Notes From the President's Office: Bicentennial Invitation

If I could make with tremendous emphasis one bit of special pleading to our alumni, it would be this: plan now to visit your Alma Mater during the Bicentennial session, 1948-49.

* * * * *

During the year there will be a number of unusual programs, and a number of regular programs appropriately elaborated. The series will culminate in the Alumni Reunion of June, 1949, when, we fervently hope, we shall welcome the greatest group of alumni ever to gather on the historic campus.

* * * * *

It is probable, however, that many other features of the year will prove inviting to various groups of our former students. The opening convocation, for example, will be addressed by our honorary alumnus and devoted Washington and Lee "father," Chief Justice Vinson. We have designated this initial day of the whole year our Chairmen's Day, and have sent special invitations to the 180-odd men who are giving service of inestimable value in the campaign. Of course, any other interested alumnus will be warmly welcomed.

* * * * *

The sport lovers will remember that the homecoming football game, to be played on October 16 with our honorable rivals, the University of Virginia, is always a spectacle of collegiate color. Our friends who are vitally interested in religion might be glad to know that the Religious Emphasis week, scheduled for November 30-December 2, will be led by Dr. Elton Trueblood, also an honorary alumnus, and promises to be rich in spiritual value.

Earlier in November we shall have a series of lectures by alumni who have attained distinction in various fields. These men will discuss some phase of their professional experience or vision. Among those who have already accepted our invitation are Tom Sugrue, in the field of creative writing, Arthur W. McCain in banking, McGehee Harvey in medicine, I. H. Kempner in international trade, Rosser J. Coke in legal guidance of financial institutions. This should be a series of extraordinary interest.

* * * * *

The academic celebration, when we shall be host to sister institutions, learned societies and the like, will be held on April 12. The Southern University Conference, of which we are a founding member, will meet here as special guests. Other colleges and universities will be represented, though not as many as we could wish, for we are limited by the entertainment facilities of Lexington.

* * * *

There will be other academic "events" of prime importance and there will be several organizations of scholarly interest that will meet in Lexington during the year. We shall try to get the whole schedule to the alumni in ample time; the point I make here is that, while the June affair is specifically for alumni, representing the climax of the whole season, we shall be delighted to have our Washington and Lee men attend any program.

* * * * *

Two reminders, please: (1) Don't miss the Students' Bicentennial pamphlet, to be mailed in early September—it's fine. (2) Don't forget the General Education Board's offer to give one dollar for every four dollars we raise (for permanent funds) is good for only the year 1948.

President

The University Closes Its 199th Session

Dr. Gaines Presents Diplomas to Graduates of the Class of '48

The 199th session at Washington and Lee closed Friday, June 4, when President Francis P. Gaines conferred 129 academic and law degrees upon the graduates in Lee Chapel, nearly 80 per cent of whom are veterans. Including 51 February graduates the class is expected to number about 270 by the end of the summer session and is the largest in the history of the college.

In accordance with a custom of several years standing, Dr. Gaines addressed the graduating class, his subject being "The Range of Preparedness." He told graduates that "the task of America today is to make the national preparedness inclusive enough to carry us not merely through an emergency but into a new security." Algernon Sydney Sullivan medallions were awarded for the first time this year to recipients outside the student body. The awards are made to students and non-students who excel in high ideals of living, in spiritual qualities and in generous and disinterested service to others. Miss Mary Monroe Penick, of Lexington, was among three to receive the medallion. She is the first woman to be honored with such an award from Washington and Lee.

Miss Penick, daughter of the late Paul M. Penick, who served for many years as university treasurer, has long been active in the town's cultural affairs. She was instrumental this spring in planning and staging a music festival memorializing Professor John A. Graham, Washington and Lee fine arts teacher who died last year. She is director of music in the public schools of Lexington and of the Lexington Presbyterian Church.

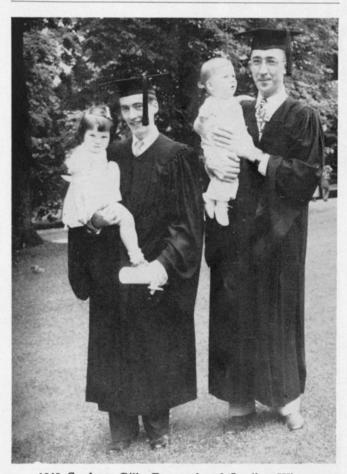

Also receiving the Sullivan medallion were Baldwin G. Locher, of Glasgow, Rockbridge County industrialist and nationally prominent layman in the Episcopal Church, and representative in the General Assembly, and Herbert Petrie Mitchell, of Los Angeles, California, a member of the class of 1948.

In the commencement audience were Chief Justice of the United States and Mrs. Fred Vinson, to see their eldest son, Fred, Jr., receive a bachelor of arts degree. Young Vinson served as president of the Washington and Lee student body this year and plans to begin the study of law in the fall. The chief justice holds an honorary doctor of laws degree from Washington and Lee, conferred last June.

A single honorary degree awarded Friday went to William Laurens Pressly, associate headmaster of McCallie School, of Chattanooga, Tennessee. In presenting the degree, Dean James G. Leyburn said that Mr. Pressly "has given Washington and Lee recurrent reason to be grateful for having trained and inspired scores of her students and alumni."

The Mapleson scholarship, conferred annually upon the bachelor of arts graduate with the highest academic record, was awarded to R. G. Patterson, of Bluefield, West Virginia, who was also valedictorian of the graduating class. The scholarship is to be used for graduate academic study. Patterson is the son of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Patterson and grandson of the late Dr. Robert Glasgow of Lexington.

Seniors Attend Annual Alumni Banquet

By Bill Bien

More than 200 Washington and Lee University seniors—many with wives attached—met at the Natural Bridge Hotel May 11th to celebrate the approaching graduation ceremonies which would make them official members of the University's Alumni Association.

Occasion for the gathering was the annual Senior Alumni banquet, sponsored and financed by the W. and L. alumni group, this year set up as an elaborate buffet dinner in the main dining hall of the luxurious Natural Bridge Hotel. Alumni officials had selected Natural Bridge for the meeting following the successful 1947 dinner there.

The main theme of the occasion was one of welcome to the 125 students who would be included in the ranks of Washington and Lee alumni for the Bicentennial year.

Following the dinner, President Francis P. Gaines delivered a brief address, outlining to the visitors what the University expects of its graduates. Don Murray, class of '48, responded as class spokesman, giving assurance of successful endeavor. Harry K. (Cy) Young, Washington and Lee alumni secretary, made another after-dinner speech officially welcoming the lastest group of alumni, and explaining the organization and importance of local alumni clubs throughout the nation.

Finally, the senior guests moved to elect Richard C. Working, of Baltimore, president of the class, with Beverley T. Fitzpatrick, of Roanoke, Virginia, as vice-president, and Roland C. Rhea, of Russellville, Kentucky, as secretary, all for five year terms. An alumni-student planning board—including Cy Young, and student representatives Dan Wells, Lou Shroyer, and Rhea—handled dinner and transportation arrangements for the meeting, and secured Chap Boyd's Southern Collegians orchestra to provide dinner music.

The occasion marked the second year wives of seniors have been invited to attend since the war. Dr. Gaines noted their presence as he applauded wives particularly for the high scholastic average of the 1948 class.

Minutes of General Alumni Meeting

JUNE 3, 1943

(1) The meeting was called to order by Alumni President, Leon Harris. On motion made and carried it was decided that the reading of the minutes of the last meeting be dispensed with.

(2) President Francis P. Gaines was introduced by Mr. Harris.

Dr. Gaines recognized members of the Class of 1908, celebrating their fortieth anniversary this year, and spoke of the loyalty of the alumni group in general. He stated that there would be a series of events celebrating the Bicentennial throughout the 1948-49 session, and that extensive plans were being made for the Bicentennial Alumni Reunion in June, 1949. Alumni who have distinguished themselves in many fields will return to the campus to speak during one week in the coming Bicentennial year and in the Spring a series of lectures is to be initiated in the Law School-the first by alumnus John W. Davis, '92. Dr. Gaines has spoken to 28 local chapters of alumni during this year. He expressed his personal gratitude for the work of the Alumni Association and discussed the work of the Counseling and Placement Bureau, suggested by alumni, which has had a singularly auspicious beginning. In concluding his remarks Dr. Gaines said, "I wish I had a medal for every alumnus who has worked for the Campaign, who has written me a letter of encouragement, who has spoken some good word to a prospective student. This institution lives on the loyalty of its alumni and I wish I had a medal for each one of them-but I have only

"The Thomas Nelson Page medallion, awarded annually to an alumnus of Washington and Lee University, presented in absentia to John Wilson Drye, Jr., '20, of New York City, former Alumni President and presently a vice-chairman of the Bicentennial, who has served with dignity and increasing power to positions of high responsibility and who at no time has been too busy for service to the University."

(3) W. E. Tilson, '26, Treasurer, reported that since a full financial statement had been published in the February issue of the Alumni Magazine, he would not read the entire report. However, he gave the following totals for the year ending June 30, 1947:

Amount turned over to the University......$ 5,339.86

Mr. Tilson also stated that for the year 1947-48 the Class Agent Plan had been merged with the Bicentennial Fund.

(4) H. K. Young, Alumni Secretary, presented the following report:

It is hardly necessary for the Secretary of your Association to report to you that we have had a most active year. This is evidenced by the many communications you have received from the University. Although an exact count of these communications has not been made, I am sure many thousands have been processed through the Alumni Office. A large amount of the work in the office has been in connection with the Bicentennial Program. I shall not report on this because the Director of this program will cover it later on in this meeting.

Each of you has received a questionnaire in connection with the preparation of our Alumni Directory and I hope that none of you is among the three or four thousand who have failed to return this questionnaire. Last August Thomas C. Wilson, '43, was employed as editor of the Directory, and we will have the pleasure of hearing from him today on the progress which has been made in compiling this material.

Our Homecoming celebration on October 25 was most successful, not only from the standpoint of the large number of alumni present but the result of the football game made the occasion most satisfactory. The luncheon was as usual enjoyed by hundreds of alumni and their families. Much color was added to the affair by the fraternity-house decorations which we believe were the most interesting and original we have ever had.

Undoubtedly the local associations have had the most active year in their history, and I want to take this occasion to express our appreciation of their fine cooperation. A hurried check of our records shows that meetings of local chapters have been held in 46 cities and 21 states, several of the chapters having held several meetings. President Gaines has travelled many thousands of miles to address a majority of these meetings, as have other administrative officers and members of the faculty. I might add that not only have we had more alumni meetings than ever before, but the attendance has been exceptionally large.

Each year since its inception I have reported to you on our student-alumni relations program, and again I report that your Association has been most active in this respect. One of the oldest continuous activities on the campus is crew racing. This sport has been handicapped considerably by lack of equipment. At its June meeting last year your Alumni Board authorized the expenditure of $2,000 of Association funds for the purchase of an eight-oared shell for the use of the crews. The shell was purchased and has been in use since April. We were also able to give financial assistance to several other student activities. The senior banquet this year, given by your Association, was by far the largest we have ever had and one of the most successful.

As reported in the February issue of the Alumni Magazine, the 1947 Alumni Fund was the best we have ever had. 1856 alumni contributed $24,916.38.

The Alumni Fund this year was merged with the Bicentennial Fund campaign, without any sacrifice of the continuity of our present Class Agent Plan. The class agents made the normal contact with members of their classes, partly to secure the information desired for Alumni Office records and for notes in forthcoming issues of the Alumni Magazine, but primarily to increase support of the Bicentennial Campaign. Depending on the progress of the Bicentennial Campaign, it is possible that in 1949 the Alumni Fund will again be on its original basis.

Since as far back as June, 1946, I have been including in this report information pertaining to the production of a sound-color motion picture of the University. The picture has now been completed and four copies of the film have been in circulation since September. It has been seen by hundreds of alumni, students and friends of the University and everywhere enthusiastically received. The cost of the picture was approximately $4,500.00, but we feel it is one of the best investments your Association has ever made. The production of the picture involved a great deal of work and I want to take this occasion to thank the heads of departments, the faculty committee and Mr. Lea Booth, Director of Publicity, for their unfailing interest and cooperation.

Last summer the Alumni Association, in conjunction with the Athletic Association, sent you full ticket information on the 1947 football schedule. Included in this information was a pamphlet on the prospects of the football season. This seavice will be repeated this year and should reach you by the middle of July. If you are planning to attend any of the football games in 1948, I urge you to return your ticket reservation requests promptly to the Athletic Department. Especially does this apply to the Homecoming game, as this will be the largest crowd ever to attend a football game in Lexington.

(5) The report of the Nominating Committee to fill vacancies occurring on the Alumni Board of Trustees, was presented by Alan Porter Lee, '08. This committee, composed of Gilmore Nunn, '31, Chairman W. Goodridge Sale, '24, and Mr. Lee, named the following men as their candidates to fill the offices left vacant by the retirement of Leon Harris, '15, and Thomas S. Kirkpatrick, '13:

Horace W. Phillips, '08, Hardeeville, South Carolina; Frank T. Bready, '31, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

There being no nominations from the floor, and upon motion duly made and carried, these men were elected.

Alumni Luncheon in the University Dining Hall

(6) Charles H. Davidson, '31, presented the following resolution which was unanimously adopted as a tribute to the late Professor Raymon T. Johnson:

WHEREAS, RAYMON T. JOHNSON, Professor of Law at Washington and Lee University for a period of about 20 years, died on March 25, 1948:

AND WHEREAS, during the period of his service at the University Professor Johnson achieved the universal esteem and respect of the students, faculty and alumni of the University with regard to his ability as a teacher of the Law, as well as his outstanding qualities as a scholar, a speaker and as a companion,

AND WHEREAS, the Alumni of Washington and Lee University desire to officially recognize the value of his service to the University and the loss occasioned by his untimely death:

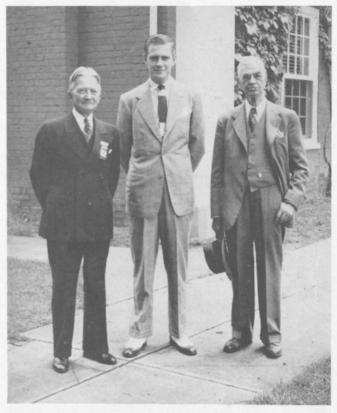

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Alumni of Washington and Lee University, at this its Annual Meeting, go on record as expressing the deep regard of the members of this organization for Professor Johnson and his service to the University, and a sense of irreparable loss at his death.

(7) Dr. L. J. Desha, '06, Executive Director of the Bicentennial Campaign, reported on the status of the Bicentennial Fund, indicating that receipts of "new money" (not previously pledged) have totalled $50,000.00 since January, 1948, or an average of $10,000.00 a month. He pointed out the necessity of raising $388,000.00 by December 31, if the Fund is not to forfeit $100,000.00, conditionally promised by the General Education Board. This will mean increasing general contributions to $55,000.00 per month for the remainder of the year. As of May 31, the amount contributed to the Fund was $1,063,000.00. Fewer than 900 alumni contributions are represented in this amount, and the necessity for larger alumni support was emphasized.

(8) Thomas S. Kirkpatrick, '13, made a plea for alumni particularly in the Bicentennial effort, pointing out that the University is really at the crossroads, and urging alumni to go back to their respective communities and stimulate interest in carrying this drive through to a successful conclusion.

(10) Thomas C. Wilson, '43, editor of the Alumni Directory, made the following report: Gentlemen:

As an important phase of its Bicentennial celebration, your University is in the process of compiling an Alumni Directory, which will contain pertinent information about every alumnus since 1749. For your interest, permit me to present a brief resume of our organization and its activities.

The Directory staff, which was organized last October, is responsible to the Faculty Committee on Alumni and is working in conjunction with both the Alumni and Bicentennial offices. Although we are primarily concerned with the publication of an accurate and complete directory, one which will be of value to every alumnus, we are at the same time rendering valuable service to the Alumni and Bicentennial offices in the form of additions to their records.

Our activities to date have been two-fold: first, planning the nature and extent of the information to be used, and the make-up and distribution of the publication, and second, collecting the necessary information.

Regarding the first, since the University lacks recent precedent for such an undertaking, we have attempted to avail ourselves of the experience and knowledge of others. The editor conferred with several authorities in the field and studied reports of others. Directories of institutions comparable to Washington and Lee were carefully studied with special attention given to the extent and presentation of the information printed for each alumnus. A sample group of alumni were canvassed regarding particular problems. The results of these investigations were submitted to the Faculty committee where they were analyzed and selected or discarded on the basis of their application to our undertaking. Although as yet no decision has been reached regarding type of print and binding, and the manner of distribution, the committee has decided that we will index our directory alphabetically, geographically and by class; that the alphabetical and class listings will include every alumnus since 1749; that the alphabetical listing will contain, when the information is available, the class, degrees (both from Washington and Lee and other institutions), residence years, descriptive occupational title, and a preferred address for every living alumnus, and class, degree and residence years for deceased alumni; that undergraduates at the time of publication shall be included to extend the utility value of the book; that current inmates of institutions and honor system cases shall be included but marked address unknown; and that the minimum prerequisite for inclusion will be the completion of one semester's

Our second activity has been more difficult. The directory will be compiled from the material in the Alumni files. By means of questionnaires which have been sent to every alumnus for whom we have a good address, we have been attempting to eliminate from these files those inaccuracies and omissions which are the inevitable and constant headache of every Alumni organization. In view of the fact that the quality of a publication of this sort is directly proportional to the cooperation of the alumni in furnishing us with accurate information about themselves, it is with regret that we report that three separate solicitations have brought responses from only an approximate 6000 of the 10,000 involved, and this in spite of repeated reminders and major simplification of the questionnaire for the convenience of the user. However, we are hopeful that current efforts to prompt these dilatory individuals into response will bring results, so that by press time we will have accurate information about every alumnus.

Our accomplishments in the realm of locating some 1500 alumni whose addresses were unknown last October have been more gratifying. Every conceivable source of information as to the whereabouts of each of these men has been tapped. Since the February issue of the Alumni Magazine carried an article devoted to this phase of our work, I will not burden you with additional descriptions, except to report that at this date we have cut that figure in half and are hopeful of having no more than 5 per cent of our living alumni "unlocated" at press time—a remarkably small percentage in comparison with that of directories of other universities. Incidentally, you can be a major assistance to us in the achievement of that goal by furnishing this office with information concerning the whereabouts of those classmates listed as "unlocated" in the recent letter from your class agent.

Although the many unknown factors make predictions hazardous, we expect the directory to be ready for distribution next April, which will necessitate submitting the copy to the printer early next Winter. The interim will be devoted to assembling, proof reading and correcting the copy, and preparing the front matter—a very exacting and painstaking proposition.

That is your Alumni Directory. We predict and are making every effort to produce a publication worthy of our Bicentennial celebration.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS C. WILSON

(11) Almand R. Coleman, '26, gave the report on University Affairs for expenditure of funds received through the Class Agent Plan, as follows:

Gentlemen:

Last year your Committee on University Affairs made recommendations concerning the expenditure of funds raised by the Class Agent Plan. As you are well aware, all contributions by Alumni this year are designated for the Bicentennial Fund. Accordingly it might seem inappropriate for your Committee to be recommending projects for expenditure when, for the time being, there are no funds of the Class Agent Plan to be expended.

It does seem appropriate, however, to report the action taken on two of the recommedations by your committee of last year:

1. The Committee recommended a placement bureau which was established last year. This bureau, under the direction of Dr. Hinton of the University faculty, has during the past year expanded its services and is adequately meeting the needs listed by the Committee in its report.

The Pi Kappa Alphas Entertain at a Lawn Party

Crowd Gathers on the Bank of the James Awaiting the Boat Race

2. The Committee last year recommended a program whereby prominent Alumni would return to Washington and Lee to lecture on their specialized fields to select groups. Such a program, under the leadership of Dr. Gaines, is being initiated next year. Six prominent Alumni have agreed to return and lecture on their fields of interest.

In addition to these matters, your Committee wishes to report that the University is and will be availing itself of the services of its Alumni in planning the various convocations and meetings celebrating the University's Bicentennial year.

- (12) An invitation from President and Mrs. Gaines was extended to all alumni to attend the President's reception from 9 to 10 o'clock, Thursday, June 3.
- (13) Retiring President Leon Harris expressed his personal appreciation for the cooperation of the alumni during his term as their president.

On motion made and carried, the meeting adjourned.

SUMMER SESSION

The 1948 summer session opened June 16 with a total enrollment of 373 students—241 in the Academic school and 132 in the School of Law.

The first six weeks academic term will end July 24, and the second will begin two days later and run into early September.

Representing the smallest group enrolled for interim courses since the war, more than 90 per cent of the students are veterans, in contrast to 60 per cent veteran enrollment during the regular session recently completed.

The light registration is attributed to the fact that the peak load of older veterans anxious to accelerate their courses of study has been passed and that many Washington and Lee students are engaged in summer studies at schools nearer their homes.

Faculty Changes

Faculty and staff changes, including the appointment of nine new teachers, has been announced by President Francis P. Gaines.

The new appointments, all effective at the beginning of the University's 200th session in September are:

Dr. Linton Lomas Barrett, professor of Spanish. Dr. Barrett comes to W. and L. from the University of Kansas where he has taught since 1941. He had previously taught romance languages at Mercer, University of Virginia, University of Alabama, Princeton, and Furman. Professor Barrett will fill the chair occupied by Professor John A. Graham, who died in 1947.

Charles W. Williams, assistant professor of mathematics. Professor Williams has held teaching positions at the University of Kentucky, Washington and Lee (1937-39), Armstrong Junior College (Savannah), U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, University of North Carolina, and North Carolina State College. He is now working for his doctor's degree in topological dynamics at the University of Virginia. Professor Williams replaces Professor Paul E. Meadows, who has just been appointed chairman of the department of mathematics at Carroll College, Wisconsin.

William J. Cooley, Jr., instructor in German. Mr. Cooley was graduated from the University of Illinois and did graduate work at Illinois and Princeton. He has spent four years as an assistant in the German department at Princeton.

David Gerard, instructor in English. Mr. Gerard holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Lafayette college and will receive his Master of Arts degree at Rutgers in August. He has been on the teaching staff at Rutgers while doing graduate work.

J. Neville McArthur, instructor in Spanish. Mr. McArthur received his A.B. degree from the College of William and Mary, an A.M. from Middlebury College, and has done further graduate study at the National University of Mexico. He is now teaching at the University of Miami in Florida.

Miss Wanda Lee Spears, librarian in the School of Law. Miss Spears received her law degree from the University of Kentucky, where she was on the Kentucky Law Review staff.

Edward P. Whaley, instructor in chemistry. Mr. Whaley holds a Bachelor of Science degree from VPI and is a candidate for a master's degree there in August.

Lieutenant Kenneth C. Runquist, instructor in Physical Education. Lt. Runquist is an instructor in physical education at VMI and will be loaned for part time duties at W. and L.

Charles O. Voigt, Jr., assistant professor of journalism. Mr. Voigt, who has a B.A. degree from Stanford University and an M.A. in journalism and political science from the same institution, has had seven years experience with the San Francisco Chronicle, the United Press in San Francisco and Portland, and the Associated Press in Denver and Kansas City. He briefly taught English at Kochi Junior College, Kochi, Japan. For the past two years, since his wartime service with the Marine Corps, he has been the publisher and editor of two weekly newspapers in the Kansas City area.

Further appointments are expected to be announced during the summer, President Gaines said, including a new director of dramatic activities.

At the same time, three promotions were made known by Dr. Gaines. Dr. Lewis K. Johnson has been promoted from associate professor to professor of commerce and business administration; Dr. Charles W. Turner was promoted from instructor to assistant professor of history; and Edmund Berkeley from instructor to assistant professor of biology.

Dr. Gaines said that Dr. Glover D. Hancock, whose retirement as Dean of the School of Commerce and Administration had been previously announced, has been requested to serve as commerce school head through the 1948-49 session.

Stephenson, instructor in German since 1946; to begin graduate work. James L. Price, director of Religious Work since 1946; to attend Cambridge University.

PORTRAITS

A portrait of Colgate W. Darden, Virginia's World War II governor, was presented to the University in exercises in Lee Chapel on May 21, completing a trilogy of paintings of Virginia war governors.

Two previous presentations included portraits of Governor John Letcher, Virginia's chief executive during the War Between the States, and Governor Westmoreland Davis, who served the Commonwealth during World War I.

The presentation was made by Captain Greenlee D. Letcher, of Lexington, son of the 1860's governor. Dr. George Hutcheson Denny, president of Washington and Lee from 1902 until 1911, accepted the portrait on behalf of the university. Dr. Denny was appointed in 1944 by Governor Darden to serve as chairman of the Virginia Education Commission.

Julian Lamar, of New York, painted the Darden portrait.

LEE PORTRAIT

An oil portrait of General Robert E. Lee, the work of John Dabour, Smyrna-born painter, was presented to Washington and Lee University Saturday, May 29.

The portrait is the gift of Walter Herron Taylor, III, retired Norfolk city director of public works, to W. and L.'s Robert E. Lee Chapel.

Taylor presented the portrait to Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of the University. The donor is an alumnus of another school, Virginia Military Institute.

The painting passed to Taylor from his father, the late Walter H. Taylor, CSA, aide and adjutant to General Lee throughout the War Between the States. The portrait came originally from a member of the Byrd family and is believed to have been executed by Dabour during Lee's 10-day stay in Baltimore in the spring of 1869.

Taylor said he decided to give the portrait to W. and L. as a means of protecting it from possible damage and also to permit a large number of persons to have opportunity to see Lee as he was when he was president of Washington College, forerunner of Washington and Lee.

MINNEAPOLIS

The Minnesota alumni held a meeting at the Minikahda Club in Minneopalis on the evening of June 26. About forty alumni, friends and wives heard a talk by L. J. Desha, '06, and enjoyed a showing of the Washington and Lee alumni movie. The meeting was noteworthy for the distances traveled by many of those present, including Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Neel, '28, Albert Lea, Minnesota; Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Broders, Jr., '38; Dr. and Mrs. Harley E. Cluxton, Jr., '37; Dr. and Mrs. William Longan, '41; Dr. and Mrs. Albert A. Pollack, '38—all from the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Yeomans, '42, Jamesville, Wisconsin; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis Hall, '24, Waconia, Minnesota.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by Compton Broders and E. F. (Budd) Bobb, '43.

* * * * BOSTON

On May 14 the first meeting of the Washington and Lee alumni in the Boston metropolitan area was held at the University Club. Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Flick of the University flew to Boston for the meeting which was held for the purpose of organizing the alumni in behalf of the Bicentennial Fund Drive and to set up a nucleus for an alumni association for Boston.

Approximately thirty alumni and their wives attended the cocktail and dinner meeting which was organized by Jack Pierce, '36, chairman, and a committee made up of Tom Mc-Cutcheon, '40, Murray Both, '40, and Bill Nutt, '43.

Mr. Charles F. Collins, past president of Boston University General Alumni Association welcomed Dr. and Mrs. Flick on their first visit to Boston and offered his encouragement to the group and its efforts.

The high spot of the evening was a talk by Dr. Flick, describing the hopes and plans of the Bicentennial program. His up-to-date reporting on the progress of the Fund and of the people and activities in Lexington was a fitting introduction to the movie about Washington and Lee in color and sound, in itself, a heart warming climax to the enthusiastically received evening.

ROANOKE

Speaking to about 100 alumni and friends of Washington and Lee, at a dinner meeting on May 19, at the Hotel Roanoke, Dr. Gaines outlined present conditions in connection with the Bicentennial program. Clifton A. Woodrum, Jr., LLB. '33, president of the local chapter, presided.

The Roanoke Times of May 21 carried the following editorial:

The Traditions of W. and L.

"Roanoke alumni of Washington and Lee must surely have thrilled with justifiable pride Wednesday evening as they listened to Dr. Francis P. Gaines, the talented president of their alma mater, eloquently recite in his own inimitable way the impact of the heritage of George Washington and Robert E. Lee on the lives of the graduates, students and faculty members.

"Dr. Gaines is perhaps better qualified than any other living man to tell the story, for he lives not only by but in the tradition of Washington and Lee in his day to day guidance of the affairs of the great university over in Lexington from whose halls have come so many distinguished leaders in public life and in the professions.

"The love of an alumnus for his alma mater is a very wonderful thing. It is something that is a very part of his being, even though he may not be wholly conscious of its existence. It nevertheless permeates his thoughts and influences his thinking to a degree far greater than he realizes.

"The sons of Washington and Lee have a truly great heritage. The Bicentennial program to increase the institution's endowment by $3,000,000 is one deserving of their enthusiastic and generous support. Dr. Gaines was the bearer of a message Wednesday evening which should rekindle and stimulate the fires of devotion in the breast of every alumnus. It is a tremendous undertaking but an eminently deserving one."—Roanoke Times, May 21, 1948.

* * * * * * RICHMOND

Approximately 75 alumni and their guests met for dinner at the Country Club of Virginia on June 23, with Dr. Atwood Wash, president of the Richmond alumni chapter, presiding. Representatives from the University present were Dr. L. J. Desha, Executive Director of the Bicentennial, Professor Almand Coleman and Cy Young, Alumni Secretary. The sound-color moving picture was shown. Dr. Desha outlined the progress of the Bicentennial Fund campaign to date. Officers elected for the coming year were Kenneth P. Lane, '36, President, William Jacobs, '29, Vice-President, Cassell Adamson, '37, Secretary, and R. W. Jordan, '26, Treasurer.

CHICAGO

Approximately 70 alumni, parents, friends of the University and students matriculating this fall attended a dinner at the University Club of Chicago, May 21, to launch a Bicentennial Fund drive among Chicago area alumni. One of the last cities to undertake active participation in the drive commemorating the 200th anniversary, Chicago is the center of an alumni group of almost 200.

Guest of honor at the dinner and speaker for the evening was Frank J. Gilliam, Dean of Students, who brought word from Lexington on the postwar progress being made and the outlook for the future. Following his talk those attending witnessed the sound-color film, now familiar to most alumni throughout the country.

JOHN A. GRAHAM MEMORIAL

The memory of John A. Graham, teacher and composer, was honored with a remarkable memorial in Lexington on Saturday, May 1. The occasion was sponsored by the Washington and Lee Bicentennial as a part of its program and was participated in by many of Mr. Graham's friends in numerous ways.

The general plan and its details were inspired and directed by Miss Mary Monroe Penick who had been working on it for months.
