

the alumni magazine of washington and lee university

May 1975

the alumni magazine of washington and lee
Volume 50, Number 4, May 1975

William C. Washburn, '40 Editor
Romulus T. Weatherman Managing Editor
Robert S. Keefe, '68 Associate Editor
Mrs. Joyce Carter Editorial Assistant
W. Patrick Hinely, '73
Sally Mann Photographers

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Distinguished Alumnus Awards	1
Fancies on Choice of Abode	2
Spring Reunions, 1975	10
Reunion Classes	13
New Alumni Officers	14
Chapter News	15
Class Notes	16
Estate Planning Notes	19
In Memoriam	20

Published in January, March, April, May, July, September, October, and November by Washington and Lee University Alumni, Inc., Lexington, Virginia 24450. All communications and POD Forms 3579 should be sent to Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., Lexington, Va. 24450. Second class postage paid at Lexington, Va. 24450, with additional mailing privileges at Roanoke, Virginia 24001.

Officers and Directors
Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc.

C. ROYCE HOUGH, '59, Winston-Salem, N.C.
President
VERNON W. HOLLEMAN, '58, Washington, D.C.
Vice President
THEODORE M. KERR, '57, Midland, Texas
Treasurer
WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, '40, Lexington, Va.
Secretary
THOMAS B. BRANCH, III, '58, Atlanta, Ga.
EDWIN J. FOLTZ, '40, Gladwyne, Pa.
MARION G. HEATWOLE, '41, Pittsburgh, Pa.
SAMUEL B. HOLLIS, '51, Memphis, Tenn.
COURTNEY R. MAUZY, JR., '61, Raleigh, N.C.
JERRY G. SOUTH, '54, San Francisco, Calif.
CHARLES C. STIEFF, II, '45, Baltimore, Md.
J. THOMAS TOUCHTON, '60, Tampa, Fla.
ROBERT M. WHITE, II, '38, Mexico, Mo.

ON THE COVER: Lacrosse, Spring Reunions, and the beauty of Rockbridge County make up our cover theme. Washington and Lee had another successful year in Lacrosse, upsetting No. 1 Johns Hopkins to reach the NCAA semifinals against Maryland. The huddle photo is by W. Patrick Hinely, '73. Three pages of reunion pictures start on Page 10. And the camera also tells a lot about why Rockbridge County is a good place to live, beginning on Page 2. The cover reunion picture and the photograph of Hogback Mountain are by Sally Mann.

Distinguished Alumnus Awards won by Clarke and Kopald

The Alumni Association's second annual Distinguished Alumnus Awards went this year to Charles F. Clarke Jr., '38, of Cleveland, Ohio, and S L Kopald Jr. '43, of Memphis, Tenn.

The awards were announced at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association on May 10. Outgoing Alumni President Everett Tucker of Little Rock, Ark., presented the awards, and University President Robert E. R. Huntley read the citations.

Clarke is a partner in the Cleveland law firm of Squires, Sanders & Dempsey and head of the firm's trial department. Kopald is president of Humko Sheffield Chemical Co. and until recently was chairman of the Tennessee Republican Party. He could not be present at the meeting, and his award will be presented to him at a later ceremony.

Clarke was president of the W&L Alumni Association in 1970-71, having been elected to its Board of Directors in 1967.

After earning his law degree in two years from the University of Michigan, he entered private practice in Detroit and served with the U.S. Army during World War II.

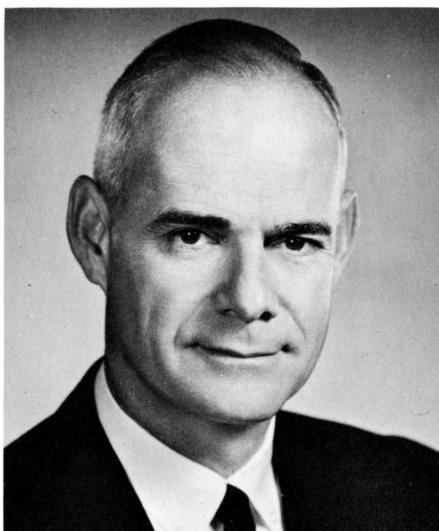

Clarke has been extremely active in civic and professional affairs. In 1971, he was awarded an honorary doctorate by Cleveland State University in recognition of his chairmanship of the Drug Use and Abuse Committee of Cleveland's Criminal Justice Coordinating Council and for his role in establishing a free clinic for the greater Cleveland area to deal directly with drug abuse problems.

Clarke is also a life member of the Sixth Circuit Judicial Conference and chairman of the legislative committee of the Cleveland Welfare Federation. He was a councilman of Bay Village for five years, and in 1974-75 was vice chairman of the Cleveland Crime Commission.

As a student at Washington and Lee, he was editor-in-chief of the Ring-tum Phi, a member of the Student Government Association, and intramural wrestling champion. He was elected to membership in both Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa. He and his wife have four children.

Charles F. Clarke Jr. (right) receives Distinguished Alumnus Award from Everett Tucker Jr., retiring president of the Alumni Association, as President Huntley (left) reads the citation.

S L Kopald will receive his Award at a later ceremony.

Kopald became Republican chairman in Tennessee in 1971 and held that office until resigning several months ago. He was a member of the Alumni Board of Directors from 1968 until 1972 and is a member of both the Generals' Council and the Robert E. Lee Association, the University's most generous benefactors.

Kopald has been active in civic and religious affairs, both nationally and locally. He is a member of the governing board and former chairman of Hebrew Union College/Jewish Institute of Religion, which last year awarded him an honorary doctorate. He has been a director and chairman of the Memphis branch of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Board and president, director or chairman of Temple Israel, the Memphis branch of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the YMCA, Red Cross, Community Chest and Chamber of Commerce.

Kopald is married to the former Mimi Daves of Lexington, and they have a daughter and three sons.

by O. W. Riegel

May Day: Spring fancies on the choice of abode

O. W. Riegel, professor of journalism and communications emeritus, made the following remarks on May 1 at the annual dinner meeting of the Washington and Lee University Women's Group.

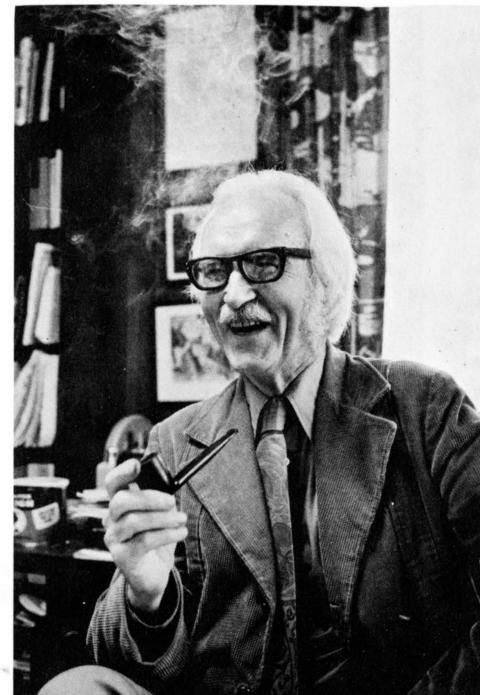

I have taken for the title of these remarks, "May Day." This isn't a reference to this first day of May, but to the air pilots' international signal of distress, "May Day," which as you all know is the French m'aidez, "Help me!"

My dilemma is, that as intelligent women you don't want a string of jokes, and at the same time you are probably fed up with heavy punditry. My dilemma reminds me of the perplexed girl who was too old to be a Brownie and too young to be a Bunny. Actually, on this first day of May you probably would prefer to be, in fact or fancy, dancing around a May Pole or carrying a daisy chain on the flowering meadows of time.

This has started me thinking about a fancy of mine, the fancy of how and where I would live, if I had a choice. It's a subject for day-dreaming on a day like this. I suspect that nearly everyone has dreamt at one time or another of a castle in Spain, an island of Bali-Hi, or a little gray home in the West where the buffalo roam. I am not asking you to be realistic, but to join me in a fun game of the imagination: Where and how would I like to live if I had my druthers?

I suspect that some of you are already thinking that anyone who wouldn't prefer to live in Lexington or Rockbridge County must have a hole in his head. Fortunately for us, millions of people in the world with freedom of choice are not of that opinion.

My wife and I have been playing the game for years, not because we have any tax-free municipal bonds in the bank or because we expect some distant great-aunt Helen to appear out of nowhere and leave us a pile, but because it was a way of increasing the enjoyment of travel. We would ask ourselves, the scenery is splendid, but what would it really be like to live here? Is it for us? These are enriching questions to ask, just as it is enriching in an art gallery to look at a picture and ask yourself, "Yes, it is very pretty, but could I live with it on the walls of my home?"

Left: O. W. Riegel today.

Above: O. W. Riegel in Vosges Mountains in 1926. Not there.

Naturally it is a presumptuous lack of humility for me to inflict my thoughts upon you; and as for where we want to live, you couldn't care less. However, many of you have done a good deal of traveling in this country and abroad, probably more than we have, and you might like to compare our impressions and conclusions with your own.

You may have noticed that I am getting my "I" and "we" mixed up. This is because I told my wife some of the things I intended to say and she was shocked and asked me to be sure to say that I was speaking for myself and not for her. I wouldn't be surprised to see an ad in the next issue of the News-

Gazette that will say, "Notice — I am not responsible for any remarks made by my husband to the Washington and Lee Women's Group. Signed, Jane B. Riegel."

I have traveled and lived a number of places, but actually my living experiences aren't very helpful in playing the game, as most of these experiences were not really the result of free choice. I lived in the East because I was born there, in the mid-west because my father worked there, and in New England and Virginia because I worked there. I have lived in France about five years in all, and at least the first two years, in Paris in the 1920's, were the result of free choice. However, as I was a young unmarried male with a beard, you might have some difficulty projecting yourself into my modus vivendi. Lest you start imagining things, let me hasten to say that I lived most of the time in a most respectable music school, the Schola

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the mountains descend to the valley.

*Photographs of Rockbridge
County
by Sally Mann*

Yes, Rockbridge County, where living can be simple and pleasant.

Choice of Abode

Cantorum, surrounded by serious musicians. To illustrate this, one of my most vivid memories is of a musician who lived in the cell next to mine and whom I will call Alfred, because his name was Alfred. There was a very thin wall between us, and one day, I think about 11 in the morning, I became aware that Alfred was vigorously wooing our Italian chambermaid. His efforts were crowned with success (in musical terminology, he scored), whereupon Alfred rose, proceeded to his piano, and played a thunderous rendition of Chopin's Revolutionary Etude. Since then, whenever I hear this composition, my thoughts are seldom on Poland.

A good many years later I lived for a year in the suburbs of Paris with the fruits of maturity, which included a wife and four of our five children, which resulted in a slightly different life-style. This experience was most satisfactory, but our village was not really very exceptional (it was another dormitory of Paris) and there is no special reason to recommend it.

I lived nearly two years in Budapest during and immediately after World War II, but the sacrifices of war can't be considered normal, as I was provided with a luxurious villa, a cook, a maid, a chauffeur with car, a gardener, two Poolie dogs, three Russian soldiers buried in the front yard, and a swimming pool. I lived in Rome for half a year, and from time to time we have spent up to three months in various other places.

In playing the game our criteria have been first, cultural, and, second, climatic. I use the word "culture" in a broad sense to include both a lively intellectual and political environment as well as congenial neighbors who won't mug or shoot you on a normal Saturday night.

People, if I may offer a perception of stunning originality, are much the same everywhere. Unlike Will Rogers, who never met a man he didn't like, I have met men I disliked immediately. There are wonderful people everywhere, but finding them is mostly luck. One example: The French are supposed by many to be quite reserved and reluctant to take you into the family. In the 1920's, when I was on vacation in the Vosges mountains of eastern France, I asked the local English teacher, Mlle. Carriere, who, incidentally, was a pen-pal of Mark Twain, whether she could provide someone with whom I could exchange English and French. She produced a young boy in knee pants whom I will call Jean because that was his name, and we took long walks through the mountains, speaking English on the way out and French on the way back. It has been a warm and intimate friendship with Jean and his family in the family circle ever since. I even know some warm and wonderful Hungarians, although a couple of members of my family find this hard to believe.

Left: Wartime villa in Budapest. No.

Above: Nor this home in south-central France overlooking the Lot River, where Jane B. Riegel enjoys the view.

There are S.O.B.s everywhere too. The important point is that, unless one wants to live in the heart of more or less similar great capital cities, which we do not, there is naturally a great difference between passing through a community as a tourist and living in a community as a permanent resident. People are generally not what they seem when you are in a holiday mood and have to be in Brussels on Thursday. One of the main satisfactions of leaving the home place and visiting New York or San Diego or the Gaspe Peninsula or Paris or Athens is the feeling of being released from the normal compulsions and obligations of routine daily life, including the income tax and emptying the garbage. Part of the reputation of Paris comes from a custom started generations ago by Englishmen who went to Paris for what they called their "moral holiday," when they were freed for a brief vacation from their stuffy proprieties and horse-faced wives, and could booze it up with the little ladies of what was quaintly known as the "demi-monde." An illustrious prototype of this behavior pattern was King Edward VII, Queen Victoria's son, whose feeling of liberation may be reflected admittedly in a much milder degree, in the bosom of the Buena Vista housewife shopping in the bazaars of Florence. The feeling isn't all illusion, but it is an illusion to think that this same sense of freedom will remain if you settle down and become a member of a community, which will soon impose upon you a new set of compulsions and obligations, including the income tax and emptying the garbage. If you are unlucky, you can find yourself in a community in England, Germany, or Italy whose inhabitants are so nosy, straight-laced and bigoted that they will make the people of Fairfield look like jaded Bohemians with theesthetic taste of Sir Kenneth Clark.

Yes, Rockbridge County, where House Mountain is a beckoning sentinel.

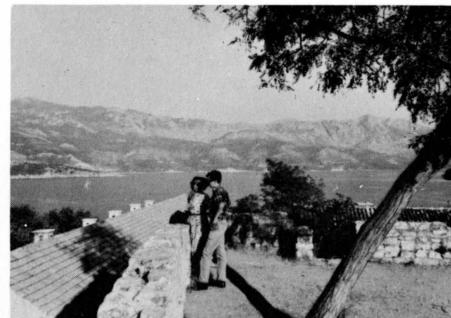

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the snows of winter make it more beautiful.

Choice of Abode

You may have noticed that I have said nothing about language, and this may be more important to some people than it is to us, possibly because we don't communicate as much. All we have is pigeon French, some humming-bird German, and enough English to get a hotel room and order a meal. Actually English is the lingua franca of most developed parts of the world, and people from English-speaking countries can be found almost everywhere. Only once have we been unable to communicate with anyone in any language. That was in Bulgaria, at a hotel at Rasanlak, in the rose country, and I admit that it was a slightly Kafka-esque experience, something like Bergman's film, The Silence, in which the hotel personnel talks in a completely unrecognizable language. But we got a room and were fed by going to the kitchen and pointing to the food we wanted.

In regard to climate, it's a pity that ever since the great ancient civilizations of the Nile and Euphrates valleys, the power centers of culture have been moving northward into worse and worse weather. There have been books written on the responsibility of the lousy English climate for the glories of English literature, and on how endless cold and gloomy winters are responsible for the genius of Scandinavian countries and Russia, not to mention their enormous consumption of alcohol.

Top left: No, not this country home in the Vaucluse Department of south-central France.

Below left: No, not this beauty spot on the Dalmatian coast.

Above: No, not even these digs in the Wissous suburb of Paris.

We soon also made the discouraging discovery that all of the most pleasant coast lines in warm climates have long since become jam-packed with people, which means, among other things, congestion, floods of tourists, and paralyzing prices. The French Riviera is as much of a horror as Florida, and every Eden now has a high-rise Hilton. The beaches of Italy swarm with bambini. Hell, Jean-Paul Sartre once wrote, is other people. We have never been in Southern California, but we have heard plenty about it

(I think too much), and when I try to imagine what Hell might be like, I think it must look something like Los Angeles.

We were once about to make a down-payment on a lot on the Northern Neck of Virginia. Since then, half of the lot has washed into Chesapeake Bay and the remainder is buried in a forest of ranch houses. We also thought of Central America and the Caribbean area, where we spent some time when it was backward, uncongested, colonial, and pleasant. All that has changed now. Even in the old days the area was culturally bleak, and the North American was inclined to spend most of his time on the beach and drinking whiskey, which may be the ideal life for some people, but not for us.

More recently we thought seriously of Yugoslavia, which is culturally interesting, and we have made a number of trips there with a home site in the backs of our minds. As you know, the heavy-rain line in Europe crosses southern France and central Italy and Yugoslavia. North of that line you are apt to encounter one gray day after another and interminable rain, or sleet and snow as you go north. In Yugoslavia this means that the good year-round climate is on the Dalmatian coast. The coast used to be quite wonderful, in spite of its aridity. We went so far as to make inquiries about land purchase and home renting or building. This turned out to be a nightmare of red tape, but in the meantime we were turned off by what has happened to the Dalmatian coast. With the new coastal highway and a continuous line of interchangeable, faceless hotels, it is rapidly joining the Riviera and Florida as a blighted area.

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the Maury has carved a beauty spot in Goshen Pass.

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the farmland is lovely to behold.

We have never seriously considered England, which I have always found pretty stuffy. Aside from the odd language spoken there, the culture is not enough different from our own to be especially interesting. The climate is more than reprehensible; it's a national disaster. I enjoy visiting England, and I note that the BBC has just banned the Shirley Temple films as being too wholesome for English kiddies, which is a step in the right direction. We have a daughter living in provincial England and I think I detect just a slight trace of dissatisfaction both with cultural dullness and the climate. To me, England is the perfect example of the old cliche: It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there.

Well, I think I have given enough examples of how we have played the game. And what is our (excuse me, my) conclusion?

I think an optimum place to live at this time, if French inflation slows down to our pace, is south-of-central France, below Valence ("Valence, where the Midi commence"), and north of the Mediterranean coastal belt. That means the Vaucluse on the east, between the Rhone and the Alps, and Auvergne, Tarn, and

O. W. Riegel, happy, at peace, and at home in Rockbridge County.

Quercy on the west, between the Rhone and the Atlantic. Maybe the fact that I have lived longer in France than most other places has something to do with this judgment, but I don't think it's the determinant factor. The French can be pretty opinionated and stubborn, but they are seldom dull. The climate is a good year-round compromise between the inhuman cold and wet of northern latitudes and the boring sameness of the sub-tropics.

Well, that's it.

Oh, I almost forgot. We chose Rockbridge County.

Our reasons should be obvious from what I have said before. This area seems to us to represent the optimum mean between the cultural wastelands of the advertised paradises of the warm latitudes and the cultural sweat-boxes of capital cities. The area seems to us to be also optimum in climate, having seasons and getting neither too cold nor too hot, at least for long. It really boiled down to a choice between Rockbridge County and getting off the earth, and the latter alternative is unattractive to us at the moment.

So that you won't think that, after all, I have turned out to be only another civic booster, possibly in the pay of the Chamber of Commerce, let me add that I hope nobody else thinks as we do. If I were King, I would set up frontier posts and bar Rockbridge County to all new settlers. Our county is already too congested, too built-up, too polluted by too many automobiles, too gouged-out by too many super-highways. Every day more of our good earth disappears under asphalt. I want to preserve what grace is left — for me, and I guess for you. No one else.

Now let's go dance under the May Pole.

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the scenery is a photographer's feast.

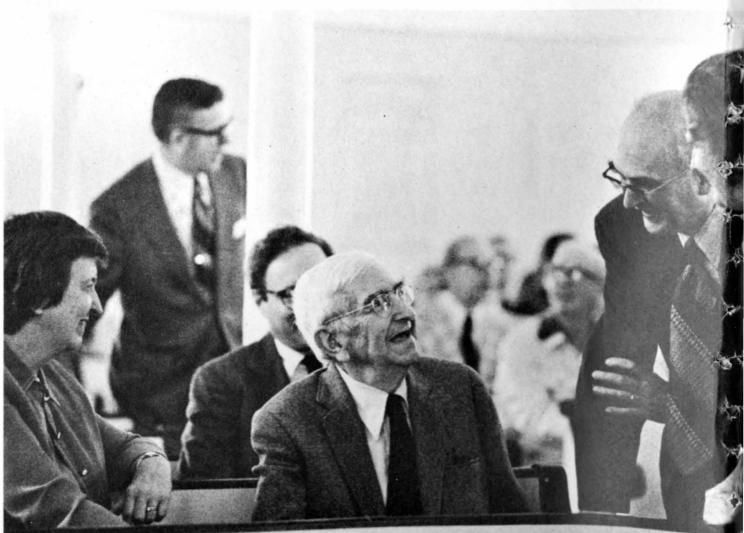

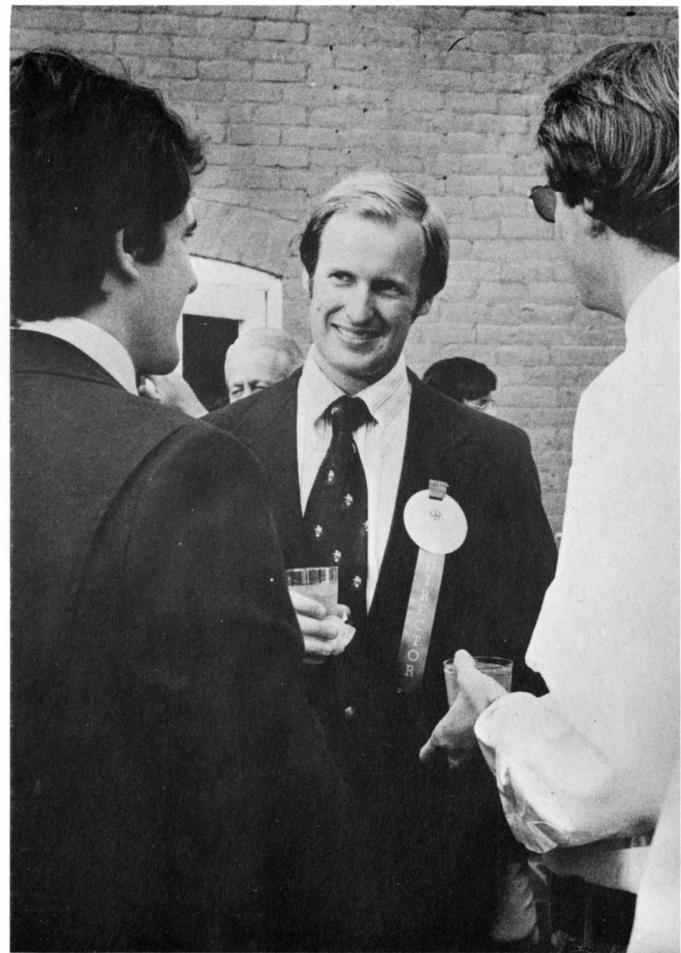

Yes, Rockbridge County, where the old has enduring beauty.

Spring Reunions 1975

Alumni from the Classes of 1925, 1935, 1950, 1960, and 1965 together with the pre-1925 Old Guard returned to campus for Spring Reunions in May and, as these pictures attest, made a splendid time of it. ABOVE: Alumni gather in front of Lee Chapel before the annual Alumni Association meeting. TOP RIGHT: Alumni Secretary Bill Washburn makes his report at the meeting. CENTER RIGHT: Mrs. Emily Pearce knocks out her rollicking version of the W&L Swing on the piano as well as many other requests. BELOW RIGHT: Dean Emeritus Frank J. Gilliam is happily greeted by alumni at the association meeting.

TOP LEFT: Outgoing Alumni Association President Everett Tucker (left) receives a plaque of appreciation for his leadership from the incoming president, Royce C. Hough. CENTER LEFT: Alumni find that the Colonnade still holds the same old charm. BELOW LEFT: Cy Young, former Alumni Secretary and all-time athletic great, gives the word to some of his fellow alumni. ABOVE: Alumni Director Courtney Mauzy Jr. talks with seniors at the Alumni Association's reception for the graduating class the day before the reunions began.

TOP LEFT: Law Day activities coincided with the Reunion Weekend and law alumni held several sessions of their own. Here an alumnus is talking with Law Dean Roy Steinheimer (foreground). Charles L. Black Jr., the Henry R. Luce professor of law at Yale University, delivered the annual John Randolph Tucker Lecture, which will be published in an issue of the Washington and Lee Law Review. TOP RIGHT: The singing Sazeracs also held a reunion of their own and had a gala picnic at Col Alto. CENTER ABOVE: And it was nice, of course, just to sit on the front campus under the trees and enjoy the beauty of spring. BELOW LEFT: An alumnus talks with Bookstore Manager Betty Munger, who had prepared an impressive display of faculty publications on sale at the store.

OLD GUARD: Members of the Old Guard, many standing immediately behind their wives, are (left to right) Gaston Chaves, '15; Mr. and Mrs. L. Battle Bagley, '16; R. N. Latture, '15; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bowers, '23; Madison P. Coe, '15; Mr. and Mrs. William O. Burtner, '21; Noble Hendrix, '21; Mr. and Mrs. A. Emerson Johnson, '24; Benjamin Partlow, '21; Mr. and Mrs. Jackson R. Collins, '17; Ted Shultz, '16; Mr. and Mrs. R. Bleakley James, '22; Mr. and Mrs. Tiley H. Scovell, '19; Mr. and Mrs. Allein Beall, '18; Cy Young, '17; Emmett W. Poindexter, '20; Samuel L. Sanderson, '22; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cummings, '23; John B. Moore, '16 and Joshua Womeldorf, '23.

CLASS OF 1925: Members of the Class of 1925, many standing immediately behind their wives, are (left to right) Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Womeldorf; Mr. and Mrs. James G. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce F. Gannaway; Ed Rietz; Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Heilig; Donald G. Kaylor; Mr. and Mrs. Murrel D. Klein; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Langhorne; Earl T. Andrews; Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Spector; Joe Shuman; Mr. and Mrs. Mackall R. Bruin; Robert A. Fulwiler Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Conrad T. Altfather; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Roy; Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Beaudoin; and Cecil W. Hickam.

CLASS OF 1935: Members of the Class of 1935 are (left to right) Sidney Lyons with sister, Mrs. Sylvia L. Reicher; Mr. and Mrs. Loyal P. Gassman; Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Ravenhorst; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Strong; William P. Diggs; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mehler; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Fitzhugh Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. James M. Franklin; and Mr. and Mrs. George Crisp.

Hough is new alumni president; three directors are elected

C. Royce Hough, '59, of Winston-Salem, N. C., is the new president of the Alumni Board of Directors. He assumed his duties at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association on May 10 in Lee Chapel, succeeding Everett Tucker Jr., '34, of Little Rock, Ark. The Association meeting coincided with Spring Class Reunions.

Hough is senior vice president of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. and is active in civic and professional affairs in Winston-Salem, including the Arts Council and the Civic Ballet. He is a past president of the Piedmont (N.C.) chapter of the Alumni Association, has been a member of the Alumni Board of Directors for three years, and was treasurer of the Association during the past year. He was valedictorian of his graduating class at W&L and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa.

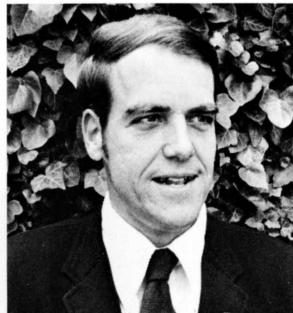

The Board elected other new officers, and the Association named three new members of the Alumni Board of Directors to serve four-year terms and a member of the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics to serve a two-year term.

The new Board members are:

Robert M. White II, '38A, of Mexico, Mo., editor and publisher of the Mexico Ledger and former editor and chief executive officer of the New York Herald Tribune. Washington and Lee awarded him an honorary doctorate in 1972.

Edwin J. Foltz, '40L, of Gladwyne, Pa., vice president of Campbell Soup Co. for corporate relations and president of the Campbell Soup Fund. He is a past chairman of the Robert E. Lee Associates, the organization of Washington and Lee's most generous supporters.

Jerry G. South, '54A, of San Francisco, vice president and secretary of the Bank of America, secretary of Bank-America, the parent company, and trustee and vice president of the Bank of America Foundation. South holds a law degree from Stanford University.

C. Royce Hough

Vernon W. Holleman

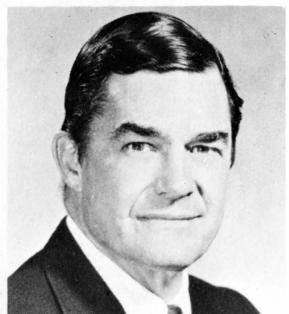

Theodore M. Kerr

Edwin J. Foltz

Jerry G. South

Robert M. White II

The new member of the Athletics Committee is Henry F. Lebrun Jr., '58A, of Brooklandville, Md., owner of the H. Francis Lebrun Co. He succeeded David L. Waters, '52, of Covington, Va.

Other new officers of the Board are Vernon W. Holleman, '58, of Washington, D. C., an agent with the Home Life Insurance Co., vice president, and Theodore M. Kerr, '57, of Midland, Texas, an attorney, treasurer. Holleman succeeded Richard D. Haynes, '58, of Dallas, who completed his four year term on the Board, and Kerr succeeded Hough, who became president. The other retiring members of the Board were Tucker, and Albert D. Darby Jr., '43, of Cumberland, Md.

Hough, in brief remarks, said the Alumni Board is dedicated to improving the relationship between alumni and the University and he looks forward during the coming year to serving the University as alumni president.

"We ask a lot of this University," he said, "and we expect a lot. Certainly, we owe it our support."

Hough also reported that W&L alumni will have the opportunity in July to select by mail ballot an alumni nominee for election to the University Board of Trustees. Three names selected by an alumni nominating committee will be on the ballot to be mailed to all alumni.

This will be the fourth alumni nomination of a Trustee since the procedure was adopted by the Trustees in 1969. Under the plan, an alumni-nominated Trustee is chosen every two years. The three Trustees previously selected in this manner are E. Marshall Nuckols Jr., who is now Rector of the Board, of Newtown, Pa., E. Waller Dudley of Alexandria, Va., Edgar F. Shannon Jr. of Charlottesville, Va.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Hough presented a plaque to Tucker in recognition of his "outstanding leadership and dedicated service as president of Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc."

Chapter news

RICHMOND. A large and enthusiastic group of Washington and Lee alumni and Hollins alumnae, together with their husbands and wives and dates, turned out for a reception and dinner on April 10 at the Country Club of Virginia. The event was cosponsored by the alumni and alumnae chapters of the two schools, with Robert E. Payne, '63, president of the W&L chapter, and Mrs. George (No-rene) Yowell of Hollins, making the principal arrangements. Charles McDowell, '48, Washington correspondent and columnist for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, was the honored guest and speaker. He and his wife, Ann, were warmly received. Spicing his talk with typical McDowell humor, Charley shed light on the Virginia political situation, a subject with which he is uniquely familiar. A cocktail hour preceded the dinner. The table decorations were supplied by the Hollins alumnae and were lovely. Payne and Mrs. Yowell made introductory remarks, and Jack DeJarnette, '65, introduced McDowell. Sam Dudley, '58, past president of the W&L chapter was presented a gavel and an expression of appreciation for his leadership during the past year. The presentation is a highlight of the chapter's annual program.

BALTIMORE. At a recent business meeting of the Baltimore chapter the following officers were elected: James S. Maffitt, IV, '64A, '66L, president; John H. West, '65A, '70L, vice president; John A. Wolf, '69A, '72L, secretary, and James J. Dawson, '68A, '71L, treasurer.

Top Left: Robert E. Payne of W&L and Mrs. George Yowell of Hollins were the principal hosts at W&L-Hollins gathering in Richmond.

Below Left: Judge A. Christian Compton, '50, Richard W. Boisseau, '40, and Judge D. Carleton Mayes, '47, enjoy light moments together at Richmond gathering.

Above: Charles R. McDowell (left), the principal speaker, talks with Donald M. Ferguson, '51.

Class notes

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE CHAIR With Crest in Five Colors

The chair is made of birch and rock maple, hand-rubbed in black with gold trim and arms finished in cherry. It makes a welcome gift for Christmas, birthdays, anniversaries, or weddings. All profit from sales of the chair goes to the scholarship fund in memory of John Graham, '14.

Price: $66.00 f.o.b.
Lexington, Virginia

Mail your order to
WASHINGTON AND LEE
ALUMNI, INC.
Lexington, Virginia 24450

Immediate shipment from available stock.

1926

HARRIS C. MOORE SR. has retired from teaching at El Camino College in Los Angeles, where he is a professor emeritus. He had spent 45 years teaching in high school and college.

HENRY M. WILSON has retired from Bell Telephone Co. after 45 years of service. He lives in Owensboro, Ky.

1927

G. T. Davis lives in Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., and travels extensively. Among the many places he visited during the past year were Hawaii, Fiji, and French Polynesia. He continues to go bird shooting in Mexico and to spend a week or so of fishing in Alaska. Davis retired 19 years ago.

1928

REGINALD E. KEPLER has retired from General Telephone & Electronics Co. after 38 years of service.

1930

WILLIAM T. STUCHELL JR. retired in June 1973 as assistant general counsel for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. after 24 years of service. The Stuchells live in Darien, Conn.

1933

T. DEALE BLANCHARD is treasurer of Robbie's Home Centers, Inc., in Norfolk and Portsmouth. He is also a director of the Bank of Virginia-Tidewater.

1936

Last year HUGH J. BONINO became president and general manager of Crown-Metro, Inc., a division of the U.S.M. Corp., in charge of their Greenville, S.C., operation. The firm manufactures and sells textile colors and chemicals and also paper and metal stripping chemicals.

JOSEPH J. HARDING JR. of Richmond is building a shopping center in Lexington, Va., on Route 11 north, adjacent to the Holiday Inn.

1937

WILLIAM A. CONNOR is a director of the Bank of Daingerfield, Tex. He also is a commercial cattle breeder and operates approximately 1,000 acres of pine tree farms.

1938

SAMUEL P. MCCHESEY has been elected president of the Montserrat National Trust. This is the conservation organization on the island of Montserrat, W. I.

1940

REID (STEVE) BRODIE JR. is assistant administrator of Seminole Memorial Hospital in Sanford, Fla. He is a past president of the Sanford Rotary Club and the Florida Hospital Personnel Directors Association.

1941

AFTER 28 years, THOMAS S. BRIZENDINE has retired from the wholesale grocery business.

C. B. CURTIS JR. is a retired Navy captain. He was representative for Litton Industries in Washington, D.C.

JAMES R. McCONNELL, former vice president and division manager of Carborundum Co. in Niagra Falls, N. Y., is now senior vice president of Reed Tool Co. in Houston, manufacturers of equipment for mining and oil exploration. The McConnells have three children.

1945

CHARLES ROWE, editor and copublisher of the Fredericksburg (Va.) Free Lance-Star, represented the American Society of Newspaper Editors as a judge at the "Pictures of the Year" awards competition. The event was co-sponsored by the University of Missouri School of Journalism and the National Press Photographers Association.

1946

NORMAN FISCHER owns Norman Fischer & Associates, Inc., in Austin, a broadcast brokerage appraisal firm. He also does management consultant work with broadcasting facilities.

1949

EDWARD P. BERLIN JR., editor of The News-Virginian in Waynesboro, has been an award winner for seven consecutive years in the Virginia Press Association's editorial-writing competition.

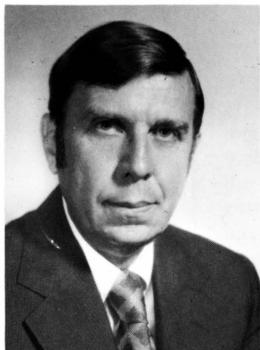

JACK B. COULTER, a practicing lawyer in Roanoke, has been appointed judge of the Twenty-third Judicial Circuit.

BEN E. GRIMM is director of the Free Public Library in Jersey City, N. J.

THOMAS S. HOOK has been acting chief of the Public Information Center at the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington, D.C., since March 1974.

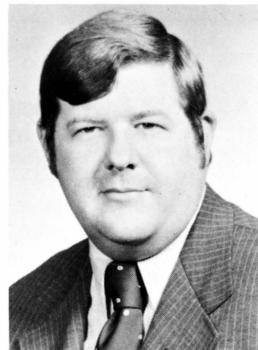

M. C. Bowling Jr., '51

R. L. Banse, '53

J. M. Moreland Jr., '56

P. H. Weeks Jr., '58

1950

RICHARD R. FRENCH is a farmer and a tobacco warehouseman in Winchester, Ky. He also is a breeder of retrievers (field trial).

1951

E. P. BASSETT is associate vice chancellor for academic affairs at Kansas University. He is also a former dean of the William Allen White School of Journalism.

MARVIN C. BOWLING JR. has been elected senior vice president and general counsel of Lawyers Title Insurance Corp. with offices in Richmond.

HUNTER LANE JR., a practicing attorney, is serving his fourth year on the City Board of Education in Memphis. He was also named Kiwanian of the Year.

1952

JOHN AUSTIN HUNT is associate provost for special programs at the University of Massachusetts. He also teaches Shakespeare.

HUGH C. NEWTON, owner of a public relations firm in Washington, D. C., was public relations counsel for the International Franchise Association. The IFA recently received the Management Achievement Award of the American Society of Association Executives for its work on a uniform code of state franchise disclosure laws. Newton's other clients include the National Right to Work Committee, National Small Business Association, and the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation.

1953

ROBERT L. BANSE has been elected general counsel and an officer of Merck & Co., Inc. Banse, who was formerly senior counsel, is responsible for all the legal and trademark affairs of the company throughout the world. Before joining Merck's legal staff in 1955, Banse was associated with Townsend and Lewis, a New York City law firm. He was an attorney for Merck Sharp & Dohme International Division in New York before he was appointed counsel to Merck Sharp & Dohme, the company's domestic pharmaceutical division in West Point, Pa. in 1960. He is a member of the Bar of the city of New York, the Virginia State Bar, and the American Bar Association. He is also a member of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association's Law Section. He and his wife have three children.

1954

SURSE T. PIERPOINT is assistant manager of Colon Import & Export Co. in Colon Free Zone, Panama. They are a warehousing firm, specializing in Caribbean, Central, and South America distribution. He and his wife have two children.

1955

EDWARD COHEN, a practicing attorney in Plymouth Meeting, Pa., is also engaged in operating a manufacturers representative corporation in industrial packaging.

In March at Rutgers University, JAMES COMBS conducted a special session on football defense at the Coaches Athletic Conference sponsored by the New Jersey Interscholastic Coaches Association.

WILLIAM H. BARTSCH lives in Suva, Fiji, where he is working as the ILO Manpower Advisor to the government of Fiji. Also he is doing research and writing on the history of World War II in the Pacific and hopes to publish a book on the subject in 1977.

DR. ROBERT D. WHITAKER is coauthor of a textbook, An Introduction to Chemical Principles, published by MacMillan Publishing Co.

1956

DR. CHARLES E. DOBBS is practicing hematology-oncology in Louisville, Ky. He and his wife have three children.

J. MARVIN MORELAND JR. is president of Greer Moreland Fosdick, Inc., specialists in municipal finance in Houston. Predecessors of the investment banking firm were Dillingham and McClung since 1923 and McClung & Knickerbocker, Inc. since 1937.

1957

RICHARD C. GOWER, president of White Fuel Co., Providence, R. I., is now also president of Maine Salmon Farms, an agriculture venture raising pan-size salmon in the Sheepscott River in Wiscasset, Me. The company uses a pen culture system for rearing salmon, which are marketed to restaurants in the northeast.

FRANK M. GUENTHER is directing life and employee benefits for Fred S. James and Co. of Texas. He and his wife and three children live in Dallas.

1958

JOHN GROOBERRY is a partner with McKinsey and Co., Inc., an international management consulting firm based in Los Angeles.

PHILIP H. WEEKS JR., CLU, is manager of the Baltimore brokerage office of Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. Recently his agency was selected to receive the Outstanding Agency Award for 1974. Connecticut General's highest annual field honor in individual insurance operations, the award recognizes superior performance in all phases of agency operation. Weeks joined Connecticut General in 1964 as a brokerage consultant at Philadelphia. He has been serving in his present position since 1970. He and his wife Helen have two daughters.

Effective March 15, J. W. VAN CLEAVE became director of advertising, Proctor & Gamble, Ltd., in Tyne, England.

1959

DAVID C. POTEET, an assistant professor of history and coordinator of the Department of History at Averett College in Danville, Va., has been named an Outstanding Educator of America for 1975. His biographical sketch will appear in the annual awards volume.

THOMAS D. FRITH JR. has been appointed town attorney for Blacksburg, Va.

RICHARD A. POWELL is in his sixth year as high school reading teacher at Roger B. Chaffee High School, United States Naval Air Station in Bermuda.

1961

COMDR. HAYES I. GORDON will soon be transferred to the command of the Naval Security Group Activity in Elmendorf, Alaska. He and his wife, Maureen, have two sons, and the family currently lives in Cheverly, Md.

In addition to his practice in pediatrics, DR. CHARLES WASSUM, is branch president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Johnson City, Tenn. He is also active in the John Birch Society.

ROBERT G. RAPPEL is presently director of advertising and sales promotion for the California Casualty Insurance Group in San Mateo, Calif.

NORBERT W. IRVINE has been elected council member at large of the North Carolina Art

Class Notes

Education Association. He has had one-man exhibitions at the Regional Gallery of Art at Boone, N. C.; the McDonald Art Gallery at Charlotte, N. C. and at Hilton Head, S. C.; at Bucknell University; and at the Garpen Gallery in Raleigh, N. C.

1963

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. J. HOLMES MORRISON, a son, John Holmes Jr. on March 3, 1975. The family lives in Charleston, W.Va., where Morrison is with the Kanawha Valley Bank.

ROBERT A. YOUNG III of Ft. Smith, Ark., was recently named "Outstanding Young Man of 1974" by the Arkansas Jaycees. Young is president of the Arkansas Best Freight Corp.

DAVID C. SWANN was recently promoted to senior vice president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and transferred to Morgantown, N.C. He and his wife have one son.

1964

BIRTH: Mr. and Mrs. JEROME TURNER, a daughter, Christian Annette, on April 15, 1975. Jerry is a practicing attorney in Memphis, Tenn.

1965

JOEL F. BENNETT is a legislative counsel to the Alaska State Legislature. He is also a professional photographer specializing in wildlife.

PETER J. STELLING is development director of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra. The plans for 1975-76 include 80 subscription concerts, 80 childrens' concerts, three weeks of touring and three separate six-week series of open-air summer "pop" concerts.

MEADE CADOT has completed both his master's degree and Ph.D. in geology at the University of Kansas. Currently he is in Hancock, N. H., where he is a naturalist for The Audubon Society and a faculty member in the Master of Environmental Education Program at Antioch College's Graduate Center of New England.

CONSIDER W. ROSS will become deputy manager of the London Branch of the Northern Trust Co., effective July 1. He and his wife have three children, and the family will join Ross in England.

S. REED PAYNTER, formerly of Akron, Ohio, is now in Wilmington, Del., where he is assistant products manager for Du Pont's Textile Fibers Department. He manages the product Nomex Aramid, a line of speciality high-temperature resistant products. He and his wife, Joan, have two sons.

1966

MARRIED: JAMES N. CARGILL JR. to Gloria Lynn Norton on Aug. 17, 1974. Cargill received his master's degree in social administration from the University of Maryland and is now employed as liaison between the Baltimore City Department of Social Services and the Maryland General Assembly.

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. CLYDE H. FOSHEE JR., a son, Franklin Baker, on Feb. 5, 1975. Foshee is assistant counsel to First Kentucky National Corp., a bank holding company whose principal subsidiary is the First National Bank of Louisville.

HARRY DENNERY was recently promoted to director of marketing for Charles Dennery Co. in New Orleans. His wife, Linda, is vice president and director of personnel of the Times Picayune Publishing Corp.

After six years of law practice in Baltimore, RANDY H. LEE has accepted an appointment to the faculty of the University of North Dakota School of Law, where he will teach business associations and antitrust law. For the past three and a half years, he has been general counsel to the Maryland Port Authority.

THOMAS R. KELSEY is a practicing attorney in Houston. He and his wife, Ann, have two children.

J. MICHEL MARCOUX is an associate attorney with the Washington, D. C., firm of Wald, Harkrader & Ross, which specializes in general and administrative practice before federal courts, departments, and agencies.

DR. JAMES REDENBAUGH is completing two years of a three year residency program in neurology at the University of Virginia Hospital.

JEROME TURNER (See 1964).

1967

ROBERT J. IMHOLT is currently an assistant professor in the history department of Albertus Magnus College in New Haven, Conn. He is married to the former Kathleen Sheehan of Morristown, N. J.

DR. HAROLD W. NASE, after graduation from Virginia Medical School, did internship at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas. He is currently a lieutenant commander stationed at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Naples, Italy. He expects to begin residency in general surgery at Portsmouth Naval Hospital in August 1975.

JEFFREY B. GAYNER is working in Washington, D. C. as director of the Foreign Policy Studies Center of the Heritage Foundation. He traveled to Chile last year and is co-author of a foundation study, "Allende and the Failure of Marxism in Chile."

NELSON J. ADAMS has recently joined friends in creating a film production company called Ames Productions. They produce educational and promotional films for television specials and films for use in fund raising.

FREDERIC E. BISHOP, former realtor in Roanoke, is now practicing architecture in Athens, Ohio. He expects to take the board examination for architectural registration in June 1975.

1968

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. ROBERT A. CASHILL, a second son, Joshua Lund, on April 22, 1975. Cashill is currently major projects specialist, Northeastern Marketing Region, for Exxon Co. The family lives in New Rochelle, N.Y.

PHILIP G. COTTELL JR. is with the U.S. Army and is currently assigned to the University of Kentucky, where he is pursuing a master's degree in accounting.

JAMES LEE SLATTERY, former associate general counsel for Itek Corp., joined Lukens Steel Co. as counsel effective Oct. 1, 1974.

1969

DR. THOMAS K. SLABAUGH will begin a urology residency at Emory University Hospital in Atlanta in July.

DR. J. GILLUM BURKE is in general surgery residency at North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. In July he will begin an orthopedic surgical residency.

DR. THOMAS NEWMAN, after graduation from Vanderbilt Medical School, is currently in a three-year residency in neurology at the University of Miami.

PHILIP W. NORWOOD is currently with a law firm in Birmingham, Ala., and is preparing to take the Alabama bar examination.

ROBERT E. HARRISON, who received the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service, retired from active duty November 1974. He

A CORRECTION

It was incorrectly reported in the March issue of this magazine that documents given to McCormick Library by Stephen A. Sharp, '69, were compiled during the course of the Senate Watergate hearings. The documents should have been identified as being from Sharp's service as Associate Minority Special Counsel to the House Judiciary Committee Impeachment Inquiry. The editors regret the error and are happy to correct it. Sharp's gift of the documents makes the material available to researchers at W&L long before the originals in the National Archives will be opened to general use. Meanwhile, Sharp has returned to the Office of the General Counsel, Federal Communications Commission. There he handles appellate litigation and advises the General Counsel on matters concerning the Fairness Doctrine and political broadcasting. He and his wife became the parents on Feb. 8, 1975, of a daughter, Sarah Cawley. The family lives in Alexandria.

is now in the private practice of law in Scottsville, Ky. He also teaches business law at the University of Kentucky.

LT. RICHARD M. THOMAS is with the Navy JAG Corps stationed at the Naval Legal Service Office in San Diego, Calif.

RANDY H. LEE (See 1966).

1970

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. WILLIAM L. S. ROWE, a son, William L. S. Jr. on Sept. 27, 1974. Rowe is practicing law in Richmond, Va.

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. B. WAUGH CRIGLER, a daughter, Catherine Kendall, on Nov. 29, 1974. Crigler is a practicing attorney in Culpeper, Va.

STUART C. FAUBER is in the management training program at First & Merchants National Bank in Lynchburg, Va.

After completing two years in the Navy JAG Corps, JACK KIRBY, has joined the faculty of the American College of Life Underwriters in Bryn Mawr, Pa.

DONALD C. SMITH has received his M.S. in biology from the University of Richmond. He currently is an aquatic biologist with Ichthyological Associates, Inc., an environmental consulting firm. He and his wife have two sons.

1971

MARRIED: KENNETH P. CARTER to Nancy Elaine O'Neil on Jan. 22, 1975. Carter is associated with the New Orleans law firm of Monroe & Lemann.

MARRIED: FRANK W. STEARNS to Judith Anne Ketcheson on Sept. 7, 1974 in Seattle, Wash., after his graduation from the National Law Center of George Washington University in Washington, D.C. He is currently serving as law clerk for the Hon. John R. Hess, Judge, Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

MARRIED: HOLLIS C. TAGGART to Marian Boswell on Sept. 3, 1974. Taggart has graduated from the Tulane Law School, where he was elected to the Order of the Coif. The couple lives in New Orleans.

MARRIED: JOHN O. ELLIS JR. to Frances Blum in February. Ellis received his law degree from Emory University in June 1974 and was admitted to the Georgia Bar. In September, he entered the U.S. Army and was recently assigned to duty in Korea.

May 1975

1972

JOHN M. LANDIS is a member of the board of editors of the Tulane Law Review.

JEFF BURRIS is working with the Indiana Attorney General. At the same time, he is attending law school at night at Indiana University in Indianapolis.

WILLIAM K. MILLKEY is in his last year at

Notes on the Preparation of a Will Writing a Will seems to be one of the easiest jobs to postpone that the average person faces. There always seems to be reasons to delay the confrontation with the unknown future that the preparation of a Will involves.

But it is precisely because one can influence the future, make it less fearful for those one loves and assure the continuance of projects in which one believes that Will preparation and review should be undertaken systematically and frequently.

A recent bequest to Washington and Lee illustrates the problems that delay in the proper drafting and execution of a Will can cause.

Shortly after the death of an alumnus, his Executor produced and probated a Will containing, among other bequests, a gift of $1,000 to Washington and Lee. Some months later, in the process of cleaning out the testator's house, the residuary legatees found between the cushions of a sofa two handwritten sheets, each of which purported to be a Will and in which Washington and Lee was bequeathed a total of $50,000.

Needless to say the process of determining what the decedent really wanted,

Columbia University Graduate School of Architecture.

CHARLES L. WHITE is assistant trust officer in personal trust administration at the Society National Bank of Cleveland. He is married to the former Sue Armington and the couple lives in Shaker Heights, Ohio.

1973

LT. CLYDE M. HENKEL is currently legal assistance officer for the Ninth Coast Guard District stationed in Euclid, Ohio.

LT. RONALD T. GOLD is government counsel at the Marine Corps Supply Center in Albany, Ga. His duties include prosecuting in courts-martial, rendering legal aid to military personnel and providing legal advice to the center's command.

in a manner that would be just to the considerable number of interested parties was long, complex and relatively expensive, but Washington and Lee ultimately received a check for slightly more than $25,000 from the estate. These funds, unrestricted as to use and therefore particularly valuable to the University, came only after prolonged negotiations resulted in the settlement of what threatened to be costly and lengthy litigation.

Our alumnus changed his mind after his original Will had been drafted. He became more certain of the value of Washington and Lee's academic program and wanted to be of greater support to them. His wishes were almost frustrated, however, by failure to state his Will clearly and accurately.

Opportunities to influence the future are too rare and valuable to waste. No finer opportunity exists than the chance to support the education of generations to come through a bequest to Washington and Lee.

For further information write or call:
Office of University Development
Washington and Lee University
Lexington, Virginia 24450
(703) 463-9111 Ext. 285

In Memoriam

CAPT. JAMES W. BROWN is with the JAG Corps of the U. S. Army at Fort McCoy, Wis. He and his wife, Peggy, have one daughter.

G. W. (BILL) MACLEOD worked for the lieutenant governor of Virginia during the last General Assembly session. He is now working for the Republican National Committee.

DOUGLAS R. CLELAN is working as a special agent for Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. He received the company's Challenger Award for production and was fifth among all first year agents in production. Clelan is serving as cococh of the Messiah College baseball team. He and his wife, Nancy, live in Camp Hill, Pa.

JOHN STANLEY TAYLOR is investment officer for the First City National Bank of Houston. He is also attending night school at the University of Houston pursuing a master's degree in accounting.

WALTER P. MASSIE JR. is employed with the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Forest Park, Ga., as part of a review team for storage facilities and programs dealing with mobile homes used for housing disaster victims.

PHILIP J. WASILANSKY is assistant district attorney, Commercial Frauds Bureau, Nassau County in Mineola, L. I.

1974

T. LEE BROWN JR. is with the Richmond Law firm of Parker, Fenderson and Pollard.

L. SCOTT McCOMMONS is employed by Data Communications Corp. of Memphis, which sells computerized services to the broadcasting industry.

HERB RUBENSTEIN is studying sociology and politics at the University of Bristol in England on a Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

J. P. McMENAMIN is a first year student at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

ALAN W. LEME is with Electronic Data Systems, Inc. in Dallas as a computer operator. Currently he is training in Columbus, Ohio, where EDS is data processing for the Medicare program in Ohio and West Virginia.

RICHARD M. LOBSITZ is working for Nixdorf Computer as an associate programmer.

1975

BIRTH: MR. and MRS. DUKE WILLIAM STEVENS, a son, Duke W. Jr., on March 26, 1975. The family lives in College Station, Tex.

In Memoriam

1912

DR. GORDON L. GROOVER JR. of Chevy Chase, Md., a physician and a retired member of the U.S. Board of Veterans Appeals, died May 1, 1975. While at W&L, Dr. Groover won his monogram in track and received two medals in 1912 for his records. He was in the Army Medical Corps during World War I. He resumed his medical practice in Savannah, Ga., and joined the Veterans Administration as a physician in 1931, holding posts in both Roanoke and Richmond. Dr. Groover was assigned to the Board of Veterans Appeals in 1947; he retired in 1959. Since that time Dr. Groover and his wife have traveled extensively in Europe, the Far East and North America. In addition to numerous professional organizations, Dr. Groover was a member of the National Wild Life Federation, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, and the National Association of Retired Federal Employees.

1916

C. EDMUND WORTH of Tampa, Fla., died March 14, 1975. He was a practicing attorney in Tampa from 1917 to 1946. From 1946 to 1962, he was a well known realtor specializing in motels. He served as Municipal Judge for the city of Tampa from 1921 to 1925 and in the Florida Legislature in 1933. He was past president and lieutenant governor of the Tampa Kiwanis Club and past president of the Tampa Association of Realtors.

1919

W. ROY CAMPBELL, a retired realtor formerly associated with Hans Watts Realty of Huntington, W.Va., and a former realtor specialist with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, died March 15, 1975 in Huntington. He was a member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church. Campbell was also a member and a past master of the Huntington Chapter No. 6, Royal Arch Mason.

1920

WILLIAM FRANKLIN PARKER, an attorney in Miami, Fla., died April 6, 1975. He was also a proctor in admiralty. He had been in continuous practice in Miami since 1920.

1924

HARRY MATTHEW FAULI, a former executive with U. S. Steel Corp. and a resident of Birmingham and Bessemer, Ala., died March 15, 1975.

1926

ALBERT LAWRENCE HURST died Feb. 15, 1975, in Lookout Mountain, Tenn. Before his retirement, Hurst was an area supervisor for the Tennessee Department of Employment Security.

1932

JOHN CLINTON VARNER JR., a native of Lexington, Va., and a former furniture dealer and funeral director, died May 6, 1975.

1937

C. RUSSELL DOANE, who operated an economic advisory service, the American Institute for Economic Research, died March 15, 1975 in New Marlborough, Mass.

1942

JOHN K. MALLORY JR., a Washington, D.C. antitrust attorney, died April 10, 1975, while in Paris, France. He was attending a meeting there of the International Energy Agency.

1952

DR. WILBUR C. PICKETT JR., a native of Washington, D.C., a neurologist and race driver, died Oct. 6, 1974, in an airplane accident in Florida. He was living at the time in Daytona Beach, Fla. Pickett moved to Daytona Beach in 1963, when he began private practice in internal medicine and neurology. He did his medical internship at Duke Hospital and in 1957-58 was junior assistant resident at Duke. He served as senior assistant resident; chief resident in medicine and instructor; and advanced fellow in neurology, all at the University of Florida. Dr. Pickett joined the Department of Neurology at the Naval Hospital in Philadelphia in 1961 and in 1963 was made chief of the department. Dr. Pickett was also known as a serious sports car racer. His best finish in the Daytona Beach Paul Revere 250 was a fifth place in 1973. In 1970, he was honored with the Dr. Val D. Scroggie Award presented to physicians making the greatest contributions to furthering stricter medical standards for race drivers and improving track safety.

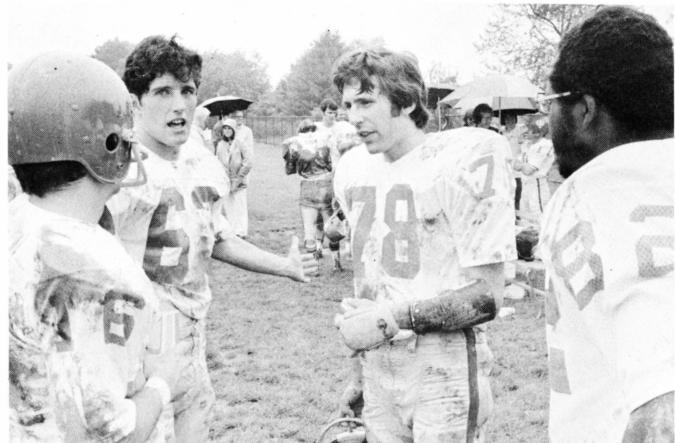

Another fine lacrosse season

Washington and Lee's victory over Johns Hopkins came in a hard-fought game as this faceoff struggle shows.

W&L's lacrosse team finished the season in a blaze of glory. The climax came at Homewood Field in Baltimore, where the Generals accomplished the upset of the year, defeating Johns Hopkins, the defending national champions, 11-7, in the quarterfinals of the NCAA championship tournament. Then came a disappointment. The Generals lost the semifinals game to the University of Maryland, 5-15, at College Park. W&L reached the tournament by winning its final three games, including a smashing 9-5 upset victory over the University of Virginia at Lexington. Before that, the Generals had defeated in succession Roanoke and Rutgers. In sum, Coach Jack Emmer's young team overcame early season injuries and inexperience to post an overall 10-6 record in regular season play. A full report on W&L's rewarding lacrosse season will appear in the next issue.

Varsity 18 Alumni 6

Alumni players Tim Haley (arm extended), Dean Kumpuris, and Bob Ford discuss strategy on the sidelines.

John Wolf, '69A, '72L, a talented linebacker of yore and now a lawyer in Baltimore, assembled his alumni "Wolfmen" football team again this year for an assault on the W&L varsity. At the end of a rainy morning of play, the "Wolfmen" had lost, 18-6. The alumni's lone score was a Jack Baizley, '70, pass to Chappy Conrad, '73. Quarterback Jack Berry led the varsity scoring attack with two touchdown passes. The alumni found solace in a cocktail party and steak dinner that evening. Among the returning alumni were Jim Allen, '71, Bobby Brand, '74, David Brooks, '72, Logan Bullitt, '67, Doug Chase, '74, Jay Clarke, '69, Mark Diverio, '75, Don Eavenson, '73, Jimmy Farrar, '74, Randy Flink, '75, Bob Ford, '75, Tim Haley, '73, Skip Jacobsen, '68, John Kleindinst, '71, Ed Kowal, '74, Dean Kumpuris, '70, Ken Long, '69, Steve Mahaffey, '70, Jon Markley, '75, JoJo Martin, '72, Al McWhorter, '72, Jay Meriweather, '70, Mike Neer, '72, Bill Skinner, '65, Andy Smith, '71, Frank Stearns, '71, John Thomas, '70, Phil Thompson, '67, Thunder Thornton, '70, David Turk, '74, Steve Van Amburgh, '75, Bill Wallace, '74, Marshall Washburn, '73, Mercer West, '75, Hank Wilson, '69.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY

Lexington, Virginia 24450

Available Again

WASHINGTON AND LEE
COMMEMORATIVE PLATES

(Wedgwood)

Sold only in sets of four different scenes

Price $45.00 for set of four including shipping charges

Available in blue color only

The four scenes are:

LEE CHAPEL
WASHINGTON COLLEGE, 1857
LEE-JACKSON HOUSE
WASHINGTON COLLEGE (contemporary)

Send order and check to
WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.
Lexington, Virginia 24450