The George F. Baker Scholarships

ONE OF THE MOST significant developments in recent years at the University has been the announcement that Washington and Lee will be one of twelve liberal arts colleges in the country to share in the scholarship program of the George F. Baker Trust of New York. An initial grant of $50,000 has been received from the Trust to establish George F. Baker Scholarships for freshmen entering in 1960, 1961, and 1962. Three or four scholarships will be awarded each year, to be held by the recipients over their entire four-year college course.

The purpose of the George F. Baker Scholarships is to provide opportunity for young men of the highest overall promise in character, leadership and intellectual capacity to obtain a high quality education regardless of their economic circumstances.

The size of the stipend will be gauged by the candidate's economic need and may run as high as $2000 a year. The scholarship is intended to cover all college expenses that lie beyond a candidate's own resources.

The Baker Scholarships at Washington and Lee are open to all entering students. The donors have expressed the hope that a substantial number of scholarship holders will seek careers in constructive business activity, for the awards were made possible by the work of men who devoted their lives to business, and the present ability of the Trust to maintain scholarships depends directly upon business activity. Nevertheless, the donors believe that leadership of first quality is needed in every field of human activity, and they would like to have students of ability, whatever their plans for the future, encouraged to apply for the Baker Scholarships.

No geographical restrictions for

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants will be considered on the basis of the following criteria:

I. CHARACTER

The recipient shall have an outstanding character as demonstrated by adherence to the highest possible standards of personal conduct and influence; by a sense of responsibility in his life's purpose; and by a spirit of unselfishness.

II. INTELLECTUAL CAPACITY

The recipient's total academic record in secondary school should indicate both superior ability and achievement. There should be especial emphasis on steady, independent habits of work, showing performance regularly consistent with capacity.

III. MOTIVATION AND LEADERSHIP

The recipient shall present evidence of leadership as shown by a high degree of acceptance by his contemporaries; and by a strong quality of effective participation in some extracurricular activities of worthwhile purpose.

IV. NEED

Recipients will be selected on their relative rating under the preceding heads, but the amount granted will be graduated according to the actual financial need of the recipient. Candidates who can well afford to finance their college education should not apply for a scholarship.

at Washington and Lee University selection of candidates are imposed but the George F. Baker Trust has suggested that Washington and Lee seek applicants from the South and border states as the area from Washington and Lee now draws around seventy per cent of its student body.

The Trust has requested that members of the institution's Board of Trustees play an important part in the selection of candidates. The University Scholarship Committee will review the records of all candidates, screen them, and present a limited group who will come to the campus as the guests of the University. From this number, the trustees will select the successful winners. The University trustees who will serve are Huston St. Clair, Tazewell, Virginia; Joseph Lamar Lanier, West Point, Georgia; and the Rev. John Newton Thomas, of Richmond, Virginia.

Successful administration of the initial grant of $50,000 will make Washington and Lee eligible for additional George F. Baker Funds.

* * *

The George F. Baker Trust was established by the will of George F. Baker, Jr., who died in 1937. Trustees include members of his immediate family and close business associates.

Both Mr. Baker and his father before him had been, over a period of many years, generous supporters of a number of hospitals, educational institutions, and private organizations interested in social welfare. The Trustees undertook to continue the support of these numerous and excellent organizations.

Mr. Baker and his father had demonstrated by their own gifts great interest in the field of education. The buildings of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, the Library at Dartmouth, the Chemistry Laboratory of Cornell University, the Baker Field for Columbia University in New York City were among their interests. The Trustees of the Baker Trust in 1946 undertook the support of scholarships for young men of outstanding over-all promise at a number of small, privately endowed liberal arts colleges, geographically spread across the country. Since that time, funds for this purpose have been placed at twenty different educational institutions, and some five hundred young men have been directly aided in the securing of their higher education. About two hundred holders of the George F. Baker Scholarships are now in residence at the different colleges. Around fifty enter the various colleges each fall, and an equal number are graduated each spring.

* * *

Colleges where Baker Scholarships are being awarded in 1960-61 are as follows: Grinnell College, Hamilton College, Knox College, Pomona College, Reed College, Southwestern at Memphis, Stanford University, The College of Wooster, Trinity College, Wabash College, Washington and Lee University, and Wesleyan University.

WAYS IN WHICH A LOYAL ALUMNUS CAN HELP:

1. Read over the information and conditions in this issue in connection with the Baker Scholarships.
2. Endeavor to locate one or more outstanding preparatory or high school seniors who would, in your judgment, be highly qualified for consideration for a Baker award. Sources of information on candidates would be consultation with school heads, guidance officials, and teachers; sons of your friends; acquaintances of your own children.
3. Talk to the candidate about Washington and Lee and the Baker Scholarships. If he is interested, have him make personal application for admission and scholarship consideration, and you, yourself, write a letter to the Committee on Scholarships endorsing him for consideration on the basis of qualifications on page 2, not later than February 15.

GEORGE F. BAKER, JR.

George F. Baker, Jr., founder of the George F. Baker Trust, was born in New York City, where his father was president of The First National Bank of New York City. The lives of both the father and son were closely intertwined with the history and development of that great financial institution. The bank was deeply influential in the building of both the American railroad empire and large industrial corporations.

George F. Baker, Jr. attended Hotchkiss, and was graduated from Harvard in 1899. He first worked at the office of J. P. Morgan and Company as a messenger. He remained with the firm until May, 1901, when he was offered the post of assistant cashier at the First National Bank, New York. From then on, his business career was with that bank. He remained assistant cashier until early in 1906 when he became vice-president. Later that same year he was elected to the Board of Directors. In July, 1918, Mr. Baker undertook a mission to Italy on behalf of the American Red Cross. On his return in September he enlisted as a private in the United States Army and was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. Returning to the bank after the war, he became vice-chairman of the Board in 1922, and, after his father's death in 1931, chairman.

His business career brought him directorates in a number of leading business corporations including American Telephone and Telegraph Company, General Motors Corporation, General Electric Company, United States Steel Corporation, and the New York Central Railroad.

Mr. Baker was always exceedingly close to his father, joining in and backing up his father's numerous business and philanthropic undertakings. He was a man of broad outlook and the highest standards.

GEORGE F. BAKER, JR.

His last years were marked by illness, and while visiting Honolulu, he died in 1937.

One of Mr. Baker's close business associates has written of him:

"The clear and penetrating mind for affairs, coupled with a standard of business honor and almost unique in its severity, and applicable always and rigorously against himself; the conscientious devotion to any task begun, or responsibility assumed; the patriot's love of country; the sailor's courage; generosity that sought to make substantial gifts unnoticed, and yet given with such tact and skill as to warm the soul of the beneficiary; candor, simplicity, modesty, innate consideration for others, and the kindest heart we have ever known."

Season Tickets Available for Home Sports Events

■ FOR THE FIRST time, the Athletic department at Washington and Lee is offering a season ticket to all home sports contests. The ticket sells for ten dollars, and will admit the bearer and companion to the eighteen home contests in football, basketball, and wrestling.

Four Lexington games are scheduled in football this fall, against Centre College, Dickinson, Randolph-Macon, and Carnegie Tech. Home basketball games feature as opponents: Bridgewater, Emory and Henry, Richmond, Randolph-Macon, Catholic University, Hampden-Sydney, Washington College, Lynchburg, and Roanoke College.

Wrestling opponents at Doremus gymnasium are North Carolina, Franklin and Marshall, Gallaudet, New York University, and West Virginia University.

Alumni who wish to purchase tickets may get them from the Athletic Association.

Scholarship applications should be filed as promptly as possible, certainly not later than February 15. Scholarship candidates should take the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board not later than the January 9, 1960, test date and must submit the Parents' Confidential Statement to the College Scholarship Service.

New President Dr. Fred Carrington Cole, right, is welcomed to the campus by Dean of Students Frank J. Gilliam and Dean of the University Leon F. Sensabaugh on Sept. 2.

University News

A NEW PRESIDENT, the largest freshman class in its history, and the opening of the new $1,500,000 dining hall-dormitory project highlighted the beginning of Washington and Lee's two hundred and eleventh academic year in mid-September.

Dr. Fred Carrington Cole, named last June to succeed retiring President Francis P. Gaines, took over the school's administration on September 2. He is the fourteenth man to assume the presidency.

A freshman class of 328 students registered on September 14, slightly more than last year's total of 313. In addition, 682 upperclassmen registered, plus 116 in the School of Law for a total of 1126 students this year. President Cole greeted the student body for the first time on September 16, when he spoke at the opening University assembly in Doremus Gymnasium.

Dr. Cole told the group, "To be associated with Washington and Lee, as a student, a faculty member, or an administrative officer, is a privilege and a distinction."

"In pursuit of a degree, however, it is important that you get the substance of an education and not merely the form.

"Wisdom" Dr. Cole said, "is the possession of the educated man—not the man with 123 semesters of knowledge, but the man who understands what he knows, who continues to learn, and who makes objective judgment. The acquisition of wisdom should be your objective here. How well you attain that objective will determine how well you will be prepared to succeed in your personal lives and careers, to bring credit to your university, and to give your country the enlightened leadership which it expects and desperately needs from you."

This school year will be significant in other ways. It will mark the probable completion of a two-million dollar capital fund campaign, to provide funds for new science and journalism facilities. Since the University Development Program began last November, well over a million dollars has already been pledged or contributed.

For students, the new year will bring the twelfth renewal of the famed Mock Convention, at which they will seek to nominate a presidential candidate for the Democratic party. The convention will be held in early May.

FACULTY

■ SIX NEW TEACHERS joined the faculty in September. They were: Dr. Leonard E. Jarrard, assistant professor of psychology; Robert D. Whitaker, '55, assistant professor of chemistry; Charles F. Phillips, Jr., assistant professor of economics; Dr. Earl L. Crum, visiting professor of ancient languages; William F. St. Clair, assistant professor of physics; and John K. Jennings, '56, instructor in journalism and communications.

Jennings achieved nationwide recognition as a student for his radio coverage of the death of Senator Alben W. Barkley while addressing the 1956 Democratic Mock Convention here. His tape recording of Barkley's final speech and his eye-witness description of the senator's collapse were used on network broadcasts by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

■ DR. CHARLES W. WILLIAMS, associate professor of math, participated in an eight-week summer institute at the University of California at Los Angeles, July 6-August 28.

Sponsored by the National Science Foundation and UCLA, the institute conducted special courses in numerical analysis for fifty college professors.

■ PROMOTIONS HAVE been announced for two faculty members. Dr. A. Ross Borden was promoted to professor of English, and Dr. Edward C. Atwood, Jr. to associate professor of economics.

■ TRUSTEES HAVE approved a plan whereby the University will contribute up to $2,800 for the college education of children of faculty and staff members.

The new plan will permit Washington and Lee's withdrawal from a cumbersome tuition exchange program carried out among 245 colleges. The plan provides for annual maximum grants of $700 for four years of undergraduate education for sons and daughters of fulltime faculty and staff members of two years standing or more.

Some seventeen young people are shortly expected to be eligible for benefits under this plan.

■ THE MEMORIES of twenty-nine years as president of Washington and Lee are hard to capsule into the thoughts of a single hour.

But recalling years of achievement which made him one of the nation's foremost educators, Dr. Francis P. Gaines said, "No man could ask for a finer privilege. I go out of office without a single disappointment, except in my own performance. I have only happy and grateful feelings for all those who have supported me—the trustees, faculty, my staff and the students, and the many other good friends of this university."

The personal shortcoming which grieved him most, he declared, was the unavoidable shrinking of his intimate contacts with the student body.

"The apparent and growing opportunities for service away from the campus have denied to me the opportunity to be a part of student life," he said, as he began his retirement on September 1. "When I came to this office, I wanted to be a students' president." And for many years, he was very close to his students.

But gradually, the president's broadening responsibilities took him more and more away from the everyday business of running the college. "I think the president's duties changed when the college recognized its need for varied and generous cooperation from those other than its immediate family," he said. "It became necessary to take the college to the supporting publics, not wait for them to come to it."

How well he measured up to this role can be gauged by Washington and Lee's steady march of progress during his administration.

Dr. Gaines says he commends new President Fred C. Cole to the University family "with confidence and joy" as a man of "uncommonly fine qualifications and influential leadership."

He has pledged Dr. Cole his full services for consultation and advice, but says he is anxious to give the new president a clear field to form his own opinions and set his own course.

As for Dr. Gaines' immediate future, he is continuing to serve as an active worker in the $2,000,000 fund drive. Within the next few months, he will address alumni groups in about twenty cities in support of the campaign.

With this activity behind him, he will perhaps turn to writing. He would like to do a book of reminiscences, and perhaps some creative writing. He hopes the long period of literary inactivity he has undergone will not prove a handicap to resuming the work he enjoys. He also plans to engage in occasional lecturing at other colleges, and would like to visit Europe once more.

He and Mrs. Gaines are completing a new home at the corner of Estill and Washington streets, adjacent to six fraternity houses. So he can look forward to continuing close relations with the Washington and Lee students, and he will be a welcome neighbor to them.

For in fact, he has been more of a "students' president" than he perhaps realizes.

A STATEMENT OF APPRECIATION

"Since the announcement of his retirement, Dr. Gaines has been widely acclaimed for his eminence in the field of education, with especial reference to his 29-year tenure as president of Washington and Lee University. As President of the Alumni Association during his last year in office, I welcome this opportunity in behalf of the alumni to express their appreciation of his magnificent service to their alma mater.

"Washington and Lee has gained ever-increasing prestige under his administration. Moreover, as Past President of the Association of American Colleges and winner of a score or more of earned and honorary degrees, awards and decorations, in peace and war, at home and abroad, he has demonstrated a remarkable aptitude for public service.

"The magic of his words and presence has served to remind a thousand audiences that private institutions of higher learning are indispensable to the preservation of the freedoms we are taught to venerate.

"For the superior qualities of the intellectual, moral, and spiritual leadership in all phases of his chosen profession and the powerful and eloquent voice with which he has long served his country and its institutions, he has earned, not a page, but a long and brilliant chapter in the history of Washington and Lee."

DAVID D. JOHNSON, '23

■ DR. BRANTSON BEESON HOLDER, associate professor of commerce and economics, retired in June.

Dr. Holder, seventy, joined the faculty in 1941. In his eighteen years at Washington and Lee, his booming voice echoing from Newcomb Hall became a familiar sound in the warm months when classroom windows were open. He has taught courses in transportation, public utilities, governmental control of business, and business law.

He was born near Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and won his bachelor of arts, master of arts, and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of North Carolina. He also read law, and got a license to practice in North Carolina in 1921.

He and Mrs. Holder retired to their 180-acre farm in Lenore county, North Carolina.

THE CAMPUS

■ THE UNIVERSITY MEDICAL office was moved this fall from its old location at 214 West Washington street to the ground floor of the new Davis Dormitory.

The old quarters were remodeled during the summer and converted into an annex of the freshman dormitory, in order to handle the large number of new matriculates.

Miss Fannie Page Allen, nurse in the medical office for the past sixteen years, has retired. Replacing her is Mrs. R. Reid Agnor, Jr., wife of Reid Agnor, '46.

■ LAST SPRING, ten colleges in America featured on film the 1958 Toynbee lectures at Washington and Lee. Encyclopedia Britannica Films, Inc. photographed the lectures, with the help of a grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

The series of fifteen two-hour lectures were used at five Illinois and five Virginia colleges, as a pilot study of techniques by which American students can be exposed to the great men, great ideas, and great issues of contemporary society.

Participating were Blackburn College; Illinois College; MacMurray College; Illinois Wesleyan; and Millikin University in Illinois; and in Virginia, Randolph-Macon; Randolph-Macon Woman's College; and Virginia State and Virginia Union Universities.

■ OIL PAINTINGS of General Robert E. Lee as a second lieutenant, Mrs. Lee as a young woman, and her father; George Washington Parke Custis, have been received by Washington and Lee from the estate of Robert E. Lee, III.

The Lee portraits are in the Lee Museum of Lee Chapel, and the Custis portrait hangs in the lobby of Washington Hall. The paintings are said to be "quite valuable," although the exact value is unknown. The University has insured them for $5,000 each.

The portrait of Lee shows him as a clean-shaven young man in the uniform of a second lieutenant. It is believed to have been painted in 1831, shortly after his marriage, by an artist known only as West.

The portrait of Mrs. Lee, great-granddaughter of Martha Washington, was also painted by West. It shows her as Mary Randolph Custis, the portrait used for the jacket design on the book, "The Lady of Arlington," by Harnett T. Kane. The Custis portrait bears the date 1848 and is by an artist known as Stearns.

The paintings were bequeathed to Washington and Lee by "Captain Bob" Lee upon his death on September 7, 1922. The University assumed ownership after the recent death of Mrs. Lee. "Captain Bob" received his law degree in 1892 and served as a trustee from 1915 until he died.

UNDERGRADUATES

■ A RECORD number of 269 freshmen pledged fraternities this year. Phi Gamma Delta and Kappa Sigma led Rush Week with 27 and 24 new men, respectively. Sigma Phi Epsilon, a new fraternity and the University's eighteenth, won twelve men.

Box score on others: Phi Kappa Sigma, 22; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 20; Delta Upsilon, 19; Delta Tau Delta, 17; ZBT, 16; Sigma Nu, 16; Sigma Chi, 15; Phi Kappa Psi, 14; Beta Theta Pi, 13; Pi Kappa Phi, 12; Pi Kappa Alpha, 11; Phi Delta Theta, 11; Lambda Chi Alpha, 11; Kappa Alpha, 7; Phi Epsilon Pi, 2.

Fifty-eight men in the class are non-fraternity, but will be eligible for deferred rushing this month.

Top: This is the interior of the new Letitia Pate Evans dining hall, described as "one of the most beautiful in the nation." This picture was made on its first day of operation, as freshmen and their parents and families gathered in the dining hall for lunch. Bottom: A student in the modern new dormitory for undergraduates, Baker Hall.

■ WILLIAM E. (BILL) SMITH, JR., from Birmingham, Alabama, was awarded a Washington and Lee blanket by the Alumni Association for winning the name contest at Freshman Camp. Bill correctly identified 87 out of 311 freshmen. This award is made annually to symbolize the interest of Washington and Lee and its alumni in maintaining one of the University's finest traditions—that of speaking cordially to everyone.

University Development Program—Alumni Fund

AS OF JUNE 30, 1959, the University Development Program had been carried to seventeen out of forty-four areas, all of which had not completed their efforts. The total pledge of alumni, parents, and friends as of this date was $1,182,839.90. Of this amount, alumni, thus far contacted, have pledged $495,286.48.

Because of the area type organization, it is obvious not all the alumni members of any one class have been contacted. These alumni in the areas not yet covered are encouraged to wait until the program is conducted in your area before making a contribution.

The following table is merely to depict the record by classes as of June 30 and is not intended to be conclusive.

LAW SCHOOL

Tucker Lectures speaker.

■ ROSS L. MALONE, '32, immediate past president of the American Bar Association, will be speaker next April for the Tucker Law Lectures.

Mr. Malone, who lives in Roswell, New Mexico, has visited the campus several times in recent months. He gave the ODK address last December here. He was also awarded an honorary degree during Commencement of 1958.

Dean Clayton E. Williams has announced that Law Day will also be observed next spring in the Law School.

PRESENT STATUS OF OUR CAMPAIGN

The capital fund drive for $2,000,000 for needed classroom facilities is currently conducting area drives in these cities: Staunton-Waynesboro, Virginia; Danville, Virginia; Bristol, Virginia-Tennessee; Chattanooga, Tennessee; Bluefield, West Virginia; Tampa, Florida; Memphis, Tennessee; Birmingham, Alabama; Shreveport, Louisiana; and Greensboro, North Carolina.

During November and December, the campaign will be taken to New York City; Long Island; West Chester, Connecticut; Northern New Jersey; Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Cleveland, Ohio; Cincinnati, Ohio; Chicago, Illinois; St. Louis, Missouri; and Huntington, West Virginia.

This beaming group of former residents of the Lexington area was photographed in the office of New Orleans Mayor deLESSEPS S. MORRISON, as he issued the proclamation declaring "Old Dominion Day" there. Left to right, are: HERBERT JAHNCKE, '30, chapter president in New Orleans; W. C. MILLS and J. H. ALDRIDGE, former VMI cadets, MRS. C. J. BRAUNER, JR., alumna of Randolph-Macon Woman's College; MR. BRAUNER, VMI chapter president; MRS. S. B. JEFFERSON, Randolph-Macon; and the Mayor. "Old Dominion Day" will be an annual affair in New Orleans from now on.

Chapter Meetings

ATLANTA

The Atlanta chapter gave a most successful luncheon on September 1 for Atlanta students presently attending Washington and Lee, and for freshmen from Georgia who are enrolled this year. The luncheon was attended by twenty-three alumni, four students, and nine entering freshmen. Prospective freshmen from the whole state were invited, and those who attended came from Augusta, Clayton, Tallapoosa, Rome, Griffin, and Atlanta.

Rodney Cook, '46, newly elected member of the Alumni Association's Board of Trustees, addressed the group and welcomed the freshmen. He reported to alumni on recent changes at the school in both the physical plant and the faculty and administration.

Tentative meetings are scheduled as follows: a cocktail party in the fall; a dinner meeting in February, with a speaker from the University; and a business meeting in the spring. It is hoped to invite prospective students for 1960-61 to the February meeting.

WHEN THE AMERICAN Bar Association held its annual meeting in Miami in August, Washington and Lee alumni met together at the Kenilworth hotel for a luncheon on August 26. John W. Ball, '32, chairman, presided, and alumni had such a good time that they have planned a repeat affair at the ABA meeting next August in Washington, D. C.

Among the invited guests was H. K. "Cy" Young, '17, former alumni secretary who now resides in Fort Lauderdale. He was asked to name everybody and did so without mistake, and in addition, gave the class of each alumnus with only slight prompting. Following his remarkable exhibition of memory, the group was welcomed by O. B. McEwan, '40, president of the Florida Bar. Ross L. Malone, '32, outgoing president of the ABA, spoke briefly, and James R. Caskie, '06, rector of the board of trustees of Washington and Lee, made a few remarks.

Present were: James W. Ballengee, '48; Amos A. Bolen, '34; John G. Fox, '49; Harold J. Sullivan, '32; William L. Wilson, '35; Charles E. Long, Jr., '32; J. A. Drabek, '53; Bryce Rea, Jr., '41; Hugh L. Glickstein, '53; G. A. Speer, '32; Carleton E. Jewett, '21; Fielden Woodward, '39; Robert P. Hobson, '17; Bernard R. Kennedy, '23; Baynard L. Malone, Jr., '24; James P. Hill, '20; John Bell Towill, '29; Gavin K. Letts, '58; Norman C. Roettger, '58; Lynn F. Lummus, '58; Clark W. Toole, Jr., '48; John B. Russell, '49; Lewis F. Powell, Jr., '31; Gibson Witherspoon, '27; Judge George T. Clark, '25; Judge W. F. Blanton, '11; R. Carleton Sharretts, Jr., '38; Martin P. Burks, III, '32; Thornton G. Berry, Jr., '34; Mr. McEwan, Mr. Ball, Mr. Young, and Mr. Malone.

■ DEADLINE FOR FILING 1960-61 applications for some 900 Fulbright Scholarships is November 1, 1959. Recipients of the awards will study in Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific area, receiving tuition, maintenance and round-trip travel.

Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously studied abroad. Applicants will be required to submit a plan of proposed study that can be profitably carried out abroad.

Information may be obtained from: Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th street, New York 21, New York.

04 WILLARD NEAL GRUBB is a patient at Catawba hospital, Catawba, Virginia, and would be glad to have any alumni in the area as visitors. He has devoted his life to teaching Latin and Greek, and students in many walks of life are indebted to him for his years of instruction. He is now in his late seventies and his sight is poor, but he has a splendid memory, particularly about Washington and Lee and its personalities at the turn of the century. He is a loyal alumnus and has exemplified the highest ideals of Washington and Lee for more than half a century.

12 DR. and MRS. GORDON L. GROOVER both retired from government service on June 30, 1959. He put in thirty years, and she forty years. Dr. Groover was with the Veterans' Administration, after coming to Washington from private practice in Savannah, Georgia. Mrs. Groover, known professionally as Mary-Agnes Brown, was a lawyer with the Board of Veteran Appeals. During World War II, she was deputy to the Director of the WACs, later was with General MacArthur as the WAC staff director of the Southwest Pacific area. The Groovers plan to enjoy their retirement, with travel taking the number one priority. They hope to visit South America, Mexico, Europe, and to take a trailer-camp trip to all the national parks. Dr. and Mrs. Groover attended the General Reunion last June, and they say they hope to come back next year for more of the same.

13 DR. P. D. CONVERSE has had an interesting time since his retirement in 1957 as professor of Marketing at the University of Illinois. He taught at San Jose State College in the summer of 1958, and at the University of Texas during the second semester of 1958-59. He is now in Europe, lecturing at various universities on marketing, under the sponsorship of the European Productivity Agency. During the fall term, he is in charge of the course on marketing in the new European graduate school of business administration, Institute European d'Administration Les Affaires, at Fontainebleau. This is Dr. Converse's forty-seventh year of teaching. The Texas Bureau of Business Research recently published two monographs by Dr. Converse: "The Beginning of Marketing Thought in the United States" and "Fifty Years of Marketing in Retrospect."

PAUL C. BUFORD is again president of Shenandoah Life Insurance Company. He had resigned the post about four years ago because of ill health. He served as president of the company from 1938 until 1956, when he became chairman of the board. Headquarters are in Roanoke, Virginia.

16 E. B. SHULTZ, after more than twenty-five years of service with the Tennessee Valley Authority, is retiring on November 1, to be on the faculty of New York State School of Industrial and Labor relations of Cornell University. He will engage in a study of retirement policy and practices, made possible by a Ford Foundation grant. He will be co-director of the study, along with John McConnell, dean of the school. Mr. Schultz has been chief of the Labor Relations branch of TVA for twenty-two years, and for the past five years has been directing a study of the retirement system.

25 DICK BEARD was one of twenty-nine Alabama farm leaders who toured European farms during the summer. The trip lasted three weeks and even extended into Russia. Dick said, in his opinion, Russian agriculture is far inferior to that of our country, but if they had mechanization equal to ours, the Soviets could out-produce us in five to ten years. The most impressive factor he noted in his tour was the vast amount of manpower working on farms. In some countries, he said he saw thirty-five workers doing the job done by two men on larger Alabama farms. Holland had the most diversified farming, he pointed out. Dick's 250-acre Glen Dale Farms near Trussville is considered one of the best organized and managed in the United States. He raises some of the best beef in the world.

26 DR. ROBERT C. YATES, head of the mathematics department at the College of William and Mary, was a speaker at the eight-week "Summer Science Institute" last July at Hampton Institute in Hampton, Virginia. He addressed seventy-three high school science teachers from twelve Southern states and the District of Columbia.

27 THE REV. R. WILBUR SIMMONS is minister of the First Congregational Church in Sacramento, California, with 1400 members. For the past year, he has been chaplain of the California Legislature, and the Assembly had his prayers printed in book form this fall. Last summer, he was exchange minister in Hastings, England. He has been asked to lead a group next spring to the Holy Land and Middle East, as part of the Inter-Cultural Exchange. In addition to his busy church life, he serves as a Family Service Agency Director in Sacramento; president of the City Council of Churches; director for the Y. M. C. A.; member of the Community Welfare Council; and teacher of classes on inter-faith marriages at the three colleges in Sacramento.

DR. FRANK D. CHARLTON has been appointed Superintendent of the Austin, Texas, District of the Methodist church. He oversees fifty-two churches of that denomination in the Austin area. Address: 4012 Crescent Drive, Austin 2, Texas.

29 LEWIS F. POWELL, Richmond attorney, was named by the Virginia State Bar Association to a joint committee in cooperation with the Virginia State Bar to establish a program for continuing legal education.

31 ARTHUR W. PHELPS, professor of Jurisprudence at William and Mary, was named by the Virginia State Bar Association to a joint committee in cooperation with the Virginia State Bar to establish a program for continuing legal education.

32 DR. FRANK CUNNINGHAM has received the degree of Doctor of English Literature from Dr. F. Amoroso D'Aragona, president, Phoenix University, Bari, Italy. Dr. Cunningham, formerly vice-president of Fremont College and Sequoia

University, has numerous other advanced degrees and honors.

35 LEROY HODGES, JR. has resigned as vice-president of Maury Leaf Tobacco Company to join the United States Department of Agriculture. He is marketing specialist with the tobacco division of the department's foreign agricultural services.

37 S. TILFORD PAYNE, JR., an attorney in Louisville, Kentucky, is Jefferson County chairman for the G.O.P. campaign this year. He is also treasurer of the Louisville Bar Association, and a member of its executive committee. He is a deacon of Highland Presbyterian church, and a member of the Pendennis Club and Filson Club. He is the father of two daughters.

COMMANDER STEPHEN B. LEE, USN, is commanding officer of the Submarine Supply office of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. His office last year installed a Burroughs 205 electronic data processing system, which is expected to support more effectively submarines and nuclear-powered vessels of the U.S. Navy, and to achieve economies and increased efficiency in the process.

38 ERNEST B. WALKER, JR. says his lithograph, letterhead, and engraving business has done well in Louisville, Kentucky, and has moved to new and larger quarters at 841 South Sixth Street. New lithographic equipment has also been purchased. Ernest says he was glad to see the old bunch again at the fund drive dinner in Louisville, and that Dr. Gaines gave an excellent talk.

WILLIAM W. DAVIS, JR. has been released from Naval duty, and now lives at 1320 Prather Road, Lexington, Kentucky.

39 ALAN BUXTON HOBBS has been promoted by the Federal Trade Commission to the post of assistant general counsel for appeals. He joined the Commission in 1948 and was first assigned to the Appellate Division, where he traveled extensively in arguing appeals for Trade Commission orders. For the past four years, he has served as Legal Assistant to Commissioner W. C. Kern. He is married to the former Ann Katalinich of Gilbert, Minnesota, and they have two children.

PHILIP R. BROOKS has been promoted to district sales manager for Southern Materials Company. His area will include plants in Richmond, Lynchburg, Ashland, Hopewell, and Petersburg, Virginia.

40 DR. ROBERT S. HUTCHESON, JR., a practicing physician of Roanoke, Virginia, was named Roanoke's "Father of the Year in Religious Activities" during the Father's Day observance last June. He is clerk of the session of the Second Presbyterian church, and has served as president of the men's Sunday School class. He and his wife and six children attend Sunday School regularly. Dr. Hutcheson has also found time to serve on the board of the Roanoke Family Service Association, and as director of the YMCA.

41 TOM BISHOP, JR. has recently been named vice-president of the Monarch

Equipment company, Louisville, Kentucky. He joined the tractor-distributing firm in 1952 and had been general sales manager since 1954.

RICHARD W. SMITH has been elected vice-president of the Virginia Bar Association, representing the Staunton area. He is also mayor of Staunton.

42 CHARLES P. DIDIER says he ran into "Dutch" Hogan, '40, recently, piloting a TWA flight from Toledo to St. Louis. The Hogans visited the Didiers in August in Maumee, Ohio, along with two sons, aged

■ ROBERT M. WHITE, II, '39, widely-known small town Missouri editor and publisher, took over on August 3, 1959, as president and editor of one of New York's largest newspapers, The Herald Tribune.

Bob White is a third-generation newspaper man. His grandfather and father before him published and edited the Mexico Ledger in Mexico, Missouri. After graduation from Washington and Lee, Bob joined the Kansas City staff of United Press. During World War II, he was a member of the armed forces, and was released as a lieutenant colonel in public information in 1945. He has been co-editor and publisher of his family's newspaper since. From 1956-58 he was special consultant to Marshall Field, editor and publisher of the Chicago Sun-Times.

Bob's editorials won him the Sigma Delta Chi Distinguished Service Award in 1952. In 1958, he was named "Missouri's outstanding young newspaper man." He is a member of the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and of its Research Institute, and is chairman of the Associated Press nominating committee.

His Missouri newspaper has a circulation of 8,828 and thirty-four fulltime employees. His New York paper has a daily circulation of 355,466 and 527,000 on Sundays, plus two thousand employees. But as White sees it, a good small-town newspaper editor should be a good big-town editor as well. "I don't have any qualms, but I do have an abiding respect for the size of the job," Bob said.

John Hay Whitney, principal owner of the paper, and U. S. Ambassador to England, declared, "I believe we have found the man with the dynamic ideas and sound newspaper background we have been looking for. Bob White has been editor of one of the finest small daily newspapers in the nation. I know that he will bring vigorous new leadership to The Herald Tribune."

Bob is married and the father of three daughters, 10, 9, and 4.

thirteen and nine. Dutch and Charlie enjoyed talking about the Automobile Club of America at the Phi Delt house, era of 1939-42. The Didiers have recently acquired a 125-year-old home at 205 West Broadway, Maumee.

FRANK LAMOTTE has been promoted by the Gulf States Paper Corporation to the position of sales director for pulp and board. He has been with the firm since 1954 as personnel assistant, personnel relations director, and as salesman. He and his wife, the former Isabel Garcia-Benito of Paris, France, are the parents of three children, Matthew, Nicole Antonia, and Alexis.

45 MALCOLM M. HIRSH has bought an entire town! The place is his home town of Bacova, Virginia, in the Bath county hills, and he purchased the entire area of forty-three houses, a church, general store, post office, school, and modern water and sewage systems. The town was built by the Tidewater Oil Company in the 1920's as a thriving industrial village making barrel staves for wooden oil barrel. Later, when oil was placed in metal drums, Bacova's star waned. However, Malcolm hopes to change that by attracting an industry which might revitalize the local economic life. He grew up two miles from Bacova on his father's Meadow Lane Farm, where thoroughbred horses were raised.

46 DR. ROBERT HILL LYNN is associate professor of English at Marshall College.

48 WALTER B. POTTER has been elected president of the Virginia Press Association. He is publisher of the Culpeper Star-Exponent.

49 DR. HUGH MOOMAW, professor of history at Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Virginia, was awarded a post-doctoral Fulbright fellowship. He will use the grant to continue a biographical study of Captain A. S. Hamond, British naval officer and political figure during the Revolutionary War. His search for material will take him to England to the British Museum. He is on leave of absence this year from his college post.

OLIVER C. DAWKINS, III, is staff supervisor for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company in Louisville, Kentucky. He assists in recruiting and training of new personnel. He has been in the life insurance field since 1952, and is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters of the Bluegrass Investment Club. He and his wife and three children live at 3122 Rosedale Boulevard, Louisville.

51 FRANK S. DAVIDSON is with the the International Business Machine Company in Johnson City, New York.

53 HUGH S. GLICKSTEIN has opened his law offices at suite 304-306 Atlantic Federal Building, 1750 East Sunrise Boulevard in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Another important event in his life was the birth of a second son, Cary Douglas, on June 6, 1959.

LEONARD C. DILL is now with the credit department of Container Corporation of America, at 5000 Flat Rock Road, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He was formerly with the Philadelphia National Bank there.

DR. EDGAR W. SPENCER, head of Washington and Lee's geology department, was on hand August 17 when the great Montana earthquake took place. He had been conducting a study of the Madison range of the Rocky Mountains in southwest Montana, and he and his two student colleagues had been conducting mapping in the Hebgen Lake area several days before the quake. He was about thirty miles away at the time of the disaster, and was able to render valuable technical assistance in news coverage of the event. Edgar has spent the past six summers in and around southwestern Montana, first studying the structural geology of the Bear-tooth Mountains, and now on a National Science Foundation grant to conduct research on the formation of the 70,000,000-year-old Madison range.

54 TOM MCNEMAR, who has been teaching for the past two years in West Hartford, Connecticut, is working toward his Ph.D. degree in Great Britain, at St. Andrew's and Oxford. He received his master's degree from the University of Washington.

GORDON LEE GANO, JR. has become an associate of the law firm of Bonney and Wade in Dallas. Address: 1133 Fidelity Union Life Building, Dallas, Texas.

HENRY MURFEY, JR. has joined the home office staff of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company of Springfield, Massachusetts.

55 LARRY LEVITAN has become associated in the general practice of law with the firm of Miller, Brown, and Gilderhorn, specializing in tax matters. His address is: Investment Building, 1511 K Street, N.W., Washington 5, D. C.

56 RAFA'AT ALI ABOU-EL-HAJ was awarded his master of arts degree in Europe and Near Eastern History by the Princeton Graduate School on June 16, 1959.

ARNOLD MICHAEL APPLEFIELD was graduated from Harvard Law School last June.

57 JAMES W. MARVIN, JR. is doing his duty with the army, and is serving in Germany until this time next year. He studied German at the Army Language School of Monterey, California, and is now in Bad Kissingen, at Von Hessing Strasse 3. This is thirty-five miles north of Wurzburg, he says, and if any alumni are in the area, he'd like to see them. His address is Hg. Region XI, USAEUR Ln Gp (3842), APO 800, New York City, New York.

JAMES R. CREEL, '57, received the wings of a Naval aviator on July 29, 1959, upon completion of advanced flight training at Pensacola, Florida. He is presently a second lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps.

OCTOBER 1959

HAROLD ALFRED TARRANT, JR. was awarded his master's degree in political science last June from the University of Delaware.

DR. HEINZ ORTNER is living in Graz, Austria, and wants all visitors to the country to look him up at Kaiser Franz Josef Kai 2 in Graz. He received his doctor of law degree in 1957, and since that time has worked in court as a "Richteramtsanwaerter," a term meaning he must practice in court for three years before being admitted as a lawyer. Heinz spent several winters as a ski instructor in St. Anton on Arlberg, Europe's largest ski school. He always had some Americans in his classes, he said, but never any Washington and Lee men. However, about a dozen friends from the University have been to visit him. Some spent Christmas with his fam-
