of H. L. Mencken, Editor of The American Mercury, and Alexander Meikeljohn, famous educator, who is now conducting an experimental college at the University of Wisconsin. The members of the debating squad have also interviewed a number of the prominent residents of Lexington, and are well prepared to meet the Englishmen.

New University Bulletin Appears

"The man who graduates with high scholastic honors, instead of being unfitted for success by his extra 'book-learning', is about seven times as likely to become a distinguished man as the 'all-round' men who received diplomas with him." This is the declaration made by President Henry Louis Smith in one of his informal talks to 10,000 boys through the medium of his bi-monthly bulletins.

The title of the bulletin written by Doctor Smith, and issued November 1, is "Lying Sign-Boards on Life's Highway." In it the foregoing statement is made and corroborated by existing data.

From this leaflet the reader learns the common mistake made by the youth of today in adhering to dangerous maxims or proverbs, which often do not contain an element of truth. "All's fair in love and war" and "Every man has his price" are typical examples.

Doctor Smith goes on to point out the fallacy in the widely accepted theory that the real "nose-in-the-book" student never makes good in after life. Statistics are quoted to prove this point. Out of 979 college graduates, 348 were differentiated from the rest solely by their very high grades. Seventy-nine of these were still too young to have achieved distinction when the statistics were gathered. Excluding these, one half the remainder were already on the "Who's Who" list in 1911.

Game With V. P. I. Marks Last Virginia Appearance Of Six Fighting Generals

Today's encounter with V. P. I. marks the final appearance of five of Washington and Lee's most capable and dependable gridiron on Virginia soil.

For two years, Stearns, Latham, Spotts, Howe and Fisher have faced the Gobblers and cavorted on Old Dominion gridirons, gaining outstanding recognition for themselves throughout the state, but today they will bring their brilliant careers to a close against their respected rivals. A host of friends will follow them, hoping that their last game will be as colorful as their previous performances.

It is most unfortunate that Captain Tips will be unable to play

Lawyers Forfeit To Frosh Gridders

No intra-mural football games were played during the past week. The Lawyers were scheduled to battle it out with the Frosh reserves last Monday but due to injuries of several star performers they were forced to forfeit to the freshies. An effort is being made to have the Lawyer-Frosh game played off next Tuesday. The regular scheduled Academic-Commerce tilt will take place Monday.

Georgia Bulldogs Lead Conference

The Georgia Bulldogs have both the best offensive and defensive records in Southern Conference games to date, with the Volunteers of Tennessee hot on their trail. No other Conference team is near either of these teams as far as scoring power is concerned. Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, according to the statistics, rank just behind the Bulldogs in keeping rivals from crossing their goal line. Washington and Lee's Generals are tenth in scoring ability but rank higher on the defensive, being sixth in line. The complete lists is as follows:

Alumni Headquarters Host To Large Group

The new alumni headquarters for Washington and Lee men, in the "old McLaughlin" house opposite the Episcopal church, was thrown open to the alumni Friday and furnished delightful headquarters for them and for the wives of some until Sunday rolled by. The alumni greatly admired and appreciated the new quarters. Mr. Verbon Kemp, alumni secretary, was the host. Informal lunch was furnished Saturday from 1 to 2:30 o'clock to all comers. The number served was put as high as 300. Saturday was the greatest alumni day for Washington and Lee men ever known in Lexington.

Alumni Gives Rowing Trophy

As a perpetual rowing trophy, Colonel Braxton D. Gibson of Charles Town, West Virginia, has given a silver cup to symbolize the victory of each winning crew in the annual boat races at Commencement.

This gift was prompted by Colonel Gibson's interest in the sport of rowing. A sentimental reason is attached to the date of the gift, for it was in 1877, 50 years ago, that Colonel Gibson joined the boat club at the University of Virginia, and began his career of rowing. He was a member of the victorious Virginia crews of 1878, '79, and '80, in which last year he was stroke in the big race at Fredericksburg, Va. In 1881 he stroked the four-oared shell crew of the L'Hirondelle Boat club in regatta races at Baltimore and in the regatta at Richmond on the James.

Colonel Gibson, a lawyer and popular citizen of Charles Town, is now past 70, but he has not lost his enthusiasm and love for college sports.

The cup is of sterling silver, 15 inches high, six and a half inches in diameter, and stands on a four inch abony case. It is of beautiful design, with a four-oared crew in action etched on one side, and suitable engraving on the other.

Colonel Gibson motored to Lexington, and with Secretary Verbon E. Kemp, presented the cup to Professor Forest Fletcher and Graduate Manager R. A. Smith, who received it on behalf of the Washington and Lee Athletic association. The association hopes that Colonel Gibson will be on hand to present the trophy in person to the winners of the 1928 race next Commencement.

Ross Gorman's Music On Friday Night November 25 Will Open First Formals

When Ross Gorman and his orchestra strike the first chords of music in Doremus gymnasium on the night of November 25, the Sophomore Cotillion, first formal dance of the year will be begun in glorious style.

Ross Gorman's first appearance here last Easter attracted favorable comment and marked him as a master musician capable of supplying melodious rhythm and intriguing music at the Thanksgiving dances.

With Thanksgiving less than two weeks away, preparations for the dances are being steadily pushed forward. The Sophomore class will entertain the Student Body on Friday night at the Sophomore Cotillion. Various committees have already begun work to make this dance a colorful event. The Finance committee is especially working hard to secure the customary six dollars from every Sophomore to put the dance across in the most brilliant and pleasing style.

Juniors and Seniors will be admitted free to this dance and freshmen will have to pay three dollars admission.

Plans for decorating the gym have been completed and work on arranging the gym artistically and attractively is progressing with good order and success.

Troubadour Show Shaping Up Fine

"Tommy" Thames, president of the Troubadours, announced that the Thanksgiving show is now nearing completion. The cast has begun to rehearse the third act, and next week they expect to start the final rehearsals in the theatre.

It was necessary for Thames to make a special trip to New York in order to persuade the publishers to allow the Troubadours to produce "Easy Come, Easy Go" by Owen Davis. This comedy was a huge success in New York, and on the road, and the publishers did not wish to allow any amateur productions for some time in the future. They finally acquiesced, and while in New York, Thames also had the scenery to be used in the play specially constructed.

The tickets for the Thanksgiving show will go on sale the twenty-first of November. An attempt is now being made to gain a contract for a performance in Staunton.

Calyx Starts Sub Campaign

Monday, November 14, the Calyx will start a final drive to secure the 600 subscriptions that are needed to print the book. The tryouts for the staff have been organized into two teams and they will canvas the campus until Thanksgiving. It is important that The Calyx secure these 600 subscriptions as soon as possible as the covers have to be ordered and it must be known in advance how many can be sold as the budget under the supervision of the Publication Board will allow only a very few copies above the number actually subscribed for to be ordered. The cover order must go in the first of next month.

The Calyx this year has been carefully planned and several new features have been added to increase the beauty and attractiveness of the book. The cover design has been worked up and presents the most attractive view of the campus in colors. Four color process engravures will be used for the division pages, something that has never before appeared in a Calyx. Changes have been made in the athletic section to lend more attractiveness there. The beauty section will consist of twelve of the prettiest girls that can be selected from the pulchritudinous prom-trotters of Washington and Lee. The book will be thicker than last year's and ivory white paper will be used.

The men who are canvassing for subscriptions are the tryouts for the staff and at the end of the campaign the five having the most points will be chosen as assistants on the staff. The points are given according to the amount of money turned in by each man. Manager Powers has announced that post-dated checks to the tenth of January will be received in order to give every man an opportunity to subscribe, on account of the near approach of the gift season.

December 20 Date For Christmas Mink

The Christmas number of the Mink will be out around December 20, according to W. M. Garrison, editor. Christmas and the holidays are to be the theme of the issue, the cover bearing a fitting Christmas scene. The magazine will probably be decorated in red and green, and the type may also be of one of these two colors.

The deadline for art and literary contributors are urged to submit their work promptly.

Twombly Mermen Show Swim Speed

Coach "Cy" Twombly ran his swimming proteges through a stiff practice session in the form of a regular meet last Friday afternoon. Although no regular practices will be conducted until after Thanksgiving, there have been many prospective mermen out every day getting ready for the try-outs. Coach Twombly has been giving his time to these men, and with the interest and earnestness manifested so far on the part of the men, there is little doubt that championship outfits will be turned out in both the varsity and frosh divisions.

The results of Friday's meet are as follows:

RELAY RACE: (Four man team) First: Lynn, Mercke, Douglas, Leibowitz. Time: 48.1 seconds.

50 YARD DASH: First, Fang-boner; Second, Pearman; Third, Mercke; Fourth, Armstrong. Time: 25.1.

British Debating Teams Visit U. S.

Two British debate teams, one representing Cambridge University, and the other the National Union of Students, are now well into their schedules of contests with numerous American university teams.

The teams evidently have been chosen carefully, and with an eye to the representation of all political faiths. On both Cambridge and Union teams there are each one conservative, one liberal, and one laborite. All of the English representatives they represent. As is usually the case, the Englishmen, because of their sheer joy in debating, which contrasts with the deadly earnestness of the Americans, probably will lose most of the decisions of student audiences.

Generals Take 35 Bandsmen To V. P. I.

Director "Hank" Slanker, of the greatest band in Washington and Lee history led approximately thirty-five of his bandsmen to Blacksburg this morning, insuring a staunch backing for the Generals in their tilt with V. P. I. this afternoon. They left the gymnasium this morning at 9 o'clock in two busses provided for them by the University.

Besides the regular playing before the game and at time out periods, the band will march on the field between halves, forming first the letter "V" for the V. P. I. stands, then the W. & L. monogram for our cheering section. Appropriate celebration has been planned if the Generals are victorious.

After the game, one bus load of players will remain in Blacksburg for the dance, while the others will return to Lexington.

The Washington and Lee football team, 24 strong, two managers, two coaches, and the trainer left last night for Roanoke where they remained in seclusion before meeting the V. P. I. Gobblers in Blacksburg today. The game is the first to be played under the new home-and-home agreement adopted last year.

The Techmen are out to erase what the Generals handed them last season. The boys from Blacksburg were unable to stop the mighty Ty Rauber whose terrific plunging and long punts kept them continually on the defense. Today they have one of the most versatile sets of backs that ever sported the blue jerseys of Washington and Lee to halt and their success in doing this will determine the score.

The Generals are undoubtedly in their weakest condition of the year with Captain Tips and Lott on the sidelines due to injuries received in the Virginia encounter. Tips has not been in uniform at any of the practice sessions held this week in order to give his lame ankle an opportunity to strengthen. However, he made the trip with the team and there is a chance that he will see service in the battle this afternoon. Streit and Seigleman have both worked in Tips' position in the practice sessions this week and it is a toss up which will start against the Gobblers. Both will break into the game before it is over.

Lott has been reporting for practice throughout the week but his

Alumni Magazine Makes Appearance

The Alumni Magazine, edited by Verbon Kemp, Alumni Secretary, has just been released. It is larger and fuller than any of the previous magazines, having a large amount of articles, letters, photographs, and notes on alumni. The cover is brown, with a fine reproduction of the Memorial Gateway.

Among the many articles in the magazine there are a number which are of much interest. Besides a page describing the building of the new bridge, there are also some architect's drawings which picture the bridge as finished.

Letters from the alumni contained the following three, which are especially interesting. Judge W. A. Tayloe, '76, sent a picture of himself as a young man of twenty-one, attending school at Washington and Lee, and another, taken a short time ago, on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday. His letter also made mention of several interesting reminiscences. Two other letters, one from Albert Steves, '77, and F. M. Cockrell, '76, likewise contained reminiscences of former days.

One article related that a large collection of Lee relics would soon come into the possession of the University. Some are being bought and others are being given by admirers of General Lee who desire that the former possessions remain in the university where he died.

The magazine also has a large

Varsity Grapplers Come Back With A Vengeance And Trim Frosh 24 To 8

The Varsity matmen were out for revenge after losing decisively to the frosh last week and captured the weekly wrestling matches with apparent ease, the final score being 24-8.

Only nine bouts were run off due to the mid-semester exams breaking in on the time of many of the candidates for the teams, but each one of these were close, and a fair knowledge of the noble art was displayed by every participant. The feature match of the day was the Tully-Marshall (145 lb.) encounter. "Terrible" Tully managed to gain the decision over Marshall only after two minutes and 35 seconds of gruelling matwork.

According to Coach Mathis these matches will continue weekly in order to get both the freshmen and varsity grapplers in as good condition as possible.

Following is the summary of the meet: Thompson (V) won by decision over Smith (F); Barker (F) won by decision over Holland (V); Bowes (V) won by a fall over Byrne (V); Tully (V) won by decision over Marshall (F); Hopkins (V) won over Strain (F) by a fall; Nelson (V) won a decision over Kaplan (F); Paddock (V) fought Sutherland (F) to a draw; Hall (V) won a fall from Palmer (F); and Sperry (V) beat Davenport (F) by a fall.

HOMAGE OF THOUSANDS

ONE thousand and forty eight persons visited the Lee Memorial Chapel on the campus here, November 5. This is the largest number that has ever been recorded there for one day's attendance.

The great number is significant in many ways. It shows an increased appreciation of Lee's greatness and it shows a tendency toward total abolition of all sectional disagreement, as the majority of the visitors are from the north.

For the month of October a total of 3429 visitors are recorded, a gain of 834 over the number for the same month the preceding year. The total for the single day of November 5 is almost one third that of the entire month of October.

Mainly, however, it is remarkable in that one tenth of the crowd which attended the Washington and Lee—Virginia football game, found time in all the hilarity, the bustle and excitement to pause a moment to pay homage to a great chieftain, by visiting his tomb.

BOOK SHOPS AND UNIVERSITIES

"I believe that the reading of good books induces the buying of books, and that the owning of books is part of one's general education."

On that theory Howard Mumford Jones established the Bull's Head Bookshop on the University of North Carolina campus.

And, the New Student tells us, Howard Mumford Jones is professor of English, and a good one. But that is incidental. He is above all a person of ideas, and his ideas have had not a small part in making the Chapel Hill university a center of real learning in the south; and the university the intellectual center of the state.

The Bull's Head Bookshop, in name has a glorious sound, like the Mermaid Tavern, for instance. Actually, its spirit is more nearly akin to the famous tavern than to a bookshop. For Howard Mumford Jones is not trying to grow rich by selling books. He wants to see ideas grow and gain nourishment in his shop.

Room 214, Murphy Hall, that's the bookshop. It is a professor's office, and out of the line of student traffic. It was not decorated, upon opening, with costly curtains or "other doodabs and addenda" to "take the course of the academic off it," as Mr. Jones says. Some day it will have all that. But it is coming slowly, for the bookshop is not a money-making enterprise. It is a book center where students, aided by volunteer librarians come to browse or to buy, as they choose. That is all Mr. Jones asks. He wishes to interest the students in books, and if they buy and there are profits, well enough. That means more books can be purchased, and 214 Murphy can be decorated somewhat. So far, much to the surprise of well-meaning persons who warned against the venture, the sales have been steady and fairly heavy. So it is said there are now curtains on the windows. Perhaps there are some easy chairs, too.

Mr. Jones needed courage for his plan, because the southern public is not very much interested in books. North Carolina is a bit more learned than its sister states, yet even in Chapel Hill the one store that dealt in general books had to give up for lack of customers. The sale on cheap magazines, however, was heavy, very heavy.

Howard Mumford Jones decided that book reading must be promoted. So the Bull's Head Bookshop was opened to meet the demand for other than text books, and to stimulate a demand where none existed before. On a non-profit basis for anyone, and backed by the University book exchange as a worthy educational enterprise, the Bookshop was ready to lose money. But it didn't and it thrives.

Mr. Jones hopes for new quarters for the shop, a quieter place where students may find such tranquility as good books demand from their readers. His program runs on side by side with the book exchange. That deals in text-books, and second-hand books. The Bull's Head goes definitely out of and supplements the text-book field. Howard Mumford Jones did what no one else could do before, evidence that he did not merely meet, but that he also created a demand for good books.

Elsewhere, college towns are full of bookshops that are crowded with everything from the classics to the most recent novel of Eleanor Glyn. In these places it will be hard to picture just what has happened in North Carolina. Publishers will better understand, for they know how hard it has been for them to interest the South in books.

This man Jones, we take it, is a good sort of fellow. He is the kind of a prof of which we have very few but of the kind that we need many more. We hope his "cult" spreads—far and wide.

AND STILL NO FLAG

SEVERAL weeks ago we stated what we believed at that time, and still believe, to be the sentiment of the student body when we lamented the fact that the flag pole on top of Washington College had been devoid of a flag since early last spring.

Thus far no sign of the Stars and Stripes has appeared, and the bare flag pole, erected near the stately statue of George Washington for some reason which in the light of the circumstances we are unable to comprehend, remains, nude and gaunt, mockingly serving only the purpose of aiding freshmen at Easter to support themselves while giving the statue its annual coat of black or red paint.

Why no flag?

Voice Of The Student Body

We read with surprise the communication which appeared in the RING-TUM PHI Wednesday in regard to the article in "The Pidel-taurus" concerning "Captain Dick" and the Bridge. The bashful men who neglected to sign their names in an article in which they vilified the pledges of Pi Delta Epsilon for an anonymous edition, could not have realized that the "Pidel-taurus" purpose is not to sling mud at any one. It has never been a scandal sheet in the strict connotation of the term, but merely a prank that the pledges to Pi Delta Epsilon are required to do each year before initiation. Perhaps "Captain Dick" has come in for too much of this fun poking, but he, we are sure, has realized that it was done in the spirit with which the students have always been accustomed to describe the most esteemed campus mentors. No one criticizes "Captain Dick" for his farsightedness in securing a much needed bridge for the campus. We entirely agree with "A. B. C." and "X. Y. Z." in saying that if it were not for "Captain Dick" that Washington and Lee athletics could not be in the fine position in which they are now. But we do object to having men who have innocently printed a joke, accused of being villains with a vacuum in their abdominal cavity. We hope that we have made clear that "The Pidel-taurus" is first a sheet of fun, and we are sorry that some men have not had the insight to see this. If it has injured "Captain Dick" we wish to take this opportunity to apologize to him.

Virginia Game Draws Largest Gate In History

Eight thousand tickets were sold for the Virginia game last Saturday. It is estimated that 20,000 spectators witnessed the annual classic, making it the largest crowd that ever attended a W. & L.-Virginia game. Every grandstand seat was sold before the day of the game, those buying tickets Saturday, being forced to content themselves with general admission.

Last year in Charlottesville, there were 5,600 spectators in the stands when the Generals clashed with the Cavaliers. At the last Virginia game held on Wilson field, in 1925, 5,400 attended, showing a tremendous increase in the number of spectators this year.

Lee Museum Is Improved

For some time an official committee, consisting of President H. L. Smith, Mr. Harrington Waddell, Professor F. L. Riley and Professor William M. Brown, has been working for the establishment of a better Lee Museum.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, held October 11, an appropriation of $1,500 was made, in order to purchase a collection of Lee relics owned by Mr. E. T. Black of New York and also a number of showcases. Mr. Black sold this collection at about half of its real value, and is also making several donations to the Museum.

Dr. W. P. Nye, retired Confederate veteran of Ratford, Va., recently gave the University a valuable collection of Confederate relics which will be placed in the Museum.

The Chapel has been rendered as fireproof as possible, and two basement rooms made very attractive for housing the constantly growing collections. The smaller room will be used for the display of books, pamphlets, and photographs of a dignified and authoritative nature, to be sold to visitors at reasonable prices. The profits from the sale of these articles, and donations received from visitors, will be added to the general fund for the maintenance of the chapel and Museum.

In the larger room will be located the Museum proper, where will be found portraits of various members of the Lee family, many photographs of General Lee, some household articles donated by members of his family, letters, papers, and reports connected with General Lee both before and after he became president of Washington College.

Women's Club Joins National Music League

A meeting of the music section of the Woman's Club was held Monday afternoon at the Robert E. Lee Hotel and it was decided to form the Lexington, Va., Music League, as a branch of the National Music League, and the following officers were elected: President L. D. Coan; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. W. D. Hoyt, Committee on ticket subscriptions, Mrs. C. N. Feamster, chairmen, Mrs. Willis Robertson and Mrs. Henry Louis Smith.

The Music Department of the Woman's Club is promoting a series of three subscription concerts to be provided by the National Music League. These concerts will be given during the coming winter and the only monetary profit to accrue to the Woman's Club, will be ten per cent of the total receipts which will be applied to worthy local charities for which the Woman's Club is standing sponsor.

The prime object of this movement is to put Lexington and the vicinity in line with the country-wide activity for educating the people to appreciate good music. The radio has brought worth while music into the homes of millions of Americans who never realized what it might mean to them, and within very recent years, the smaller cities and towns have begun to attempt a higher type of musical concert than had ever been attempted outside the metropolitan centers.

The concerts to be given in Lexington, if the response of the citizens is favorable will be of a very high class—not many artists, of course, coming, but these of the best. If 300 subscriptions of $3.00 each are secured, a charge of only $1.00 per concert, the series will be assured.

The holders of subscription tickets to the Lexington concert series, have the privileges of the National Music League, which includes reduced rates to New York concerts and also to the Metropolitan Grand Opera. The privileges accorded by the Metropolitan Grand Opera House, were secured through the courtesy of Mrs. Kahn, president of the National Music League, who is the wife of Mr. Otto Kahn, Director of the Metropolitan Opera. They will also receive the National Music League Bulletin.

Tickets can be had from any of the committee or at the Robert E. Lee Hotel.

SENSATIONAL SUPPLEMENT

The Yale Daily News' bi-weekly supplement, On National Affairs, distributed at the football game with Brown, is reported to have caused a sensation similar to the articles were almost as heavy, ranging from discussions of "A collapse of the grand stand roof. New Kind of Prosperity" to "American Forests." The first supplement was issued last spring as an experiment. Now the feature is definitely a part of the News. The purpose of the supplement is to interest students in the world beyond the college walls, and to mitigate somewhat the traditional affairs.

TRIUMPT OF THE FLIVVER

That final word of recognition which the collegiate Ford had here tofore lacked has been added to the rest with Henry Ford's request that he be sold, for display in his museum the winning car in the derby from Drake College to Grinnell, which the Drake Delphic sponsored on the day of the Drake-Grinnell football game.

The Gray Phantom

Scene: the gym. Time: late afternoon. Characters: three sophomores and one junior, all of whom have been seen wearing either green or red hats around the campus lately, and two of whom have been limping about the university, the other two having been seen making strange noises and gestures in front of Washington college every day at 12 o'clock.

The little drama opens with one man standing upon a stool with his back toward the others. He bends over and the other three take turns at hurling a gigantic medicine ball at his well, were he a ship 'twould be the stern.

This strange scene was too much for our inquiring reporter who ventured up to one of the participants of the unusual game. "Just what is the idea?" he queried.

"Nothing at all," was his reply, "except the Pan and White Frail initiation is coming in about a month and we are conditioning for service on the receiving end of the familiar board."

Goats of the social fraternities may find medicine balls for similar use in the special exercise room.

"BETTER BUMMING OR NONE AT ALL, 'MAYOR'"

"Beter bumming or none at all" is the warning Mayor Zeb Council of Chapel Hill has issued to the students of University of North Carolina Motorists, said the mayor, have complained that students seeking rides have cluttered the highways beyond comfort and safety, and that these collegians, when refused lifts, have thumbed their noses at the motorists and otherwise outrageously insulted them. The Tar Heel, loathe to believe such an attack on the university's students, asked for more convincing details,—and got them. So Carolina boys have been asked to bum with courtesy, lest the mayor and council ban them from the auto paths.

Stars of New York University Keep Their Hats On

Not a single hatless sheik is to be found among the forty men comprising the current season's football squad of the New York University team that is battling its way to the highest honors among the football teams of the east. An iron-clad rule—"Keep your hat on!"—has been issued by Chick Meehan, who as coach for the N. Y. U. men, has been largely responsible for the remarkable football history made by that organization.

"Chick" has met and overcome all sorts of baffling conditions in his trying work as coach, first for the Syracuse eleven, and in the past three years, for N. Y. U. But this year there developed something new to his experience. In mid-season, with his men in the best condition, members of the squad began reporting sick. Several minor colds—a most unusual ailment among men at the peak of physical fitness—handicapped the work of training. Then Frank Briante, who to date holds the yardage record of all eastern teams, had to take to his bed. Next day little Dud Hornell, track champ, and speediest of half-backs, turned up with a cold.

Chick looked into it. What he located was nothing wrong with the course of training, but rather something new in conduct outside of training hours. Some of the men, having observed college youngsters flirting with the fad of appearing on the street with nothing on the head but a slick hair-comb, had thoughtlessly done likewise. The result, of course, was an epidemic of coughs and sneezes.

At the next football meeting the bomb was exploded. Said Chick, "Any sane and adult person, who wants to keep his health, ought to know enough to wear a hat out of doors. If these lads want to plaster themselves with bear's-grease and look like comic-strip sheiks, we can't stop them. But you can't do it and stay on this team!"

Now, at the door of training quarters, as the men go out, burly Charles Porter, and his diminutive assistant, John Williams, are stationed to keep a fishy eye on the heads of those who pass. Any man without a hat "catches hell."

Gene White Heads State Back Pack

Gene White, the Generals crashing fullback, by scoring the Big Blue Team's only touchdown against the Cavaliers last Saturday broke out in front to lead the scorers in the Old Dominion. White's nearest rival is Littlejohn of Emory and Henry who was held scoreless last week. Five of the first dozen high scores of the state are backfield men on the Emory and Henry outfit which is gaining recognition as being one of the highest scoring machines in the entire country this fall. The leading twelve are as follows:

Freshman's Hotsy Note Falls Into Alien Hands And He's Sho' Worried

A certain freshman is worried. One minute before 11 this morning he opened his postoffice box and pulled out a letter addressed in a dainty feminine hand—from his best girl. His heart leaped joyfully to his throat.

The tolling of the college bell suddenly reminded him that only five minutes remained to get to the Chemistry building. So without breaking the seal he reverently placed the letter in an inside coat pocket and rushed to Chemistry 101.

When settled in class he opened it. While his ears took in the stentorian remarks of Dr. Howe his eyes feasted on amorous phrases inscribed in that same dainty feminine handwriting.

He was the first one out of the class at 12. After putting the letter in the pocket of a coat hanging in the hall he hurried into the laboratory and soon finished his experiments.

He grabbed his coat, then hastened to the house in order to make prompt answer to his letter. At the house he reached in the coat pocket for it and found, to his dismay, that it was gone—In his carelessness he had placed it in some student's coat pocket instead of his own. Unfortunate freshman! His "hottest" letter is in alien hands.

photograph of the Perpetual Rowing Trophy which was presented to the university by Colonel B. D. Gibson. Colonel Gibson is an ardent admirer of rowing and presented this trophy, to have engraved on it the name of the club crew which wins the annual regatta. This honor was won last June by the Harry Lee Boat Club, which now has its name on the cup.

V. M. I. Class Outlaws Hazing

At a meeting of the first class of cadets at the Virginia Military Institute last night, a resolution was adopted almost unanimously prohibiting any "laying of hands on" new cadets in the future. The action of the first class followed two conferences between officers of the first class and General Cooke, at which this decision was reached and a spirit of co-operation established in cutting out hazing.

GENERALS LOCK HORNS WITH V. P. I.

workouts have been light because of his badly bruised ribs. Coach Herron has been grooming Eberhardt for Lott's halfback position and safety man while Howe has been calling signals. The latest reports, however, indicate that Lott will be in the scramble before it is many minutes old.

Buck Bailey has been playing left end on the second team for the last week and is ready to go if he is needed. Coach Herron will not use him unless the situation becomes very acute, and Bill Dorsey will start the game at left end.

The Gobbler attack has been further strengthened by the return of Fullback Looney who has been on the sick list for several days. With Peake, Mattox, and McEver already in condition, Coach Gustafson's "Pony Express" is complete. In reserve, the Tech mentor has Hughes, Tomko, McArthur, Rule and Rice all of whom are fast enough to make the varsity men hustle.

The game is the main event on the Home-coming Day program of V. P. I. With the addition of the crowd of Washington and Lee men and the Tech alumni, Blacksburg's population for today has been increased by several thousand.

Florida Offense Is Off Color Now

Florida's Gators offense is disrupted. Bowyer, their star triple-threat quarterback, was carried from Fairfield stadium in Jacksonville with a broken leg suffered during the last minute of play in the Florida-Georgia game Saturday.

Plans Made For Peace Memorial Here In University

There is a movement under way to establish a Peace Memorial of international good will at Washington and Lee. This will consist of a collection of valuable and unique flags of different nations, photos of important international people, and books of various languages.

E. Earl Hoffer, of West Long Branch, N. J., is assisting Dr. W. M. Brown in this work and has been in Lexington previous to going to the University of Chattanooga where he dedicated a similar memorial there on Armistice Day.

A large number of donations have already been received from government officials, state governors, and foreign nations.

It has not yet been decided where the Memorial will be temporarily located, but it will have permanent quarters in the basement of the new auditorium. The Memorial will be a wonderful display, and a suggestion to visitors of international good will.

Pi Delta Epsilon Initiates Tuesday

At a meeting of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, last Thursday night, it was decided to initiate the new "Goats" next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, on the third floor of Washington College. The fraternity also decided at this time to send Peyton Harrison, editor-in-chief of the RING-TUM PHI, to Columbus, Ohio, as delegate to the national convention of the fraternity.
