OUR COVER:

It Could Only Happen Here

To you the three gentlemen on the cover are, in the usual order, Abe, Bill, and Pat. To Virginians they are Attorney General Abram P. Staples, LL.B., '08; Governor William M. Tuck, LL.B., '21; and Lieutenant Governor L. Preston Collins, B.A., '20.

It was a memorable inaugural day in Richmond on January 16 for Washington and Lee, for perhaps never before have the state's three highest elective officers been graduates of one college.

Bob Dementi, B.S., '40, made the photograph a few minutes before the ceremonies. Supreme Court Justice Herbert B. Gregory, LL.B., '11, administered the oath of office to Abe.

A Report to the Alumni

GIFTS

The fall months enriched the University with some notable bequests and contributions. Our distinguished alumnus, Mr. William R. Perkins of Lynchburg and New York, left us by will $150,000 to be added to the general endowment. Mrs. Martha S. Menkemeller of Wheeling, mother of Charles A. Menkemeller, who graduated here in 1915 and died in 1918, left the bulk of her estate to Washington and Lee, the income to be used for law scholarships. We have not yet received this fund, but preliminary estimates indicate that it will approximate $200,000. At the year's end, we received various gifts totalling about $30,000, including one gift of $25,000 from a corporation headed by a devoted alumnus.

We are constantly and gratefully mindful of the magnificent achievement of the 1945 class-agent program; 1821 contributors gave us more than $23,000.

THE STATUS

As we open the second semester of the current year, our prospects are brighter than we expected them to be. We should have about half a student body; and if anything like a green light flashes across the path of aspiration for the 18-year old boys, we should have a full student body by September. Most of the faculty who have been on leave have already returned; all of them, save three or four who have resigned, should be on duty by the fall.

The School for Personnel Services, which had rented many of our buildings, closed its work on January 5. We had no relation to this cause other than that of landlord, but we followed with interest the career of this important venture. More than 25,000 officers and enlisted men were trained by this agency.

Our veterans are coming back in gratifying numbers, and these veterans so far are doing superb academic work. We are admitting students three time a year, in September, in February, and in June; but we encourage the veterans to come at any time and to become auditors, without cost, of any strategic courses which they may have had before they went away, and thus "refresh themselves." Like most of the colleges, we are having trouble finding living quarters for the married veterans, and probably half of these boys are married. The Federal Housing Administration under the Lanham act (one of our patrons, by the way) has allocated to us twenty of these houses as a first installment. We hope to get 100.

Since I am writing to alumni, may I offer a word of assurance—and it is valid for the next session of this report. We have in America a condition without precedent, and all of us are grateful for it; by virtue of the "G.I. Bill of Rights," a million boys and girls, roughly speaking, find themselves with enough money to attend virtually any school in the country which will admit them. We are getting rafts of applications or at least of preliminary requests; but we are admitting only those students who in our judgment can be served effectively by us and can live happily and influentially under the traditions and conventions which we all cherish.

ATHLETICS

All activities, including athletics, are slowly getting under way again. For example, we have this year an intercollegiate basketball schedule. The team, which Mr. Young is coaching voluntarily and without compensation, includes three boys who are sons of our teachers; it has not won all of its games, but we think we can safely challenge any team in the country that contains a corresponding number of "faculty children."

Those of us on the campus were astonished by the number of alumni who responded to the recent poll concerning our policy as to intercollegiate football. We received approximately 3000 replies; or, in other words, just about one third of all living alumni took the trouble to give us the benefit of their judgment. Of those replies, about three per cent voted to abolish intercollegiate football; slightly more than 20 per cent voted to enter a small league that would admit colleges on a purely amateur basis; and about 70 per cent voted to maintain competition with our "traditional rivals" and to extend aid to those students who demonstrate good athletic ability and stand in need of such aid.

Guided largely by the opinion thus registered, we shall resume football under the general provision of this plan. Mr. Arthur Lewis, who was on our staff before the war, has been engaged as coach, and Mr. Carl Wise, a King College graduate who was formerly on the staff of the University of Pennsylvania, is assistant coach of football and head coach of basketball. To the department of physical education we have added Mr. Ted Hesmer, formerly of the V.M.I. staff and more recently with the Louisville Male High School, who will also coach wrestling and track.

In connection with the football program, I may be permitted to give to the alumni these confirmations of previous promises: 1. We shall not sacrifice a well rounded course in general physical education for any athletic sport; 2. We shall not modify our entrance or general academic standards in behalf of any boy, regardless of his athletic excellence; 3. We shall not pay any student a salary to attend Washington and Lee.

THE BICENTENNIAL

Foremost in my own thinking, and perhaps in the thinking of many who love your Alma Mater, is planning for the Bicentennial of 1949. There are not many schools in the United States, after all, that celebrate two hundred years of service. The occasion is both an opportunity and an obligation of unique significance.

We are thinking of three phases. There will be, of course, the program of observance for that memorable year. We want to have "truly big doings" in our own right. We hope to invite several national learned societies to meet during that year on our campus.

We expect, too, to bring the records up to date. We hope to have a new and accurate alumni register, and we shall have by that time a history of the University. Our Dr. Ollinger Crenshaw has been given leave of absence to write this study. He will have the assisting counsel of four alumni

Army School Leaves Campus

By Public Relations Office, School for Personnel Services

AFTER more than three years of outstanding training achievements on the campus of Washington and Lee University, the School for Personnel Services closed on 31 January 1946. The final classes were completed on 5 January with graduation exercises held in Lee Chapel.

Few Army service schools have performed a greater service or maintained higher standards than the one which was established at Washington and Lee on 1 December 1942. And it is the belief of officials of the School for Personnel Services that few civilian institutions have cooperated more successfully with the war effort through the provision of instructional facilities than has Washington and Lee University. Significant in any examination of either the Army school or the civilian University is the magnificent relationship which existed between the Army personnel and the faculty of Washington and Lee—a relationship which contributed in large measure to the success of the military training program.

Prior to its arrival on Washington and Lee campus, the School had been located at Fort George C. Meade. Because of the inadequacy of facilities for further expansion, arrangements were made to move the School to Washington and Lee. As the weeks passed in the new location, an ever-expanding program of training came into existence, with an increasing use of the exceptionally fine facilities of the University and the town of Lexington, Virginia.

At the beginning of the School's occupation of the University's buildings, Colonel Leon T. David was Commandant. On 17 March 1943, Colonel William H. Quarterman assumed command and guided the School to the present time of its closing.

Following the de-activation of the School and the cessation of training at Washington and Lee, some divisions will move to permanent Army posts where they can resume the instruction which proved to be so well worth-while and so necessary for the soldier, whether stationed overseas or at home.

In order to determine what it was in the course of instruction that made the School for Personnel Services so important to the war effort, it is necessary to examine briefly the mission and scope of the different instructional divisions. It becomes apparent at once that much favorable similarity can be found between the Army School and civilian institutions of higher learning. This is a comparison which few, if any, other Army School could make, because of the nature of their subjects.

Special Services Course

Mission: To provide training for duty in the field of Special Services for officers of the Army, Marines and Navy and enlisted personnel of the Army and Marines.

Scope: Instruction in organization for Special Service work, administration of an Athletic-Recreation program, which included instruction in Sports and Games, Soldier Music, Soldier Shows, Handicrafts, Funds, Property, Facilities, Information and Education, and Army Exchange Service. For the most part, these courses of instruction were carried on in W & L Gymnasium, the W & L Athletic Field, in two large portable buildings erected by the Army behind the Gymnasium, and in classrooms through the W & L University.

Information and Education Course

Mission: To provide appropriate training for military personnel assigned to duty in connection with programs for the information and education of troops.

Scope: Instruction covering the causes and course of the war, military psychology, orientation, off-duty education, informational media, staff duty and procedures, field operations, the returning soldier, practice in group leadership, organization of a post-war program following cessation of hostilities, military training and physical conditioning. The offices of the Information and Education Instructional Division were in "Robinson," instruction was carried on in W & L classrooms and Lee Chapel.

Reconditioning (Educational and Physical) Courses

Mission: To train officers and enlisted personnel assigned to the medical department as educational or physical reconditioning personnel.

Scope: (Educational) Instruction in mission or reconditioning, emotional aspects of diseases and disabilities, content and method of the educational reconditioning program in hospitals, staff duties and planning, related Information-Education and Special Service programs.

Major General Joe Dalton awarding the "Meritorious Service Unit Plaque" to Colonel William H. Quarterman.

(Physical Reconditioning) Instruction in organization and administration of the entire reconditioning program, anatomy, kinesiology, physiology, medical terminology, and the significance of disabilities, remedial exercises, use of gymnasium apparatus, etc., applicable for convalescing patients. The offices of the Reconditioning Instructional Division were in "Robinson"; instruction was carried on in the W & L classrooms, W & L Gym, Athletic Field, and Lee Chapel.

Army Exchange Course

Mission: To provide training for duty as Army Exchange officers, the emphasis of training being upon Army Exchange Service, with supplemented training in related phases of Special Services operation.

Scope: Instruction and accounting, operations, and merchandising. The Army Exchange Course had their offices in the basement of the W & L Library, and conducted their classes in the usual classroom facilities.

Personal Affairs Course

Mission: To train military personnel to discharge the responsibilities of their CO in connection with the providing of advisory services on personal affairs to Army personnel, former Army personnel, and their dependents.

Scope: Instruction in organization and administration of an effective Personal Affairs program, the rights and benefits provided by law, and regulations for the aforementioned rights and benefits, in-service job training, military psychology, and the Army Education program. Personal Affairs had their offices first in Payne Hall, then in the Student Union Building, which was also used as a Cadre (Enlisted Man) Club, and later moved to "Robinson," holding classes in the usual classroom facilities.

Transport Services Course

Mission: To provide appropriate training for military personnel assigned to Army Transport duty for the administration of soldier service activities.

Scope: Program covers instruction in essential subjects from WD courses in Information-Education, Personal Affairs, and Special Services, selected on the basis of anticipated needs. The offices of the Transport Services Instructional Division were set up in the basement of the W & L Library, and classes held in the rooms used by I & E, Personal Affairs and Special Services.

Physical Training and Athletic Directors Course

Mission and Scope: To provide leadership training for qualified officers and enlisted personnel for duty as instructors in physical training and athletics in Army Ground Forces and Army Service Forces installations; to train administrators, organizers, and instructors to carry on the emphasized athletic and physical training phase of the redeployment program. The Physical Training and Athletic Directors Course used the VMI facilities, later moving to the W & L University Gym and using the W & L athletic field and facilities.

On 11 April 1945, Major General Joe Dalton, Director of Personnel, ASF, presented the School for Personnel Services with the "Meritorious Service Unit Plaque." This award is one of the highest awards that can be made by the War Department to a military school, and was awarded this school for superior performance and outstanding devotion to duty of all personnel. Again on 11 October 1945, a star was added to the plaque in lieu of a second award. It is felt that the fine cooperation and excellent facilities of the University contributed greatly to the winning of these awards.

Many other advantages were offered the 25,000 students who graduated from the Army School. A Post Exchange, similar in many ways to the W & L school store, was located in the Dormitory building, as was the Military Department Headquarters and the Post Engineers. An Army Book Store was located in room 2 of Payne Hall, and a fully-equipped dispensary was established in the basement of the Student Union Building. Ex-Servicemen attending the Washington and Lee University were given free medical and dental care at this dispensary for a period not to exceed three months from the date of their discharge.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity house was in part redecorated and used as an officers club, with an outdoor garden and dance floor. The enlisted men held their dances in the Student Union Building, which was redecorated as their Cadre Club. They too enjoyed the use of an outdoor garden and dance floor. There was also a lounge located on the first floor of Reid hall. In addition to these buildings, most of the fraternity buildings were used to house the soldiers, Naval officers, marines, WACs, Marine Corps women, and WAVEs who attended the school. The school's Quartermaster was located in a store building on Nelson Street in the town of Lexington. The Finance Department paid the military personnel in Newcomb Hall, where they had their office. The School's Visual Aids Department prepared visual and training aids on the second floor of the University Gym, while a film library and projection room were located in the basement of Tucker.

Entertainment was provided for the students by the School for Personnel Services in the form of dances, movies, sports, soldier shows, etc., much of which was made possible through many of the facilities provided by Washington and Lee. The Lexingtonians for the most part divided their homes into small housekeeping rooms or apartments and rented them to the students and their families. This procedure helped the housing shortage created by the influx of so many officers and enlisted men, and at the same time provided a fine income for the town. There were also historical tours of Lexington for those who attended the school and were interested in the historic buildings and the places of interest that are so much a part of the tradition of Lexington and the history of the South. Then there were the churches which always welcomed the service men and women.

In addition, members of the Washington and Lee staff served the Army school in many capacities. Dr. Francis P. Gaines was guest speaker at many classes and events and was in effect a member of the faculty of the I. & E. Division; Mr. E. S. Mattingly, Treasurer of the University, was always most closely associated with the Commandant, and assisted greatly in all matters concerning the two schools, proving himself most sympathetic and invaluable in administrative problems; Dr. Allen W. Moger functioned as Chief of the Tests and Measurements Department, School for Personnel Services; Mr. C. Harold Lauck aided the school through the use of his printing service; Mr. Frank J. Gilliam was for a while assigned to the School for Personnel Services with the rank of Major and acted as Student Personnel Officer. All Washington and Lee faculty members were helpful and cooperative.

These were the elements and factors that made the School for Personnel Services so successful. These were the accomplishments of a group of Americans in uniform supported by Americans in civilian garb. The Washington and Lee University will never be forgotten by those who attended the School for Personnel Services, and Washington and Lee University will never forget the Army School.

In addition to the above, contributions amounting to $28,654.25 were received by the University from Alumni through channels other than the Alumni Fund.

1945 Alumni Fund Breaks All Records

IT IS A GREAT source of satisfaction to be able to present a report in which the element of success is as much in evidence as in this one on the 1945 Alumni Fund.

Once more the Fund hit new highs for both number of contributors and the amount of money contributed. Our objective was to raise $20,000. The result—$23,855 from 1821 alumni—is tangible evidence of the continued and ever increasing loyalty of Washington and Lee men everywhere. The total of your gifts represents the income on an endowment of approximately $800,000. Expressed in these terms, their value to the University is self-evident. The number of contributors increased 15% and the amount contributed 34% over the previous year. In ever larger numbers alumni are annually expressing their loyalty and affection for the University in the most tangible way. The real strength of the Alumni Fund lies in this fact. The size of your gift is relatively unimportant, but the fact of your making this annual contribution is of tremendous importance both to the success of the Alumni Fund and to the spirit that is Washington and Lee.

Our goal for 1946 is $25,000 and within a few weeks you will receive your annual letter from your Class Agent. He is performing an unselfish service and your prompt reply will be appreciated.

Football Returns to Washington and Lee

ART LEWIS, former Washington and Lee line coach, has been appointed head football coach at the University and will lead the Generals next fall in a seven-game schedule against traditional rivals. Lewis' appointment marks the return of the University to intercollegiate football after a lapse of four years as necessitated by the war.

The University's football program, which was determined by a polling of the alumni, will be conducted on the basis of subsidization as it had been before the war, and it is expected that the schedules will include the same colleges that they used to. President Francis P. Gaines has emphasized that the scholastic standards of the University will not be lowered and that there will be no dual standard for athletes.

At the time of his appointment on December 12, Lewis started the revival of football from scratch and with no prospects. "If we have to," he said, "we'll play Cap'n Dick Smith at fullback. But I hope some big, fast boys will enroll by next fall." By all media of communication, Art has been renewing acquaintances made in the navy preflight school at St. Mary's where, as a lieutenant commander, he was head of football instruction, chief scout, and assistant coach. It is likely though that if there are any Blanchards lying hidden to football fame and fortune, Art would be grateful to all alumni who will uncover them.

The handsome, six-foot-three, thirty-four-year-old Art came to the University on January 1, 1942, as line coach and served through the spring training period as line coach under Riley Smith. Along with Smith, who is not returning to football, Art was commissioned by the Navy in June, 1942, and was discharged in November, 1945, after duty at Pensacola, New Orleans, and St. Mary's.

He is a native of Carolton, Ohio, and began his football career at Ohio University in 1932 where he was one of six all-American tackles named in 1935. He played in the 1935 East-West game. Twice he was all-Ohio and little all-American tackle.

In 1936 Lewis began a professional career with the New York Giants. Then after coaching the line at Ohio Wesleyan University in 1937, he was playing head coach of the Cleveland Rams in 1938 when they won seven of their eleven games. In 1939 he played and coached the Rams' line and in the next two years he was their line coach and chief scout.

At St. Mary's he served under Head Coach Jim Lawson of Stamford and worked with Bernie Masterson of Nebraska, Gormer Jones of Ohio State, and George Sauer of New Hampshire. Newspaper rumor had it that Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy offered him an assistant's post at South Bend.

Art will not cross his seven bridges until he comes to them next fall, but he is diligently at work along their approaches.

Carl Wise, King College football and basketball player for three years, was appointed on February 1 as Lewis' assistant and as head basketball coach. Last year Wise was an assistant football coach and scout at the University of Pennsylvania. Before his discharge from the Navy in the fall, he coached two Navy teams, and previous to that he coached football and basketball at the Newland, North Carolina, and Gate City and Covington, Virginia, high schools.

Local Association Notes

WASHINGTON, D. C.

A good crowd of some sixty Washington and Lee Alumni of Washington, D. C., and surrounding territory, met at the Hamilton Hotel on November 30, 1945, for the annual smoker. E. P. Twombly, of the Physical Education Department, and Alumni Secretary H. K. Young were present representing the University, the latter bringing the alumni up to date on the campus and University affairs. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows; Paul Brown, '41, President, Charles F. Suter, '33, Vice-President, and Fred M. P. Pearse, '28, Secretary.

DETROIT

Thirty-one Washington and Lee alumni, their ladies and a visitor from Roanoke held a most successful dinner meeting on January 19, in Detroit.

Following the dinner Alfred F. Taylor, '27, made a talk on "General Lee at Washington and Lee"; Edward Thomas, '46, "Experiences of a Cavalry Soldier in the Italian Campaign, World War II"; and a Magic Show was given by Edward Lyons, '12.

It was decided to hold another meeting of the chapter in April, 1946.

The following alumni were present; Ralph Bookmyer, '45; David Gilmore, '36; W. T. Greenlee, '19; R. M. Herlihy,

Lt. (j.g.) R. F. Faulkner, USMS

'38; Ralph Hummell, '20; George L. Hughes, '09; Samuel G. Keller, '15; Edward Lyons, '12; Thomas O. Mayberry, '47; Robert R. Miller, '35; Edward R. Molesworth, '10; Paul Slocum, '41; Robert Spahr, '09; George L. Stout, '33; Alfred Taylor, '27; Edward W. Thomas, '46; and Lauren Wild, '38.

NEW YORK

The New York Chapter of the Alumni Association met for their twenty-first annual dinner at the Princeton Club, Friday evening, November 16, 1945, with the President, Roy J. Grimley, '21, presiding. The speakers of the evening were: Dr. James L. Howe, Brigadier General Stewart E. Reimel, and Rev. Walter Lawton, '36. There were eighty alumni present. Ethan Allen, '31, was elected President of the chapter and Emmett Poindexter, '20, re-elected Secretary.

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

The Louisville Chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association held a luncheon meeting on November 15, 1945, at the Canary Cottage, Louisville, Kentucky, for the purpose of electing new officers. The following officers were elected: Wathen R. Knebelkamp, '21, President, Charles Semple, '39, Vice-President, and Thomas C. Nugent, Jr., '38, Secretary and Treasurer.

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

On October 19, 1945, the Richmond, Virginia, chapter of Washington and Lee Alumni held its annual meeting at Ewart's Cafeteria, and heard reports on the status of the University by Dean Frank Gilliam and Alumni Secretary Cy Young. After disposing of routine business the following officers for the year 1946 were elected: Stuart Sanders, '31, President, Dr. Atwood H. Wash, '15, Vice-President, Tom Moore, '29, Secretary, and William B. Jacobs, '29, Treasurer.

ATLANTA

The Atlanta Chapter attended a most enjoyable dinner at The Biltmore Hotel, on the night of January 26, 1946, at which twenty-five alumni were present. Dr. Francis P. Gaines was the guest and sole speaker, and he gave one of his brilliant and fascinating talks, being kept on his feet long after his expressed desire to conclude his remarks.

There were three father-and-son combinations among those present, who included Henry E. Peeples, Henry E. Peeples, Jr., Ewing S. Humphreys, Ewing S. Humphreys, Jr., Alex M. Hitz, Alex M. Hitz, Jr., Bruce F. Woodruff, William H. Smith, J. Samuel Slicer, Joseph E. Birnie, Bland Terry, Sidney Isenberg, Dr. Lester A. Brown, Edward L. Potter, Carl C. Moore, Philip F. L'Engle, John Kell Martin, H. K. Garges, Jr., George Goodwin, Freeman H. Hart, Dr. Charles F. Rice, George C. Moseley, Luther A. Dillon, William P. Lamar, and Louis F. Plummer.

Arrangement was made of another meeting to be held in April, to which wives will be invited. A nominating committee was appointed to bring in names of those to be considered for election at the April meeting.

Dick Faulkner, '34, Promoted

Lieutenant (j.g.) R. F. Faulkner, '34, USMS, has recently been promoted from the rank of Ensign and is serving in the capacity of Assistant Regional Officer of the U. S. Maritime Commission and War Shipping Administration for the Midwestern district. He entered the U. S. Maritime Service as an Apprentice Seaman and after "boot" training at Sheepshead Bay, New York, was assigned to administrative duty as Yeoman to the Public Relations Officer of that station. In September, 1944, he was called to Washington, elevated to the rank of Warrant Officer and designated as Assistant Regional Public Relations Officer in Chicago. However, this tour of duty was short-lived for, in January, 1945, he took over the post of Public Relations Officer at the Catalina Island, U. S. Maritime Service Training Station, where his principal concern was the coast-to-coast USMS-CBS program, We Deliver the Goods, which originated at Avalon for well over a year. In addition he had charge of the station's newspaper and photo laboratory. In May came the rank of Ensign and in August, Faulkner was returned to Chicago to serve in his present capacity. He has been married for nine years and his wife, the former Georgia Orwig, is well known in Pittsburgh and Chicago musical circles.

BACK ISSUES OF THE CALYX AVAILABLE

The following issues of The Calyx, owned by a citizen of Lexington, may be obtained at the price of $2.00 per copy, including postage, by writing the Alumni Office; 1913, 1919, 1922, 1923, 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1935.

Francis Miller, '14, Receives Awards

Colonel Francis Pickens Miller, A.B. '14, has been presented the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit by Lieutenant General Lucius D. Clay, Deputy Military Governor of Germany, and the Croix de Guerre avec Palm by General Koeltz, the French officer who holds a position equivalent to that of General Clay in the French Army of Occupation.

The citation for the Legion of Merit award, for exceptionally meritorious performance of duty, read in part: "As Chief of the Occupational Commitments Coordinating Sub-Division, Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Colonel Miller was responsible for the coordination of the complex functions of all elements of his division engaged in occupational planning. This required a precise knowledge of the duties, responsibilities and functions of all intelligence agencies and great tact and sound judgment in handling the problems of diverse interests and nationalities."

Presently assigned as Chief of the Plans and Policy Branch, office of the Director of Intelligence, Office of Military Government for Germany (U.S.) in Berlin, Colonel Miller was at one time the United States Representative on the Tripartite Agency for Intelligence in connection with the invasion of France.

In addition to his newest decorations, he holds the Order of the British Empire.

A graduate of Washington and Lee and of Oxford, England, where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar, Colonel Miller was chairman of the World's Student Christian Federation from 1928 to 1938. He has been a member of the Commonwealth of Virginia Assembly and of the Governor's Council; and from 1938 to 1941 was the Organization Director of the Council on Foreign Relations, New York City.

Colonel Francis Pickens Miller, '14, receiving Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit

Lieutenant Colonel John M. Jones, III, '37, awarded the Legion of Merit by Lieutenant General R. A. Wheeler, in appreciation of his previous services as aide-de-camp.

John Jones, '37, Honored

Lieutenant Colonel John M. Jones, III, A.B. '37, has been awarded the Legion of Merit. The announcement was made by Lieutenant General R. A. Wheeler, commander of the India-Burma theatre. Jones is presently serving as General Wheeler's executive officer at theatre headquarters. Previously, he served with Merrill's Marauders and later was aide-de-camp to Lord Louis Mountbatten, Supreme Allied Commander, South East Asia. The citation, awarded for his previous services as aide-de-camp to General Wheeler, reads in part:

"He materially assisted Lieutenant General Wheeler in the discharge of the latter's multiple duties and was instrumental in fostering harmonious and amicable Anglo-American relations in the South East Asia Command. His meticulous attention to details, foresight and sound judgment lessened the difficulties inherent in his commander's plural assignments. Lieutenant Colonel Jones exhibited unlimited energy and the highest degree of diplomacy and intelligence in the performance of his exacting duties."

His wife lives at 403 Church Street, Sweetwater, Tennessee.

Chinese General Praises Alumnus

The following translation of a letter, received by the mother of Dan Pinck, '46, from a Chinese General, was recently published in The Record, Bethesda, Maryland.

20th July 1945

Dear Madam:

At the beginning of our resistance against the Japanese aggression, we have had America's gracious help, and now we are fighting arm in arm for the same aim of developing the everlasting peace of mankind. We appreciate that Americans are true and kind towards us.

Recently your son Dan has been sent to China and is now working in my war area. I have made acquaintance of him and also acknowledge that he is young and smart and has more dignity than any American I have met. There is no limit in his future.

In our conversations we know you sympathize with our country. At the departure of your son you have well informed him to help China and to make friends with Chinese. Thus we know this is the result of your teaching to your son, as to make him know China thoroughly.

Your son has become my good friend and I made him a Major of mine. I hope American and Chinese could join their hands as tightly as we have. May I express my hearty admiration to you.

Dan is healthy and strong, we'll do what we can to help him with his work and have good cooperation.

My letter will travel a long distance before reaching you and I end my letter with best regards to your health.

(Signed) Tong Pat, Major-General
Commanding Officer

distinguished in the field of history: Dr. Matthew Page Andrews of Baltimore, Professor W. B. Hasseltine of the University of Wisconsin, Professor Louis K. Koontz of the University of California, and Professor Charles H. Taylor of Harvard.

Especially do we intend to use this occasion to give the University a greater competence for its future task. At the proper time, we shall announce a campaign for funds. The exact amount and the time of the campaign have not been determined, but our hope is strong. This will be in no sense a "pressure" movement; we shall not have solicitation at "whoop-em-up" meetings, and we shall not have the long-time embarrassing pledge cards. Quietly we shall invite those who believe in our ideals and our purposes to give us help, to join, in this difficult twentieth century, George Washington of the eighteenth and Robert E. Lee of the nineteenth as benefactors of youth forever.

We shall seek to serve three ends; we want to increase the general endowment, partly to offset the swift decline in earning power of the funds we already have; when I joined the staff in 1930, our endowment earned six per cent but last year it earned less than four per cent. We shall want to increase greatly the number of scholarships, so that we may welcome those admirable boys who have every quality for great careers except the money to pay our fees. We shall plan to add several buildings to make complete the adequacy of our facilities. We shall be glad to have your comment concerning any phase of the plans; and we shall particularly be grateful if every alumnus who reads these words will begin now to think of potential donors—in his community or among his business associates—who may at the proper time be interested in our hopes.

Class Notes

Dr. T. Brannon Hubbard, Hubbard Hospital, Montgomery, Alabama, along with all other doctors, has had a strenuous life during the war period. In November, 1944, he paid a short visit to Lexington, and saw several of his old friends here. He says; "The campus and the little town were as lovely as ever but both were strangely unreal with almost complete absence of students. It was indeed a queer experience." Both of his sons are still in the service. He is in excellent health, rides horseback every morning before breakfast and works all day.

Claude P. Light, Class Agent for 1906, has been Prosecuting Attorney of Wood County since May, 1942. He lives in Parkersburg, West Virginia.

Alexander Rutan is a member of the law firm of Rutan & Tucker, Suite 609, First National Bank Building, Santa Ana, California.

A. M. Withers is professor of Romance Languages, Concord College, Athens, West Virginia. He sent his class agent articles which he had written on education and the place of Spanish and French in a proper educational system, which had appeared in The Educational Forum and The Modern Language Journal, respectively, of recent date.

J. Robert Switzer is Clerk of the Circuit Court of Rockingham County, Harrisonburg, Virginia.

James R. Caskie, Attorney, Lynchburg, says he gave all his personal history last year and refuses to repeat. Says he is a bachelor, lawyer, and "acts normal."

David W. Pipes, Jr., lives in Terrebonne Parish, Houma, Louisiana. He says that Washington and Lee college mates and fine folks of Lexington were "the best." He hopes to attend the class reunion in 1946.

Dr. W. B. Newell and his wife were recent visitors to the campus. Their home is in Enid, Oklahoma.

John S. Moore has recently been transferred to Boise, Idaho, from Denver, Colorado, where he had been for four years. Previous to that time he had been for a number of years at Spokane, Washington. He has had a record of continuous service with the United States Bureau of Reclamation on irrigation work beginning in 1908. Home: 1007 North 19th Street, Boise, Idaho.

T. O. Bagley is in the insurance business in Fayetteville, Tennessee. He says after the war

We wish to apologize for any errors in the class notes appearing in this issue. The letters from which these notes are taken were written, for the most part, early last spring. The rapid demobilization of alumni from the several branches of the armed forces of the United States have no doubt rendered some of these notes inaccurate or out-of-date. If so, we apologize. We would like to have more material for class notes in letters to your Class Agent this year.

is over his class will all meet in Lexington and tell about how they won this war and the last one.

(Notes by Class Agent, Alan Porter Lee)

Henry R. Mahler is Superintendent of the Public Schools, Thomasville, Georgia, Elder of the Presbyterian Church, Past President of the Kiwanis Club, and Officer in the Georgia State Guard. He has four sons. The oldest is a graduate of Washington and Lee and is a Presbyterian minister, the second son is busy building airplane carriers at Newport News, Virginia, and the two youngest are in the Navy, both serving somewhere in the Pacific. Dr. Mahler has four granddaughters and two grandsons. He writes, "Thomasville is a long way from Lexington and I seldom run across any of my old classmates."

John M. Bierer continues as General Manager of Manufacturing of a large rubber company in Boston, living in Waban, Massachusetts. He is one of our former Class Agents and retains a lively interest in Washington and Lee.

Richard Lee Page is in the real estate and insurance business in Norfolk and lives at Virginia Beach. He retains his enthusiasm for Washington and Lee and sends greetings to all his classmates.

Grover A. Batten is still practicing medicine at Honolulu. He writes, "As for myself and my family I have not much to report except that Old Father Time marks off another year for every twelve months. I have two grandchildren now—one three years old, a boy, and one three months old, a girl."

Harry Gassman has been teaching mathematics at the Walnut Hills High School in Cincinnati for the past twenty-four years. He has a daughter who is a Second Lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps and has been nursing near the battle front in Germany. His is a Washington and Lee family as he has two brothers who are also Washington and Lee men. Harry writes, "We are also looking forward to completion of Victory over Japan. I have not been back to Washington and Lee for about ten years, but hope to make the trip soon again."

Frank K. Rader is professor of business administration at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. He writes, "Best of luck to Washington and Lee." He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineering and still has some engineering practice as well as his administration teaching.

Major A. D. (Abe) Somerville is once again active in the Army and is in the Contract Division of the Air Corps at Dayton, Ohio. He writes, "The Army sent me all over the South and then last December sent me across that great symbolic Mason and Dixon line. I went to New Jersey for two weeks, then to Philadelphia for three months and now here I am in Dayton, Ohio. There is one satisfaction I have gotten out of this and that is that I can now boast of having (at least for three months) been a 'Philadelphia Lawyer'."

(Notes by Class Agent, Beirne Stedman)

L. J. Boxley is actively engaged in business in Roanoke, Virginia, and on the side is rapidly developing into a dirt farmer, particularly interested in "white face" cattle. He still has his Alma Mater much at heart and was the first to reply to the class agent.

Melvin E. Cruser is practicing law in Norfolk, Virginia, with offices in the National Bank of Commerce Building.

David Ross Dunham has been practicing law in St. Augustine, Florida, since 1910, is married and has three children. He is still imbued with the virtue of promptness and replied at once to the letter of the class agent, who recollects that in law school days he was never known to be late at a lecture.

C. Irving Carey, who appears in "Who's Who in America," is senior member of the law firm of Carey and Harrison with offices in the Florida National Bank Building, St. Petersburg, Florida. He has been a member of the Florida legislature and president of the St. Petersburg Bar Association and of the Kiwanis Club. He got an A.B. at William and Mary before joining the 1909 Law Class, and he first practiced in Rome, Georgia, where he married Miss Arline Smith in 1914, and was a member of the faculty of the Darlington Preparatory School for Boys, later serving as trustee of that institution for several years. All three of his sons served in the Armed Forces during World War II.

Guyte P. McCord is Clerk of the Supreme Court in Florida and lives in Tallahassee. He writes of having recently seen John Lykes for the first time in 35 years.

Justice Daniel K. Sadler, who appears in "Who's Who in America," has served on the Supreme Court Bench of New Mexico since January 1, 1931, and has twice been Chief Justice under the rotation plan of succeeding to that office. He first saw the light of day in Paris—not France but Arkansas—and got an A.B. at the State University before coming to Washington and Lee. He married Miss Jessie M. McCaugh in 1911 and has two sons, Robert Granville and Daniel K., Jr.

Four members of the Class of 1909 Law have appeared in "Who's Who in America." They are C. Irving Carey of St. Petersburg, Florida, Justice Daniel K. Sadler of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, Hon Clifton A. Woodrum of Roanoke, Virginia, and the late lamented James H. Price of Virginia.

Paul Brawner, is in Department of English, West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia. After leaving Washington and Lee he married "a good and beautiful wife," taught for four years in Arkansas at State College, went to West Virginia. He says he is now a confirmed mountaineer.

Hugh Hawthorne is vice-president of the Pocahontas Fuel Company, 1 Broadway, New York. Reports a recent automobile trip through Alabama where he noted many developments of interest to which he thinks his Class Agent's company must be making substantial contributions.

James M. Carson, after an eight months recuperation from illness, is again practicing law with his firm, Carson and Petteway, Congress Building, Miami, Florida. His book, "Carson's Common Law Pleading, Practicing and Procedure," has now gone into a second edition.

Joe R. Blackburn has been in charge of the Oil and Gas Division of the Department of Mines for the State of West Virginia since July 1, 1945.

Dr. John G. Herndon, professor of government at Haverford College, was a member of a four-man committee which presented Philadelphia's bid to the United Nations Organization Preparatory Commission as the permanent home of the Organization. The committee arrived in London on November 14, returning to this country December 15, after the announcement that the United States has been designated as the country in which the headquarters will be located.

W. K. Price is Assistant Cashier of the Citizens National Bank, New Market, Virginia, where he has been for the past sixteen years. He lives on his farm near New Market and raises cows and chickens.

J. C. (Jim) Shallcross has been in Louisville, Kentucky, since 1929 running the Kentucky Plating Company, an electroplating business. Prior to that he was associated with his father in a mining business at Cannelton, and in 1923 made a six months trip to India for a mining machinery company and then traveled for them in this country for a number of years. He is married but has no children.

Tobias C. Phillips has recently moved his law office from Washington to 1327 Munsey Building, Baltimore 2, Maryland.

Daniel B. Straley, The Chit-Chat Syndicate, 447 Monadnock Building, Chicago, Illinois, has recently published a book of verses entitled "Said the Devil to his Wife."

1912

J. Frank Key, Class Agent for 1912-A, is Vice-President and General Manager of the Columbian Paper Company of Buena Vista, Virginia.

Judge Arlos J. Harbert is serving the first year of his fourth term as Judge of the Criminal Court of Harrison County, West Virginia, at Clarksburg, West Virginia.

Leonard B. Ranson is District Manager for the Equitable Life Insurance Company, 1109 Mercantile Trust Building, Baltimore, Maryland, covering the whole State of Maryland. He has purchased a home in Northwood, a suburb of Baltimore, and his address is 4651 Marble Hall Road, Baltimore 12, Maryland.

Loomis F. Klutz has served as County Attorney for Alexander County; County Attorney for Catawba County; Prosecuting Attorney for Catawba County; City Attorney for the Town of Maiden, North Carolina, and Attorney for the Catawba Highway Commission. He has also represented Catawba County in the State Legislature for four different terms of two years each. His home is in Newton, North Carolina.

Dr. Frank R. Ruff is connected with the Burnett Sanitarium, Fresno, California, and reports that of all the years he has practiced medicine, this has been the most trying.

C. H. Marsteller has been with the Internal Revenue Bureau for some twelve years. At present he is Assistant Chief Field Deputy for the West Virginia district. He says he has been married to the same wife for some thirty years, which in this day and age should be some kind of a record; has two children, a son who is Chief Engineer of Structures at the Ohio-Vought Aircraft Company in Connecticut, and a daughter who will be a senior in high school next year.

Prof. Forest Fletcher, 1888-1945

Forest Fletcher died at Jackson Memorial Hospital here on November 27 after a long illness that brought to an end twenty-eight years as professor of physical education and track coach at Washington and Lee. Burial was in Lexington Cemetery. He was 57.

After a brilliant record as a hurdler and sprinter at Notre

The Late Forest Fletcher

Dame University, where he received a degree in electrical engineering, and as a member of the 1912 Olympic team, Fletch came to Washington and Lee in 1914. Here he developed the department of physical education which won national renown because at one time as many as 625 of the University's 900 students were voluntarily engaged in an intramural sports program. His skill as a track coach enabled him to develop a score of Southern Conference champions, and his ability as an organizer led him to help found the Southern Conference which he served as one of its first and most efficient presidents.

Fletch, who was born in Lincoln, Nebraska, entered Notre Dame in 1906. It is said that there he held at one time five indoor world's records at various sprint and hurdle distances and that he was a good standing and running high-jumper. He and a friend induced the late Knute Rockne to enter Notre Dame—not to play football but to pole vault. One of his teammates in the Olympics at Stockholm was Jim Thorpe.

Except for a period of military service in World War I, Fletch spent his life teaching and coaching. After graduation from Notre Dame he taught mathematics and coached all sports for one year at Utah State Normal School, and in the following year, 1913-1914, he held a similar post at the Mitchell, South Dakota, High School. Coming to Washington and Lee in 1914, he established the University's department of physical education and developed teams in several of the minor sports which the University had not previously had. His track team won the Southern Conference indoor meet in 1931. He wrote and published various pamphlets on track coaching, and in 1933 was secretary-treasurer of the Southern Conference and in the following year during the turbulent period of the Graham plan to prohibit subsidizing sports, he was conference president.

Some of Fletch's hurdlers were outstanding in the South, among them being Bill Schuhle, '35, and Jim Rogers, '36. But he also developed creditable distance and field men.

Fletch, in World War I, was sergeant-in-charge of the volunteer Washington and Lee ambulance unit that went overseas and was attached to the French Army from January, 1918, to the end of the war. He received the Croix de Guerre and two citations made to the unit for efficiency in action. Later he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Army of the United States.

Returning to Lexington after the war, Mr. Fletcher married Miss Laura Powell Tucker, daughter of the late Congressman Harry St. George Tucker and granddaughter of Dean John Randolph Tucker of the School of Law. Surviving are Mrs. Fletcher and their three children: Mrs. M. T. Crocker of Charlottesville, Mrs. P. J. Horan of Hampton, Virginia, and Forest Fletcher, Jr., Army Air Force.

Prof. Hale Houston, 1871-1945

Hale Houston, professor of civil engineering at Washington and Lee from 1921 until he became professor emeritus in 1936, died in the Jackson Memorial Hospital in Lexington on December 27, following a heart attack suffered a few hours before. He had been subject to these attacks for several years but was as well as usual for the observance of Christmas.

Mr. Houston was born February 17, 1871, in Salem, Virginia, where his father, Rev. William Wilson Houston, D.D., was the pastor of the Presbyterian church. His mother was, before marriage, Miss Mary Eliza Waddell of Waynesboro, Virginia.

The Late Hale Houston

He attended school in Salem and later in Wyoming, Ohio, where his father later held a pastorate and in 1888 entered Washington and Lee University, receiving the degree of C.E. in 1892. For a time after his graduation he was engaged in the steel and iron business with his brother, Archibald Houston, in Cincinnati and Toledo, Ohio. He taught at intervals in Pantops Academy near Charlottesville and in the Mathematics department of Toledo Polytechnic School. In 1903 he became professor of Civil Engineering at Clemson College, South Carolina, and in 1921 was called back to his alma mater as head of the same department.

At Clemson and at Washington and Lee Mr. Houston was in charge of numerous construction projects on the campuses. He was an expert draftsman, a successful gardener and a skilled archer. The gardens surrounding his home in Lexington bore evidence as to his love of flowers and were a never failing source of interest. A delightful sense of humor made him universally beloved and he was affectionately known as "Uncle Bud" to a host of friends among the alumni and townspeople of Lexington. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and belonged to a number of engineering societies.

Mr. Houston never married. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Leslie L. Campbell, of Lexington, two brothers, Sandy Houston, Toledo, and William Houston, '97, of Philadelphia.
