

The Alumni Magazine

of Washington and Lee University

Facsimile of the Thomas Nelson Page Medal

Special Report of the ALUMNI CAMPAIGN

Jl 26 '34

THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE

Published by Washington and Lee Alumni, Incorporated, Drawer 897, Lexington, Virginia

Vol. IX

SUMMER, 1933

No. 1

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office of Lexington, Va., September 15, 1924

DIRECTORY

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

President, Walter A. McDonald, '10

Secretary, H. K. ("Cy") Young, '17

Vice-President, John Randolph Tucker, '02

Treasurer, Stuart Moore, '15

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Dozier A. DeVane, '08

Edward W. Lee, '13

Dr. John W. Claudy, '09

Herbert Grant Jahncke, '30

LOCAL ASSOCIATIONS

Appalachian Association, Tenn.-Va.—J. M. Barker, Jr.,
Security Investment Company.

Atlanta, Ga.—Ewing Humphries, Healey Building.

Birmingham, Ala.—Mark Hanna, First National Bank Bldg.

Charleston, W. Va.—W. W. Donnally, Kanawha Valley Bank

Charlotte, N. C.—Phil Howerton, 1100 Dilworthe Rd., W.

Cumberland Valley Association, Hagerstown, Md.—C. Wells
Little, Negley Building.

Dallas, Texas—A. A. Lander, 803 Marvin Building.

Detroit, Mich.—Dr. Edward L. Lyons, Parke Davis Co.

Fort Worth, Texas—E. S. McCord, 1309 Hoge Building.

Huntington, W. Va.—J. J. Fitchett, Union Bank.

Jacksonville, Fla.—R. A. Baker, 3238 St. Johns Avenue.

Lynchburg, Va.—Tom Kirkpatrick, Peoples Bank Building.

Louisville, Ky.—George Burke, 421 W. Market Street.

Memphis, Tenn.—Maynard Holt, Oliver-Finnie Co.

New York—Edward W. Lee, 1350 Broadway.

New Orleans, La.—E. E. Dufour, 5240 Prytania Street.

Norfolk, Va.—Walter Hoffman, Seaboard Bank Building.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—C. P. Robinson, 802 Park Building.

Philadelphia, Pa.—E. W. Wilson, 1419 Land Title Building.

Pocohontas Club, Bluefield, W. Va.—A. L. Tyree, Bluefield, West Virginia.

Roanoke, Va.—Ran Whittle, Boxley Building.

Richmond, Va.—Joe Bernie, Morris Plan Bank

San Antonio, Texas—Mr. Albert Steves, Jr., Steves Sash and Door Company.

Washington, D. C.—Woodson P. Houghton, Southern Bldg.

President's Message

THIS issue is composed chiefly of little glimpses of the efforts put forth by the alumni for the University, efforts among all classes of Washington and Lee men, efforts in every section of the country.

The threads of the narrative sometimes seem tiny and sometimes are whimsical but the pattern that emerges is one of great loveliness, the warp of loyalty and the woof of hope.

Those who watch closely and anxiously the destiny of the University are convinced that the records herein suggested are of epoch-making possibilities. Perhaps even when shadows are thick about us, we are watching the dawn of a new day.

Certainly to every man listed in this issue, to all whose names may not appear, to those who may have been unable to offer more for the present than a sympathetic good-will,—to all who have shared in this endeavor, the deepest and most sincere thanks of Alma Mater are tendered.

Francis Peniston Gaines

SNAPSHOTS ON ALUMNI DAY

(1) Dr. Gaines; (2) Dozier DeVane, Walter McDonald, Bill Claudy; (3) Dozier DeVane, Ran Cabell, Ran Tucker, Stuart Moore, Walter McDonald, Cy Young; (4) The president of the Alumni Association and Dr. Gaines; (5) Reunion of the class of '08; (6) Reunion of the class of '13.

Alumni at Finals, 1933

FINALS began with the first Registration at Alumni Headquarters, Thursday, June 1st. The first one in was Roy Nichols of 1927, from Norfolk. The first fifty that registered on Friday were youngsters returning for the dance. The first of the sedate was David Burch of 1926, from New York, who hasn't missed a Finals since he graduated. Slightly older and less sedate was Eddie Cameron of 1924, from Durham and Duke. Scattered were class-agents Lewis Powell of 1929, from Richmond, Basil Watkins, 1926, from Lynchburg, Beef Hoffman, 1931, from Norfolk and with him Major Heth Tyler, class-agent for 1896, who came to see his son Jimmie get his law degree. Ki Williams of 1915, came from Waynesboro. Carr and MacKenzie, law partners in Portsmouth, co-class-agents of 1932. Walter McDonald of 1910, Dr. John Wm. Claudy of 1909, Dozier DeVane of 1908, celebrating the 25th reunion of his class. Dr. Thos. J. Farrar of 1895, Mr. Harrington Waddell of 1893, Dean Douglas Anderson of 1890, who was also here to receive an honorary degree. Col. Walter Forrester of 1880, Dean Harry Campbell of 1882, Capt. Greenlee Letcher of 1888.

A number of class-agents planned to come who were unable at the last minute to do so. John W. Davis of 1892 was detained by J. P. Morgan. Clarence Sager of 1912 by business in court. Ben Fiery of 1913, an associate of Newton D. Baker, by business in Cleveland. Pret Holland of 1906 by serious illness in his family. Morrison Hutcheson of 1902, Harry Carmichael of 1899 planned to come and could not.

Nearly 200 registered in the alumni office and half this many escaped.

The Smoker.—At Alumni Headquarters, on the eve of Alumni Day, there were about a hundred and twenty-five men in town for Finals, who came in during the evening for a smoker. 3.2 was refreshing but the allotment per alumnus not sufficient for more than refreshment. A cold buffet was served in the hall. The porch, the office and the big, shabby, comfortable alumni room were packed but not too packed for comfort of conversation and the revival of associations and memories that went back through fifty years.

The Board Meeting took place Monday morning at 10:30 and continued until luncheon. The Board reconvened after the meeting in the afternoon and continued until time for the Boat Race. Their business chiefly concerned the details and administration of the Alumni Campaign. At the second meeting the newly elected members, Dr. Claudy of 1909 and Herbert Jahncke of 1930 were installed.

The Luncheon taxed the limit of Mrs. Cy Young's managerial ability and surpassed Cy Young's optimistic estimate. Three hundred and thirty-five were served two full courses and four hundred or more had at least one course. It was the largest crowd ever gathered for this annual event. There were members of this year's senior classes present for the first time. The Dining Hall was decorated and the buffet tables were set there. Tables on the lawn in the shade of the trees, on as perfect a day as June and Lexington combined could achieve, with a wholly representative social atmosphere, wives, sons, and daughters, faculty, alumni and their wives and daughters, made the luncheon an important and delightful affair.

The Association Meeting was held in the Library immediately after the luncheon. Here also was a larger number than ever before came to a meeting. Dr. Gaines welcomed the alumni back home, said it was too obvious a thing to do, said it was superfluous but made a speech, in spite of himself, that was gracious, polished and charming.

Pete Gibson, 1913, here for the reunion of his class which he managed, expressed for all alumni the official welcome to the senior classes into the Association. Seniors and former students, upon leaving college, become members of the Association automatically without dues. This, in the nature of an induction, was the first time special notice has been taken of the seniors in making them members and in charging them with the obligations that go with the privilege.

Minutes were read and reports were made. Mat Paxton, 1918, reported on the publications of the Association which is the Alumni Magazine. This Magazine is published by an economic management on a very small subscription basis. His recommendation was to arouse a wide interest among the alumni and a much larger subscription as a result of it. Following this recommendation a subscription blank is enclosed in this special report. If this copy pleases, risk $2.50.

Charles Glasgow, 1909, reported for the athletic committee, games and contests won and lost. He expressed optimism for the future and was promptly supported by Tex Tilson. He read the schedule of football games, the first on September 23rd with West Virginia University at Charleston, Homecoming, November 11th, with University of Virginia at Lexington. A football schedule is printed on the back cover.

Stuart Moore, 1915, reported on resolutions. One was presented and adopted, and is printed in full elsewhere. It was on behalf of a revival of the boat clubs, the annual race and all their traditions.

The nominating committee's report was made by John L. Campbell, 1909, who nominated for two vacancies on the Alumni Board of Trustees, Dr. John William Claudy, 1909, of Pennsylvania, and Herbert Grant Jahncke, 1930, of New Orleans. Both were unanimously elected. Dr. Claudy is the ranking class-agent in the Alumni Campaign and Herbert Jahncke represents for the first time, the younger alumni on the Board of Trustees.

For membership on the Alumni Council, Charles S. Glasgow, 1909, Robert S. Hutcheson, 1910, Laurence C. Witten, 1910, were re-elected and L. J. Boxley, 1909, was elected as a new member.

Cy Young, secretary of the Alumni Association, made an oral report and confined it to an expression of his enthusiasm for the campaign and the new administration. He outlined a trip he and Mr. McDonald had made last summer visiting nearly every organized Washington and Lee center.

The Treasurer, Stuart Moore, 1915, reported funds in the treasury and received a loud ovation. He read receipts and disbursements and a balance on hand that was received with applause. A detail of this is given elsewhere in connection with the president's report on the campaign.

The President's report and proceedings thereafter are given in full. After this and Dr. Claudy's speech, the entrance of the Rector with a resolution from the Board of Trustees of the University, Dr. Gaines' announcement of the Thomas Nelson Page medal and its award in 1933 to Walter A. McDonald, the meeting was adjourned by John Randolph Tucker, 1902, vice-president of the Association and at that moment in the chair.

The Boat Race and the boat clubs and all their traditions will be revived in the fall and an account of next year's events will be more spirited and interesting than this year's. There were a few people, not many, maybe a hundred, and automobiles on the island were a disfigurement to that historic landscape. But a little after six o'clock, the shells came around the curve and there were feeble noises, slightly reminiscent, like an echo, of the substance and reality that used to be a boat race. The Harry Lees won. Miss Annie had made their flag as she always had and wore their colors and had to be watched to be kept from falling into the river which was at least one traditional, correct and historic feature.

Mint grows along that stream, fresh, luxuriant and profuse. The mint was pruned for the benefit of its growth and bouquets were taken away as souvenirs. Even this looked like a gesture, bravado without substance.

Dr. and Mrs. Gaines' Reception by nine o'clock was in full swing, Japanese lanterns on that historic gallery and music drowned by the crowds inside. With the President of the University and Mrs. Gaines were the Rector of the University and Mrs. St. Clair, the President of the Alumni Association and no Mrs. McDonald, Dr. and Mrs. John Hill Morgan of New York, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Robert of Mississippi, Mrs. Gaines' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Tucker, and Col. Murray F. Edwards of the Virginia Military Institute. The entire community and all visitors were received by Dr. and Mrs. Gaines until 10 o'clock when the Senior-Alumni Ball opened at the Gymnasium.

The Senior-Alumni Ball this year had the traditional figures, the seniors with their girls, the alumni with their wives, daughters or partners and the Alumni figure, simple in its order, dignified in its procedure, outnumbered at least the seniors and gave the ball a reason, more apparent than usual, for its being the closing feature of Alumni Day.

Commencement on Tuesday, was held in Lee Chapel. The academic procession came down the straight path from Washington College to the Chapel, the graduates leading and forming two lines through which their elders passed, headed by Dr. Gaines and Sir Josiah Stamp in the pink and red robes of his honors and the familiar Oxford velvet hat. Sir Josiah Stamp, of London, addressed the graduating classes and offered them sympathy and apology for the civilization they are emerging into, rather than the conventional congratulations. There was in his tolerance, a veiled advice and a restrained encouragement in the suggested guidance he gave for these shattered times. He spoke as a disillusioned elder to an intelligent youth and left, because of his honesty, an impression upon these boys that neither the fatigue of Finals nor the oppressive atmosphere at that moment, could counteract. It was brilliant, scholarly and frank.

One hundred and forty-six graduates received diplomas. A score of prizes and awards was made. Eight visitors, including three alumni, received honorary degrees. The list appears elsewhere. The alumni so honored were Dean Douglas S. Anderson, Judge D. Lawrence Groner, and Rev. A. F. Osburn.

The Final Ball ended Finals and the dawn of Wednesday, June 7th, closed the session for 1933. At an hour when all good people should be in bed and the bad at rest, the Final Ball opened with an elaborate, an intricate and an unusually beautiful figure. Forty students, representatives of every phase of campus and University life, led by George McClure, President of Finals, with their girls in white gowns and big bouquets of red roses, led the Ball to the music of Jan Garber's orchestra. The decorations were black, green and silver, ingenious and becoming. The Gym was a vast night club, all equipment, walls and ceiling covered. Gus Morgan, a sophomore, son of J. T. Morgan, 1890, of Memphis had all the clever ideas and supervised the work of decorating.

By Wednesday noon there were few in the dormitories or in fraternity houses or on the campus. By Wednesday evening there were only the stragglers who hate to leave, who say good-bye a dozen times, who come the next day with excuses, who stay on, for wherever they go, they will be homesick for this place. After the Final Ball, a big football player, colossus, was digging his fists in his eyes and a sympathetic friend said:

"What you got in your eye?"

"Nothing," he gulped. "I don't want to go home."

The President's Report

REPORT FROM THE PRESIDENT OF WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC., TO THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
IN GENERAL MEETING, JUNE 5TH, 1933.

IT WILL not be a surprise to anybody if I confine my report and the little I have to say to a brief history of the Alumni Campaign. I am not unconcerned with anything that affects the past, the present or the future of Washington and Lee, but I am more particularly concerned with those activities that bring the alumni into touch with the University. The campaign we have been engaged in, has had as its ideal, a closer touch, a warmer feeling, a more informed point of view toward the University. That is the chief and more practical of its ideals but there has also been an unescapable benefit to us all in getting into communication again with each other. On such an occasion as this, there are two channels through which flow feelings that we do not express elsewhere. One is the common, indeterminate feeling of affection and gratitude we all have for the University, the campus, for Lexington and the environment that is seated here but carried away from here with us, a part of us for life. The other is the warmth and loyalty and significance of our friendships. At this time, I am sure I do not presume and I am equally sure I would fail to represent you, as head of the Alumni Association, if I did not confess for myself and state for each one of you, that these emotions are very strong in us and are effective for the good of the University and for binding our own ties closer, year by year.

There has always been an Alumni Association but it has been maintained by the grace of the University and not by the support of alumni themselves. There has not been an organization in charge of its own affairs, self-supporting, economically independent, giving relief to the University instead of accepting maintenance from it.

There is now a new policy that has been tested and found to have strength and purpose in it. The history of this change is, as briefly as I can give it to you, this:

Last fall, five trustees and an enthusiastic alumnus, started a fund by the gift of $100 each. This was the expression of their feeling that the alumni should do something for themselves, because of the independence it would create and for the relief it would give the University and its administration. This fund started what has since been called the Sponsorship Committee of the Alumni Campaign. These men were asked to form a special committee to add to the $600 by gifts of $25 each. The origin of the campaign therefore lay in the impulse and idea of these six men. At about the same time, or soon after these trustees had met and started the fund, Dr. Gaines wrote me a letter which I turned over to a special committee or our own board for study, for survey and report. This committee surveyed the activities and plans of all colleges and universities whose alumni are organized to support their own associations and whose associations appropriate out of their surpluses, substantial help to their administrations. This careful, painstaking study and its resulting report and recommendations were published in a folder with Dr. Gaines' letter.

The first effort in the campaign was to send copies of this folder to the 100 men selected for the Special Committee who were asked to sponsor the general campaign and subscribe $2500 to underwrite the expenses of reaching almost 7000 alumni. Nearly $2000 was subscribed which was sufficient automatically to authorize the general campaign and put into work the plan of the Committee of the Alumni Board of Trustees.

The plan was to get into touch with every alumnus by class organization through a class-agent appointed for each class. The survey had determined that this method was the simplest, the most practical and effective by test. The class-agents were appointed, which means in politer phrase, invited to carry on the class campaigns and what I have now to report to you and the success that has been assured, are due to the spontaneous and energetic, generous and optimistic work of those men who, together, have raised nearly $3000 for the self-support of our Alumni Association.

In terms of money, considering these hard-pressed times, this is an achievement that we are all grateful to acknowledge. In other terms, it is impossible to evaluate what has been accomplished. A beginning has been made. There has been a renewal of interest, of devotion and a means provided for its expression. Next year, there will be more contributors to the fund and more money for the Association and the University. Each year after this the number of those giving will grow and the amount will grow until this association, of which we here are only a handful who happen to be fortunate enough to be here, will function not for itself alone but for the University in ways that will be relied upon for its internal economy, or for its extension or for its plans for the future. We alumni, for whom the University has existed, who have been molded by it, who have prospered and been made happier because of it, will by the force of our devotion and the simple arithmetic of our numbers, give back into that great reservoir a little each year, so that its riches and power and influence can be increased and the contribution it makes to our civilization and culture can go deeper and be spread farther.

I want to give you the details of what has been done and I will ask you please to identify yourselves as I read the classes, year by year, with that portion which you and your class-agent represent. The results are varied and have not yet been analysed and studied to discover what factors are obvious and significant, in controlling the higher responses as well as responsible for the lower ones. This will be done so that next year a more level and uniform result can be expected and achieved. I will give you the results without comment, except in every case, my own very warm and cordial appreciation of the support I have had and the invaluable help it has been in carrying out the general campaign plan.

Report of the Alumni Campaign by Classes

AS OF JULY 15th, 1933

Class	Number	Contributors	Amount	Class-agent
1934		1	$ 25.00	In Memoriam
1933		8	10.00	Voluntary
1932	360	19	57.00	H. W. MacKenzie, Jr.; Allen S. Carr
1931	326	23	87.50	Walter E. Hoffman
1930	290	7	33.00	H. Graham Morison
1929	316	24	124.50	Lewis F. Powell, Jr.
1928	276	10	41.00	Rhydon C. Latham; Robert F. Howe
1927	323	12	41.50	Zeb H. Herndon
1926	294	19	64.50	Basil G. Watkins
1925	292	7	57.50	John Cooper Morrison, Jr.
1924	260	11	57.00	W. Goodridge Sale, Jr.
1923	206	1	10.00	J. W. McCallum
1922	213	1	2.00	Joe L. Silverstein—costs contributed
1921	222	7	92.00	T. X. Parsons—costs contributed
1920	196	4	50.00	Morris H. Hester
1919	99	7	47.00	L. T. Brown—costs contributed
1918	269	1	5.00	O. M. Stumpf—costs contributed
S.A.T.C.	181	2	2.00
1917	172	8	51.00	Jackson R. Collins—costs contributed
1916	141	9	45.00	Reuben A. Lewis, Jr.—costs contributed
1915	135	12	74.00	Ki Williams—costs contributed
1914	139	21	156.00	Clarence L. Sager—costs contributed
1913	161	16	93.50	Benj. F. Fiery—costs contributed
1912	201	17	111.00	Wm. A. Hyman—costs contributed

Class	Number	Contributors	Amount	Class-agent
1911	176	12	127.00	A. Dana Hodgdon—costs contributed
1910	172	17	214.50	Walter A. McDonald—costs contributed
1909	140	21	314.00	Dr. John Wm. Claudy—costs contributed
1908	119	21	176.50	Dozier A. DeVane—costs contributed
1907	90	6	51.00	W. L. Lord—costs contributed
1906	101	30	124.15	L. Pretlow Holland—costs contributed
1905	69	1	50.00	Eli M. Millen
1904	70	2	105.00	Waller C. Hardy—costs contributed
1903	64	8	73.50	Dr. Samuel McP. Glasgow—costs contributed
1902	60	6	31.00	Dr. J. Morrison Hutcheson—costs contributed
1901	46	9	73.00	Matthew Page Andrews—costs contributed
1900	45	5	65.00	L. R. Holmes—costs contributed
1899	37	12	114.00	H. St. G. T. Carmichael—costs contributed
1898	30	3	15.00	Richard W. Flournoy—costs contributed
1897	66	12	57.00	F. Petrie Hamilton—costs contributed
1896	67	7	50.00	Stockton Heth Tyler—costs contributed
1895	52	4	35.00	Dr. Thos. J. Farrar
1894	58	4	26.00	James Veech—costs contributed
1893	68	8	69.00	Harrington Waddell—costs contributed
1892	59	4	140.00	John W. Davis—costs contributed
1891	52	2	15.00	John M. Graham—costs contributed
1890	43	7	86.00	Dean Douglas Anderson—costs contributed
1889	32	5	17.00	Wade H. Ellis; Judge Jas. Quarles—costs contrib'd
1888	31	2	25.00	Capt. G. D. Letcher—costs contributed
1887	33	Col. Walter Forrester
1886	21	1	10.00	Dr. W. McC. White
1885	23	1	2.00	Col. Forrester
1884	19	1	1.00	Col. Forrester
1883	19	Col. Forrester
1882	16	Dean H. D. Campbell
1881	11	Col. Forrester
1880	9	1	10.00	Col. Forrester
1879 to 1869	165	6	51.00	John M. Glenn
		465	$3464.65

NOTE: The notation "costs contributed" was added as an acknowledgment of an important and much appreciated contribution to the campaign. It is incomplete for some campaigns are not yet finished.

Bill Claudy's Speech

AFTER reading the list of classes, Mr. McDonald asked Bill Claudy in the following preface, to say what a class-agent's code should be, in his opinion:

"I am now going to have a phase of the campaign represented by one who, more than any one connected with it, is able from a sentimental point of view, to tell you what it has meant. The benefit of the campaign has not been confined to those who have been fortunate enough to contribute money. There are hundreds who did not, who could not, who have made a contribution wholly in the spirit of the revival we have caused, by the expression through their class-agents of a deep and abiding interest in the University and of loyalty to each other and their memories of other days. Bill Claudy of the class of 1909 is the ranking class-agent in the awakening of a wider interest and in securing, in a way that defies analysis, the general response and the particular confession of the emotional relationship we all have but are inarticulate in finding outlets for. He can tell you how he himself has felt in doing what he did and how others have felt in their response. If I summarize or formulate our success, it would be in a definition of what Bill Claudy has done and I am going to leave that to him and with that, this year's chapter in the history of the Alumni Association closes."

Dr. Claudy responded:

"It has been rather difficult for me to analyse exactly what did take place in the class of 1909. All in all, I think the class of 1909 was an awfully good class for this particular experiment. There is no doubt but what a great deal can be done by making your letters to the men very personal. No letter that went out from my office was written except in a very personal way. I tried to find some point of contact that had probably been forgotten over the years, but which I could revive and touch upon. I do not believe that there was any particular intellectual appeal to the men. I think it was primarily emotional and sentimental. I believe we can stand a little sentiment today after these hard-boiled times.

"As I got letters back I discovered this: That a great many of the men were hungry for some word from some individual in the university who had a personal interest in him. The letters that came back, if they were ever published would show that this is true. In some instances men had succeeded; in others they had succeeded and failed; and in other instances they were trying to struggle out of some personal problem or discouragement. Every letter that came back I answered personally. I think I was fortunate in having unlimited clerical help. Some of you may not know it, but I am at present head of a penal institution of over a thousand men, many of whom have had that sort of experience, and these men would come and work at the office at night to answer my letters. These convicts took a great interest in the task that I was trying to do and were continually asking me if I had heard from this one or that one of the various fellows.

"I think the motives that prompted me were the motives that should prompt all of us to do all we can.

"First of all, I think that we owe it to this institution to have a sustained interest in everything that the institution is doing and is attempting to do. I have never picked up a newspaper since the year of 1909 that mentioned the school, whether it was athletic news or mention of a visiting speaker, but what I was interested. And I can't understand any man who has lived in this place and absorbed its ideals who can fail to be interested in everything that the university is attempting to do through the years.

"In the second place, I think the thing that prompted me was a certain feeling of undiminishing loyalty. I believe that is a thing that increases with the years if you have imbibed it at first.

"The third thing is this: I believe I owe to this university a debt that I can never possibly discharge in dollars and cents and that anything I put into the task that is given me to do in the interest of this place is helping me to discharge in a very small measure the debt which I owe for the appreciation it has given me for all manner of things in life.

"I think when I have said this, I have said all; for it is all that is in my heart."

From the Board of Trustees

After Dr. Claudy's speech, the Rector of the University, Mr. George Walker St. Clair, came into the meeting with a resolution which he presented and read.

"RESOLVED: That the Board of Trustees hereby expresses its deep gratitude to President Walter A. McDonald, to the alumni board of trustees, to the agents of the various classes of alumni, and to all other alumni whose generous support has prompted the special effort to develop a new understanding and spirit of helpfulness on the part of the alumni. The Board of Trustees of the University notes with deep satisfaction the results which have followed this movement and believes that those alumni who have labored for this cause have written a significant and encouraging chapter in the history of Washington and Lee."

The Thomas Nelson Page Medal

The vice-president of the Association, Mr. John Randolph Tucker, 1902, asked for the chair in order that Dr. Gaines might appear before the meeting and present to the president, the Thomas Nelson Page Medal. Dr. Gaines said:

"My remarks are very brief. The Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee University decided at the beginning of this year that in collaboration with officials of the University it would award each year a medal to that alumnus who had been conspicuous for services in the interests of the University. It was decided to name this medal after an alumnus of great distinction, and after deliberation we have decided to name it for an alumnus who was a student here under Robert E. Lee and who more than any I know distinguished himself in letters and in diplomacy and in the field of religion, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page.

"One side of the medal carries the likeness of this great man and the legend 'Beloved Son of Washington and Lee, Thomas Nelson Page, 1853-1922;' and on the other side, 'The Thomas Nelson Page Medal presented annually to an alumnus of Washington and Lee for his devotion and service to the University.'

"I have been asked to read this statement:

Citation of Award of Thomas Nelson Page Medal
June 5, 1933
Walter A. McDonald, 1910

"Incarnating in his personality the charm of manner, poise of judgment and nobility of character which are the ideals of Washington and Lee, he has throughout a busy career reflected honor upon the Alma Mater which claims him.

"Particularly within the past year he has dedicated the power of his resolution and the richness of his influence to the cause of the University. As president of the general association, he has energized every feature of alumni effort; and in promoting the specific program for a more definite interest and support, he has worked with consistent devotion, with patience, and with tireless faith.

"Bringing to the former students of Washington and Lee a new interpretation of the values conferred by the University and of the obligations implied by these benefits, he has strengthened the beautiful bond between the academic mother and her sons."

Resolution

To the President of the University and the Executive Committee of the Faculty:

The following resolution was proposed by the Board of Trustees of the Alumni Association to the Association in general meeting on Monday, the 5th of June, 1933, and was unanimously adopted:

That the University and the student body in the last few years have suffered the loss of a feature in campus life, through gradual neglect and indifference to the annual Boat Race during Finals.

That the Boat Clubs and the Boat Races are rich in tradition and in color and offer an almost unique athletic and social feature in Southern colleges.

That interest be revived next autumn, when college opens, by appointing a special committee from the executives of the student body, members of the two boat clubs and the Alumni Secretary, to carry on a campaign in the interest of boating by soliciting membership in one club or the other with a view to enlisting as high a percentage of the student body and members of the faculty as possible.

That a nominal fee (25 cents is sufficient) be collected and turned in to the treasurers of the clubs and a roster of membership be kept so that a fund sufficient to carry the very small expense of the clubs during spring practice and the races at Finals will be created.

That during the special week's campaign, those members joining, be given club buttons and asked to wear them so that identification can be made and proof given of actual interest in the revival of these clubs.

That the Board of Trustees of the Alumni Association, after investigation and due thought, feel justified in asking for special effort and an organized campaign before the Boat Clubs and their traditions and the contribution they can make in the peculiar and attractive social color they lend, die beyond the possibility of revival.

H. K. Young, Secretary
The Board of Trustees

June 5, 1933 Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc.

An Unusual Analysis

THE CLASS-AGENT for the class of 1899, made for his own benefit, an analysis of his class response that has unusual interest. It is published for whatever special interest other class-agents or members of the class of 1899 might discover in it.

Number in Class of 1899.....	37
Number Reported Dead.....	2
Number Replying.....	22
Number Contributing.....	12
Total Percentage of Class Replying.....	63%
Total Percentage of Class Contributing.....	34%
Average Contribution per Replier.....	$5.18
Average Contribution per Contributor.....	9.50
Average Contribution per Member of Class.....	3.26

Profession	Number in Class	Unheard from	Replied but did not contribute	Contributors	Amount Contributed	Average contribution per Contributor	Per cent of Total Amount Contributed
Lawyer	12	7	3	2	$20.00	$10.00	17.5%
Executive	8	2	3	3	60.00	20.00	52.6%
Merchant	3	1	1	1	1.00	1.00	.9%
Minister.....	2	2	15.00	7.50	13.2%
Engineer	3	1	2	8.00	4.00	7.0%
Real Estate ...	1	1
Insurance	1	1
Doctor	1	1	5.00	5.00	4.4%
Professor	1	1
Army Officer..	1	1	5.00	5.00	4.4%
Unclassified ...	2	2
(Dead)	2
Totals.....	37	13	10	12	114.00	9.50	100%

THE CREED OF AN ALUMNUS

My dear Doctor Farrar: With your letter before me I am thinking of the Prodigal Son of old—not so much that I have wasted the endowments received from my Alma Mater, the fostering mother of my student days, as that in returning to her house, so to speak, I am bringing little to offer her in testimony of my appreciation of the loving care with which she prepared me for my adventures in “far countries” and the wealth of inspiration with which she started me on my way.

Nearly forty years have slipped by since the portals of Washington and Lee opened outwardly to admit me into the wider world. But how short a time is even that to memory leaping back to the most glorious period of my life! And even now I seem once more to be treading her sacred halls, walking beneath her enchanted trees, breathing the exalted atmosphere that is her very soul. There are those who say they owe nothing to their Alma Mater, even as there are those who deny their debt to loving parents; but to me the mere mention of Washington and Lee has always transported me back to the early nineties—to the morning of life, when hopes were undimmed by shadows of disappointments, when courage was unimpaired by recollection of failures, when friendships were untarnished by thoughts of selfish gain, when love was mysterious and holy, untouched by passion’s scorching flame, when life its very self was a thing of perfect beauty and joyousness unalloyed, and the whole world was mine, to mold according to my buoyant heart’s desire. So, if only because of her association with this hey-day of young manhood’s awakening, how can I say that I owe nothing of love, honor, and reverence to my Alma Mater. And when to this is added the thoroughness with which she prepared me for life’s great adventure, the patience with which she sought to correct my shortcomings, and the inspiration and ideals with which she endowed me, the debt becomes so great that I can hope to repay it only by some sort of dedication of myself to her service.

I realize, my dear Doctor Farrar, that this expression of my regard for Washington and Lee is so belated that it may seem insincere. But such is not the case. Rather is it a flower that only time could bring to blossom. It is like love and appreciation of parents of the flesh and blood, which is seldom fully realized until father and mother are gone and one himself is passing on into the increasing years. How often have I bewailed the fact that my parents no longer lived to share whatever of honor, and fame, and fortune that have been mine or to comfort and encourage me in times of stress and pain! But my Alma Mater still lives, and verily it seems strange that I have so long failed to realize the benefits and the joys that would have been mine if I had only kept in closer touch. And so now, as I write, I am experiencing a sense of awe, as though I were under the spell of a miraculous resurrection; and it is with this same feeling that I find myself trying to formulate a creed that shall rule me from this time on—a creed that only long hours of inspired brooding could bring to perfection, but which, nevertheless I shall attempt to give to you even as it struggles in the throes of its birth. Here it is. Take it and pass it on, if you think it worthy, and perhaps others may amend it so that finally it will become as it really should be.

1. After God and the parents of my blood, I owe most of the good that is in me and is mine to my Alma Mater.

2. If, therefore, I have neglected her, I will now arise and go to her and say unto her: “Mother, I have sinned against thee and am no more worthy to be thy son. Make me as one of thy hired servants.” But I know that she will receive me even as the father of old welcomed his prodigal son, and all her children will rejoice that he who was lost is found again.

3. If of earthly substance I have aught to give for the benefit of others, I will commit its distribution to her, well knowing that where I might reach one or two with my beneficences, she will reach thousands. And if nothing of wealth can I give, then will I give of my thoughts and conversations—her name shall live upon my lips, so that her fame will spread to the far horizons and the lantern she carries in her hand will light up the dark places of the world.

4. If ever ill report of her should reach my unwilling ears, I will not criticize or blame. I will say to her only: “Mother, is this the path you taught me to tread?” And thus I may, in some small measure, repay the debt I owe to her.

5. Never again will I forget that she is mine, to honor, to foster, to use as the most efficient agent at my command to assist me in my strivings for the good of my fellow men.

6. Never again will I forget that within her portals I will receive the heartiest welcome there is for me in all the world, and that there I will meet once more friends such as nowhere else could I find.

7. And, finally, never will I cease to pray that God will revive in the hearts of all her children the love for her that has been revived in mine, to the end that, yearly, there will be such a mighty homecoming as never before has been seen. For in such a multitude of them that love her would she find strength irresistible and the honor and the glory she so richly deserves.

HERBERT BOULDIN HAWES

Actions and Reactions of a Class-agent

By L. PRETLOW HOLLAND, 1906

I HAVE always been just a little queer, and in recent years the habit seems to be growing on me. When Walter McDonald asked me to be class-agent, true to my ideas, ideals and theory of life up to that time, the very thought of doing what the job seemed to demand was repugnant to me. But, pity is akin to love, and although I have not had much success in Cupid's realm, I am full of pity, and in spite of "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," I still have a tender heart, and I felt so sorry for Walter. He was such a nice fellow and he thought he was doing such a good work, and it was up to his old college friends to humor him in this idea. He had been a good friend to me, I had been his guest in his home town, and I could not be the one to turn him down. Yes, I, also, have a conscience and a sense of obligation, and right after my wife and children, they give me more trouble and genuine concern than any two things in the world. And so I accepted. And straightway the old order changeth.

I began to read down the list of names of my classmates. At first, the names fell on barren ground. There was no coordination between the sound of the names and the memory of other days. Then I leaned back in my chair and closed my eyes, and in that state of semi-consciousness between waking and sleeping. I began gradually to visualize the personalities conjured up by the list of names. Finally out of the fog and haze of this semi-consciousness, the old memories began to come back and to form themselves into definite beings. Out of the haze of uncertainty the figures stepped one by one, and marched down the well-trodden avenue of the memory of a by-gone era. There was dapper "Kid" Steves, stalwart Kelly Trimble, Jack Eggleston and "Buck" Spindle, the tennis twins, dignified Brannon Hubbard, suave John Pilkington, dependable "Tubby" Stone, laughing, lovable "Dave" Pipes, and many, many others that my space does not give me time to mention. It had merely strengthened and refined their faces as the years have a way of doing, and had made them feel a little nearer and a little closer, as things will do that we have lived with for a long while. Then I woke up.

I must get in touch with these men again. The memories that touched their lives and mine were too precious to disintegrate from lack of use. The recollections must all be revived. The initial letter must be composed and compiled immediately. Time was of the essence. To be perfectly frank, there was little time left when Walter McDonald offered me the job, because, between you and me, I believe that he had asked several other fellows to do it before he asked me. They had turned him down and I was the last resort. But I am not vain, and so, as I said before, I accepted. The letters were finally written, but before they were finally gotten off, there was still more work to do.

It was necessary to write those personal—often impersonal postscripts, because in spite of the visualization siesta above described, there is something intangible but sure that the years do to the memory. It was not a question of how well I thought I knew the men I was postscripting, but how well they thought they knew me. I must not only reincarnate the personality of each classmate, but I must try to re-sense his thought, or memory of me, and write a postscript to him accordingly.

First, I had to look him up and get his locality and wave length, and try to contact his mental attitude by his wave length and radio station. But, in the great majority of cases, the night I was working on his postscript was not the night he was broadcasting. Oh! yes, there were thousands of other troubles as well, but if you can sense to a small degree the time I had in accomplishing the above, you have some general idea of one of the simplest of my difficulties, for these postscripts had to be written. The personal touch had to be there, and like practically everything else in life, I finally had to decide it all myself, without advice—the formality or informality, the aloofness or the intimacy with which to write those self-same postscripts so that they would not offend, but would warm the cockles of the heart and make the recipients full of the spirit of generosity.

Then came that famous bulletin from our class president. He was in Lexington and it was spring-time. The sun was shining, the days were rare, the fields were fair, and all the world in Lexington worked without a care. I do not know what he thought he meant, but I am a Virginian, and what I know he meant was:

"The roses nowhere bloom so white

As in Virginia,

The sunshine nowhere shines so bright

As in Virginia,

The birds sing nowhere quite so sweet

And nowhere hearts so lightly beat,

For Heaven and Earth both seem to meet

Down in Virginia."

Of course, I know you men away from Virginia are not going to admit it, but you know it is true, even though you may say in high disgust

"Wouldn't you know one of those D— Virginians would say that?"

But that was not all there was in the bulletin. It was all about the spell of House Mountain, and how it looks when the fleecy white clouds just touch its squared off top in the springtime after a rain, and how the cleansing rain and the foamy clouds bring out the greenness of it, and the beauty of it, and the majesty of it. And then, how it looks when we see it vaguely through the mist, or snow covered in winter, or snow capped between seasons, or in its full strength and power at midday in summertime, or almost just a black outline silhouetted against the radiance of a rosy sky and a setting sun. And how it seems to dominate our college life and our college recollections, and how some of its mighty strength seems to impregnate our love for the old place.

Funny thing about House Mountain. I believe it is a wizard. I believe it bewitches us with its changing moods and ever present beauty. I believe that way down in its vital parts there is a vast magnet, and that all the time we are in college we are being charged with this magnetic quality until we become so vitalized with its magnetism that we never recover. It may leave us for a time, or so we think, but always the thought of it remagnetizes us and recharges us with its vital spark so that always the thought of it makes us begin to feel the pull of its great magnet until we respond thereto, and the vale of Lexington and the semi-circle of white columns surrounding the green half-bowl of the campus are spread out before us. It is like champagne. We drink it for an entire evening and are merely pleasantly exhilarated, but friend classmate, drink a glass of water the morning after and you're drunk, dear fellow, you're drunk. Yes, that is what has happened to me all over again. I have taken another drink of water after reading that darn Springtime—House Mountain bulletin, and I am off again. It has gotten me off my equilibrium. Even my methodical old bachelorhood proclivities do not seem to keep me from thinking of roses and forget-me-nots and honeysuckles and mock oranges and heliotrope, and other sweet smelling posies. "Disconcerting," you say. "Decidedly," say I. Anyway, I finally got the postscripts off, and I hope they pleased.

Certainly the responses did. There were just a few envelopes whose material enclosures I would like to have enlarged, but all in all, the class-agent was mightily pleased. In fact, he was so very much delighted and gratified that that same old conscience forced him to sit down and write the alumni president and thank him in as nice a way as he could for making him class-agent. He had to tell the said president what a privilege it had been, and how much he had enjoyed doing it, and how it had recharged and revitalized and impregnated and reincarnated him with the spirit of old Washington and Lee, and how much he had enjoyed talking with the old fellows, even at long distance, and how interesting the lives of some of them had been, and the pleasure he had gotten from recontacting them. And fellow classmates, to show you how much he had changed since that first letter was received from the alumni president offering him the job, he meant exactly what he had said from the very bottom of his hardened, and abused, and callous old heart.

Yes, there were a few follow-up letters, but they were merely routine. The ice was broken with the first letters, and when they were written and gotten off, the major work was done. The main plot of the story was finished. They were merely the aftermath of one of the most interesting and delightful bits of work that I have ever done, which turned out to be one of the most illuminating studies of fine character I have ever experienced, and best of all, from my point of view, one of the bits of work from which I feel that I have drawn one of the largest dividends in worth while life and living that I have ever come in contact with. And so boys, I thank you all and you know I am thankful, for dividends are certainly scarce in these depression days.

HAVE YOU A CALYX OF THE YEAR YOU GRADUATED?

A NUMBER of the class-agents have suffered through moving or fire or indeterminate reasons, the loss of their copies of the Calyx of the year they graduated. The following numbers of the Calyx are advertised as wanted by the class-agents of these years, and anyone who reads this Magazine and has a copy of the Calyx of the years listed below, would oblige everybody very much if he will communicate with Cy Young, Alumni Secretary, Lexington, Va., who will act as the agent for the collection and re-forwarding of these copies to the class-agents who need them. They can be borrowed and will be returned, if necessary, or if the gift could be made to Alumni Headquarters as part of the equipment that is needed for the conduct of the class campaigns next year, that gift will be very much appreciated.

'26, '25, '23, '19, '18, '11, '09, '08, '06, '05, '04, '03,
'00, '99, '98, '97, '96, '95.

Death of Dr. D. B. Easter

THE ALUMNI of Washington and Lee will be grieved to learn of the death of Professor De la Warr Benjamin Easter in Baltimore on July 6. His death was due to heart trouble, an attack of which he had suffered two years ago, but from which he had sufficiently recovered to continue his teaching.

Dr. Easter was born October 9, 1867, in Baltimore, where he spent his boyhood. Being a rather delicate child, he was taught by tutors until he entered Randolph-Macon College at the age of fifteen. There the evidences of his brilliant intellect and his unusual ability as a linguist induced the faculty to put him to teaching even before he completed his undergraduate course. From 1886 to 1891, he continued as an instructor and student, receiving the A. M. degree that year. After two more years there, devoted entirely to teaching, he became adjunct professor of modern languages at Wofford College for two years, 1893-1895. He then returned to Randolph-Macon as adjunct professor in Greek and German.

In 1900 he was appointed Hopkins scholar and began graduate study at Johns Hopkins University in Romance languages. He studied in France in 1903, returned to Johns Hopkins, was instructor there in charge of undergraduate French during the year 1904-1905, and received the Ph. D. degree in 1905. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa by the Johns Hopkins chapter.

He was then re-called to his Alma Mater as professor of modern languages. The summer of 1906 he studied again in France. That year he was married to Sarah Bayne (Ayres) Sheppard.

In 1910 he was called to Washington and Lee as head of the department of Romance languages. Undertaking his work here in the ripeness of his experience and the fullness of his scholarship, he strove constantly to raise the standards and the intellectual culture of the college. In 1920 he was appointed assistant dean and continued in that office until two years ago, when failing health necessitated his resigning it.

After the Washington and Lee Commencement this year, Dr. Easter with Mrs. Easter went to Randolph-Macon to deliver the Phi Beta Kappa address and remained through a happy Commencement renewing old associations. From Ashland they went to Baltimore for a visit. There he was stricken with a return of his heart trouble, and after an illness of about two weeks, he died. He was buried in the family lot in Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore.

Dr. Easter's former students will agree that no formal sketch of him can do him justice, or adequately represent their teacher and friend. As one of his colleagues remarked after his death, "Cutie," as he was affectionately known, "was an institution himself." Unable to be very active physically, he devoted himself to the enrichment of his mind, and the students—and there were many—who enjoyed the privilege of a visit with him in his study, surrounded by his books, came away with an unforgettable impression of his lovable and sympathetic nature and the richness of his mind. His genial humor never induced him to relax the high standards of scholarship that he required from his students. Some of them will recall the ingenuous smile with which he could announce to a student that he had made an "F."

Dr. Easter kept to the end his enthusiastic disposition and gave undivided loyalty to any organization of which he was a member. Probably his greatest enthusiasms were for Phi Beta Kappa, the Fortnightly Club of Lexington, and the Society of the Cincinnati. His pipe, his hat, and his engaging personality lent color to the campus which we shall sadly miss. His stimulating influence we shall gratefully retain.

THIS NUMBER OF THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE

THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE is edited in the office of the Alumni Secretary. This number is the work of three people only: the editor who wrote it; his secretary, Miss Mary Barclay, who typed it; and Harold Lauck who printed it. Mr. Lauck is head of the printing department of the Lee School of Journalism. He set the type, printed the sheets and bound them. 6256 copies were sent to the complete alumni list.

The Most Valuable Service Alumni Can Render

IN THIS letter is evaluated a service, ranked above all others in the power of the alumni.

July 17, 1933

Mr. Ki Williams, Waynesboro, Va.

Dear Ki:

Your success in bringing to life the class of '15 in the alumni campaign has been a matter of very deep gratification to myself as a member of that illustrious body, and you are to be congratulated. I am keenly interested in the revival of activity among alumni of Washington and Lee and expect this movement to achieve lasting importance in the future of the University.

It was readily anticipated that, under existing conditions, the sudden raising of any large fund was not to be expected; but the response so far has been unexpectedly encouraging, and the contacts made, if kept alive, should insure the continued growth and the firm establishment of a worth while alumni organization.

Lacking the ability to make substantial gifts, there is a form of contribution available to every alumnus, one which has not received all the attention it deserves, and which is of value above almost any other service that may be rendered. This is the opportunity to seek out and send to Washington and Lee the high type of prospective student which has always characterized this University and without which its claim to distinction would be one of name alone.

We like to feel that Washington and Lee offers a superior product, and this is possible only if the material is worthy of the process. Lacking large endowments of money, this institution must rely for its proper function upon the quality and quantity of its student body, and there is no service the average alumnus may offer which can transcend in importance the accomplishment of guiding the footsteps of a young man of high type to this campus. The benefits to the University, the student and the alumnus are incalculable, and I should like to commend this as a worthy field of effort on the part of our class, as well as for every alumnus. For the welfare of the University and of the Alumni Association, funds are unquestionably necessary but men who will be loyal as students and alumni are absolutely essential.

In the continuance of alumni activities, a widespread effort to accomplish such a purpose will bring rich rewards.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes,

Sincerely,

STUART MOORE

HONORARY DEGREES GIVEN AT COMMENCEMENT

June 6, 1933

LL. D.—Sir Josiah Charles Stamp, London, England; Judge D. Lawrence Groner, '92, Washington, D. C.

Litt. D.—Ernest T. Thompson, Professor Ecclesiastical History, Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Sc. D.—Douglas S. Anderson, '90, Dean School of Engineering, Tulane University, New Orleans, La.; John Lloyd Newcomb, Acting President, University of Virginia.

D. D.—Herbert S. Osburn, '04, Gloucester, Va., Episcopal Clergyman; F. Campbell Symonds, First Presbyterian Church, Lynchburg, Va.; Kenneth J. Foreman, Professor of Philosophy and Bible, Davidson College, N. C.

John Hill Morgan, LL. D. degree as of April 12, 1932.

BOLEY'S BOOK STORE

HENRY BOLEY, MANAGER

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA

SPECIAL

Biographies of Lee and Jackson

(Prices on Application)

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS

General Robert E. Lee, size 7x9, prepaid $1.50

Stonewall Jackson, size 7x9, prepaid..... 1.50

General Robert E. Lee, size 9x13, prepaid..... 3.00

CAMPUS VIEWS, size 7x9, prepaid..... 1.50

Money order or check should accompany order

Class Bulletins

THE result of the Alumni Campaign is measured by the accumulated response from the individual alumni who took part in it. Fifty men, acting as class-agents, wrote more than twenty thousand letters to their classmates. Four hundred and sixty-five men contributed money. Acknowledgment is made by the humble asterisk * in front of their names and the double asterisk  indicates those men who formed the sponsorship committee, who launched the campaign, who provided money for the costs of it, without whom, it could not have been undertaken.

The class-agents begged all their correspondents to write a letter of news of themselves, so that the briefing and reporting of this news would put each man again in touch with all his friends. The volume of these letters, of this news, is disappointing. Yet there has been, in the past three months, a new current of thought awakened, new and strong interests expressed, alive and warm feelings aroused toward the University and toward fellow classmates and friends. This feeling is impossible to reflect in making a cold brief of a letter. The editor declares it is there in unusual terms and he wishes, in every case, there could be a true, a literal report made. The volume is thin, but the quality of its content could not be higher, more heartening or more deeply appreciated by the administration of the University. It is here in these few words, that thanks are given for the kindest of all feelings the University has been the recipient of in many years.

1934

In Memoriam

*JOSEPH GEORGE ROBINSON

June 11, 1933

Killed in an airplane crash at the Chicago World's Fair.

1933

Voluntary contributions from the graduates of the class of 1933 are reported as follows. No organized campaign was conducted, no general appeal made.

*JOHN ALEXANDER CULLEY, Arlington Hotel, Evanston, Ill.

*RICHARD THOMAS EDWARDS, Roanoke, Va.

*WAYNE L. FLAGG, Newtown, Penn.

*REED GRANT McDougall, 15 Claremont Ave., New York City.

*ALVIN BUBBIE ORTNER, 1508 South First St., New York City.

*MATTHEW PEEL RIVERS, 1219 Everett Ave., Louisville, Ky.

*ALLEN DALE SYMONDS, 1040 Judson Ave., Evanston, Ill.

*WILLIAM FOWLER SYMONDS, 1040 Judson Ave., Evanston, Ill.

*WILLIAM S. BARKER, 207 Orange Road, Montclair, N. J.

1932

360 men

Class-agent: *HENRY W. MACKENZIE, JR., Building and Loan Bldg., Portsmouth, Va., of Carr and MacKenzie

Co-agent: *ALLEN S. CARR, of Carr and MacKenzie, same address.

*J. C. VARNER, JR., Lexington, Va., is close to all events.

*R. W. REINHOLD, Addison-Saunders Associates, Inc., 15 East 40th St., New York City, office of the director, personal service department.

HERBERT G. DOLLAHITE II, "Dolly," 213 South Main St., Amory, Miss., writes from the Park Hotel. "I do hope to be back in the Old Dominion at Lexington this time next year and trust I will end my academic work in 1934. Let me say though that I still feel a full fledged member of the class of 1932 and always will though I did fall short of the degree last June. I am here at the hotel and like the work fine though it is most confining. We have a swanky little 50-room hotel here with very tasty appointments and an excellent patronage. Business has been splendid all year and I think it will continue on the increase. You must come down to see me and do not be in a hurry to leave when you get here as the old home town is a famous place for good times and know you would like everything. Speaking of the Hon. Jas. Cox Wilbourn—I was through Meridian just about three weeks ago while on my way to the Mississippi Coast to spend ten days spring vacation and tried to get in touch with Jim but did not have any success. I did drop him a note to let him know that I had been in town. He is now back from St. Louis and is doing real well in Meridian. You will hear great things from and of him some day or I am badly disappointed for one—for I'm betting on him being a great success in law. No doubt you have heard ere this that Wm. Birt Harrington is in Shanghai, China, with the leading international corporation law firm of the East and his address is 21 Yuen Ming Yuen Road, Shanghai—drop him a line sometime. He is getting along famously."

*H. GRAHAM MORISON, Bristol, Va., was solicited

by Henry MacKenzie as a member of the class of 1932, when he, "Snorter," is class-agent for 1930. In this exchange of pleasantries, the following anecdote emerged; "Burks wrote me asking how I was getting along, especially what my fees were. I told him, in answer, that I was doing fine, that I had won all the local J. P. cases and that my fees were as follows: one rotten gallon of corn, a lien on a tobacco crop, a sack of cooking apples, and after I had successfully prosecuted the seducer of one of my clients the prosecutrix's fee was 'Fore God, Mr. Morison, that was a larrupin' speech you made, I'se gwine to name the baby after you.'"

GEORGE A. SPEER, JR., "Algy," Sanford, Fla., just set up business as a lawyer, had five clients the first two weeks, optimistic.

*S. R. PARKER, JR., Lufkin, Texas, with the Gulf Refining Co., with his father in business, reports cheerfully, says Dick Beaton with Coke and Coke, law firm, is doing well.

WOODSON B. GILLOCK, 30 Edmondson Ave., Lexington, Va., has joined a chemical society and a teachers' agency and awaits results.

*EVERETT N. CROSS, 812 Farragut, N.W., Washington, D. C., on the staff of the Washington Daily News, regrets he couldn't get back for Finals.

BOB (R. W.) ANNIN, 3805 Brookside Drive, Toledo, Ohio.

GENE (EUGENE POMEROY, JR.) MARTIN, 206 Witherspoon Road, Baltimore, Md., says Tig Tignor is teaching in Baltimore and Frank Smith is traveling for Vick's.

KEN DAVIS (KENNETH EDWARD), 53 Hunnewell St., Needham Heights, Mass., makes observations on the Crawford case and recommends all northerners spending two years in the South, says B. A. Street gets an M.A. from Oklahoma this June, Jack Anderson is married to Miss Louise Laix and both are studying at Boston Institute, Herb and Heinie are at the Allison Hotel, St. Petersburg, Fla., Heinie slowly recovering.

TROOPER A. SHAW, 510 East Tenth St., Ada, Okla., with Slaner's Department Store.

MARTIN P. BURKS III, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va. "My spare time is pretty well occupied with my book revision work. I am finding that awfully interesting and instructive but very tedious and I will be glad when it is finished. I was in Martinsville last week and drove out to see Joyce. I suppose you know he is married. He didn't give any notice of his intentions but the news finally leaked out. I knew it couldn't be very long. He and Mary Lou seem to be awfully happy and they are crazy about Martinsville. They bought about four acres of woodland about five miles out of town and at present they are engaged in building a log house to live in. Hannibal is a first class carpenter and he has just closed up his law office until his home is completed."

RUSSELL O. MORROW, 701 28th St., Lake Worth, Fla., passed the Florida Law Exam and is practicing.

*JOHNNY LADD, 1451 Government St., Mobile, Ala., returned the middle of May from a two months' trip to England, job on a ship, sailor for eight months.

JULIAN H. BAILEY, Greer, S. C. is at sea with the Grace Line Steamship Co., on board the S.S. Santa Paula, New York to Seattle and points on the western coast via the Panama Canal.

*WILLIAM H. WHITE, 605 South Queen St., Martinsburg, West Va.

*L. W. JOHNSON, Melfa, Va. "Time spent at Washington and Lee was a fine experience and one which pays daily dividends."

BERNARD SPECTOR, 8 South Augusta St., Staunton, Va., says Jack Grasty is a candidate for the State Legislature.

*KENNETH SPENCER, Peoples National Bank Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., with William T. Spencer, Jr., lawyer, his brother, Commonwealth's Attorney. Quotes the S. E. Reports for May 4th as saying that Jack Savage defended a mandamus before the Supreme Court of West Virginia. Says that Jack has a swell job—assistant to the Prosecuting Attorney for Kanawha County. Says, "I got a claim from Jack Mathews yesterday and sent one to Fred Swink the other day, so it seems that the class may be of some help to the old classmates. I got Ernie Wood to send a claim to Martin Burks the other day, which was a good one by the way."

*HAVEN (WOP) WALTON, 1 Parade Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., says he has a job on Wall Street.

KEMPER JENNINGS, John Jay Hall, Columbia University, New York City, home address, DeFuniak Springs, Fla.

*FREDERICK G. SWINK, Norfolk, Va., with Swink and Fentress, lawyers.

*R. W. LOTHIAN, Yorkville, Ohio, transferred to Western Reserve, Cleveland, to be nearer home, but loves Washington and Lee still.

DICK (R. T.) DOUGHTIE, JR., Helena, Ark., with the New South Oil Co., manufacturers of cotton-seed products.

C. E. "TEX" TILSON, Blacksburg, Va., football coach at V. P. I., helps also with wrestling, was at Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, N. C.

JOSEPH B. WHARTON, JR., 484 North Washington, El Dorado, Ark., has been studying medicine in New Orleans, at Tulane, signs himself Job-Job, which will be familiar to his friends.

*D. GEORGE PRICE, 701 Whittier St., N.W., Wash-

958 378.755 W 37744 U.9 Summer 1933-May 1934

76983

ington, D. C., at the University of Maryland graduate school.

*LAWRENCE J. ROOSE, 50 West 96th St., New York City, a student in Bellevue Medical School, N. Y.

RICHARD O. PARMLEE, 205 Robinson St., Bing- hampton, N. Y., has finished his work at Cornell, taking a hotel commercial management course, now in Chicago where he will settle.

JAMES M. MCKNIGHT, 435 South Front St., Mem- phis, Tenn., with the Southern Central Co., manufac- turers of tablets, envelopes, stationery. Home address, 335 Kenilworth Place.

H. BRECKENRIDGE HEAPS, Belair, Md., with Ty- dings, Walsk, Levy and Archer, lawyers, is cheerful about business and proud of his connection.

ROBERT FRANCIS NELSON, R.F.D. 5, Richmond, Va. "One never really realizes his love for his Uni- versity until he goes forth from it. Its name becomes more endeared and the attachment stronger. To know it is calling to us alumni for support causes the heart to stir. To aid at this time I consider a privilege, but as yet I find myself still not adjusted. I do hope the needs will be met; so that our University shall continue to uphold its much cherished ideals."

LYMAN C. HARRELL, JR., Emporia, Va., chats at length in a cheerful, reminiscent mood.

BANKY (C. B.) TAYLOR, 1211 Government St., Mobile, Ala., with the Mobile Rosin Oil Co., factory and home office in Mobile. A Taylor business, "prod- ucts of the living pine," oils, pitches, compounds, spec- ialties. Banky writes a thoroughly Banky letter, which excuses us from publishing it in full, in print, though its spirit and personality should be given the *.

*CHARLES A. WOOD, JR., "Hollywood," 204 Gates Bldg., Charleston, West Va., is quoted though maybe he shouldn't be: "After reading the first part of that outrage upon the King's English which you sent to me, it was my impression that you chaps had gone big-time; however, after the apology for the formal appearance was offered, the opinions set themselves straight once more, and the outcome is altogether pleasant. As for the contribution to the Alumni Fund, such will be done as you suggested with the expression that such would be of larger sum were it not for the fact that the books show a decided margin in the red. Am therefore let- ting someone else take care of the deficiency arising in the average donation. Perhaps I will be better able next time to do my share. True to reports, yours truly was over for the Easter set of dances, snorting up with the lads and generally having a fair time. Passed the time of day with our good friend, Charles R. McDow- ell, throwing him the usual line of bull in the hopes of getting a passing grade on the Bills & Notes exam which I have to take in the next week or so. Yep, it is necessary that I return to the village of Lexing- ton on Sunday next, again becoming a school boy and sitting in on classes for such a period of time as will satisfy the conscience of Mr. Moreland and Charlie McD. Then, if the paper shows that I have guessed enough questions correctly, they swear to be damned that they will make me a sweet girl graduate. So, if all of that is true, I may be pleased with another di- ploma to hang on the bare office walls. After that comes the five-day marathon with the mason jars; heaven help the gummy alumni! Am hoping that you and Debs will find it possible to make the jaunt over and assist me around the place and otherwise enjoy the music of Jan Garber. In the meantime, the best of luck with the campaign with the class of '32; hope they crash through better than I have."

DAVID ELI NICHOLS, 50 South Main St., Prov- idence, R. I.

*W. P. MEDCALF, 3915 Dalrymple Ave., Balti- more, Md., in person expressed his feelings.

*JAMES D. SPARKS, 604 Riverside Drive, Mon- roe, La.

*GEORGE M. LUPTON, 456 Rivermont Ave., Lynch- burg, Va.

ED (C. E., JR.) ALLEN, 4626 Maryland Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes from Paris, the Bankers' Trust Company's customer's writing room, where he dropped in to send his regards to all. He is wandering around Europe with no plans to return.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Informa- tion requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

- RAYMOND ADE, Montclair, N. J.
- HAL WYMAN HOGUE, Akron, Ohio
- DONALD W. LAIRD, Ventnor, N. J.
- CHARLES C. LOVE, Washington, D. C.
- WAYNE H. MATHIS, Chicago, Ill.
- CHARLES J. BIDDLE, Norfolk, Va.
- GEORGE WILLIAM PEDIGOE, Glasgow, Va.

1931
326 men

Class-agent: *WALTER E. HOFFMAN, Seaboard Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va.

KARL M. SMITH, 43 East Main St., Waynesboro, Penn., busy in various community affairs, connected with the Renovize Waynesboro Campaign.

*HENRY McLANE, Clay, West Va., prosecuting attorney Clay County. "By the way, do budding young attorneys in Norfolk ever give cheers from house tops, or throw buns at young ladies in restaurants? I saw O. J. Wilkinson in Huntington the other day. Gooch is married. And, wonder of wonders, Joe McVey passed the West Va. bar (O. J. didn't) and is practicing in Huntington. Vickers Watts is there too. I haven't ever heard a word from Kay Banks or Arnold Vickers since I left school, except that Vickers took the bar when I did. Thrift did also, and is now at Fayetteville, Jack Savage is Special Investigator for the P. A. in Charleston. Oh, yes, Gooch is selling cars. And for that he learned the rule in the Duke of Norfolk case! I took a bride myself January a year ago. For the Lord's sake write and tell me what has become of all the boys."

WALDO LOPEZ, 80 Osborne St., Glen Ridge, N. J., worked on newspapers in New Jersey and Massachusetts, for Kresge's and now "at liberty," he says.

TURNER ADAMS, Leader Bldg., Lubbock, Texas, practicing law, Patton and Adams, married last November.

EDWARD R. SCALES, Lyndon, Ky., football coach at Kentucky Military Institute. "As you know, I am somewhat in a position to understand their difficulties. We had a little trouble last year too, but managed to pull through and with the tremendous drawing power which our new winter plant in Florida has given us have succeeded in getting the largest enrollment in the history of the school. We are at present building an annex to take care of the still larger enrollment which is indicated for next year. I have just completed our football schedule for next season and have included such teams as Culver and the freshman teams of the U. of K. and Notre Dame. Consequently, you can understand that I would be interested in getting in touch with any boys that you believe would be interested in coming to a real good school—incidentally, athletics are especially attractive."

BENJAMIN LEWIS, JR., 1815 Franklin Ave., Columbus Ohio.

B. H. LACKEY, Piney River, Nelson County, Va., with the Southern Mineral Products Corp.

*ADDISON T. WHITT, Keys Bldg., Winchester, Ky., of Whitt & Yeager, agents, Sun Insurance office, general insurance.

GEORGE ROSE SMITH, 1002 West Maple, Fayetteville, Ark., graduated from the University of Arkansas in law, still feels the stronger loyalty here.

MANNY (MANUEL M.) WEINBERG, Law Bldg., Frederick, Md., married recently, in addition to this victory, he has had six cases in the courts of Maryland and no defeats.

MASSEY L. PRINTZ, Luray, Va., took his Master's degree at the University of Virginia in philosophy, hopes to complete his studies for a doctorate, taught a short session of school this year.

BILL (W. O.) THOMAS, Bedford, Va., with Piedmont Label Co., lithographers.

J. O. TUCKER, JR., 106 Waco St., Weatherford,

Texas. After leaving Washington and Lee went to T.C.V. at Fort Worth, where he is now and will graduate next year.

*JAMES B. MARTIN, Gloucester, Va., approves heartily and offers assistance at all times.

*B. J. LAMBERT, JR., Holly Grove, Ark., with his father, general merchandise and cotton factor.

*ED MILLER, Dallas, Texas, with the National Bank of Commerce.

DARREL M. PRICE, Williamston, N. C., with the North Carolina department of the Aetna Insurance Co.

JOHN ALEXANDER VEECH, Dawson Springs, Ky., home address, 926 Cherokee Road, Louisville, Ky., with the Dawson Daylight Coal Co. "Since I left school I have been fortunate enough to have been employed practically all the time, first as an inspector on bridge construction with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, where I stayed for 18 months, then as manager of a bowling alley near Fort Wayne, Indiana, for a couple of months, and then I was offered a job as assistant engineer at the Dawson Daylight Coal Co., where I am now located. During the time that I was with the railroad I went up for Horace Gooch's wedding. He certainly won a beautiful and charming girl, and I am sure that they will be the happiest couple in the world. I have been keeping up with Horace, of course, and many others as well, though in a more or less haphazard manner. While I was with the railroad a fire wiped out everything that I owned, including all of the addresses that I had collected during my four years at Washington and Lee. The list that you enclosed is a great help and will enable me to get in touch again. Thanks for your thoughtfulness."

R. B. ARMISTEAD, JR., R.F.D. 2, Hopkinsville, Ky.

ELBERT W. ROBINSON, 396 Quail St., Albany, N. Y., student at the Albany Law School.

BILL (W. McM.) DIX, 103 Metcalf Laboratory, Brown University, Providence, R. I. (home address, 65 South Ann St., Mobile, Ala.), graduate assistant in the Jesse Metcalf Chemical Laboratory, Master's degree this June, hopes to continue work for his doctorate.

*GEORGE JUNKIN, Lexington, Va., with the Standard Oil Co., of Lexington.

CHARLIE (C. W., JR.) DAY, 519 Thompson Bldg., Tulsa, Okla., Missouri State Life Insurance Co., Oklahoma City branch. "What I should like to see developed as far as our class is concerned is a large reunion every three or four years such as Cornell or others have, for I believe that if you can get the men back now and then you will do a great deal more towards keeping the enrollment up than in any other way. Regardless of how scattered the class is over the country it does seem to me that we could get a fairly good percentage back at intervals. As for myself, I am especially disappointed that I have been unable to get back as yet and it looks as though nothing short of a miracle that I could make Finals this year. However, I should hate to think that another year will go by before I do and I intend to do all that I can to escape such a possibility. You might be interested to know that Paul Tatum Douglass was married very quietly on May 6th."

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY
LEXINGTON

*JOHN M. DEAN, 1040 Leavenworth St., Apt. 307, San Francisco, Cal., has been in California almost two years and feels almost as proud of it as if he were a native of the state. Did newspaper work for a while and is now with the Union Oil Co. "Sat in the lounge of the Olympic Club and listened to Bernie Cummins play on the Lucky Strike hour from the Fancy Dress Ball of 1932. The whole program was good to me."

*HAROLD WEINSTEIN, 800 West End Ave., New York City, or after September, No. 8-1 Chauncy, Cambridge, Mass., finished his second year in the Harvard Law School.

AL (J. A., JR.) WEINBERG, 1010 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C., in real estate.

WILBUR OWEN, Apt. 303, 15 North Henry St., Richmond, Va.

KNIGHT LAIRD, 824 South Main St., Jonesboro, Ark., runs a gravel pit, supplying three large Federal Aid road projects.

*BEN M. AYARS, 317 Adams St., Macon, Ga., got his LL. B. at Mercer's Law School in Macon. "Charles Brooks of our class is here in Macon working for Bibb Mills. Joe Clisby gets his A.B. here at Mercer this year. I see Bill Price of the law class of 1929 in Atlanta every once in a while. Joe Saunders of Coon-Saunders told me that he saw Paul Douglass out in Oklahoma and he'd been in an oil derrick accident losing one arm. I hope he was mistaken in the identity. Please note my home address is Bridgeton, and in the future if you ever want to get in touch with me, my sister will forward the letter. I wish the campaign all the success in the world and think you deserve a couple of medals for undertaking the tremendous job."

*SIDNEY W. CLAY, 102 Fourth St., Frankfort, Ky., writes from Gallatin Hall B-42, Soldiers Field, Boston, Mass., where he soon will finish his graduate work. "It is with profound sorrow that I learn of the financial difficulties of Washington and Lee. Although the University has maintained its high standing in spite of a prolonged lack of funds, it is quite evident that a certain income is necessary for continuance of the high calibre training. I am quite in sympathy, therefore, with the present action of the Alumni. During my stay at Harvard, I have come in contact with men from many universities. I still take great pride in being a graduate of Washington and Lee for I believe that certain gentlemanly qualities are developed there which are not obtainable at other colleges. It is my sincere hope, therefore, that Washington and Lee can continue to attract and train men of character. I am sorry that I can be of no more financial aid, but as I am soon to enter the ranks of the unemployed, I feel that I can afford no more at the present time. You have my best wishes for success in the campaign."

The above dignified letter was written to an unknown Mr. Hoffman of Norfolk who had intimidated with his letterhead and firm name. Later it was discovered he was Beef.

*W. P. BALLARD, Norfolk, Va., Ballard Fish and Oyster Co., Inc., car lots and express shipments, specialties.

*CHANDLER W. GORDON, Box 911, East Lansing, Mich., writes on letterhead of the Carbon Fuel Co., Traction Bldg., Cincinnati, miners and distributors of Carbon Coal, but says nothing about the nature of his work. He does say this however: "I was in Lexington not long ago and it looks better than ever. How any alumnus cannot feel pride in Washington and Lee is beyond me."

*WILLIAM A. GLASGOW, Union Trust Bldg., Washington, D. C., of Hamilton and Hamilton, lawyers: "I am at present attempting to live down the stigma created by an LL. B. degree, the same, as you may remember, having been conferred upon me through no fault of my own. It is indeed regrettable that such comforts as 'Cold Case Corporations,' etc., can not accompany one through life, but at least I have the satisfaction of looking back on days of leisure, though, of course they cannot compare with your own workless existence of a few years back. I greatly appreciate the list of graduates of the class of '31, which I found enclosed in your letter. I trust that we may all get back to Washington and Lee for a reunion sometime in the future and that too many changes will not be noticeable either in our classmates or in the school."

*JOHN A. SHOEMAKER, 31 Elder St., Wilkes-Barre, Penn., all good wishes and sincere ones.

*FRED M. BARRON, 1111 North Enton St., Cecil Apts., Baltimore, Md., Medical School, Johns Hopkins. "I am very much interested in this new zeal for the Alumni Association. Since I graduated I have lost track entirely of most of the boys, and except for the few times that I have been back to school, have heard very little news. I have often wondered why I had not heard from the Alumni Association, or why there was not a better organization as compared to other schools. So I am particularly interested in this new contact with the school and with the fellows."

*ALEX VANCE, 6 Preston Court, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va. (home address, Waynesboro, Va.), in Medical School.

*FRANK T. BREADY, 58 West Upsal St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Penn. "Since graduating, I have been in several different lines of endeavor, i. e., insurance, coal business, a conservatory of music," and ends with the best of wishes.

*IKE (I. F.) HUDSON, 604 East Reynolds St., Stamford, Texas, writes from 3956 Pine St., Philadelphia, Penn.

JAMES B. CRANE, 3720 Northampton St., Chevy Chase, D. C., has had too varied and too interesting a career not to report in his own words: "Let me trace briefly what has hapened to me since I was graduated. For the first six months after I left, I was out of work. Then I went into the United States Daily as a reporter, where I worked until August, 1932. In September of that year I went with the Independent Syndicate, writing features and special stuff. They launched a new publication—Alger's Newspaper—a tabloid newspaper about kids, telling of their thrilling true adventures and worthwhile accomplishments. It was received enthusiastically, but we were unable to get money to carry on, so we folded up last November. Then I went with Associated Editors, of Chicago, acting as Washington correspondent. A month later they folded up, and I was once again without work. That was about six months ago; I haven't had any steady job since. Next week, however, I expect to go with the Washington Company, an organization acting as Washington contact for outside business firms. If it goes well as it promises, I should be making pretty good money in a few months."

JACK H. HARDWICK, 103 French Ave., Winchester, Ky., writes from Gallatin C-41, Harvard Business School, Soldiers Field, Boston, Mass., finishing his second year there, will settle either in Kentucky or New York.

WESLEY MOORE, 112 Flower Ave., East Watertown, N. Y., writes from 79 Lake Place, New Haven, Connecticut.

JOHNNY (J. SIMON) SLOSHBURG, 413 Chambers St., Trenton, N. J., completing his second year of law at the New Jersey Law School in Newark, has one more year, then must "clerk" a year before taking his exam.

RENO R. PORTER, 3417 Hawthorne Ave., Richmond, Va., studying medicine at the Medical College of Virginia, second year.

ED STEIDTMAN, JR., 33 North Braddock St., Winchester, Va., working for the Traveler's Syndicate, a national building and loan company, investing in first mortgages.

HORACE GOOCH, JR., Amarillo, Texas, attorney at law, married six months ago, Miss Jane Bradford, of Plymouth, Mass., honeymooned in Havana. Says Gilmore is married and has an eight months old girl. Asks where Obidia Wilkinson is. Says Turner Adams is near, asks about Bill Suggs.

THOMAS DAY SUGGS, JR., Fayetteville, Tenn. Writes from his father's bank, the First National Bank of Fayetteville, says: "Sometimes I wonder what the class of '31 is doing, whether or not fate is doing justice to them. But whatever may come or go I will always be proud of the fact that I was a member of that class, and I continually look forward to any chance that I may have of meeting again with its members. I know there is no place like Washington and Lee, and that the boys I met there are the finest I will ever know. Since graduation I have been working mostly for my father. I have been helping to manage two or three farms and at odd times I have worked in a store. I have worked around enough to know that a dollar is sure hard to get. But after all I feel like I am more or less marking time until I can return to school and finish in law."

PAUL T. DOUGLASS, Morris Bank, Okmulgee, Okla., writes from his late father's office; "As for news, I was married on the 6th of this month to Maxine Brier, a Guthrie, Oklahoma girl. I see Charley Day, one of Tulsa's most promising young life insurance salesmen, quite often. Stewart Linschied and his wife, are located in Seminole, Oklahoma, where he is teaching in the Junior College."

W. S. SANDIFER, JR., Security Trust Bldg., Lexington, Ky., with Keenon and Huguelot, lawyers, is quoted, after many deletions and circumlocutions and polishing up: "Dear 'Cold Case': What in the hell you can put in a bulletin about me is more than I know. You might say that my rise in the legal profession has been little short of phenomenal and that I am being prominently mentioned for the next governorship. You might add also that I am adjusting insurance and claims for the S. E. Greyhound lines trying to keep body and soul together. By the way, my fat friend, you were missed at last Finals. Sugg and most of the old bunch were there and a swell time was had by all."

*CHUCK (CHARLES ALPIN) BOWES, 1232 Clayton St., Denver, Colo., writes all about himself and Watty: "Dear Beef: Only too glad to comply with your request for a letter about what Watty and I are doing. Sorry for the few delays since your card arrived, but you know how hard it is to get around to things. Watty came directly to Denver from school and went in the real estate business with our Dad in the firm of A. G. Bowes & Son. He now is considered the promising young business man in his field—evidence of which was his election to the presidency of the Denver Realty Board last fall. He expects to be married to Eva Layman, of Newcastle, Va., '31 graduate of Randolph-Macon. My course has been more devious and less brilliant. I went to New York after school, landing there hip-deep in depression. After about a month of selling insurance and vacuum-cleaners, I landed the job I went there to seek with W. R. Grace and Company, world wide foreign trade and shipping company. New York not 'settin' so well' with a fellow from the wide open spaces of the West, I left there last June and became business manager of a Colorado dude ranch for the summer. Last fall I decided to tackle the newspaper game, became a reporter on the staff of the Denver Post. I now am assistant State Editor of that sheet, working on the side (with ambitions) toward becoming a free lance writer. I guess this will fill your requirements, Beef. Best personal regards from both Watty and myself."

HARRY BURN, JR., 719 South Shields, Richmond, Va., in sympathy with the organization, "With regard to what I am doing; since graduation I have been connected with the News-Leader and at present am trying to sell a little newspaper advertising. Do you remember Julian Black, class of '30, a Phi Kappa Psi? He and I have a room together. He is with the Retail Credit Corporation, and doing right well. I see several Washington and Lee boys now and then but have never joined the local Alumni Association, guess that should be my next move."

HERB WINSTON, 14 Overlook Ave., West Orange, N. J., "See Beckwith once in a while and he frequently speaks of you. Also a pretty faithful correspondent with Frank Williams, Harris Cox, and Alex Veech. They are all fine and doubtless you have heard from Veech. Cox is with the Geophysical Survey Co., and spends the majority of his time travelling about Texas and the Southeast in a quest for oil. He has a very interesting, as well as a job with fair promise for a good future. As for myself, I am now with the Radio Corporation of America, and am located at their Harrison, N. J., plant. Started in as a laborer and have been fortunate enough to become a sort of assistant foreman in charge of all inspection of the filament contained in a radio tube. Industry is indeed a tough racket and I cannot see any particularly rosy future in store for me. However, a job is a job and I consider myself very fortunate to possess one at this time."

WILLIAM G. ROBERTSON, "Bobby," 418 Third Ave., Warren, Penn., at present in Buffalo, in second year Medical School, University of Buffalo.

GEORGE MINTER, JR., 348 Mulberry St., Abilene, Texas, in the Minter family business of dry goods, Abilene's progressive department store, states the code of an alumnus; "Since graduation I have come to believe that the alumni of any school can in a large measure determine its success, by helping form its policies and of course in the contact with the boys entering college. With an alumni as national as Washington and Lee's, it seems to me that stronger state organizations should be formed. I know it is true of my own state. For instance, when Dr. Gaines spoke in Dallas none of the alumni outside of Ft. Worth and Dallas knew of it until reading about it in the papers. V.M.I. has an organization in the state that meets once and sometimes twice a year for a banquet and get-together. I believe we could have something similar to this and that considerable interest would be evidenced. I will be glad to help in any way that I can for of course I am always interested in my school and the men connected with it."

*BERNARD B. GOTTLIEB, 1100 33rd St., Birmingham, Ala., in the Gottlieb family business, department store at 2230 Second Ave., North, branches in Brookside and Tuskegee. Bernard is sales manager, remembers the humbler joys, like Thelen's Coffee Shop and is hungry for them again.

*A. C. JONES, JR., "Red," Batesburg, S. C., with the Batesburg Fertilizer Co., cotton seed products, cotton seed and fertilizer; "You no doubt think I am a bum for not writing to you before now, but really when it comes to writing I am the world's worst. Then too I have had a cousin, former Wahoo, visiting me for about ten days, and we certainly traveled about. You say you want to know what I am doing. Not so much. Do you know anyone who needs a good no-count lawyer? If so, let me know. Since finishing school last year, I have been helping Dad some in his business, the fertilizer and cotton business. Once upon a time it was a good business, today it isn't quite what it used to be. I worked at everything from being a stevedore with cotton and fertilizer (bossing the negroes every now and then) to being a bank messenger, bill collector, and legal adviser. Just general handy man, I think. But I am mostly my own boss—the only thing to my advantage. I think I know this business O. K. now, and wish that I could work awhile in some good law firm. Might do it before long."

*J. ALLEN JOHNSTON, Buena Vista, Va., in his own business, drug store; "It naturally makes me feel a lot better to know that after I have gone out into the world to try to make a living that some one person or association will drop me a line now and then—please keep it up."

WALLACE N. HUDGINS, Culpeper, Va., makes a good point that ought to be cleared up. Says he is not an alumnus, having had one year only. A matriculate, upon leaving, becomes an alumnus, regardless of time spent.

GILMORE N. NUNN, Pampa, Texas, with the Pampa Daily News. After leaving school, went to New Mexico, vice-president of the New Mexico Publishing Co., publishers of papers in Raton, Clovis, Carlsbad, Roswell. October 6th, 1931, was married to Miss Josephine Townsend from Texas. Entered politics and liked it. Delegate from New Mexico to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, also represented the Western League of Young Democrats. Moved back to Texas to take over his father's interests there, likes Texas, hated to leave New Mexico. Last winter came east and visited Lexington, which was the climax of his trip.

R. STANTON EMERSON, 54 New St., East Orange, N. J., going to Medical College, Cornell, in New York City, has gotten his B.A. from Cornell while doing medical work, too.

HARRIS JOHNSON COX, Geophysical Service, Inc., Dallas, Texas, writes from Lake Charles, La., but hopes to be in Dallas at 1311 Republic Bank Bldg., for headquarters. Has been working in swamps, with alligators, snakes, and mosquitoes.

JOHN O. MCNEEL, Mill Point, West Va., at the University of Virginia, second year medical school, two more to go. Saw Washington and Lee beat Virginia and his remarks are loyal, as he is in all respects.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

- WILLIS ELWELL BIXLER, Stony Brook, N. J.
- DAVID MCKAY, New York City.
- LLOYD A. MYERS, Charlotte, N. C.
- STEVE ALLEN CAMPBELL, Tulsa, Okla.

1930

290 men

Class-agent: *H. GRAHAM MORISON, JR., Bristol, Tenn.-Va.

MERLE SUTER, 934 Rock Spring Road, Clarendon, Va., sincere regrets, momentarily between jobs.

BRICE WILLIAMS, JR., 38 Exchange Place, New York City, with Hoagland, Allum and Tunney, Inc., of New York and Chicago, reports on T. G. Gibson.

F. S. (HENK) HANNA, 509 Francis St., St. Joseph, Mo., of Mumford and Hanna Investment Co., real estate, loans and insurance.

EVAN A. WIMER, Keystone Bank Bldg., Pittsburgh, Penn., with Harry Wimer, Inc., engineers and constructors, offices in Savings Bank Bldg., Butler, Penn.

RICHARD D. HAMILTON, Portsmouth, Va., of the Portsmouth Star, an evening paper, the only paper in a city of 60,000 people.

*BEN (L.) RAWLINS, JR., 208 South LaSalle St.,

Chicago, one of sixteen members of Knapp, Beze, Allen, Cochran and Cushing, lawyers, has been back twice lately.

BOB (R. E., JR.) CLAPP, 1 Chauncy St., Apt. 12, Cambridge, Mass., is at home this summer at 303 Rockwell Terrace, Frederick, Md., finished this June at Harvard Law School. May settle and practice in Frederick, may not. "There are just a few of us holding down the Washington and Lee end of things up here. As far as I have been able to ascertain, no men came up this year, but there are several in the second year here, and quite a number at the Business School. We meet once in a long while but the place is so large, and the atmosphere so different, that the meetings are not the same as they used to be. We all have one thing in common, though, and whenever any of the New Englanders stick their necks out too far about 'Fair Harvard,' one of us usually tries to do something about it."

*VAN GILBERT, Athens, Ala., register Circuit Court, expresses feelings so common to all who have written. For example: "I would be interested in having news of you and the other Washington and Lee men in Bristol and feel that a news letter, accompanying your solicitation would pay big dividends. Please remember me to Tooter, Hagan Minich, Rouse and the other dusters of your vicinity. I am looking forward to a trip to Finals this year and I hope that I will have the opportunity of seeing all of you then."

*RAT (HUBERT L.) ECHOLS, Echols Bldg., Staunton, Va., practicing law under his own name, no firm. It is not the policy of this campaign to advertise the depression, nor confide personal affairs to the world but who would not want to read Rat himself on the subject, "The enclosed check is an answer to your letter of April 19th which I didn't receive until about ten days ago. I can't imagine what 'chord' you struck to prevail upon me to 'gorge up,' for God knows I can't afford it. I hope however, that the small contribution will help relieve the strain of the depression. I opened a law office over here about six months ago and if the depression lasts much longer I will certainly have to try some other means of making a living. You can rest assured that this contribution is not a slice off of any fee. You are no doubt planning to come to Finals this year and I will try to see you there and finish this letter. You certainly have my best wishes for a successful campaign."

*BOB MOSLEY, Conway, Ark., in the family's business of wholesaling groceries, the M.-K. Grocery Co. He is gossipy but safe to quote: "As yet I have not been back to dear old Washington and Lee. Have intended to go to Finals every year. I take the Ring-tum Phi and keep up with all the scandal and news. I see by the late issue of the paper that Jan Garber will play this year. Should be good. You remember Turner Adams. He is practicing law in Lubbock, Texas. He married a girl who has been teaching school in the high school in that place. Turner is getting along fine. Since I have been home I have been working in my father's wholesale grocery house. We have a fine business here in spite of the depression. Am still single and hope to be that way for some time. You remember Mike Seligman, he is here in Arkansas a great deal of the time with the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Soap Co. He is making good. See him quite often. Guess you know that Bev Lambert is married. He is buying cotton in Forrest City, Ark."

*GEORGE F. ASHWORTH, College Park, Md., in the department of History, University of Maryland, no complaints.

JOHN P. LYNCH, JR., 3907 Seminary Ave., Richmond, Va. "I was very much pleased to hear from you and to know that Washington and Lee has at last definitely and wisely established a working Alumni Board. The alumni can be of great service to any institution and I am sure that those of us who had the good fortune of spending at least four happy years at Washington and Lee will welcome the opportunity of doing what we can for the school. This statement may seem insincere when I tell you that I will not be able to make a contribution this year, but I am doing what I can to influence young men to attend Washington and Lee. I was very glad to send in six prospective names. But for the fact that my bank here has failed to open since the holiday, I would make at least a small contribution. I have always felt that I owe a great debt to the old school and I sincerely hope that in time I will at least be able to pay the interest on that debt. As you see by this letterhead I am attending medical school. I finished my second year here in May. I am glad to see that you are well established in your chosen profession. I extend my sincere greetings to you and to the other members of the class of 1930."

J. W. JONES, Blacksburg, Va., finished graduate work in June, started working for his father in July, in Gordonsburg, Va.

A. S. WAGNER, 824 Wilson Bldg., Dallas, Texas, of Munger, Wagner and Moore, agents Southern department Citizens Insurance Co., New Jersey.

TOM C. ATWOOD, 118 South Clay Ave., Ferguson, Mo., has gossip: "I hear from Bill Marsh and Bob Fangboner now and then and of course see the St. Louis gang rather often. Red Hanna comes down from St. Joe, Mo., about once a year. I saw Battle and Tayloe last Thanksgiving, enclose Bill Field's and Frank Evans' address."

MEL (G. M.) JENNINGS, DeFuniak Springs,

Fla. W. K. Jennings Co., dry goods, shoes, clothing, reports that Luck Foote got married in Madison the last of May.

*F. L. SHIPMAN, Peoples Building and Saving Bldg., Troy, Ohio, of Shipman and Shipman, lawyers, had a son born the middle of May, and plans for a reunion of the law class in 1935.

LEO V. FAHY, 414 Broad St., Rome, Ga., lately set up the practice of law for himself, not meaning to be witty, has a young family and has gone through a paradoxical kidnapping.

BUD (A. L.) ROBINSON, 183 Hodge Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., works for DuPont Cellophane and Rayon.

*WILLIAM H. FIELDS, JR., is in Montgomery, Alabama, formerly of Pineapple, Alabama.

HERBERT GRANT JAHNCKE, 1807 Calhoun St., New Orleans, La.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

HOWARD GISE, New York City.

DANIEL W. LINDSEY, JR., New York City.

MARSHALL VAUGHT, Johnson City, Tenn.

1929

316 men

Class-agent: *LEWIS F. POWELL, Atlantic Life Bldg., Richmond, Va.

*IRWIN SANDERS, 3656 Spottswood Ave., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "Your two letters addressed to me in Bulgaria have been forwarded on to Memphis. I was glad to hear from you again and to know that the alumni of Washington and Lee are being organized into an effective organization. It does seem that those of us who have gotten so much from Washington and Lee should be able to stand by her in time of need. I grow more proud of the school every passing day. The contribution I am sending, however, is not at all commensurate with my interest. It is all I can do now because I have two more years of school ahead.

"A thumb-nail biography: Upon finishing Washington and Lee in 1929 I went to the American College of Sofia, Bulgaria and taught English and Latin three years. The session of 1932-33 was spent at Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J. Next year I intend to go to Cornell and work for my Ph.D. degree in Rural Social Organization, with the view of returning to Bulgaria and doing work among the villagers of that country.

"Lewis, it is good to hear from you again. I hope this finds you well and enjoying life to the fullest."

BILL (W. A.) TOMLINSON, Tomlynhurst, High Point, N. C., in the family business, "Tomlinson of High Point" designers and makers of furniture, offices and exhibits in New York and Chicago, a friendly letter.

*FRANK W. McCLUER JR., Aberdeen, N. C., with the law firm of Johnson & Johnson. Says he is struggling, acknowledges the promise of the future and sends evidence of his optimism. He reports: "Dick Beaton writes me that he is quite busy and expects to come home to Virginia this summer for a short visit; that Tom Fitzhugh is practising law in the morning and farming in the afternoon; Bob Martin has another heir, thus making the firm consist of Martin, Martin, Martin and Martin; Jake Strickland is devoting a large portion of his time to practice in the Domestic Relations court in Memphis; Turner Adams, the old watchdog of the Peoples' Rights, is still looking after widows' insurance money, with the help and assistance of his brother who is an insurance agent."

*THOMAS J. SUGRUE, 2 West 86th Street, Hotel Peter Stuyvesant, New York City, reporter for the New York Herald Tribune. Sends a clipping on "The Last Farm in Manhattan" and it is a pity space does not allow its complete publication. His letter comes first. "Marion Junkin called me up to say that he is leaving for Winchester to spend the summer there with his mother. Leonard Glover got him two year-books to do, making the vacation possible. He intends to go to Richmond and said he would look you up. You've no idea what amazing power he has developed in his art—hope you have a chance to see some of it.

"I suppose I'm listed as a member of the class of '29, though my real class is '30. It doesn't matter, only when we graduated in '30, I recall that you told us of a plan to have an alumni organization—with reunions every five years. After that several people were nominated for president, and I, being hot and tired, suggested that the men be elected by acclamation to do away with balloting. "Fine," said Bob Davis, "I nominate you for secretary-treasurer." I've heard nothing of it since then and I've wondered what I'm to do. Perhaps you can advise me. I don't see any hope of a close organization but a letter to members once a year wouldn't be a bad idea—with an inclosed card filled in with activities and gossip. From these a gossip letter might be gotten up—and then every five years the class could meet in Lexington—and at the reunion I think some money could be raised.

"Naturally I'm backward about taking a lead in alumni affairs, simply because I'm a northerner. I hate the stigma, and point with pride to the fact that my grandfather went back to Ireland rather than fight against the South, but I can't escape the fact that I was born in Connecticut. Anyhow, my family comes from the south of Ireland.

"Be that as it may, is and shall be, I'm for anything that will help Washington and Lee and that will keep the classes unified and get them back to the campus once in a while. I'm also in favor of Dr. Shannon's plan to make the school a college again—the best liberal arts college in the South—and hang the idea of making a university of such a small school.

"Toward the end of the summer I hope to spend a month at Virginia Beach. Do you recall the lives of the poets and writers we studied, and how some of them were labeled ascetics? I'm wondering now how many were that way because they had to be. Every effort I ever made to be a Rabelaisian character ended badly (the same applies to Fitz Flournoy). Old Doc White used to tell me I ought to live on toast and milk and do nothing but think. The Great Engineer, he remarked gave me a collapsible body and an insane mind.

"I find the life of a monk the only one for me. Newspaper work is devastating for many reasons: nervous energy burns up quickly, hours are jumbled, food is haphazard, and too many interviewers think reporters have iron stomachs with regard to alcohol. Anyhow I'm in the hands of the quacks again, and have returned to the monastery. This time I think I'll stay in my cloister and confine myself strictly to writing. I can do without a Byronian saga.

"Hope you get to see Junkin, and sometime let me know about the alumni organization plans, and where I can get a list of my classmates of '30 with their correct addresses, if there is such a thing."

"Thomas Joseph Sugrue: newspaperman. Born, Naugatuck, Conn., May 7, 1907, son of Michael and Mary (Doolan) Sugrue. Ed. public schools and Washington and Lee University, A.B. 1929, M.A. 1930. Columnist and feature writer, Naugatuck Daily News, Sept., 1930 to May, 1931. Reporter on New York Herald Tribune since August, 1931. Co-author (with John Lardner) of "The Crowning of Technocracy," 1933. Contributor to various magazines. Member of Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Beta Kappa Sigma Upsilon, Pi Delta Epsilon, Sigma Delta Chi, Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Sigma. Address: Hotel Peter Stuyvesant, 2 West 86th St., N.Y.C."

*FRANK E. BEANE III, 60 Beaver Street, New York City.

*JEROME M. ALLEN, 841 North Fourth Ave., Knoxville, Tenn., hurt by unavoidable changes and readjustments, buoyed by philosophical truths and the loyalties.

G. E. WHITE, 407 Equity Bldg., Oklahoma City, Okla., supervisor of agents of the Guaranty Life Insurance Co. Studied law at the University of Oklahoma, graduated in 1932, entered the bar. Home address: 1126 N.W. 37th St. Can definitely count eleven boys he has sent to Washington and Lee. Can that record be surpassed?

WILLIAM N. HINTON, 306 Jackson Ave., Lexington, Va., on leave from the University for part of this year doing extra work, will return in the fall.

*WILLIAM L. MAYOTTE, Grifton Lumber Co., of Hudson Falls, N.Y., helps toward the friendliness of the campaign. His letterhead bears the cryptic letters Radio Station WGLC of CBS.

*ALFRED B. COLLISON, The Trenton Times, Trenton, New Jersey, responds exactly as requested: "At present I am reporting for a local morning paper, the 'Trenton State Gazette', completing my second year with them this summer. Prior to that and immediately following graduation I was a member of the Associated Press Bureau at the State Capitol here. Thus, four years of newspaper work, two of them as a beginner, obviously has not raised my financial rating a tittle. I am heartily in sympathy with the fund drive idea and realize what you fellows are up against. I think it is a great undertaking and has been engineered for the class of '29 at least in a splendid manner. It would be refreshing to get in touch in some manner again with each other, if only to get a brief glimpse of the paths being followed since graduation. I hope the class bulletin news will to some extent achieve this."

J. W. TANKARD, 3611 Locust St., Philadelphia, Penn., graduated this June from University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

*A. L. MCCARDELL, JR., 301 Rockwell Terrace, Frederick, Md., travels as an assistant national bank examiner with the 5th Federal Reserve District.

GATEWOOD BROCK, 5-B, 809 Princess Anne Road, Norfolk, Va., announces Master Robert Gatewood Brock, 4 months old. "All that long distance running I used to do has given him a pair of lungs, much to my nightly discomfort. Thank goodness he doesn't cry much, but when he does it's just like an alarm clock. I wouldn't trade places with anyone. The going is rough sometimes, but always worth it."

*J. EDWARD LEWIS, JR., Hotel Hill Bldg., Oak Hill, West Va., with the New River Insurance Agency, insurance and bonds.

*JIM (J. J.) SALINGER, 5440 Cass Ave., The Belcrest, Detroit Mich. "Having been associated with R. H. Macy & Co., New York's largest department store for the past two and a half years I find it quite a jump to come out here and do what I am. I'm now with the Mazer Cressman Cigar Co., manufacturers of cigars, and have been having much fun and plenty of work helping in its reorganization."

CLYDE WILSON, 958 West University Avenue, Gainesville, Fla., is studying law, University of Florida. Between 1929 and 1932 did newspaper work in Knoxville and Miami. Gets his degree next February.

RICHARD P. CARTER, 304 Washington Park, Washington, N. C., has two jobs: one on the Washington Daily News (N.C.), the other is his father-in-law's business, manufacturer of ice cream. Nick is advertising manager.

*FRANK T. PARKER, JR., Waynesboro, Va., raises apples "Rosecliff Company, Inc.," married June 18, 1932, to Miss Marion McElroy of Charlottesville. Has spent two years since graduation in Florida and Alabama. Is more than the ordinary, an active, loyal alumnus.

*JOHN BELL TOWELL, Batesburg, S. C., no news.

*M. M. HEUSER, First National Bank Bldg., Norton, Va., attorney at law.

L. C. BEIRNE, JR., Louisa, Va., practices law there.

G. W. MARION, East Waynesboro, Va., has had a long illness, now recovering. After a year at Washington and Lee began correspondence course with the La Salle Extension University law department, just about to be completed. Looking now for opening in a firm or private office. Invites correspondence.

JIM (J. F.) BRUNER, 207 Peden St., Westminster, S. C., invites correspondence.

*WILLIAM C. WATSON, JR., 206 N. 9th St., Columbus, Miss., graduated in law from Tulane in June, plans uncertain.

*JAMES W. BAILEY, Bluefield, West Va., with the West Virginia Armature Co., electrical contractors, has to hustle and does.

ALFRED JUNKIN, 6 Houston St., Lexington, Va., with the McCrum Drug Co., sees and knows everything.

ED (F.) MADISON, Box 308, Bastrop, La., is of the law firm of Madison, Madison and Fuller, offices also in Monroe but Ed is in Bastrop.

*SAM LANCASTER, Texas and Pacific Bldg., Dallas, Texas, is an attorney in the legal department for Texas and Arkansas of the Texas and Pacific Railway, a new job after three years in general practice. Does interstate commerce work. Speaks of additions to his family but in no detail.

ATHERTON SEELEY, 33 West Upsal St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Penn.

HENRY P. JOHNSTON, Huntsville, Ala., publisher, The Huntsville Times. "I don't believe there is an alumnus anywhere who is more loyal or devoted than I am. I remember and cherish my many associations there."

*TOM (P.) WRIGHT, Dayton, Va., of the department of English, Shenandoah College, generous good wishes and approval.

*GEORGE M. WRIGHT, JR., Great Falls, S. C., with the Republic Cotton Mills, makers of print cloth and fine combed fabrics, his father's business of which he is president, no news but a handsome response otherwise.

*GILBERT R. LADD, JR., Thames and Batre, Mobile, Ala., generous response but with no news except that his business is insurance, including its every form, its unusual forms.

BEN EASTWOOD, 1926 Milan St., New Orleans, La.
BOB (S.) BACON, Dauner Veneer Co., Mobile, Ala., makers of rotary cut veneers, reports that he saw Liz Neely on one of his trips about for the Veneer Co., Morgan, Van Horn and Bemis. Has heard from Nicky, mentions Harvey and Stew.

JOHN ULMER, Box 524, Kirksville, Mo., has left Toledo and is studying medicine which he likes very much.

BILLIE (B.) LOTT, 160 Rapier Ave., Mobile, Ala., graduated in January from the University of Alabama Law School and is undecided whether to practice in Mobile or go to Washington.

JACK THORINGTON, JR., 13 South Perry St., Montgomery, Ala., of Thorington and Thorington, lawyers, father and son, invites further correspondence, another request next year, which is an attitude that is appreciated, an opening that will not be neglected.

*HARRY M. WILSON, JR., Atlantic National Bank Annex, Jacksonville, Fla., with Childress and Co., investment bankers and consultants, short but sweet, no news but full apprehension.

*ALLEN B. MORGAN, 1468 Vinton Ave., Memphis, Tenn., with the First Securities Corporation reports Tom Fitzhugh is looking well and prosperous.

*J. M. SHACKELFORD, Charleston, S. C., with W. T. Grant Co., department store. Graduated from Boston Tech last June, has a job, is grateful, sends 50% of one week's salary, is not ashamed of the sacrifice in doing so.

CHARLES D. MERCKE, Louisville, Ky., with the Jefferson Wood Working Co., a family business, makers of furniture parts in the white.

RALPH C. LYNN, 28 Washington Place, East Orange, N. J., in the practice of law a year with Frederick P. Schenck, has a new joke. A client said, "I met your other client yesterday."

WALTER H. WILCOX, JR., 2 Park Ave., New York City, with S. D. Warren Co., paper manufacturers.

JULIUS GARNETT BERRY, Tupelo, Miss., with the Tupelo Insurance Agency, his father's business, has been in Texas and likes it, may go back though indications are strongly in favor of remaining where he is.

FINLEY WADDELL, 8 Jordan St., Lexington, Va., of Wise and Waddell, insurance, Finley, secretary.

DICK SPERRY, 116 North Main St., Chardon, Ohio, engineer department of Highways, State of Ohio, interested also in politics, campaigns.

In Memoriam

JACKSON HAMILTON RICE
May 2, 1932

1928
276 men

Class-agent: *ROBERT F. HOWE, Walton Rice Mill, Stuttgart, Ark.

Co-agent: *RHYDON C. LATHAM, Greenleaf and Crosby Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla.

P. R. HARRISON, JR., Charleston, West Va., attorney for the State Corporation Commission of West Virginia, sees other Washington and Lee men often, Attorney-General Holt and Kenneth Hines, one of his assistants.

*H. B. BUSOLD, 319 Main St., Orange, N. J., attorney, graduated in law at Washington and Lee in 1930, returned to New Jersey.

*PHILLIP D. SPROUSE, 259 Main St., Springfield, Tenn., with G. B. Sprouse & Co., manufacturers of hardwood and soft Southern hardwood lumber.

JOHN B. ECKER, JR., 1311 30th St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

*W. D. DICKERSON, Stubbs-Kelley Bldg., Douglas, Ga., of the firm of Kelley and Dickerson.

*A. P. BONDURANT, 30th and Grand Ave., Louisville, Ky., with the Reynolds Metals Co., tin, aluminum, zinc foils for protection and decoration.

ROBERT W. PHARR, Bank of Commerce Bldg., Memphis, Tenn., has practiced law four years, second lieutenant 317th Field Artillery (Reserve).

*ROBERT L. MILLER, 106 East St. Matthew St., Gonzales, Texas, attorney, married June 15th, reports on Mike Palmer, practicing law in San Antonio; Mitchell, who is taking a flying course at Randolph Field; and Burke Zimmerman, who is to become a doctor.

JOHN ETHRIDGE (BUCK) BAILEY, First National Bank Bldg., Dallas, Texas, special agent for the Aetna Life Insurance Co., reports "Johnny Lancaster is one of the largest lawyers in the city, doing well and Sam is practicing law, legal department of the T. & P. Railway, has a family of one boy and one girl."

ROBERT C. BURRIS, 201 East Gambier St., Mt. Vernon, Ohio, after leaving Washington and Lee, went with the American Glanzstoff Corporation Mills of Elizabethton, Tenn., returned home on account of illness, laid up three years, now recovering, in six months hopes to be at work again.

*J. DAVIS REED, JR., 1 Crawford Place, Portsmouth, Va.

IRVIN W. CUBINE, Carter-Gravelly Bldg., Martinsburg, West Va., lawyer.

*OLDHAM CLARKE, Kentucky Home Life Bldg., Louisville, Ky., with Woodward, Hamilton and Hobson, lawyers.

*JULIUS GOLDSTEIN, 719 6th Ave., S.W., Roanoke, Va.

REED JOHNSTON, DuPont Bldg., Wilmington, Del., and his bride, the former Helen Austin of New York City, are now located in Wilmington, Del., where Reed is managing the branch office of Francis I. Du Pont & Co., New York brokerage house.

JAMES CASTNER, 810 Broad St., Newark, N. J., practicing law in Newark, has recently passed the bar examination of that state.

R. ALEXANDER BATE, 414 Brown Bldg., Louisville, Ky., is now Doctor Bate. Recently graduated from Medical school and started practice in Louisville, Ky.

*JOHN L. (JACK) STUART, Hillsdale, Baltimore, Md., graduated from Union Theological Seminary in 1931, and is now pastor of a church in Hillsdale, Baltimore.

JOE B. CLOWER, Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., has just graduated with honors from that seminary and will return next fall for the fellowship of graduate study which he won.

ROGER HALLER, Waynesboro, Va., was married recently, this despite an automobile accident in which his car came out second best with a train. He is located in Waynesboro, Va., with the DuPont Rayon Mill.

GRAY YEATMAN, Batesville, Ark., is manager of the North Arkansas Commission Co., in Batesville.

ALFRED BOYD, JR., 1110 Peabody Ave., Memphis, Tenn., who two years ago was forced to resign from the Commercial Credit Company in Atlanta because of ill health, is feeling hale and hearty again after a thorough rest at his home in Memphis.

*WILLIAM C. NORMAN, Crossett, Ark., has the distinction of remaining in the employ of the same bank since leaving school, The Bank of Crossett. A simple statement, but in Arkansas that's achievement!

*ROBERT F. HOWE, Stuttgart, Ark., went to Harvard and spent two years, got an M.A. in Business Administration, went with the Mead Corporation (paper mills) in Dayton, Ohio, covered the country and settled in Lynchburg, Va., then went back home to help manage the family properties and market rice.

JOHN E. JONES, Pittsburgh, Penn., is with the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, editorial department.

Unknown Address

Letter to the following was returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

NORBERT ROBERT CROZIER, JR., Dallas, Texas.

1927
323 men

Class-agent: *ZEB H. HERNDON, McDowell Co., Bank Bldg., Welch, West Va.

BUCK (GREENBERRY) SIMMONS, Inter-Southern Bldg., Louisville, Ky., of Simmons & Barker, attorneys.

*PRESTON MOORE, Lexington, Va., teaches history at Washington and Lee. Going back to Harvard this fall to finish up work for his doctorate.

*DAVID CURRY PORTER, Esom Hill, Ga., president of Treat Orchard Co., growers of apples and peaches, seven thousand four hundred acres, one hundred and fifty employees. After leaving Washington and Lee, did graduate work at University of Oklahoma, went into the heart of Mexico as a mining engineer, result eighteen months in the hospital, health recovered among apples and peaches in Georgia, where he has been for three years.

*BUNNY (P. C.) WHITLOCK, Covington, Va., is a production executive in the Covington plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. Makes a fine paper called "Westvaco." Here for finals with his wife. Bunny is one of the most active of the unofficial scouts looking up prospects for new students and clinging to them until they are settled here.

*W. E. GAGE, JR., 711 Falls Bldg., Memphis, Tenn., in his family's business, cotton farmers, W. A. Gage & Co. Has recently seen "big old Buster Newbern." Disposes of his obligation handsomely in spite of the luxury of recent matrimony.

ELDRED CAYCE, Columbia, Tenn., with the Tennessee Electric Power Co.

DR. CHARLES RANEY, 669 University Drive, Memphis, Tenn., practices medicine, has just graduated from the University of Tennessee Medical College.

S. TALMAGE MAGANN, Crozier Theological Seminary, Chester, Penn., completed graduate work at Washington and Lee in 1928, now finishing his third year in the divinity school, going into the Baptist ministry.

R. O. MILLBANK, 12 Charles Road, South Portland, Maine, engineer.

VERBON E. KEMP, Monticello Hotel Bldg., Charlottesville, Va., executive secretary, Charlottesville, and Albemarle County Chamber of Commerce.

EDWARD D. FOSSETT, Falmouth, Ky., agent Western department Firemen's Insurance Co., of Newark, cordial, regretful.

ROY G. NICHOLS, 217 35th St., Norfolk, Va., says little of his career but is still singing. Hasn't missed a Finals in twelve years.

H. C. HARRELL, Box 84, Faculty Exchange, University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill., is in the department of Greek.

CHARLES G. CROCKETT, University Club, Pittsburgh, Penn., with the Aetna Life Insurance Co., of-fices Chamber of Commerce Bldg.

GEORGE WILLITS PARKER, Tuckerton, N. J., edi-tor and publisher of the Tuckerton Beacon and Beach Haven Times, Republican politician, president of the Tuckerton Exchange Club, member of the County Board of Classification and Appeals. Heads his own committee on the selection and forwarding to Wash-ington and Lee, good material of his community.

*JOE ARTHUR SMITH, JR., Hibernia Bank Bldg., New Orleans, La., left Washington and Lee in Janu-ary, 1927, worked three years in Washington, D. C., returned home to Louisiana. Interested in everything concerned with Washington and Lee, alive.

*GEORGE D. VARNEY, Berwick, Maine, the county attorney for York.

*W. N. POPE, 517 West Sheppard St., Richmond, Va., with Scott & Stringfellow.

*RUSSELL G. MILLER, Williamsport, Md., loyal and generous.

*ERWIN WEINSTEIN, 1101 Elm St., Lumberton, S. C.

*NATHAN COOPER, 286 Grant Ave., Grantwood, N. J.

*RABBI DAVID H. WICE, Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio, entered the rabbinate in May.

*DR. E. PENDLETON TOMPKINS, University Hos-pital, Philadelphia, Penn., next year will be assistant resident in surgery.

I. D. FELDER, JR., Blakely, Ga., writes from the Phi Gamma Sigma House, Chapel Hill, N. C., continu-ing work at the University of North Carolina.

J. K. HOUCK, 1234 Sledge St., Memphis, Tenn., with the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., Farnsworth Bldg. The future seems bright.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Informa-tion requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

S. McA. TAYLOR, Mobile, Ala.

SAMUEL RUTHERFORD HALL, Moorefield, W. Va.

HERMAN HENRY HELLRIEGEL, Atlanta, Ga.

JOHN BURCHELL CREWE, Haverford, Penn.

PENDLETON SOUTHER, Philadelphia, Penn.

ALBERT VAUGHAN CASE, New York, N.Y.

EDWARD RADER JACKSON, JR., New Orleans, La.

H. W. WEST, Chicago, Ill.

THOMAS IVOR ROBERTS, San Benito, Texas

GRAHAM CAMERON LYTLE, Charleston, West Va.

In Memoriam

JOHN NEWTON GARBER, JR.

1926

294 men

Class-agent: *BASIL G. WATKINS, attorney, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va.

*JOHN R. VANBUREN, 41 Wilder Ave., Hoosick Falls, N. Y., went to the medical school, University of Rochester, with a classmate, Thomas R. Nichols, and stayed there two years. Then for two years with a national advertising agency. Since 1930 head of the sci-ence department of the Hoosick Falls high school. Plans for continuing Medicine only postponed. Soon to be married to Miss Ruth Martin Lytle of Salem, N. Y.

*EARL L. VALENTINE, Lexington, Va., practices law in Lexington, specializes in damage law and is run-ning for the House of Delegates. Reports upon Earl Cadmus who is already there.

*ARNOLD SCHLOSSBERG, R.F.D. 5, Roanoke, Va., is still at the Harvard Law School but soon will be practicing.

*DAVIS BELL, Waynesboro, Va., confesses his af-fection for Washington and Lee and the liveliness of his memories.

*BURKE WILLIAMSON, 203 S. Dearborn St., Chi-cago, Ill., gives only his address.

*J. N. WILLIAMS, Professional Bldg., Richmond, Va., is practicing medicine.

*RALPH DAVES, Lexington, Va., has managed the theatres since 1926. He says the coming year looks bright and he praises all of Washington and Lee's pros-pects.

*WILLIAM C. BAXTER, Batavia, N. Y., will be at that address until the fall when he takes over a parish of his own. He is just leaving a nursing home where he has been since February recovering from a severe attack of influenza. He is now almost well.

*CHARLES PORTER SNYDER, 305 Dunlap St., Paris, Tenn., has words of praise, not blame, for the depression since it causes an exchange of news of the class of 1926. But he gives none of himself.

T. R. HECKER, 3538 91st St., Jackson Heights, N. Y., is a stockholder in one busted bank and a de-positor in another, is not married or anything and has no conventional news but a ripened sense of humor.

*NELSON W. BURRIS, Strykers Lane Community Center, 554 West 53rd St., New York City, with Clarence Sager, '14, and Ed Lee, '13, is one of the active, loyal, trustworthy alumni of the metropolis.

HUGH BRYSON GLASS, 11 Rockdell Lane, Bir-mingham, Ala., asks "Who needs a chemist?"

CORNELIUS V. DEBIASCO, has been in Europe the past five years.

*FATS (CLARENCE W.) MEADOWS, Beckley, West Va., is the attorney of Raleigh County.

J. D. MAHONEY, Chilhowie, Va., is head of the committee of his community to influence the better material to go to Washington and Lee.

*J. R. HENDRIX is in the trust department of the Birmingham Trust and Savings Co., Birmingham, Ala.

*SHORTY (FRANCIS B.) WATERS, Accomac, Va., is an attorney. After graduation practiced in Tampa for two years, then returned home to Accomac. Is politically ambitious and will run for Commonwealth's Attorney. Was an oral supporter of F.D.R. Is single and complains of it. Wants always to be kept in touch with all alumni activities and will be indulged to the extent of a subscription to the Alumni Magazine.

*T. T. MOORE, State Bureau of Insurance and Banking, Richmond, Va., in the service of the Great Commonwealth.

*MEYER LU GOODMAN, Law Bldg., Norfolk, Va., is a member of the firm of Jackson, Goodman and Canton, certified public accountants, with certificates from Virginia and North Carolina. Not a word about the depression and many words of loyalty to Washington and Lee, and cheer to all his friends.

R. A. FULTON, 1818 First National Bank Bldg., Memphis, Tenn., is the local representative of the Armstrong Cork Co.

STANLEY H. COOLING, 60 Mardhall St., Brookline, Mass.

*W. E. (TEX) TILSON, Lexington, Va., is football coach at Washington and Lee.

FRANK P. SHULL, Virginia Episcopal School, Lynchburg, Va., is going abroad this summer for study in a foreign school.

*A. R. COLEMAN, Morris A-11, Soldiers Field, Boston, Mass., is finishing a two years' course at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

JACK G. CHAPMAN, 51 Perkins Hall, Cambridge, Mass., is also in his second year of graduate work at Harvard.

*CHARLES W. LOWRY, 7 Panoramic Way, Berkeley, Cal., is just back from a two and a half years' residence abroad.

JOHN TELEPHUS LEWIS, Jacksonville, Fla.

MONTGOMERY RIDENOUR, Hagerstown, Md.

ROBERT CHESTER SMITH, Greenville, S. C.

*EMMETT W. McCORKLE, JR., 15th and Carter Ave., Ashland, Ky., with the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Co., Inc.

*EUGENE A. NABORS, Mansfield, La., at Tulane University, New Orleans, La.

1925

292 men

Class-agent: *JOHN COOPER MORRISON, JR., Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.

CLYDE ALLEN, 316 North 25th St., Richmond, Va., with the Richmond Laundry Towel Supply, Linen Service department, was "at home in Lexington" again on Alumni Day and enjoyed it, was well repaid.

*GIBSON WITHERSPOON, Lawyers Bldg., Meridian Miss., of Witherspoon and Bryant, lawyers, after leaving Washington and Lee practiced in Meridian for a few years, then established his own firm, speaks warmly of Dr. Gaines' visit to Mississippi to deliver the Commencement Day address at Mississippi State College.

*HENRY K. HILL, JR., Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky., general agent for Kentucky for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., president of the Louisville chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association, have regular meetings, good attendance, lively interest.

G. EDWIN HEDRICK, High Point, N. C., with the Lexington Grocery Co., wholesale grocers. Remembers the tender days of his freshman year particularly and reports on a reunion with Washington and Lee men at Durham (Duke).

*E. S. MATTINGLY, Lexington, Va., registrar of Washington and Lee, sees all, hears all, knows all.

*A. R. HAWKINS, Kyrock, Ky., lives in that community of the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Co., whose genius there, is also a genius here and among the alumni everywhere, Harry St. George Tucker Carmichael of the class of 1899.

*GEORGE T. CLARK, 1317 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, Fla., of Clark & Ellis, lawyers, practical good wishes and approval.

*C. W. REX, 144 North Orange Ave., Orlando, Fla., secretary-treasurer of the Rex-McGill Investment Co., Inc., real estate, brokerage, insurance, loans, property management. "While it seems only a short time since I was at Washington and Lee, nevertheless many things have transpired in the meantime. I am now married and have a four-old son. This year I am vice-president of the local Kiwanis Club, and also one of the organization members of the recently organized American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. Many times I have wondered just what has happened to the members of my class. Being so scattered over the United States, it has been very difficult to keep track of many except those who were close personal friends in college."

MARVIN I. WALTON, Masonic Temple Bldg., Danville, Va., attorney and counsellor at law, has visited the World's Fair.

HUNTER H. HANCOCK, Bluefield, West Va., with C. B. Hancock, stocks and bonds, mentions Merk, and Eddie.

BRUCE F. GANNOWAY, 715 Kaye St., West Palm

Beach, Fla., joined the Florida Conference of the Methodist Church in 1930, was in Key West for a year and a half, now in West Palm Beach, calls his church a "Boom Church," suffering greatly from the collapse.

LUTHER E. REYNOLDS, JR., 2216 Arlington Ave., Birmingham, Ala., is cordial, sincere.

F. GORDON HUDGINS, Newport News, Va., of Hudgins & Hudgins, lawyers, likewise.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

BENJAMIN CAMPBELL BLAKE, Smithfield, Va.

E. V. BIDDLE, JR., Richmond, Va.

WM. ZERAH DAVIDSON, Brookville, Penn.

E. L. GILMORE, JR., care of Norman Bel Geddes, New York City.

G. C. HOUCINS, JR., Pearesville, Va.

R. B. HOUCINS, Pearesville, Va.

J. E. JOHNSON, Radford, Va.

G. R. McALISTER, Ocean City, N. J.

P. C. MANNING, Sewanee, Tenn.

LOUIS GERNDORFF NORVELL, Los Angeles, Cal.

K. S. PRINCE, Norfolk, Va.

C. S. ROOKS, Humbolt, Texas

B. W. SUTHERLAND, JR., Mount Olive, N. C.

B. F. WARD, Memphis, Tenn.

P. B. YATES, Baltimore, Md.

1924

260 men

Class-agent: *W. GOODRIDGE SALE, JR., Welch, W. Va.

*DR. JOSEPH S. McMATH, 421 Burns Ave., Wyoming, Cincinnati, Ohio, general practice in this suburb of Cincinnati for the past three years. Received his M. D. from Atlanta in 1928, then two years as interne in the Cincinnati General Hospital.

*JOHN W. GREENE, Bankers Trust Bldg., Knoxville, Tenn., of Greene and Ambuster, lawyers. "Talking for the record, I might report about myself: I am engaged in the practice of law; am single and am enjoying life as well as can be expected, provided I do not expect too much. Bill McCallum, the other Washington and Lee alumnus of our group, took unto himself a bride about a month ago. Outside of these minor items, deponent sayeth not."

*JOHN F. HERNDON, 1615 North Third Ave., Birmingham, Ala., writes pleasantly: "I sympathize with you in having to make an appeal in behalf of our Alumni Association at this time but I commend you for doing it and emphasize that you are certainly justified in doing so. My reign as banana king (in Central America with United Fruit Co.) was rather short, lasting only a year and a half. I abdicated in 1925. Since that time I have been struggling for a living in the automobile storage and service business. I am glad to know where you are and what you are doing although I had heard through Allan Rushton that you were practicing law. I know that your energetic thoroughness is giving you success in your profession. And that is not flattery."

JOHN W. GUERRANT, Richmond, Va., of the Virginia Paper Co., offices in Richmond, Washington and Jacksonville, congratulates his class-agent upon two daughters, boasts of one.

"SARG" (J. W.) FITCHETT, Union Bank Bldg., Huntington, West Va., attorney at law, his own office, since 1926. Writes in friendly mood, thankful for the opportunity.

*ALFRED H. GRIFFITH, Buena Vista, Va., lawyer, practices, helps run the town, has been Mayor.

*FREDERICK N. MERCER, 29 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y., "his heart and soul are in it," and he proves it.

*WILLIAM C. MCKNIGHT, Demarest, N. J., president and treasurer of the Aroma Laboratories, manufacturers of fine flavoring extracts and allied products, fruit syrups, crushed fruits for soda fountains.

*EDDIE M. CAMERON, Durham, N. C., football coach at Duke, was here for Finals, exuberant, refreshing, optimistic.

*REV. J. N. THOMAS, Bedford, Va., working on his Ph. D., assistant professor of Religious Education and Chaplain at Hollins College.

*JOSEPH E. BIRNIE, Eighth and Main Sts., Richmond, Va., The Morris Plan Bank, in charge of their Petersburg branch, his branch in Petersburg being the only bank in Petersburg to reopen without restrictions after the closing by Presidential order in March. Recently moved to the head office.

*CHARLES A. COHEN, 297 Broadway, New York City, brief but pleasant remembrances, now practicing law.

*DR. LYMAN H. HARRIS, JR., Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., taught at McCallie for several years, got his Ph. D., and moves on to University of Omaha this fall. Is still single.

In Memoriam

JAMES WILSON McCARTNEY

April 18, 1933

Killed in an airplane crash

1923

206 men

Class-agent: JOHN W. McCALLUM, Maryland Casualty Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

There was no general response from the class of 1923 in time to report in this number of the Magazine.

Letters have been sent to all members, asking for their contributions and letters of news to be sent direct to the Alumni Secretary in Lexington. A report will be made in the fall number.

*D. R. (TOAD) SNIVELY, Hagerstown, Md., with the Hagerstown Leather Co.

*THOMAS J. ELLIS, 1317 Biscayne Blvd., of Clark and Ellis, lawyers, is the second to fill in the gap of 1923.

1922
213 men

Class-agent: *JOE L. SILVERSTEIN, Charleston National Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.

*ROBERT M. BEAR, Dartmouth, College, Hanover, N. H., associate in the Department of Education, was in Lexington last fall. "We are well acquainted with alumni funds here at Dartmouth, having raised some hundred thousand or more that way each year since my coming. There is a feature which touches those of us who are not Dartmouth alumni. Many of us on the faculty give toward the fund each year when the drive literature is sent out. It is sent to faculty as well as alumni. This is a wonderful institution in many ways and we see our luck in being here to the extent of showing our appreciation of all it is doing. We have every year about 2,200 students, a faculty of 250, a magnificent program of activities and everything else attractive."

EDGAR JACKSON, 185 Orleans Circle, Norfolk, Va., teaches in the high school, has warm and loyal remembrances.

RALPH P. HANGER, Lathrop Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., manager Casualty department, Maryland Casualty Co.

W. EDWIN NEBLETT, Lunenburg, Va.

DR. HUSTON ST. CLAIR, Bluefield, West Va., is in his father's business, working for his interests, practically giving up his profession (medicine), doing special work, executive and research, for the Virginia Smokeless Coal Co., exclusive miners and shippers of Jewel Pocahontas Coal.

R. D. BLACKBURN, 203 Spring St., N.W., Atlanta, Ga., with the American Discount Co. of Georgia.

LOUIS DUNLOP, Pulaski, Va., with the Pulaski Veneer Corporation, manufacturers of cabinet plywood, face veneers, dimension walnut lumber.

DR. HUSTON ST. CLAIR, Bluefield, West Va.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

WILLIAM HAMILTON BARRETT, Ivy Depot, Va.

FRANK BRYANT BEAZLEY, Richmond, Va.

PAUL WINFRED GLENN, Roanoke, Va.

PROSPER WHITNEY PEDEN, Houston, Texas

JAMES MERRILL RUSSELL, Cleveland, Ohio

CHARLES WILLIAM SNYDOR THOMPSON, Martinsburg, West Va.

1921
222 men

Class-agent: *THOMAS X. PARSONS, Colonial-American National Bank Bldg., Roanoke, Va.

CARLTON E. JEWETT, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va., attorney at law, was unable to come for Finals, as he hoped he might, has a daughter, Miss Beverley Grey Jewett, born Sept. 18, 1932, reads the Alumni Magazine (the father) likes it, is good enough to say so.

WILLIAM A. GIBBONS, JR., Roanoke, Va., with the Liberty Trust Co.

*R. C. WOOD, JR., Lynchburg, Va., attorney at law, is close and often in Lexington.

WILLIAM C. KERN, 8 East Market St., Indianapolis, Ind., transferred to Princeton, took his degree there.

*J. B. HOKE, P. O. Box 676, Martinsburg, West Va., with the Interstate Amiesite Co., Inc., of Wilmington, Del., being concerned with their sales in the district of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, expresses an honest opinion frankly, without giving or meaning offense and is published herewith as proof of the earnestness and sincerity he looks for. "It is indeed good to have heard from you after so many years away from the Campus and I want to assure you of my cooperation in every way toward a better and closer relationship between the alumni. It seems to me that in the past ten years the Alumni Association and alumni activities in general have been a complete joke in every instance. In the past I have subscribed to their wishes and schemes for betterment, that usually being the last I heard for a year or two, then somebody pops up with a new and different scheme that has with the same rapidity trod the path to failure. I am however enclosing you a check and will later consider a more substantial contribution, if I find the Association is functioning with some real earnestness. I am sure if the other active members are of the caliber of yourself and Troque Moore on the Committee, the entire thing cannot help but be a success and I am hoping you will feel free to call upon me for any contribution of service desired."

*B. F. HOWARD, Welch, West Va., Judge of the Eighth Judicial Court, comprising McDowell and Mingo Counties, gives freely and feels generously.

ROY J. GRIMLEY, Realty Bldg., 7 North Broad St., Ridgewood, N. J., counsellor at law. "It has been more than eight years since I have been to Washington and Lee although I have attended all the athletic contests that have taken place in this part of the country. I was very glad to hear from you as I have been wondering what has happened to many in the class of 1921. Frequently I see some of them who happen to be in and around New York. I had the pleasure of playing bridge with Emmett Poindexter. You will no doubt recall him as Secretary of the Student Council during our last year. You may rest assured that I have the interest of Washington and Lee at heart. In the past several years I secured the attendance of several boys from this vicinity."

*JOHN BELL, Tampa, Fla., of Knight, Thompson and Turner, sends practical good wishes for success.

*FRANK M. POLLOCK, Bluefield, West Va., Bradman Bldg., an adjuster in the Fire Companies Adjustment Bureau, Inc., Southeastern department, has news. "Jeb Stuart spent a few days with me recently. He is manager of a cannery in Maryland but I gathered from what he said that he might be back on the farm soon. Sheeney Thornburg also visited me soon after Jeb's trip. He is still living in Huntington."

JOHN L. PATTERSON, Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo. Manager Eastern Missouri department of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Co., fidelity and surety bonds and casualty insurance, wants to be counted in.

*DAVID D. JOHNSON, 1612 Bendum-Trees Bldg., Pittsburgh, Penn., says: "Regards, X," and encloses.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

- BENJAMIN D. HARTRIDGE, West Palm Beach, Fla.
- HARVEY ENLOE, JR., Roanoke, Va.
- WILLIAM T. MCGOWIN, JR., Birmingham, Ala.
- JOHN W. LEIGH, JR., Memphis, Tenn.
- ALEXANDER S. JOHNSON, Augusta, Ga.
- WALTER A. DRUMMOND, Aiken, S. C.

1920

196 men

Class-agent: *MORRIS H. HESTER, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va.

*R. M. HUTCHESON, Roanoke, Va., Virginia Insurance Rating Bureau, also Bob, not to be confused with Bob of Lexington of the class of 1910.

*JOHN DRYE, 70 Broadway, New York City, of Larkin, Rathbone and Perry, Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company Bldg.

*RANDOLPH M. CABELL, Box 422, Covington, Va. In the coal business, retired from the Alumni Board of Trustees, class-agent for 1920, next year.

*MAURICE B. PEIKIN, Hotel Traymore Block, Atlantic City, N. J., of Peikin, Inc., exclusive art creations from over the seas for American Homes, representatives in Paris and New York.

CHESTER S. SHADE, Martinsburg, West Va., removed there from California.

*RALPH D. HUMMEL, 1057 Beaconsfield, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.

*ERSKINE JOHNSTON, American Sugar Refining Co., 120 Wall St., New York City.

R. HENCE YOUNG, 801 West Superior St., Alma, Mich., undimmed loyalty and affection.

*E. W. POINDEXTER, 25 Broad St., New York City, approves the whole plan, sponsorship, class fund and annual giving.

JOE HOBSON, Prestonsburg, Ky., of Hill and Hobson, lawyers.

H. F. MADISON, JR., 619 Bernhardt Bldg., Monroe, La., of Madison, Madison & Fuller, lawyers, with offices in Bastrop and Monroe.

LEIGH H. HANES, Mountain Trust Bldg., Roanoke, Va.

E. A. STUCK, Jonesboro, Ark., architect, getting his degree in architecture at Washington University in St. Louis.

ARTHUR O. DUNN, 209 Lincoln Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, also an architect, domestic, landscape and decoration, also owns and operates a stone quarry. Offers service, proves sincere loyalty.

HAROLD G. ROBERTSON, Roanoke, Va., banker.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

- GEORGE IRA KEENER, Weston, West Va.
- LOUIS L. OVERTON, Nashville, N. C.
- JOHN BLUE, JR., Radford, N. C.
- JOHN PHILLIPS WATTS, Ravenwood, Va.

1919

99 men

Class-agent: *LEONARD T. BROWN, Lott-Merlin Co., Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

*ALEX WALKER, Apt. 203-B, 4700 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. C. "Knowing it would interest him, I took the liberty of sending your comparative analysis of alumni fund results to President Clothier, of Rutgers, a friend who wrote me they were in the midst of some problem and that he was especially glad to have those figures. Let me congratulate you, and Cy and all others concerned in your apparent effort to enlist everybody rather than a few, which I believe will prove wise not only under the possible exigencies of the moment but in the long range as well."

JOHN R. TODD, JR., Kingsport, Tenn. "After serving as a member of the Senate of the Sixty-Eighth

General Assembly of Tennessee, for the year 1933, I am back in my law office in Kingsport, following my profession. I am always interested to hear of the growth and progress of Washington and Lee University. It is a shrine of precious memories, and as the years glide by, the University in my opinion will rise higher and higher in the minds of the people of the Southland, and she has a heritage that cannot be excelled. Here's wishing you and the other alumni of Washington and Lee University, all the success and happiness that life affords."

DR. GILES S. TERRY, 5 Oakwood Place, Scarsdale, N. Y., has been practicing in Scarsdale about a year.

*WILLIAM F. BARRON, 106 Fifth Ave., Rome, Ga., visited Lexington in the spring, saw Harry Burns recently in Rome.

THOMAS W. GILLIAM, Lynchburg National Bank and Trust Co., Lynchburg, Va., assistant cashier.

*W. J. DUNGAN, Augusta, Ark., lawyer.

*GUS A. FRITCHIE, Slidell, La., lawyer, studied law at Tulane University after leaving Washington and Lee, practicing since 1922, married, one child.

CHARLES KUPFER, 122 East 42nd St., New York City, counsellor at law.

*FRANK H. JACOBS, JR., Bel Air, Md., counsellor at law.

J. W. McKOWN, Waynesboro, Penn., of Wolf & McKOWN, household furnishings of every sort.

J. R. FAIN, Winston-Salem, N. C., president The Morris Plan Bank.

*DR. REID WHITE, JR., Lexington, Va., is taking his father's place in the community and is physician of the University.

JESSE M. JOHNSON, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va., lawyer.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

JOHN LEROY GLOVER, Hammond, La.

JAMES MARSHALL JENNINGS, Akron, Ohio

In Memoriam

LEE WINSTON LAWSON

June 20, 1932

1918

269 men

Class-agent: *OTTO M. STUMPF, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.

HOMER A. HOLT, attorney-general of the State of West Virginia, Charleston, West Va.

ADAM B. BOWMAN, Sells Bldg., Johnson City, Tenn., of Simmonds & Bowman, lawyers.

JOHN L. McCHORD, 308 Euclid Avenue Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio, of Calfee and Fogg, lawyers, was married June 22nd in Atlanta, and brought his bride to Lexington on their way north.

ADOLPH S. MARX, 625 Ryan St., Lake Charles, La., with the Muller Co., Ltd., "everything men, women and children wear," spent a day in Lexington in March for the first time in twelve or fifteen years and enjoyed it.

*MATTHEW W. PAXTON, JR., Lexington, Va., attorney at law, active in many alumni affairs, athletic and chapel committees particularly.

C. R. McCoy, Dickenson County Bank Bldg., Clintwood, Va., of McCoy, Rose and Rush, lawyers.

GEORGE M. McLAUGHLIN, Charleston, West Va.

*FRANCIS T. COLE, 401 Broadway, New York City, sent one of the earliest contributions.

HOMER A. HOLT, Fayetteville, West Va.

S. A. T. C.—1918

*W. H. LEWIS, JR., National Bank Examiner, 717 First National Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

*JAMES B. GRAVES, 1127 West Washington St., Petersburg, Va.

1917

172 men

Class-agent: *JACKSON R. COLLINS, 2 Lafayette St., New York City

*BILLY (W. J.) COX, 51 Prospect St., New Haven, Conn., is in the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University, department of Engineering Mechanics. "I think this alumni fund idea is a good one. Here at Yale, where incidentally, support of the college by the alumni is developed to a very unusual degree, all alumni are asked to make a contribution each year, just as the Washington and Lee alumni have been asked. There is, however, this difference. The reunion classes, those which have been out five, ten, fifteen, etc., years, generally make a larger contribution than the classes which are not holding reunions. The contributions of the reunion classes are considered as a capital fund which in the case of Yale, over a period of some forty years has gradually grown to a size where the annual income from it is a very considerable thing. The annual contributions of the classes which are not holding reunions are put into the current expense account of the University. In this way, each alumnus, no matter how small his contributions, can feel that he is both helping along from year to year, and contributing to the permanent welfare of the college. I don't know whether this idea is applicable to Washington and Lee or not, but it might be worth some consideration."

*DR. R. GLENN CRAIG, 490 Post St., San Francisco, Cal. "It has been a long time since I have seen you and my residence in San Francisco prevents me from getting back to Washington and Lee very often. I suppose there may be some other Washington and Lee men in San Francisco but I have never seen them. You ask for a news report and perhaps this biography will be self-explanatory:

"Office, 490 Post St., by appointment (Douglas 5343); residence, Fairmont Hotel (Douglas 8800); Assistant Clinical Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology. A.B., Washington and Lee University, 1917; M.D., Johns Hopkins, 1922; Resident House Officer, Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1922-23; Assistant in Pathology, Johns Hopkins Medical School, 1923-24; Assistant and Instructor in Gynecology, 1923-27; Assistant Resident in Gynecology, Johns Hopkins Hospital, 1923-26; Resident Gynecologist, 1926-27. Clinical study in Europe 1927-28. At Stanford since 1928. In addition I am a member of the American Board of Gynecology and Obstetrics and a member of the Pacific Coast Obstetrical and Pathological Society. That about concludes my professional record. As far as my other activities are concerned, I have worked so hard I have not had time to marry and therefore have no children. San Francisco is a nice place to live. Except that it is so far away from my old haunts I find it satisfactory in every way. Remember me to my classmates."

*CHARLIE T. LILE, 575 South Negley Ave., Pittsburgh, Penn., promises a renewed activity of the Pittsburgh alumni.

*DR. CHARLES McNITT, 114 East 62nd St., New York City, highly endorses the movement.

*HERBERT G. PETERS, JR., Bristol, Va.-Tenn., of the law firm of Peters, Lavinder, Peters and Rouse, praises the movement, and those in charge of it.

*BILL (W. O.) BURTNER, 725 Fifteenth St., N.W., Washington, D. C., financial secretary of the national headquarters, the Federal Bar Association, feels strongly all the ties in Lexington.

*FRANK J. GILLIAM, Lexington, Va., dean of students, Washington and Lee. Congratulates himself and Bruce Morrison and Curtis Humphries upon their pleasant fate in Lexington.

*Cy (H. K.) YOUNG, Lexington, Va., alumni secretary, football and basketball coach.

JIMMIE (JAMES A.) LEE, McGraw-Hill Bldg., 330 West 42nd St., New York City, with Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering.

THOMAS MITCHELL PITTS, Indianola, Miss.

R. E. MOORE, Ferrum, Va., agricultural instructor of the Ferrum Training School for worthy boys and girls, approves activity of both the alumni as an organization and the football team.

E. P. BARROW, Lawrenceville, Va., attorney at law, regrets, reluctantly, but supports the University, its prospects, its president with no reluctance.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

THOMAS ROWAN HAMILTON, Washington, D. C.

MARSHALL GORDON TWYMAN, Miami, Fla.

JAMES LEE SANDIDGE, Princeton, N. J.

MAYO CLINTON SPEAREN, Fayetteville, West Va.

1916

141 men

Class-agent: *REUBEN A. LEWIS, JR., second vice-president the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, Ill., the largest bank in the middle west. Reuben is engaged in commercial banking, handling accounts in the eastern territory.

*DR. FRANK M. LEECH, Lexington, Va., the leading surgeon of the community, successful, popular, recently made fellow American College of Surgeons.

*JAMES J. IZARD, Colonial National Bank Bldg., Roanoke, Va., of Chas. Lunsford & Sons, insurance.

*DUSTY (RUSSELL S.) RHODES, Chamber of Commerce, Tyler, Texas, general manager Chamber of Commerce of Tyler. Has attended three consecutive sessions of the National Institute for Commercial Organization Executives at Northwestern.

*JOHN SHIRLEY RILEY, Box 246, Roanoke, Va., Coca-Cola bottling business, drives his own plane, just bought a new one. Shirley is an aeronautic enthusiast, but prefers to have his own pilot do the sky management of his plane.

*H. J. KISER, Wise, Va., attorney at law in the First National Bank Bldg. Is often in Lexington, averaging once a year. Watches things and feels that the University is making progress. Optimistic about athletics.

*W. M. FARRAR, JR., Jefferson Road, Short Hills, N. J., has a young son, two older daughters.

*ROBERT M. CURTIS, 1201 Allendale St., Prospect Hills, Roanoke, Va., assistant manager of the Times-World Corporation, publishers of the Roanoke Times, a morning paper, and the Roanoke World News, an afternoon paper; was here for Alumni Day and seemed to enjoy it.

*C. LYNCH CHRISTIAN, 2 Oakwood Place, Lynchburg, Va., with the Imperial Coal Sales Company, high grade steam, domestic, and by-product coal.

*SELDEN S. McNEER, Huntington Banking and Trust Co., Huntington, West Va.

WILLIAM A. WRIGHT, Tappahannock, Va.

JOHN SHIRLEY RILEY, Coca-Cola Bottling Works, Roanoke, Va.

1915

135 men

Class-agent: *KI WILLIAMS, DuPont Rayon Co., Waynesboro, Va.

*ROBERT P. ADAMS, Trenton, Tenn., is a member of the firm of Taylor, Adams & Freeman.

W. W. CASH, JR., Lynchburg, Va., recently chief chemist with the Lavino Furnace Company at Lynchburg. For the past eighteen years his experience has covered analytical research and engineering chemistry and metallurgy with several iron companies.

C. C. CHAMBERS, Logan, W. Va., is practicing law.

R. H. COLEMAN, Bardwell, Ky., is with the engineering branch of the State Highway Commission, Commonwealth of Kentucky.

*CARL FISHER, 4310 Kathland Ave., Baltimore, Md., has been illuminating engineer for the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co., for the past nine years. He is married, has two daughters, reports with pride that the third Omicron Delta Kappa distinguished service key was awarded to him at Johns Hopkins, April 27, Wm. Brown officiating.

WOODSON P. HOUGHTON, Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C., is a member of the firm of Ellis, Ferguson, Houghton and Gary.

HERMAN HAMPTON, 805 Kirby Bldg., Houston, Texas, is the manager of the Houston Mutual Insurance Agency. Has been in Little Rock, Ark., and Kansas City and now in Houston. Reports on Cochie Neal in Houston, Walter Steves, Bob Witt and Rosey Glass in San Antonio.

G. G. JOYNES, JR., Onancock, Va., is assistant cashier of the First National Bank and absorbed in its affairs.

W. GUY LAUGHON, Jefferson Standard Bldg., Greensboro, N. C., is branch manager of the Sun Life Assurance Co., of Canada, for the states of North and South Carolina. For two years after graduation, practiced law, since then in the insurance business, first in Roanoke and for six years in Greensboro. Has three daughters, 15, 13 and 9.

GEORGE B. LAMPTON, Columbia, Miss., is a merchant, "Lampton Company," wholesale and retail. After leaving Washington and Lee went to the University of Mississippi from which he received his degree by post, being in camp preparatory to the late world unpleasantness.

LORING G. KACKLEY, Berryville, Va., is an attorney, enthusiastic about alumni plans.

*GEORGE S. MORRISON, Houston, Texas, manages the Houston office of Rodgers & Co., of Norfolk, Va., cotton merchants.

*WALTER C. PRESTON, Procter & Gamble, Ivorydale, Ohio, is in the chemical division of the makers of Ivory Soap. For ten years he has been in charge of the Soap Research Laboratory. At Chemical Society meetings he has run into Whetzel and Jimmy Lee. He is homesick for Virginia.

*WILL H. SMITH, Box 686, Ardmore, Okla., is quite satisfied with life.

*T. H. STUKES, Manning, S. C., practices law, supports a wife and two children thereby, a girl of eight, a boy of six and for recreation has been a member of the State Senate since 1927 and of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

*C. W. SWITZER, Empire State Bldg., New York, is Director of Production of DuPont Cellophane Co.

R. W. WYLIE, Ellwood City, Penn., is receiver for the First National Bank of that city.

*STUART MOORE, Lexington, Va., practices law, has been on the bench, juvenile court and domestic relations, is treasurer of the Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., modest, loyal, untiring, unselfish, irreplaceable. His letter to his class-agent is published complete elsewhere.

*LESLIE S. ANDERSON, Mayfield, Ky., in the tobacco business with J. L. Sherrill & Co., asks for addresses of all his friends, responds with undisguised enthusiasm.

R. N. LATTURE, University of Chicago, Evanston, Ill., is on leave from Washington and Lee pursuing further studies, returning in September.

MILTON B. ROGERS, 100 William St., New York City, is vice-president of the Community Water Service Company, prompt, generous, practical in his enthusiasm for all alumni plans.

*ISAAC D. SMITH, Petersburg, West Va., practices law.

*JOHN W. MCCREADY, Demopolis, Ala., in the Baptist ministry, is a sportsman, hunts deer and will visit Virginia and Kentucky this summer.

G. ROBERT SHAW, Harrison, N. J. Bob is married and has four children. He was with General Electric Co. for ten years working on lamps and radio tubes. Now with Radiotron Co., doing chemical and research work, major interest in field of electronics.

ARTHUR M. BIRDSALL, 704 10th Ave., Belmar, N. J.

MILTON B. ROGERS, 100 William St., New York

WOODSON P. HOUGHTON, Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C.

In Memoriam

*ROBERT NEWTON KREBS

April 23, 1930

1914
139 men

Class-agent: *CLARENCE L. SAGER, of Holton and Foster, counsellors at law, 26 Broadway, New York City

*JUDGE HOWELL M. TANNER, Bluefield, West Va., Ninth Judicial Circuit Court.

*EDWARD M. CRAIG, JR., 3515 78th St., Jackson Heights, New York. Civil engineer in the employ of the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, address 346 Broadway.

DR. JOHN W. BAYLOR, "Wardell," Cedar Bluff, Va., ill for the past five years, unable to practice medicine.

*A. W. McCAIN, 18 Pine St., New York City, never fails to respond.

*DR. VANN M. MATTHEWS, 824 East Trade St., Charlotte, N. C. "I was graduated in medicine from University of Pennsylvania in 1918, entered the Navy as Lieutenant of Medical Corps in June, 1918, and served in the U. S. Naval Hospital in Philadelphia, and later on a troop ship, U. S. S. Panaman, until September, 1919. Interned in hospitals in New York until September, 1920, since then I have been practicing in Charlotte, N. C. I was married in New York in January, 1921. We are still living together and are very happy, have no children. If we ever get legal advice I will call on you."

*C. H. MORRISSETT, Box 453, Richmond, Va., an important man with great responsibilities, who has time always for those contacts that please and sweeten the recreational affairs of life, among them his unflinching courtesy and generosity to Washington and Lee.

*ROGER J. BEAR, Cincinnati, Ohio, an executive in the great grocery house of Kroger. "Certainly we all have a warm spot in our hearts for Washington and Lee and realize that its traditions have meant much to us in life's struggles."

*JUNIUS L. POWELL, 90 John St., New York City, Chubb and Son, underwriters. Is always interested in the alumni work.

EMORY G. NUSZ, Market St., Frederick, Md.

A. S. CUMMINS, Natural Bridge, Va., teaches in the high school.

*CHARLES W. CRUSH, Christiansburg, Va. Commonwealth's Attorney, assures us always of his keen interest in Washington and Lee.

"Richmond, Va., April 27—Charles W. Crush, Commonwealth's Attorney of Montgomery County, in the Sixth Congressional District, may announce for Attorney-General of Virginia, in the August primary in opposition to Attorney-General John R. Saunders. Mr. Crush is a young lawyer with nine years service as Commonwealth's Attorney of Montgomery County.

former Judge Advocate of the American Legion, Judge Advocate of the 40 and 8, and Judge Advocate of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. He was an enlisted man in France during the war, and has been active in veteran's relief work. Mr. Crush has been active in politics in the Sixth District and in state affairs for years, and is an aide on the staff of Governor Pollard. He is district chairman of the Veterans' Democratic League and one of the organizers of the Young Democratic Clubs. From Christiansburg, J. H. Stephens, secretary of the Democratic Party of Montgomery County, has issued this statement: 'In recognition of the splendid work of the young Democrats and the veterans in the recent presidential campaign, we feel that we are entitled to representation on the slate of the State Democratic ticket, and are putting forward a progressive young man, representative of the members of the Veterans' Democratic League and the Young Democratic Clubs, in Charles Crush for Attorney-General in the Democratic primary.'

FRED M. DAVIS, 209 Main St., Lynchburg, Va.

ELLWOOD H. SEAL, Tower Bldg., Washington, D. C., lawyer, is interested always.

KENNON C. WHITTLE, Martinsville, Va., of Whittle & Whittle, lawyers.

FRANK M. BROWER, Price, Md., of Brower and Beaven, dealers in grain, seed, flour, feed and coal, sends a cheering word of optimism.

*FRANCIS P. MILLER, Fairfax, Va., is chairman of the World's Student Christian Federation with European offices in Geneva, 13 rue Calvin. "If a letter for a contribution had come from any other person or for any other cause I would have sent the politest and firmest refusal. All this is evidence of the extent of my devotion to Alma Mater! When I was in Lexington mother told me of her pleasure at seeing you when you passed through there some weeks ago. I hope to be in Lexington again tomorrow night as I have to lecture at Mary Baldwin's in the afternoon. My work for the Federation requires so much traveling that the time spent at home is very much less than it ought to be. I shall, however, be here for the next two weeks and for four weeks between the 25th of June and the 21st of July. Toward the end of July I am leaving on a five months' tour around the world with rather long visits in China and Japan. Sometime when I am in New York I should like very much to tell you about the work the Federation is doing now as I am sure that you would find this extremely interesting."

*BERKELEY COX, Hartford, Conn., with the Aetna Life Insurance Co., gives, writes cheerfully.

*J. A. BURKE, Appomattox, Va., resident agent, Southern department, the Newark Insurance Co. "If I could do justice to my desire and spirit, it would be a very large contribution indeed. I have never lost my interest in Washington and Lee and will do anything I can to help further the service it is rendering to the country. I hope very much that you will be successful in getting a large percentage of the class of 1914 to contribute. It is certainly a pleasure to hear from you again and recall the pleasant association at Washington and Lee."

*LEE R. GRABILL, JR., Wilmington, Del., in the legal department, patent division of E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., good wishes in everything.

*W. T. LOVINS, 419 First Huntington National Bank Bldg., Huntington, West Va., of Marcum, Lovins and Gibson, attorneys and counsellors, is reflective and causes remembrances of years ago to start, as for instance, the time when he arose solemnly in Chapel and with all the eloquence of a Patrick Henry, said, "Gentlemen, this Constitution is rotten to the core." "The letter of Dr. Gaines only reflects the conditions in practically all private institutions of learning, as well as business and professional undertakings. This is a regrettable condition but I hope that better days are coming. I note with some interest the contributions made in 1931. Many of the schools shown on the report have wealthy alumni, but one of the many advantages of Washington and Lee is that it has always been a place for learning to be acquired regardless of wealth or station. You may characterize Washington and Lee as a place where the democracy of the intellect is taught. What we lack in money we make up in glorious ideals, which after all are more pleasant and enduring than possession of material wealth. I would rather be an impractical idealist and enjoy life than to be a disillusioned possessor of wealth. (And this is not sour grapes.)"

HENRY N. BARKER, 10 Sixth St., Bristol, Tenn., hopes for better times, gives evidence of his loyalty.

GEORGE KERNS, Monterey, Va., has for seven years been in charge of the mission work of the Bible Institute of Pennsylvania at 1418 North 16th St., Philadelphia, who says of himself that he is an "impecunious preacher, however neither emaciated nor disconsolate, but intensely happy in my work."

*MORRIS L. MASINTER, Payne Bldg., Roanoke.

*ROBERT G. NELSON, Citizens Bank Bldg., Tampa, Fla.

*STEPHEN F. CHADWICK, 660 Coleman, Bldg., Seattle, Wash.

*LAFAYETTE R. HANNA, First National Bank Bldg., Birmingham, Ala., of Murphy, Hanna, Woodall and Lindbergh, lawyers.

*S. H. WILLIAMS, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., of Harrison, Long and Williams, lawyers. Approves and helps.

*J. CARLTON HUDSON, Law Bldg., Norfolk, Va., attorney and counsellor at law. Wishes he could make it 2000!, likes the class letter and the feeling of old times.

*HORACE MAYHEW, 847 Maiden Lane, Roanoke, Va., paid his respects in person.

ARTHUR W. McCAIN, Chase National Bank, New York City.

*C. H. MORRISSETTE, State Office Bldg., Richmond, Va.

CLARENCE W. SAGER, 26 Broadway, New York.

JUNIUS L. POWELL, 90 John St., New York.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

CHARLES COLVILLE, JR., Memphis, Tenn.

GEORGE ELLIS COVINGTON, Magnolia, Ark.

CHARLES ALBERT NICHOLSON, JR., Richmond, Va.

In Memoriam

LEWIS ANDERSON WILKINS

DR. AMBROSE McCHESENEY BROWN

April 7, 1933

1913

161 men

Class-agent: *BENJAMIN F. FIERY, of Baker, Hostetler, Sidlo and Patterson, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio

*DR. JAMES MALCOLM ADAIR, dentist, Lexington, Va.

THOMAS F. WALKER, Wytheville, Va.

D. EASLEY WAGGONER, Dallas, Texas, is vice-president and general manager of the United Fidelity Life Insurance Co.

TOM E. WATTS, Camden, Ark., is a merchant, ready-to-wear and general merchandise. His loyalty and interest are not dimmed.

*ROBERT R. WITT, 207 Camp St., San Antonio, Texas, is president-manager of the Builders Supply Co., has a wife and two daughters, and lively, affectionate memories of Washington and Lee and his classmates.

*ADRIAN WILLIAMSON, Monticello, Ark., is of the firm of Williamson and Williamson. He was a wandering youth and has half a dozen Alma Maters, Washington and Lee ranking in his interest and affection.

WILLIAM A. WRIGHT, Tappahannock, Va., practices law and helps support the Alumni Association as sponsor.

HERBERT T. TAYLOR, 3801 Fauquier Ave., Ginter Park, Richmond, Va., has three sons to send to Washington and Lee.

*RICHARD A. SMITH, Lexington, Va., is Director of Intercollegiate Athletics at Washington and Lee.

J. Y. SAUNDERS, JR., Baton Rouge, La., practices law.

E. F. SHEFFEY II, Apt. 407, 1657 31st St., N.W., Washington, D. C., has also a list of six colleges and universities.

*S. C. ROSE, West Point, Miss., is easily aroused by the memories of twenty years ago.

*DR. J. P. RICHARDSON, Taylor-Richardson Clinic, Ellensburg, Wash., sends regrets to the invitation to the reunion and feels far away. Has two girls, one ten, one seven.

*FRED W. McWANE, Lynchburg, Va., is not a practicing lawyer exclusively, has many irons in the fire, nominee on the Republican ticket for Governor of Virginia.

LEWIS TWYMAN, Security Bldg., Miami, Fla., is of the firm of Twyman and McCarthy, lawyers.

THOMAS S. KIRKPATRICK, Peoples National Bank Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., is of the firm of Kirkpatrick & Burks, attorneys and counsellors at law, real estate loans a specialty.

*EDWARD W. LEE, 1350 Broadway, New York City, insurance. Member of the Board, active alumnus in the New York Association.

*REV. WILLIAM T. HANZSCHE, Trenton, N. J., is pastor of the Prospect Street Presbyterian Church.

*PHILIP P. GIBSON, 419 First Huntington National Bank Bldg., Huntington, West Va., is a member of the law firm of Marcum, Lovins & Gibson, was present during Finals as chairman of the reunion of the class of 1913.

HENRY B. GOODLOE, Crozet, Va., recalls in detail his recollections. In 1917 at Ft. Myers, received commission as captain from Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker.

CLIFFORD BURDETT FOSTER, Pittsburgh, Penn.

*EDWARD S. DELAPLAINE, Frederick, Md., practices law and writes biographies, at present at work on a life of Francis Scott Key, has published a work on Thomas Johnson of Virginia and appears side by side in the Dictionary of American Biography with Newton D. Baker, the one author of a sketch on the colonial Thomas Johnson, the other on Tom Johnson of Ohio. National treasurer of the Roger Brooke Taney National Memorial Foundation and largely responsible for the Taney house and grounds and historical accessories being saved as a museum for posterity. His book on Thomas Johnson sells for $3.

EDD W. DEARMON, 1601 Argonne Place, Chalfonte Apt., 355, Washington, D. C., is associate architect in the office of the Supervising Architect, Treasury Department.

*BEVERLEY D. CAUSEY, Barnett National Bank Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla., lives in St. Augustine, 14 Joyner St., and does business in both cities.

DR. HERMAN P. DAVIDSON, 30 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., graduate of Johns Hopkins, practices in Chicago.

O. B. BARKER, JR., 1000 Commerce St., Lynchburg, Va., is with Barker-Jennings Hardware Corp.

*PAUL C. BUFORD, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va.

*ROBERT B. ADAMS, 406 Mountain Trust Bldg., Roanoke, Va.

*HARVEY B. APPERSON, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va., is of the firm of lawyers, Funkhouser, Apperson and Whittle.

*K. H. MCCOY, Lexington, Va., is in the post-office at Lexington.

BEN F. FIERY, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

WADE HAMPTON GARRETT, Clarksburg, West Va.

VICTORY SIDNEY RAY, Naval Hospital, Norfolk, Virginia

C. B. SAUNDERS, Richmond, Va.

In Memoriam

JOE MANSON TURBYFILL

Feb. 18, 1933

LEONARD CECIL MEARS, JR.

Sept. 22, 1928

1912

201 men

Class-agent: *WILLIAM A. HYMAN, 100 William St., New York City

REV. D. L. SNYDER, 3004 Liberty Height Ave., Baltimore, Md., pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, South, one year at Washington and Lee, next years at Randolph-Macon where he graduated, then M. A. at Princeton, then Bachelor of Divinity at Princeton Theological Seminary.

*JUDGE A. G. LIVELY, Lebanon, Va., presides over the twenty-seventh Judicial Circuit comprising Russell, Buchanan and Dickerson counties, approves cordially of the plan and praises the effort.

*DAN B. OWEN, Doylesville, Va., is in the feed and fertilizer business in the same part of Virginia where he has always been an agriculturist, has three daughters and a son, was here for Finals, and has missed only two since 1912, is loyal, active in his alumni contacts and devoted to the welfare of the University.

JOHN W. HEATH, Port Gibson, Miss., has suffered from two Mississippi river floods.

REV. ROBERT M. MCGEEHEE, 1738 Thornton Court, Alexandria, La., director the Synod of Louisiana, department of Religious Education, section of Field Work and Extension of the Executive Committee of Religious Education and Publication of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

DR. ROBERT C. HOOD, 428 West Pike St., Clarksburg, West Va.

TOM GLASGOW, Box 37, Charlate, N. C., president Glasgow-Stewart & Co., wholesale distributors of replacement parts and automobile supplies, has five children, strong connections with the University and warmest feelings.

*FRANCIS J. HEAZEL, Asheville, N. C., of Heazel, Shuford and Hartshorn, lawyers, is quick and generous to respond.

*RODERICK BEDDOW, Bankers Bond Bldg., Birmingham, Ala., of Fort, Beddow and Ray, believes that no institution compares with Washington and Lee in cultural atmosphere.

*ROBERT BRUCE MONTGOMERY, 1423 North Douty St., Hanford, Cal., in the Hanford Union High School, has a son, Bedford, in high school.

*LEON O'QUINN, First National Bank Bldg., Shreveport, La., of Blanchard, Goldstein, Walker and O'Quinn, lawyers, regrets that he so seldom sees any of his classmates.

*BERNIE (S. B.) HARPER, Fort Smith, Ark. Yantis-Harper Co., dealers in automobile tires and accessories, "Firestone." The best of wishes.

*H. E. POTTER, Commonwealth Trust Bldg., Chestnut and Twelfth Sts., Philadelphia, Penn., lawyer, "with the greatest pleasure."

*BYRON L. BALLARD, Capitol Bank Tower, Lansing, Mich., of Shields, Silbee, Ballard and Jennings, lawyers, counsel for banks, director in banks, absorbed in their reorganization and affairs, represents the Durant interests in Michigan.

*JAMES SOMERVILLE, JR., Bush House, Aldwych, W. C. 2, office of the Commercial Attache of the American Embassy in London. Yields to no alumnus in his affection for Washington and Lee or in appreciation of what the training and association in Lexington meant. This coming from the Mother Country, the origin and sharer of the Virginia culture is a tribute from the heart.

*D. W. McNEIL, Lexington, Va., lawyer.

*CLAYTON E. WILLIAMS, Lexington, Va., the famous Skinny Williams, teacher in the law school, fine teacher, popular, energetic, busy coaching for the bar exams, sees bright hopes for next year's law school.

*E. C. JALONIK, 3524 Welborn St., Dallas, Texas.

*DR. EDWARD LYONS, 320 East Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich., with Parke-Davis Co., pharmaceutical supplies.

*HARRY M. BUTLER, 1911 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

*LLOYD R. CRAIGHILL, Nanchang, Ki, China, writes direct to the alumni office from the American Church Mission, renews his subscription to the Alumni Magazine. "We are still enjoying life in this close proximity to the communist stronghold of China. Several times during the past year we have thought we would pretty surely be chased out but instead we have rounded out one of the most encouraging years of work we have so far had in this great old city. We have never had a more cordial reception both from the government school students and the people of the city in general. Just recently at the request of Madam Chiang Ki Shek the various churches of the city have united in a program of Christian work and Christian teaching among the wounded soldiers in the various government hospitals of the city. As chairman of the committee responsible for this work I have been able to see what all of the various groups are doing, and it has been a most encouraging surprise to me to see how the barriers of misunderstanding have fallen down before a friendly approach, and how gladly many of the men have been to hear of the Christ who suffered and of the Heavenly Father who cares for them."

*MASON DEAVER, Lexington, Va., business man of Lexington.

WILLIAM A. HYMAN, 100 William St., New York City.

WILLIAM L. WEBSTER, 1044 State St., Schenectady, N. Y.

1911
176 men

Class-agent: *A. DANA HODGDON, Department of State, Washington, D. C.

*LEWIS G. COOPER, Greenville, N. C., attorney and counsellor at law, sends his pledge of approval and good faith.

*THOMAS F. OGILVIE, 11 South North Carolina Ave., Atlantic City, N. J., lawyer, and says all of Atlantic City's sixteen banks are closed and scrip is now used for money.

GEORGE W. CHANEY, Colonial National Bank Bldg., Roanoke, Va., is close to the University, helpful always, practical.

S. R. GAMMON, College Station, Texas, Department of History, Texas A. & M., has two boys being made ready for Washington and Lee.

LECKEY KINNEAR, "Panorama," Lexington, Va., has been ill for some time, improving.

*FRED P. GUTHRIE, 4301 Argyle Terrace, N.W.,

Washington, D. C., responds always, district manager Radio Corporation of America, 1112 Connecticut Ave.

*EDWARD E. BROWN, Hamilton National Bank Bldg., Chattanooga, Tenn., general agent the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., finds the movement, its organization, its methods appealing.

*JOHN G. HERNDON, JR., Haverford College, Haverford, Penn., of exemplary cordiality.

*OMER T. KAYLOR, Hagerstown, Md., lawyer, newly elected president of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association combining Hagerstown and Frederick and their vicinities.

*J. NEVIN KILMER, Martinsburg, West Va., lawyer, sends thanks!

*JAMES M. BARKER, JR., Bristol, Tenn., director the Security Investment Co., bonds, mortgages and securities, offices in Johnson City and Bristol, has warm remembrances and keeps them in order, sees Frank Taylor and Jimmy Thomas.

*F. S. JOHNSON, 6018 DuPont Bldg., Wilmington, Del., touches the heart of the campaign and approves. "The plea that Dr. Gaines is making for alumni assistance is certainly justifiable and I hope will meet with hearty response. Demands for relief and support of local branches of national organizations of a character-building nature are making serious inroads on the reduced incomes of all of us, and I believe you are striking the right chord when you ask for a nominal amount from individuals."

L. L. HUMPHREYS, Duncan, Okla., president the Security National Bank.

*HENRY W. DEW, 239 West Adams St., Jacksonville, Fla., co-receiver of the Florida Peninsular Hotels Corporation, optimistic about general business conditions, living in Florida the past three or four years and is pleased with the land of annual pilgrimages, receiver for seven hotels in the Florida Collier Coast Hotel chain with four other associated houses, gives an inclusive invitation. "All of our houses are of modern construction and are of the best class of commercial hotels in the United States, so if any alumni are interested in coming to Florida either for a visit or for the purpose of taking a permanent part in the development of the state and its rapid return to prosperity, which is bound to come, we will be very grateful to have the privilege of taking care of them in some of the Florida Collier Coast Hotels and the associated hotels."

Hotel Floridan, Tampa; Hotel Tampa Terrace, Lakeland; Hotel Dixie Court, West Palm Beach; Hotel Royal Worth, West Palm Beach; Hotel Manatee River, Bradenton; Hotel Sarasota Terrace, Sarasota.

*HARVEY C. ELY, 35 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes briefly, except on his check, which is larger than his letter, "Thanks, Dana, glad to oblige."

ROGER M. WINBORNE, Lenoir, N. C., with the Carolina Stores, Inc., big grocery chain in the east, the "Blue Front Stores," is reliable in his loyalty.

F. P. GUTHRIE, 4301 Argyle Terrace, Washington, D. C.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

- GEORGE BOYD, Potomac Manor, West Va.
- JOHN RAYMOND BEDFORD, El Paso, Texas
- PORFIRIO AUGUSTO BONET, JR., Bayamo, Cuba
- ALFRED SHOPLEIGH REILLY, Richmond, Va.
- LLEWELLYN CALDWELL TUCKER, JR., Washington, D. C.

In Memoriam

- WALTER L. BARRNS
- JOHN BLEDSOE HOYLE
- Jan. 17, 1932
- HENRY SMITH REID
- April 12, 1933

(Mr. Reid's secretary gives touching proof of his interest in Washington and Lee. "It is with the deepest grief that I have to tell you of Mr. Reid's passing on April 12th. While he had been an almost constant sufferer for several months, it was thought that he would recover and be able to take up his normal interests before the passing of the summer—until he developed pneumonia about a week before his death. Mr. Reid was always greatly interested in his class, and one of his last acts at his office was the dictation of a letter to the 1933 Annual.")

1910
172 men

Class-agent: *WALTER A. McDONALD, the McDonald Printing Co., Arbor Place, Cincinnati, Ohio

*B. L. WOOD, R.F.D. 2, Buchanan, Va., full of cordial feelings and encouragement.

E. T. BURR, Raleigh, N. C., is actuary with the Durham Life Insurance Co.

*F. C. BEDINGER, Boydton, Va., Commonwealth's Attorney for Mecklenburg County.

*L. B. DUTROW, Front Royal, Va., is town manager of the "Northern Gateway to the Shenandoah National Park."

JOHN R. COATES, Bank of Commerce Bldg., Memphis, Tenn., practices law, manages farms.

O. A. CHIDESTER, 4586 Ohio St., San Diego, Cal.

PAUL A. ROCKWELL, 72 rue d'Assas, Paris, France, president Trench and Air, Association of American Volunteer Combatants in the French Army, 1914-1918, lives permanently in Paris, has a wife and three children.

BEACH M. CHENOWETH, 2606 Aberdeen Road, Birmingham, Ala.

W. P. JACKSON, 1205½ Franklin St., Tampa, Fla., agent, Piedmont Fire Insurance Co., settled in Tampa in 1911, banking, collapse of the whole chain in which he was interested.

*R. B. LLOYD, 5 East Clarke Ave., York, Pa., president, R. B. Lloyd Tobacco Co.

F. C. WILLIAMS, Millboro, Va., wrote poetry to help disguise his feelings, too strong for prose! Surveyor of Bath County, observer and analyst of conditions there.

MYNIE H. MYERSON, Professional Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla., attorney at law.

M. CARY JOHNSTON, Electric Bldg., Richmond, Va., of the firm of Corneal, Johnston and Wright, architects and consulting engineers.

B. M. HIGGINBOTHAM, Rupert, West Va., with the Gauley Coal Land Co., has six sons, the record for 1910, so far reported. One son ready for Washington and Lee this fall, then one each year for five more years.

RUSSELL L. FRINK, Graham Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla., has a son of fourteen whom he is bringing to Lexington this summer to instill Washington and Lee into him.

CHARLES J. ELLISON, Waynesboro, Va., is with the Department of Highways, has taught school, sold insurance, fought a war, served as American Vice-Consul, built roads, sold investments.

G. D. POOLE, National Bank of Commerce Bldg., Williamson, West Va., is G. D. Poole & Co., mortgage loans, real estate, insurance.

*JOSEPH R. BLACKBURN, 424 Elm St., Morgantown, West Va., represents the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

*ROBERT S. HUTCHESON, Lexington, Va., of Ruble and Hutcheson, Inc., millwork, lumber and builders' supplies. Always dependable in all alumni matters.

*D. WAMPLER EARMAN, Harrisonburg, Va., Commonwealth's Attorney.

JASPER J. BARRATT, 1233 Bank of America Bldg., San Diego, Cal., recently removed there from Oregon.

J. C. CHALMERS, Bryant Bldg., Charlotte, N. C., with Thomas F. Kerr & Co., real estate and rentals.

*GORDON R. FORTSON, 912 Hassen St., Susanville, Cal., has practiced medicine there since 1924. Degree from Stanford School of Medicine, hasn't seen a member of the class of 1910 in fifteen years.

*HAMILTON A. DERR, Marietta, Ohio, is with the Marietta Paint and Color Co., specialists in wood and metal finishes.

WYATT C. HEDRICK, First National Bank Bldg., Fort Worth, Texas.

*PHILLIP A. HERSCHER, Kanawha Banking and Trust Co., Charleston, West Va., cashier.

THORNTON W. ALLEN, 113 West 57th St., New York City, formerly with Musical Courier, now his own company under his own name, book and music publisher.

HARRY J. LEMLEY, Hope, Ark., attorney, Lemley & Lemley.

*J. W. RADER, Lewisburg, West Va., has a warmth in his memories, unequalled.

*HUGH R. HAWTHORNE, Number One, Broadway, New York City.

*PHILLIP W. MURRAY, First National Bank Bldg., Newport News, Va., of Lett, Murray and Ford, lawyers.

JOHN IZARD, Asheville, N. C.

HARRY TUCKER, State College Station, N. C., is Professor of Highway Engineering, North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering.

*LAURENCE C. WITTEN, Union Trust Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio, general agent The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., class-agent for 1910, next year.

*DR. ROBERT W. DICKEY, Lexington, Va., Professor of Physics and Electrical Engineering.

*G. M. ALEXANDER, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., with Ivey and Kirkpatrick, insurance, very friendly.

GEORGE L. COYLE, Coyle & Richardson, Charleston, West Va.

LEROY HODGES, Grace-American Bldg., Richmond, Va.

WALTER A. McDONALD, Arbor Place, Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOHN H. TUCKER, Commercial National Bank Bldg., Shreveport, La.

LAURENCE C. WITTEN, Union Trust Company Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

MARTIN B. WITHERS, McKay & Withers, Tampa, Fla.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

EDWIN LEROY ALDERSON, Houston, Texas

ALEXANDER McCARTY BRYANT, Cleveland, Texas

CHARLES LEWIS GIBBONEY, Wytheville, Va.

In Memoriam

FRANK BURWELL ROBERTS

1927

1909

140 men

Class-agent: *DR. JOHN WILLIAM CLAUDY, Rockview Farm Prison, R.F.D. 3, Bellefonte, Penn.

*JAMES P. ALEXANDER, Veranda Fruit Farm, Fairfield, Va., was here for Alumni Day.

*AMOS L. HEROLD, Tulsa, Okla., professor of English, University of Oklahoma.

C. T. DAWKINS, 2613 Sunset Drive, Tampa, Fla., general contractor, engineering design, highway bridges, building construction, has family of five, reports fifty alumni in his vicinity whom he sees casually and frequently; reminisces, finds it buoyant, grasps again at the idealism and optimism of youth.

*REV. W. CAREY BARKER, JR., 107 Huron Ave., Lynchburg, Va., is an evangelist, conducts meetings.

*REUBEN RAGLAND, 606 Consolidated Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla., attorney, Kay, Adams, Ragland and Kurz.

L. W. BAKER, The American Savings Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, with the American Inspection Bureau.

*RALPH H. BADER, Harrisonburg, Va., attorney.

*DR. J. O. HODGKIN, JR., Warrenton, Va., dentist. Reports on "Old Jim Price," and has warm remembrances of his friends.

*G. W. CLEEK, Warm Springs, Va., has a son entering the University in the fall.

*S. GWYNN COE, Lakeland, Fla., teaches in the Southern College there.

JUSTICE DANIEL K. RADER, Supreme Court of New Mexico, Santa Fe, N. M. Approves the campaign with full sympathy.

J. I. TRIPLETT, JR., 1804 Avondale Circle, Jacksonville, Fla., "can be counted on."

REV. S. B. M. GHISELIN, 510 12th St., S.W., Roanoke, Va., pastor West End Presbyterian Church.

J. J. FORRER, Richmond, Va., is in the Department of Highways, has three children.

MORTON LAZARUS, 941 Brooks Lane, Baltimore, Md., has three grown daughters.

*BEIRNE STEDMAN, Box 57, Charlottesville, Va., has remembrances of twenty-seven years ago that embrace Herzog, Walzer, Tutwiler, Ratcliffe, Mrs. Leech, Miss Lilly Catlett, Bessie. Co-author of Encyclopedic Digests, published by the Michie Co., of Charlottesville.

*CAPT. ROBERT R. BROWN, Roswell, New Mexico, is directing athletics in New Mexico Military College.

*L. J. BOXLEY, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va., of W. W. Boxley & Co., railroad contractors, expressed his interest and gave encouragement in terms surpassed only by one other.

ERNEST JONES, Altavista, Va., lawyer.

*JAMES H. PRICE, Richmond, Va., Lieutenant Governor.

*JOE T. LYKES, 17 Battery Place, New York City, Lykes Brothers Co., Inc., runs four steamship lines, to the West Indies from the Gulf, to the Mediterranean, to the Orient, to Europe, interstate lines, never outdone in his loyalty, or interest.

*JUDGE E. C. CAFFREY, Hackensack, N. J., Judge of New Jersey Circuit Court, former president Washington and Lee Alumni, Inc., supporter of all its interests and affairs, present always at Finals and Alumni Day.

*C. T. CHENERY, 27 William St., New York City, president Federal Water Service Corporation, regular alumni supporter.

*W. T. DELAPLAINE, Frederick Md., Great Southern Printing and Manufacturing Co., co-editor, co-manager of the Frederick News and the Frederick Post.

*CHARLES S. GLASGOW, Lexington, Va., attorney and counsellor at law, member of the Alumni Athletic Council, close to the University and to all alumni affairs.

*JOHN L. CAMPBELL, Lexington, Va., trust officer Rockbridge National Bank. Active on alumni special committees.

*DR. DEVAL L. GWATHMEY, 465 Church St., Wytheville, Va., minister.

*S. N. HOSHOUR, Box 72, Kable Station, Staunton, Va., approves the plan, has broad ideas of service.

*DR. FRANK R. RUFF, The Burnett Sanitorium, Fresno, Cal., has lived in many parts of the United States and travelled over most of the world, settled in California and praises the central part.

GUYTE P. MCCORD, Tallahassee, Fla., lawyer.

L. C. CALDWELL, Times-Dispatch Bldg., Richmond, Va., lawyer.

STAFFORD CALDWELL, Jacksonville, Fla.

EWING S. HUMPHRIES, Healy Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., contracting engineer, representing the Virginia Bridge and Iron Co., steel structures, bridges, buildings, regrets not getting back for Finals.

L. J. BOXLEY, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va.

JUDGE E. C. CAFFREY, Circuit Court of New Jersey, Hackensack, N. J.

JOHN L. CAMPBELL, Lexington, Va.

C. T. CHENERY, 27 William St., New York.

DR. JOHN W. CLAUDY, Rockview Farm Prison, Bellefonte, Penn.

JAMES HUBERT PRICE, Lieut.-Governor of Virginia, Richmond, Va.

DR. WM. R. LAIRD, Montgomery, West Va.

JOE LYKES, 17 Battery Place, New York City.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

ARTHUR VINCENT ADAMSON, New York City

JOHN E. HASTINGS, JR., Richmond, Va.,

ERNEST C. MUSE, Dallas, Texas

REDDEN W. RANDELL, Live Oak, Fla.

1908
119 men

Class-agent: *DOZIER A. DEVANE, 744 Jackson Place, N. W., Washington, D. C.

*HUNTER J. PHLEGER, Christiansburg, Va., sends his regrets to the reunion and his warmest remembrances to all, but couldn't resist the call and was at the reunion.

*M. B. O'SULLIVAN, 1366 Third St., Louisville, Ky., spent Finals in Lexington, was one of the reunion, enjoyed everything thoroughly.

*T. RUSSELL CATHER, Winchester, Va., kind in all his regards.

DONALD P. BOYER, 2804 DuPont Circle, Richmond, Va., with the Spencer Turbine Co., turbine blowers and exhaustors, organ power apparatus, vacuum cleaning apparatus. Has a son graduating at the top of a class of 500 in the Richmond High School and unfortunately no plans for his coming to Washington and Lee.

*ABRAM P. STAPLES, Boxley Bldg., Roanoke, Va., lawyer. Returned for Finals and class reunion, same "Old Abe."

W. H. HOOPER, Collis Ave., and 28th St., Huntington, West Va., is pastor of the Highlawn Presbyterian Church.

ABE D. SOMERVILLE, Cleveland, Miss., is a lawyer, junior member of the firm of Somerville & Somerville. Took his law degree at Mississippi in 1911, and has practiced in Bolivar County, is busy, believes in prosperity postponed, is optimistic and full of warm and kindly feelings.

W. H. JACKSON, Citizens Bank Bldg., Tampa, Fla., senior member of Jackson, Dupree and Cone, lawyers.

*A. W. LYBRAND, Municipal Bldg., Washington, D. C., with remembrances.

*WM. F. RISER, Clothe Coah, Mexico, makes a handsome contribution, an actual sacrifice and did not come to the reunion with genuine regret.

*HORACE W. PHILLIPS, Hardeeville, S. C., lumber business, has a 13-year old prospect for Washington and Lee, and is happy in all his memories of a quarter century ago.

JOSEPH HENDLY JOHNSON, Kingsport, Tenn., has moved there from Manassas, Va.

C. W. STREIT, JR., 706 Lincoln Life Bldg., Birmingham, Ala., is director of the Southern Football Officials Association, district headquarters for Alabama.

JAMES M. O'BRIEN, 2404 West Seventh St., Los Angeles, Cal., does not let distance affect his feelings and good wishes.

*JULIAN STUART GRAVELY, 1503 Franklin St.,

Wilmington, Del., returned for Finals, took part in reunion.

J. N. MOORE, Lewisburg, West Va., vice-president of the Greenbrier Military School.

*PHILLIP P. PAGE, 12 East Grand Ave., Chicago, Ill., with the Chicago Journal of Commerce, keeps in touch by frequent visits to Lexington.

JAMES L. MILLS, 35 Aylwin Road, Cradock, Va., expresses full appreciation.

*GEORGE E. CARY, Gloucester, Va., keeps in touch with all University affairs.

*R. G. AYERS, 842 South Main St., Franklin, O.

*ROBERT W. ARNOLD, Waverly, Va., lawyer. Business kept him from the reunion.

*EARLE K. PAXTON, Lexington, Va., teaches mathematics at Washington and Lee, managed locally the reunion for 1908.

*C. W. THARPE, 809 Market St., Chattanooga, Tenn., is a partner in Hardie & Caudle, men's clothing.

*E. L. BEALE, Franklin, Va., attorney, has a son at Washington and Lee. Was at class reunion.

*IRVIN A. DOWNEY, Princeton, West Va., has practiced law in Princeton since 1908. Since 1918, has been president of the Mercer Securities Co., loans, real estate and insurance. Was back with the same (college days) wife.

C. A. WOODRUM, Washington, D. C., is a member of Congress, has a son who graduated this June at Washington and Lee, law degree.

*JOHN N. BIERER, Cambridge, Mass., is factory manager of the Cambridge Works of the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Co., went to Massachusetts Tech and got a degree in Chemical Engineering in 1910, remained as instructor in chemistry and has been in Cambridge since 1911. His oldest son was a freshman this year at Washington and Lee.

J. P. WILL, Orange, Va., is principal of the high school there and in a position of influence, to express his belief in Washington and Lee and his devotion.

JOHN W. NEWMAN, Southern Bldg., Little Rock, Ark., attorney at law.

*GEORGE MCP. MINETREE, 652 Munsey Bldg., Washington, D. C., unfortunately for his many friends who expected him, was not here for the reunion.

*ROBERT S. KEEBLER, 402 Union and Planters Bank Bldg., Memphis, Tenn., reports on several classmates, Ragon, Flannagan, Woodrum and others as contemporaries and would like to see again Boyer, Alley, Dan Owen, Howard Larrick. After graduation spent four years at Harvard, but his "affection and appreciation are first for Washington and Lee."

*LOUIS K. KOONTZ, 1656 Talmadge St., Hollywood, Cal., approves the campaign, its keynote of revival, its ideal to be self-supporting, encourages all contributors to set aside specially an amount for annual support. Has sabbatical year from the University of California beginning in the fall, for completion of two historical works, a biography of George Washington and a history of the American Colonial Frontier. Sends lively regards to all.

*RAY ROBINSON, Winchester, Va., deals in apples, in the heart of the apple country.

JUDGE LOUIS S. EPES, Supreme Court of Appeals, Richmond, Va.

JULIAN S. GRAVELY, The Bond Manufacturing Corporation, Wilmington, Del.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

ROBERT LESTER HUTTON, Kansas City, Mo.
 JAMES BRIAN BELL, JR., Los Angeles, Cal.
 FREDERICK MORELAND, Baton Rouge, La.
 JAMES NORMAN PEASE, JR., Charlotte, N. C.

In Memoriam

JOHN WESLEY ROMINE
 JAMES F. THOMPSON

1907
 90 men

Class-agent: *W. L. LORD, Woodberry Forest School, Woodberry Forest, Va., married, two children, keeps young with the boys he teaches, likes to get letters.

POWELL GLASS, Lynchburg, Va., publisher of the Lynchburg News and the Daily Advance, is always informed in detail about University affairs and is a healthy critic.

M. J. PUTNAM, Clifton Forge, Va., lawyer.

I. P. GASSMAN, Freeport, Ill., president of the Arcade Manufacturing Co., makers of foundry molding machinery and equipment, refrigerator hardware, coffee mills, toys, is troubled with bank moratoria, conservators, his oldest son is at Washington and Lee.

V. G. IDEN, 200 Madison Ave., New York City, is Director of Public Relations of the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc., spent twenty years in newspaper work, emerging into this higher relationship.

DR. FRANCIS JONES, 478 Peachtree St., N.E., Atlanta, Ga., ill for a year and a half, now recovered and practicing again. Among his remembrances are particularly Desha, Roscoe Stephenson, Dozier DeVane, Charlie Campbell and Abe Staples.

E. CLYDE HOGE, 801 Neave Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio, is with the Lathrop Construction Co.

A. E. GRIFFITH, Andover, Va., vice-president and manager of the Central Supply Co., wholesalers and jobbers of hardware, mine and mill supplies and equipment, has a son, 19, who is at Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, hears too infrequently from his friends of Washington and Lee days.

*DR. C. A. ENGLE, Williamson, West Va., is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, sums up everything by saying, "I have nothing in the world to complain about. Have had a very successful ministry in the Presbyterian Church and never felt better in my life."

A. R. LARRICK, Plant City, Fla., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church for fifteen years, has not been back since graduation and plans to come.

DR. W. B. NEWELL, 502 North Independence, Enid, Okla., runs a hospital called "Independence Hospital," has five children, great responsibilities.

T. O. BAGLEY, Fayetteville, Tenn. Bagley & Bagley, agents, insurance, plans some day to drive up through Virginia and see all of his friends.

*DR. DONALD W. M. MACCLUER, 2634 N.E. Thirty-second Place, Portland, Oregon, pastor of the Rose City Park Community Church. "It's a long way from Oregon to Virginia, but my heart is still there." Dr. and Mrs. MacCluer were both missionaries to Siam, invalidated home with jungle fever, thirteen years in Portland.

*C. C. CROCKETT, Dublin, Ga., attorney.

CHARLES T. RANDOLPH, Carmi, Ill., practicing law since 1908, married Miss Lydia M. McElroy of Springfield, Ky., has served as States Attorney for White County and now Master in Chancery.

*EMERY LONDON, 3124 Gulfport Ave., Baltimore, Maryland.

*H. CRIM PECK, Lexington, Va., former Mayor, now City Treasurer.

MAJOR POWELL GLASS, The News, Lynchburg, Va.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

FRANK McCUTCHAN, Salisbury, New Mexico
 SAMUEL S. EGGLESTON, Wilmington, N. C.
 GUY GILMORE GELKER, Martinsburg, West Va.
 J. O. KEFAUVER, Mt. George, Md.
 ELLIOTT VAWTER, Richmond, Va.

In Memoriam

DR. W. COSBY BELL
 April 6, 1933

1906
 101 men

Class-agent: *L. PRETLOW HOLLAND, Suffolk, Va.

*K. W. TRIMBLE, Murphy, N. C., temporarily

there as part of his work with the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. "It is a genuine pleasure to encounter your spirit in this movement, the success of which is already assured and I am equally proud of sharing a goodly portion of what the banking fraternity has failed to consume, with the Alumni Association." This quotation was prophetic and is characteristic of the response, in general, of the class of 1906.

*BASIL MANLY, American Security Bldg., Washington, D. C., stops between urgent, insistent business demands of the new administration to respond cordially, warmly. His career as economist in the Bureau of Labor, as Commissioner on Industrial Relations, now capped by appointment to the Federal Power Commission.

*JOHN E. SCOTT, 318 South Birchwood Ave., Louisville, Ky., assistant engineer, Louisville & Nashville Railroad, warm remembrances.

*H. CLAUDE POBST, Grundy, Va., lawyer, active in widely varied affairs, the poor, the rich and coal operators, a son at Hampden-Sydney, in addition to a younger son and a daughter.

*WM. HEYWOOD MORELAND, Lexington, Va., dean of the School of Law, a leader in a class of great distinction.

*W. F. SEMPLE, Atlas Life Bldg., Tulsa, Okla., Deep Rock Oil Corporation, Petroleum Products. Admitted to the bar in 1907, and practiced in Durant until 1932, when he was made attorney for Deep Rock Oil. Has visited Washington and Lee with his family.

LEO WEINBERG, Frederick, Md., regretful but loyal.

E. B. ROESER, Montgomery, West Va., mining engineer, mine surveys, tippie plans, land surveys, electric blue prints. Optimistic, grateful, zestful.

G. H. CAPERTON, JR., Kanawha Valley Bldg., Charleston, West Va., with the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., has a wife and daughter, now in insurance after leaving the coal business.

*R. B. SPINDLE, JR., Law Bldg., Norfolk, Va., lawyer, appreciates simple friendliness and expresses interest, has a daughter in Smith College.

*JOHN PILKINGTON, 1538 Mau St., Jacksonville, Fla., special agent New England Mutual Life Insurance Co.

*C. N. CAMPBELL, Martinsburg, West Va., of the law firm of Campbell and Harris, is not far away and keeps in touch.

*WALTER H. DUNLAP, 4517 Hawthorne St., N.W., Washington, D. C., loves his Alma Mater but doesn't like its Magazine.

*W. W. CAVE, Pulaski, Va., a partner in the Pulaski Insurance Agency, general insurance, surety bonds.

*MILTON HERMAN, Forest Hills, Danville, Va., married last fall, practiced law in Danville till 1917, then the Army and France, 111th Field Artillery, returned in 1919, gave up the law, went into business with his father, the firm L. Herman Department Store.

*ALBERT STEVES, JR., San Antonio, Texas, has had one son graduate at Washington and Lee and a second son enter, leave and get married. Building business, contractor.

*M. RYERSON TURNBULL, 1206 Palmyra Ave., Richmond, Va., head of the department of English Bible, Assembly's Training School, recommends for a better understanding and a firmer acceptance of responsibility that all read Gamaliel Bradford's life of Lee, the American. Served in a pastorate for one year, then went to the Union Theological Seminary and later in the Training School. Trained Bible teachers and has trained thousands for Sunday School work. Published four books on four books of the Bible, translated in French, published in France. Translated in Bulape, used in the heart of Africa.

*DR. THOMAS F. OPIE, Olney, Md., rector of St. Bartholomew's Parish, Diocese of Washington, since leaving Washington and Lee eight years in the Fourth Estate, and on June 8th celebrated twenty years in the ministry. Elon College, N. C., "doctored his divinity," writes exclusively for the Churchman, oldest religious journal in the English language, the Living Church, The Chronicle, The Southern Churchman, Homiletic Review, etc., quoted in the Literary Digest, The Outlook, The London Daily Express. Ministers to three churches in the lovely rural paradise of Montgomery County, Maryland.

*DR. T. BRANNON HUBBARD, Montgomery, Ala., practices medicine, has three children, oldest son finishes prep school—Kent in Connecticut—in another year, headed for Washington and Lee, to add to the family's loyalty there.

*J. W. EGGLESTON, Citizens Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va., of Vandeventer, Eggleston and Black.

*WILLIAM L. HOGE, Fourth and G Sts., Louisville, Ky., Mengel Body Co., automobile bodies, business picking up. His oldest daughter ready for college.

*B. J. MAYER, LaGrange, Ga., of Loneyoz and Mayer, lawyers, practiced law for eighteen years in Georgia, wife and two children, enlightened contentment.

*CLAUDE P. LIGHT, 219 Seventh St., Parkersburg, West Va., attorney in general practice, formerly specialist in bankruptcy, United States Bureau of Investigation, Attorney-General's Department of Justice, responds to all Washington and Lee appeals unfailingly, looks forward to a grand reunion in 1935.

*DR. F. M. CRAWFORD, Farmville, Va., went to China in 1914 and stayed until 1927, three years in the practice of medicine in Burkeville and Farmville, then back to China, returned last November, claims superiority over his class-agent in at least not being a bachelor.

*GEORGE P. WHIP, Munsey Bldg., Baltimore, Md., of Lord & Whip, counsellors at law, after graduation in law spent six years in Florida, then to New York for three years with an admiralty firm, practices exclusively in admiralty, was married four years ago and lives in Catonsville, outside of Baltimore.

*DR. L. J. DESHA, Lexington, Va., professor of Chemistry at Washington and Lee, one married daughter, one at Randolph-Macon, one at school in Lexington.

FRED N. HARRISON, Richmond, Va., president the Universal Leaf Tobacco Co., exporters and importers, divided in his interests and support, is also an alumnus of the University of Virginia.

RAYMOND COOPER, Southwestern, Memphis, Tenn., after graduation at Washington and Lee took M.A. at Harvard, LL. B. at Alabama, two years further study at Oxford, returned home, went back to England and entered the English Army, was with the British in Egypt and Mesopotamia, now professor of History at Southwestern.

J. C. CARPENTER, JR., Clifton Forge, Va., president The First National Bank, has three children, a son of seventeen ready for Washington and Lee, a girl of thirteen, a boy of eight. In addition to banking, is also a contractor, just completed a long tunnel for the C. & O. at Prince, West Va., keeping trains running during construction, three similar jobs on hand.

JAMES R. CASKIE, Lynchburg, Va., of Caskie, Frost and Coleman, attorneys at law, also of the Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee, and an active alumnus.

W. S. TUTWILER, 1301 Lanier Blvd., N.E., Atlanta, Ga., at Washington and Lee one year, then four years at Georgia Tech. Vice-president of the Capital Construction Co., two sons, one thirteen, one six.

MARK W. SHEAFE, JR., Watertown, North Dakota, attorney.

CHARLES N. HOBSON, Frankfort, Ky., attorney, in politics, has a boy of 14 entering high school, planning to go to Washington and Lee where his father's strong loyalty has prepared the way for him.

H. G. TEMPLE, Pineland, Texas, vice-president the Temple Lumber Co., manufacturing yellow pine, hardwood lumber, and oak flooring.

*RICHARD W. HYNSON, 615 American Security Bldg., Washington, D. C., announced June 1st his association with Folger, Nolan & Co., Inc., investment bankers, distributors of high-grade securities, estate management and tax consulting being still his specialty.

*E. H. RATCLIFFE, JR., 902 Burk Burnett Bldg., Fort Worth, Texas.

*JOHN R. SWITZER, Harrisonburg, Va.

*S. R. NEAL, 714 Dale Ave., S.E., Roanoke, Va., has been preaching for 25 years, in responsible appointments in the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church. At present in the Belmont Methodist Church in Roanoke, with the largest Sunday School in the Conference, has taken 1600 members into the church through the years. Has worked in West Virginia, is a Who's Who there. Pastor Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, conducted sixteen finance campaigns in neighboring states, raising thousands of dollars for new buildings and old debts. Evangelist. Bachelor of Divinity of Vanderbilt.

H. C. TILLMAN, Wallace S. Bldg., Tampa, Fla., of Sutton, Tillman and Reeves. Has lived in Tampa seven years, removing there from North Carolina. Wife and four children. Reports on Gee Phillips as last heard from in South Carolina running a lumber business.

J. HARDEN HOWELL, Waynesville, N. C., has had a rather varied as well as hectic career, including the practice of law, farming, soldiering, banking, manufacturing, with some experience in politics. His first experience was at the University of North Carolina, studying North Carolina procedure in preparation for the State Bar examination, which he passed in August 1906. Located in Waynesville in January, 1907 and in 1908 formed a partnership with J. S. Bohannon, this continuing until 1916. In the interim had served the Town as Clerk and Treasurer for four years and as Attorney for two and as a side line had worked from private to captain of the local company, and when trouble arose in Mexico in 1916, was promoted to major and saw service on the Mexican border. When that was over he went into the World War and saw service with the 118th Infantry, 30th Division, until wounded in action in October, 1918, just after the breaking of the Hindenburg line. The next six months was in the hospital and upon discharge was appointed Supervisor of Taxes for the State of North Carolina covering the western district. Finishing that job in 1920, became vice-president of a bank and was in that work until 1924, when he gave it up because of the confinement. Then accepted the secretary and treasurerhip of a manufacturing corporation and stayed at that for something like three years until his health failed completely in the early part of 1928. In the meantime had served four consecutive terms as Mayor of the Town of Waynesville, from 1921 to 1929. At that time gave up everything for two years or more and in 1931 was elected Mayor again. In the meantime the depression came along and wiped out the bank and manufacturing business, so last year again took up the practice of law and is following that at present in order to have something to do. In 1916, was nominated to represent Haywood County in the Legislature but was prevented from going by reason of going to the Mexican border. Up until last year had consistently refused to make the race again, but under the conditions existing let his name be presented as a candidate and in the primary received something like 400 votes more than his two competitors. In the general election received something over 4000 more than his Republican opponent. Spent four and a half months in Raleigh this past winter for which he received only sixty days pay, but had a long hard session, which he hopes will result in some benefit to the state. Was married in 1908, and has one son who is a student at the University of North Carolina. Had hoped to send him to Washington and Lee, but when the time came all his friends were either going to Duke or the University and he selected that place. Life has been rather strenuous; has crowded into it a good many different lines with some success and some failures. Has met a number of former Washington and Lee men, and has a feeling for them that he does not have for others. An atmosphere at Washington and Lee not found in any other place he knows.

*B. T. SMITH, 810 Peoples National Bank Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., writes a letter of such model content and in such ideal apprehension of what this campaign set out to discover, that it is printed without the deletion of a word and with the gratitude of the editor:

"My dear Pret:

"In the morning's mail I find another of these letters from you asking me to give you some idea of what life and living has meant to me since leaving college.

"If I attempted to tell you half of the story truthfully, I would probably be confined to the penitentiary the rest of my life, which would not be very interesting to me. However, there have been a few bright spots in my career since I left college which I will tell you about.

"For the first ten years I labored long and hard in the national banks of our city, and was promoted to the eminent position of teller. For a short while I worked in a railroad camp with our dear friend Clivie Carpenter, and thereafter put in a few years in a logging camp in West Virginia. Of course all of the rough work hardened me for the battle of life to come.

"My next connection was with the Craddock-Terry Co., of this city, and just prior to my entry in the World War I was auditor of this company. Having no responsibilities and full of zest and pep, I decided that the World War was just exactly what I wanted to get into. I was stationed in New Orleans for several months and I might mention that it was a grand old city. I took an examination for assistant paymaster, fortunately passed, and was given the rank of ensign in the U.S.N.R.F. I was then sent to the pay school in Washington, and after serving sixty or ninety days was transferred to New York and was assigned to the U.S. Mt. Vernon, one of our transports running from New York to Brest, France. I made approximately fourteen trips across on this ship and was torpedoed in September, 1918. This shock stayed with me until I was discharged from the Navy in 1919. I then settled in Philadelphia and was with E. F. Houghton for one year. I then went to Washington and was in the employ of the Bureau of Internal Revenue as traveling auditor. Then to put an appropriate finishing touch to my wild career, I was married and returned to my native city, Lynchburg, Va., where I have been engaged in Public Accounting and Auditing business since 1921.

"In the last three or four years I have been dabbling in politics, and I am now a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Revenue of this city in the coming primary to be held on August 1st next.

"This is the extent of my life and living since leaving the dear old Alma Mater, Washington and Lee, my associations with which I recall with a great deal of pleasure and a small amount of pain.

"I am very glad to hear that our class made such a splendid record in the Alumni reorganization campaign, and am also pleased that you have been made permanent class-agent. I am indeed distressed to know that you are still a lone old bachelor, as I know that you would have brought a great deal of happiness to some charming sweet girl. But that's your fault and not mine.

"If you can think of anything further concerning my life since leaving college that I have not thought of, please add it to what I have given you above.

"I am also enclosing a check, although you say that the financial part of the campaign is over, please try to sneak this in without anyone knowing it, as it is very late.

"I hope the next time you come to Lynchburg you will give me a ring, and allow me the pleasure of providing some, not too snappy, entertainment for you. I realize that you are getting old and have probably lost all interest in women, whiskey, gambling, and other childish games that men play at.

"With kindest regards to you and your family and children, I am

"Cordially and fraternally yours,

"Ben"

J. W. MURRAY, Gallatin, Tenn., has a large family and berates the selfishness of the class-agent, loves

Washington and Lee, longs for more of it and oftener.

THOMAS GREEN STONE, Union Mills, N. C. "Tubby" still doesn't write, but his wife does, and she tells us that they have gone back to the joys of simple living and that "Tubby" is finding surcease from the worries of depression in his farm and garden.

*H. M. BANDY, First National Bank Bldg., Norton, Va., attorney. Henry M. Bandy, Jr., graduated in law at Washington and Lee in June, after four years residence, one in the academic school, three in law. For two years before that he was at V.P.I. His daughter has been at Hollins for three years and graduates in one more. His brother, the City Attorney of Kingsport, graduated from Washington and Lee in 1913. A record of practical loyalty and support.

LIEUT. COM. JOSEPH PUGH NORFLEET, Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., in New York temporarily, at the New York Yacht Club, 37 West 44th St., on account of his wife's illness at a New York hospital.

R. E. WITT, Lexington, Va., civil engineer. Soon after graduation went into the United States Forest Service, which was not to his liking, then resident engineer on railroad construction in Oklahoma, and resident engineer acting in the capacity of City Engineer in Sand Spring, Okla. From there went to University of Detroit as professor of Civil Engineering. Forced to resign on account of the after effects of flu in August, 1920, has since done some teaching at Washington and Lee and is now Deputy Commissioner of the Revenue Department for Rockbridge County, Va.

DR. RUFUS H. HAGOOD, Young Hotel Bldg., Honolulu, Hawaii, is practicing medicine there.

JAMES C. CARPENTER, JR., First National Bank, Clifton Forge, Va.

JAMES R. CASKIE, Peoples Bank Bldg., Lynchburg, Va.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

ELMER BRENT CLARK, Oklahoma City, Okla.

JAMES CLARENCE HAMILTON, Fayetteville, Tenn.

EDWIN HAMPTON MCGILL, Jefferson City, Mo.

In Memoriam

FRANK PIERCE MAY, JR.

February 6, 1930

1905

69 men

Class-agent: *ELI M. MILLEN, 5114 Newhall St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Penn.

*J. W. KERN, Clinton, Ill., superintendent Illinois

Central System, Springfield Division, prompt, generous, practical.

E. W. KELLY, 16 James St., Bristol, Va., manager The Central Insurance Agency of the Provident Life and Accident Insurance Co.

In Memoriam

MINTER DELLE KELLY

August, 1931

FRANK MAY MARTIN

1904

70 men

Class-agent: *WALLER C. HARDY, Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.

*DR. JOHN HENRY DAY, North Avenue and Saint Paul St., Baltimore, Md., minister of the Seventh Baptist Church, tokens of goodwill and affection.

WALLER C. HARDY, Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.

1903

64 men

Class-agent: *DR. SAM'L MCP. GLASGOW, 138 East 45th St., Savannah, Ga., pastor Independent Presbyterian Church

STUART CHEVALIER, 48 Wall St., New York City, of Miller and Chevalier, lawyers of that city. In Los Angeles the firm is Miller, Chevalier, Peeler and Wilson, 819 Title Insurance Bldg.; in Washington, D. C., it is Southern Bldg. Specialists in Federal taxation, clients all over the country, work culminating in Washington. Recreational, seasonal residence in Warm Springs, Georgia.

W. JETT LAUCK, 227 Mills Bldg., Washington, D. C., consulting and practicing economist. Residence, "The Island," Fredericksburg, Va.

*R. A. RUFF, Elkhorn, West Va., has one son who completed the engineering course at Washington and Lee this year, another entering in the fall. Is assistant manager of two large coal mines in the Pocahontas field near Elkhorn.

*C. R. PILKINGTON, Orlando, Fla., of American Fruit Growers, Inc., Florida Division. "I hardly know how to tell you how glad I am that you wrote me. I have wondered whether I have been different from many others in that as time has passed I have thought so frequently of the men I knew at college. And yet I have neglected almost completely to keep in contact with them. Such neglect is a great mistake, and I wonder if the majority of others have been as guilty as I. As for myself there is not a great deal to say that would be of particular interest. Following my academic course I taught school for two years, then returned to Washington and Lee and obtained my law degree in 1907. Thereafter I was in Pittsburgh, Penn., until 1916, having become associated about two years after my arrival there with the predecessors of my present company. I came to Florida in the fall of 1916 and have resided in Orlando since the fall of 1919. I am secretary-treasurer of the Florida Division of American Fruit Growers, Inc., the general office of our company being located at Pittsburgh.

"I honestly believe that no man ever attended Washington and Lee who had or has retained in his own mind a higher regard than I for the institution itself or for the opportunity it afforded. My failure to maintain with consistency those physical contacts which would have better evidenced the truth of that statement is an inconsistency which is surprising even to me. But I am truly glad that you and others like you have undertaken to bring some of us to our better senses."

*REV. J. M. B. GILL, Petersburg, Va., rector St. Paul's Church. "I really do not know anything to tell you about myself; being a preacher yourself you know that when we clergymen forget to be humble and begin talking about ourselves we really begin to be no good at our jobs. I spent fifteen years in China, then came back to this country, worked in New York for six months, mostly travelling the country. In the spring of 1924 I had a call to the church here in Petersburg where I was born and raised, accepted it and have managed to get by with my home-town folks for the past nine years. I was in Lexington for a little while last summer, and wandered around the campus and through the buildings to get a new inspiration from old memories. It is a grand old place and never fails to give you something worth while. I was very anxious to get back to Finals this year, but other engagements prevented that."

*D. V. GUTHRIE, Baton Rouge, La., head of the department of Physics, college of pure and applied science, Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, responds cordially.

A. C. BURKHOLDER, San Marcos, Texas, head of the department of Economics and Business Administration, Southwest Texas State Teachers College. "I cheerfully give the following account of myself since I graduated in 1903; I taught for eleven years in the preparatory schools of middle Tennessee, after which I studied in Peabody College for a year taking my M.A. degree in 1915. Since then I have been professor of Economics and Sociology in Southwest Texas State Teachers College, San Marcos, Texas. I am married and have two children; Helen, age 15; and Clifford, age 13. It has been my good fortune to see the old Washington and Lee University campus frequently since graduation."

DANIEL W. ALEXANDER, 4707 Piney Branch Road, Washington, D. C., has a son at Washington and Lee (and says he is a good Fiji, too).

*JAMES WARREN BAGLEY, Old Custom House, Detroit, Mich., the district engineer of the U.S. Lake Survey office of the U.S. War Department. "Army life takes one about and I have been shuttled from place to place in the regular manner. Since 1928 I have been in Detroit running this old institution which extends back in history to the years of the 19th century. Having about finished a tour of duty here I go next to Washington for a spell in the office of the Chief of Engineers. Army life is somewhat like the life in the church service, in that it gives a move now and then, but each time there is something different to try to do. The hodge-podge of duties in the Corps of Engineers runs from Infantry training with small arms through the surveying, construction, teaching and practically every sort of engineering activity. It is an interesting life but does not allow time for forming life-long friendships nor the opportunity to acquire a home and the usual things one desires most. I am enclosing the small amount which in view of the descending expense of a household move of a family of five, a fifteen per cent reduction in salary, a bank failure and a hospital bill, looks pretty large to me. I trust you will consider it as a token of my desire to aid not the extent of my willingness to do so could I afford more."

*HERBERT S. OSBURN, The Rectory, Gloucester, Va. "It was indeed a pleasure to hear from you and to recall our days together at Washington and Lee. I only wish it were possible for me to show my interest in some more substantial way as I feel that Dr. Gaines' letter is an appeal to the loyalty of everyone of us who has enjoyed the privilege of being a student of that great old institution. Just to show that my interest is not all talk I am inclosing a check and at the same time notifying you of my desire to contribute this amount semi-annually until further notice. You have evidently discovered that I am a minister. This must have surprised you somewhat, as I gave no indications of thinking along that line while a student of Washington and Lee. My work as a minister began with nearly two years of lay service under the late Bishop J. B. Funsten of Idaho. From there I took a special course at the Virginia Seminary near Alexandria and have served rectorates at the following places: St. Anne's Parish, Essex County, Va.; Christ Church, Emporia, Va.; Emmanuel Church, Harrisonburg, Va.; Christ Church, Elizabeth City, N. C.; South Farnham Parish, Tappahannock, Va., where you are under the impression I am now. But I left there about two years ago and have since been serving the above fine old colonial parishes here."

WILL P. LAMAR, 43 Muscogee Road, Atlanta, Ga. "I had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Gaines at an alumni meeting here recently, and several other boys, which I enjoyed very much. I certainly got the impression that Washington and Lee standards are being kept very high, and I hope this will continue. Let them hold out till times get somewhat better, managing as best they can, and by that date help should finally arrive from the alumni, if they cannot send on very much sooner. Almost none of those 44 colleges are Southern. I hope we can later equal their average. If you write to them, remember me to Charles McPheeters, McCrum, Gill, Tabb, McNeil, Alexander and a lot of other friends of yours and mine, whom I remember chiefly in the gym. (I have not kept up with them, so do not know that everyone of them are alive, but wish to be particularly remembered to them and to the other members of the 1903 class.) I saw that D. V. Guthrie was a professor at Louisiana State College the other day. I had some letters recently from Charlie Harrison and Gee Haw; and on a trip some months ago enjoyed talking to Ran Preston in Charlotte. If I am not mistaken you have been sticking to pastorates where the work was hard and you could do the most good, and had to be pried loose to be sent up higher, as I noted the places you had refused. I am certainly glad to get in touch with you again and to renew old Washington and Lee ties."

DR. CARY R. BLAIN, Guerrant, Ky., superintendent of the Highland Institution of the Executive Committee of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, whose departments include church, orphanage, school, hospital and farm in the mountains of Breathitt County, Ky. This work follows pastorates in Hustonville, Pineville and Paducah, Ky.

*W. J. TURNER, Rancagua, Chile, general manager the Braden Copper Co. "It is difficult and rather depressing to realize that it is nearly thirty years since I have seen or heard from you. That is, I believe we have not met since we graduated together in 1903. I have, of course, kept track of you in a general way through the Alumni Magazine and the Rockbridge County News, to the latter of which I have subscribed more or less regularly ever since I left Lexington.

"A brief account of my own history since we graduated is that a short time thereafter I entered Cornell University and finished a course in civil engineering, worked a couple of years in the United States, and came to Chile in 1909 as a sort of surveyor, engineer and jack of all trades. I have been with the Braden Copper Co. ever since, except that I was in the A.E.F. for a year and a half as Captain of Aviation (ground officer), and about a year with an affiliated copper company in the north of Chile. I was made general manager of this property at the end of 1929, and have held that position since.

"I worked for the Rockbridge Lime and Stone Co. for a year in 1908 and 1909, and since then have been back only twice, in 1914 and 1928.

"Although it has not been my good fortune to keep in very close touch with Washington and Lee, nor with my friends among the alumni, I have still a very warm spot in my heart for it and them."

The REV. J. M. B. GILL, writes another letter: "I do not know what to say in answer to your suggestion as to the class-agency except that I shall do my very best to carry out the wishes and suggestions of Alumni, Inc., as far as the members of 1903 are concerned.

"The longer the time since I was a student at Washington and Lee, the more it is impressed upon me that the University gave something to my life which progressively increases in value as time passes. For many years I was in China and, being so far removed from all association with the place, I lost the sense of what my two years there really meant to me; but now that I have had the opportunity to drop into Lexington quietly during the summer and spend a few hours wandering around the familiar places, it has awakened the feeling that I owe an inestimable debt to the old school.

"I must confess that while I was a student, I neither realized nor appreciated what was being offered me; this fact now makes me glad and willing to do my best to serve her in any way that I can.

"It is my hope that sometime between now and next February I may have an opportunity to drop in and talk the plan over with you. However, you may rely upon me to do my best when the time comes."

1902
60 men

Class-agent: *DR. J. MORRISON HUTCHESON, Professional Bldg., Richmond, Va.

Co-agent: *JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Law 1902, Law Bldg., Richmond, Va.

*W. E. MACCLENNY, Suffolk, Va., recalls and sums up the year 1902 and says, "I know of no place where the ethical standards are higher, the training better or where honor of manhood was more highly developed." Is a Ph. D., secretary and treasurer of the Suffolk Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution.

H. B. GRAYBILL, Greenbrier College, Lewisburg, West Va., has a boy nearly ready for Washington and Lee.

E. J. PAYNE, Box 373, High Point, N. C., manages the Southern department of the Philadelphia

Belting Co., manufacturers of leather belting, has a boy of thirteen preparing for Washington and Lee.

GORDON ARMSTRONG, Salem, Va., writes from a robust recollection of thirty years ago, of his classmates, the faculty, the town and has deep loyalty and affection.

DR. W. COLE DAVIS, 124 South Illinois Ave., Atlantic City, N. J., neurologist, psychiatrist, consultant to the Atlantic County Hospital for Mental Diseases, conducts a Mental Hygiene Clinic at the Atlantic City Hospital. Resigned from the Army in 1920, became specialist. Six months in Bellevue Hospital, a year in the Philadelphia General, Medical Director of the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases, three years at the Morristown State Hospital.

R. T. FLANARY, Norton, Va., president Norton Hardware Co.

HUBERT S. MOORE, 632 Auburn Ave., Roanoke, Va., with the Virginia Bridge and Iron Co., being close, keeps in touch.

M. A. WILSON, First State Bank Bldg., Fort Meade, Fla., Patterson and Wilson, attorneys, on the lookout always for students for Washington and Lee.

*R. F. COOPER, Holly Springs, Miss., president Mississippi Synodical College, a son at Washington and Lee, a daughter at Centre College, irreconcilable in his loyalty.

J. MURDOCH DENNIS, Baltimore, Md., president Dennis & Company, Inc., grain.

R. R. PHELPS, 3424 Craig Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, oldest son graduated at Washington and Lee in 1931.

*D. E. WITT, 210 Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., special agent, New Hampshire Fire Insurance Co.

*A. L. BURGER, 312 Boston Ave., Lynchburg, Va., superintendent of public schools.

*BISHOP W. G. McDOWELL, 2015 Sixth Ave., N., Birmingham, Ala., untiring in practical loyalty and interest.

WELLS C. LOGAN, Hartford, Ky., tire and battery service.

D. T. MOORE, Greenbrier Military School, Lewisburg, West Va., business manager of the three Moore brothers who own and operate this school, two are Washington and Lee men. They watch with pride the records of the boys they send to Washington and Lee.

*E. W. G. BOOGER, 326 West Maple Ave., Merchantville, N. J., received Ph. D. from University of Pennsylvania in 1932. Career has included business and education both. Author "Secondary Education in Georgia," reports on alumni activities in Philadelphia.

HARRY N. HUSE, 719 Denniston Ave., Virginia Heights, Roanoke, Va., assistant general freight agent, Norfolk and Western Railway.

J. R. TUCKER, American Bank Bldg., Richmond, Va.

DR. WILLIAM ALLAN, Medical Bldg., Charlotte, N. C.

DR. J. MORRISON HUTCHESON, Professional Bldg., Richmond, Va.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

ROBERT WOODWARD BARNWELL, New York City

THOMAS JEFFERSON GROVE, Petersburg, Va.

ROBERT ERNEST HUTTON, Baltimore, Md.

In Memoriam

WILBUR LAUCK NEWMAN

1901

46 men

Class-agent: *MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS, 849 Park Ave., Baltimore, Md.

*G. R. NISWANDER, Blackstone Apts., 33rd and Charles Sts., Baltimore, Md., removed in 1932 from Hartford. Business address, Continental Paper and Bag Corp., 1056 Baltimore Trust Bldg., has not yet found who the Baltimore Washington and Lee alumni are.

*A. FRED WHITE, Donora, Penn., says, "I make iron and steel for a living—steel being a pauper business now," but his memories of thirty-five years ago feel more like five years ago.

*CLARENCE C. BURNS, Burns Bldg., Lebanon, Va., of Burns and Wilson, lawyers. Calls the class letter "a million dollar letter" and wishes he had it all to give. "It may be of interest to you to know that I carried Frank Gaines around on the horn of my saddle when he was a baby. This does not mean I am old, not at all. I am complimenting Washington and Lee on having such a young president."

*JOHN M. CORBETT, Bay City, Texas, lawyer, with generous remembrances.

*JOHN K. GRAVES, 230 Park Ave., New York City, is assistant vice-president, finance and corporate relations, New York Central lines. Groans for the second time but with grace, cheerfulness, generosity.

*RICHARD C. LORD, Registrar, Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, remembers his own days, those of Dr. Henry Louis Smith and these of Dr. Francis P. Gaines whom he finds worthy. Reports a study of geographical distribution of students at American colleges made by the department of education of Rutgers University in 1931, in which only five American universities were grouped as national; Washington and Lee, Dartmouth, Yale, Georgetown and Notre Dame. Other colleges were classed as intersectional or sectional. Discovers that Matthew Page Andrews, the elder, was a graduate of Kenyon College, class of 1855. Richard C. Lord, Jr., oldest son, graduated at Kenyon in 1931, now doing graduate work at Hopkins.

*W. DEWEY COOKE, Savannah, Ga., is secretary and treasurer of the Southern Fertilizer and Chemical Company.

*E. D. OTT, Harrisonburg, Va., the silver-tongued orator of the Washington Literary Society, whose training must stand him in good stead in the jury room.

JOHN K. GRAVES, Central Railroad, 230 Park Ave., New York City.

1900
45 men

Class-agent: *LYNWOOD R. HOLMES, Public Ledger Bldg., Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., steamship owners and agents, Philadelphia, Penn.

*HILTON S. HAMPTON, Citizens Bank Bldg., Tampa, Fla., of Hampton, Bull and Crom, lawyers, a firm of distinction and service to the bar and the community. City Attorney of Tampa from 1920 to 1925, member of charter board, which prepared a commission form of charter for the City of Tampa, vestryman in St. John's Episcopal Church, Scottish Rite Mason, member Supreme Tribunal of the Knights of Pythias. In 1904 married Susanne Taylor.

F. D. LAKIN, 1455 East 114th St., Cleveland, Ohio (temporary), has spent most of his life as a contractor, building railroads, concrete work, track elevations, recently with the Erie Railroad in Dayton, Ohio. Reports that Downey was with Carter Construction Co., of St. Louis when last heard from.

*A. G. DAVIS, Lewisburg, West Va. "In regard to my life since leaving Washington and Lee, will say that I did not practice law, have tried to keep busy, have never married, have been reasonably successful in all my undertakings, do not feel depressed, never have, a Democrat, a Presbyterian and lastly, just a plain West Virginia mountaineer. Live six miles south of Lewisburg and will be glad to see any of my old classmates who care to visit me."

E. McD. MOORE, Chapin, S. C., waits for the return of more prosperous days on his farm near Chapin.

*S. W. FRIERSON, Florence, Ala., lawyer.

P. V. LITTLEJOHN, 11 Elm Ave., S.E., Roanoke, Va., left Washington and Lee in 1900, went to University of Virginia, graduated in the school of chemistry in 1903, since when connected with the chemical and test department of the Norfolk and Western.

R. E. MOORE, Bluefield, West Va.

JOHN W. LEE, 30 Rocklyn Place, South Hills, Pittsburgh, Penn., is with the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company.

*R. A. WATSON, Peoples National Bank, Charlottesville, Va., is manager of the Trust Department.

J. W. GARROW, Hermann Bldg., Houston Texas.

J. RAN TUCKER, 915-922 American Bank Bldg., Richmond, Va., of Tucker, Bronson and Mays, lawyers, members of the Alumni Board of Trustees, co-agent for the class of 1902 with which he graduated in law.

Unknown Address

A letter to the following was returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

HORACE R. MOORE, Knoxville, Tenn.

1899
37 men

Class-agent: *HARRY ST. GEORGE TUCKER CARMICHAEL, Kyrock, Ky.

*VERNON T. DAVIS, Jackson, Miss., of W. J. Davis & Co., has expressed the warmest of all his regards for "The Grand Old Institution."

*W. C. WATSON, 45 Smith St., West Haven, Conn. "My first position on leaving there was with the Union Bridge Co., at Athens, Penn., as draftsman. Then on formation of the American Bridge Co., was transferred to Philadelphia. After being there something over a year the bridge engineer of the N.Y.N.H. & H.R.R. wrote them for a man and they recommended me. Was there two years and was given a position with the Seaboard Air Line Ry., in Portsmouth, Va., where I worked as bridge engineer and general structural man for nearly two years. Then I went to New York and worked on the new terminal there and about the time that I was done the same bridge engineer of the N.Y.N.H. & H.R.R. asked me to come back and come back I did as general structural designer and have been here ever since. Saw Dr. Campbell in New York three or four years ago and the way he greeted me was, "Well W. C., the homesick boy," and we had some talk together just like real old time friends. He told me Dr. Howe had a great big paunch and was proud of it. Well, I guess I have written more even than you wanted to hear, so good luck to you in your business and the cause of Washington and Lee."

*DR. G. B. CAPITO, Professional Bldg., Charleston, West Va., writes as many do, "I was more than glad to get a letter from you, not, of course, because of the fact that you were dunning me for some money but because I received the information as to where you were, and that it was the means of getting in touch with you. It brings back memories of old Washington and Lee days and the fine associations with the splendid people of Lexington, and the fine personnel of the students during our work at the University."

W. E. DAVIS, 420 West Sixth St., Lexington, Ky., responds with approval.

STEWART L. CREBBS, 5100 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Cal., president of Blaner, Button & Co., Ltd., realtors.

*JAMES MULLEN, American National Bank Bldg., Richmond, Va., of Williams and Mullen, attorneys and counsellors at law, absorbed, day and night, in the reorganization of one of the big banks of Richmond, of which he is director and general counsel. Also an alumnus of Randolph-Macon College and member of its Board of Trustees.

*REV. A. STUART GIBSON, Manassas, Va., rector Trinity Episcopal Church. "It seems a long jump from the legal profession to the ministry, but I know a great many men who have made it and I feel that law and the little taste of business I had were really the best preparation I could have had for my present profession. I believe I understand men far better than would have been possible except for my experiences which have been similar to those of the majority with whom I have come in contact."

ALEXANDER D. HAMILTON, 213 North Sycamore St., Petersburg, Va., lawyer. "I am the possessor of five children and four grandchildren. Twin daughters, Sarah and May, the former having married James Dunn Mason, and the latter having married Edward T. Smith. Sarah has two sons, one eight, named for his father, and the other six and one-half, named for me. Mary has two daughters, one named Nellie Cocke, for my wife, and the other Claudia Tillar, for her father's mother. My elder son, Alexander, married a Miss Mary Bernard, of this city, on the 29th of last October. He has been practicing law here for nearly three years and is doing very well."

*F. W. KING, Alexandria, Va., executive vice-president of the Virginia Public Service Co., gives the campaign one of its biggest boosts; "I trust that the Alumni Association may be helped by the drive that is being made and become, as it should be, a real factor in promoting the interests of our old Alma Mater."

HUGH W. KIRKPATRICK, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va., special agent, the Atlas Assurance Co., Ltd.

DR. S. C. LIND, Minneapolis, Minn., Director of Chemistry, University of Minnesota, very much sympathetic and hopes for success.

*J. L. MORRISON, Hazard, Ky., has a son at Washington and Lee and another ready in 1934.

WALLACE MUIR, First National Bank Bldg., Lexington, Ky., of Stoll, Muir, Townsend and Park, lawyers.

*REV. JAMES A. McCLURE, St. Petersburg, Fla., pastor First Presbyterian Church; "While far away, I have kept in pretty close touch with the University in recent years through my sons. John graduated in 1928 and then followed with four years at Tulane in Medicine. Jim, our second boy has been there this present year. He made the Debating Team, and with Jim Moore has taken part in five of their seven debates. He may possibly enter the Law School next year, and I still have two more boys to follow. I usually spend a part of my vacation at my old home in Augusta County and get to Lexington for a day. I have an interesting church here in this tourist city. I have a congregation of from one thousand to twelve hundred every Sunday morning for four months of the year."

*SAMUEL PRICE, Lewisburg, West Va., of Price and McWhorter, attorneys and counsellors at law. Has warm memories, easily recalled and expressed.

*J. TEMPLE ROBINSON, 1307 Cherokee Road, Louisville, Ky.

J. POWELL ROYALL, Tazewell, Va., lawyer, has educated nine children. "I have been attending our Alumni Association at Bluefield, West Va., and have met Dr. Gaines, and am greatly impressed with his wonderful personality, and I also keep in contact with Mr. George W. St. Clair, of this place, who, as you know, is the Rector of the University, and in this way know something of the difficulties the University is experiencing at this time."

*COL. ARTHUR MORSON SHIPP, Montgomery, Ala., of the Adjutant General's Department, U.S.A., inspects National Guard units.

EWING D. SLOAN, Meridian, Miss., completing the Meridian & Bigbee River Railway.

S. L. WOODRIDGE, Lexington, Ky., a very large blue grass landowner.

JOHN W. GARROW, Cotton Bldg., Houston, Texas, of Garrow, MacClaen and Garrow. President, Texas Cotton Association, 1924-25, president, Houston Cotton Exchange, 1929-30, president, American Cotton Shippers Association, 1933-34.

HARRY ST. G. T. CARMICHAEL, Kytock, Ky.

In Memoriam

WILLIAM RANDOLPH MAUCK
1926

JUSTICE THOMAS FRANKLIN WEST
Late of the Supreme Court of Florida
1931

1898
30 men

Class-agent: *RICHARD W. FLOURNOY, Department of State, Washington, D. C.

*DAVID M. BARCLAY, the Cairo Hotel, Washington, D. C., was for some years secretary-treasurer of two exporting concerns in New Yory City, later vice-president Guarantee Title and Bond Corporation of Lynchburg, Va., and is now with the Tariff Commission. Is shocked at the 35th anniversary of the class of 1898. He thinks "we have gotten old," but is mistaken.

*BORDEN BURR, Brown-Marx Bldg., Birmingham, Ala., of Benners, Burr, McKamy & Forman, lawyers; "Henry Anderson of Richmond was in my office the other day and we both expressly wished that it might be possible some time to make a real effort for a reunion of the classes of 1898, especially the law class."

*RICHARD W. FLOURNOY, supplies the kind of data it is wished every alumnus had given: Born Hampden-Sydney, Va., May 20, 1878; Washington and Lee University three years; George Washington, LL. B. 1904, LL. M. 1905; member of bar of the District of Columbia; bank clerk 1896-98; teacher, Lewisburg Academy and Emerson Institute 1899-1903; professor of international law, National University Law School, since 1923; reporter on nationality, Research in International Law, Harvard University, since 1928; appointed clerk in the Department of State, July 1, 1903; Chief Bureau of Citizenship, Nov. 27, 1908, detailed to assist embassies and legations in Europe regarding citizenship matters, Sept. 17, 1915; appointed an assistant solicitor, August 1, 1916; on detail as acting chief Bureau of Citizenship; legal adviser to American delegation, Plebiscitary Commission, Taona-Arica Arbitration, 1926; chairman committee to study nationality laws of U. S., with a view to having them amended, 1928; delegate Conference for the Codification of International Law, The Hague, 1930; U. S. counsel Shufeldt Arbitration, 1930; assistant to the legal adviser, July 1, 1931.

"In addition to the above, I may say that I took an active part in shaping the measures which led up to the adoption of the present system of examining alien immigrants in consulates, finally developed and crystallized in the Immigration Act of 1924 and the regulations issued in pursuance thereof. It was in my office and under my personal direction, when I was Chief of the Division of Passport Control, that the Joint Order of the Department of State and Department of Labor, initiating this system was drawn up. I originated and established the Visa Office, and it was upon my recommendation that this Office was made a separate Division. I originated and drafted the proposal for the amendment of sub-section 6 of Section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, to clarify it and give it the proper limitation, which proposal was finally embodied in the Act of Congress of July 6, 1932 (Public—No. 266—72nd Congress). As a Delegate of the United States to the Conference on Codification of International Law at The Hague in March-April, 1930, I was principally instrumental in the adoption of the Protocol relating to Military Obligations in Certain Cases of Double Nationality, the first article of which was taken from Article 11 of the Code which I had previously prepared as Reporter on Nationality in the Research in International Law, Harvard University. This Protocol was ratified by the Senate of the United States, and when it goes into effect, the first article will be of great benefit to persons born in the United States of alien parents. I was co-editor, with Professor Hudson, of the Harvard Law School, of a Collection of Nationality Laws and Treaties of Various Countries, and have contributed articles on nationality and other legal subjects to the American Journal of International Law, the Yale Law Journal, the Virginia Law Register, the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure, and the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences."

*CHARLES J. FAULKNER, JR., 316 South LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill., responds always, in every way.

SAM SLICER, 342 West Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga., has had a varied career. After leaving Washington and Lee he practiced law for some time, went into the banking and loan business, had considerable success, travelled in Europe, Canada and Central America, had financial reverses, and is now engaged in a new business. He reports that he "did not marry until late in life," but it was not too late since he has "a wonderful wife and two of the finest boys in the world." Sam says that he is "too young to sit down and not do anything." We agree. (Dave Barclay, please note.) Sam reports having seen Harris and J. W. (Little) Garrow in Houston, Texas, two years ago. Little Garrow is a "happy grandfather"! This news almost gives a bachelor an inferiority complex.

R. W. FLOURNOY, Department of State, Washington, D. C.

E. WARING WILSON, Land Title Bldg., Philadelphia, Penn.

CHARLES J. FAULKNER, Room 1830, No. 316 South LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

EDWARD A. O'NEAL, Room 1116, 58 E. Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

1897
66 men

Class-agent: *F. PETRIE HAMILTON, 408 Walnut St., New Orleans, La.

CHARLES F. MYERS, Greensboro, N. C., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, mentions classmates he has heard from recently, has the handsomest church in the South, fine music and marvelous congregations.

*H. W. M. DRAKE, Port Gibson, Miss. Cashier Mississippi Southern Bank, has four boys in college, one a medical student at Vanderbilt, a junior at Davidson, two freshmen at Washington and Lee, a daughter through college. Last fall, he brought both the younger boys to college himself, his second visit in 25 years. "Every tree and blade of grass on the campus is dear to me. The older I get the more I appreciate the wonderful privilege it was to go to college and be associated with the class of men who were in Lexington in our day."

*T. H. WEBB, Austin, Texas, State Highway Department. Has been back twice in late years and saw several old friends.

*ED WOHLWENDER, Columbus Ga., has had a son in Washington and Lee and returned four years ago.

*LE ROY C. BARRETT, Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., compares conditions with Trinity.

H. W. GARROW, Cotton Bldg., Houston, Texas, vice-president Garrow, MacClaen and Garrow, cotton factors.

*BEN C. FLOURNOY, 726 Jackson Place, Washington, D. C., of Flournoy and Flournoy, architects.

*DR. L. F. WILSON, Greensburg, Penn., has a son at Washington and Lee.

*W. D. GRESHAM, Richmond, Va., is supervisor of negro education in the State of Virginia.

*S. RUFFIN HORNE, Fayetteville, N. C., is one of the three Hornes in H. R. Horne & Sons, pharmacists. H. Ruffin, Jr., is at Riverside Military Academy at Gainesville, Ga., and will come to Washington and Lee.

W. B. MORRISON, 1523 West Elm St., Durant, Okla., teaches History in one of the Oklahoma State Teachers colleges.

J. L. WITZ, Staunton, Va.

*DR. MOSBY G. PERROW, 1100 Federal St., Lynchburg, Va., City Health Officer.

*PAUL S. FELDER, 1528 Nashville Ave., New Orleans, La.

*EMORY H. SMITH, Colusa, Cal., dealer in grain, beans, bags, dried fruits, has a boy ready for college, wants him in spite of good colleges close by, to make the long trip and come to Washington and Lee. Career: for three years after leaving Washington and Lee was special agent of the post office department in Puerto Rico and the Phillipines, ten years country banker in West Virginia, came to California in 1911, invested in land. Six years of ranch life, then wholesale grain and fruit brokerage. In 1916 married Miss Anna Roerber of Newark, N. J., one son James, sixteen. "The training at Washington and Lee has enabled me to live a life much fuller and happier than the average and, after all, I believe that should be the ultimate aim of education."

Unknown Address

A letter to the following address was returned.

Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

JAMES LAWRENCE LEONARD, Pleasant Hill, Mo.

In Memoriam

ARTHUR BARFIELD LAFAR

DAVID I. SUTER

1930

JAMES WALKER BOWEN

March 27, 1929

FREDERICK ADAIR BRYAN

November, 1931

1896

67 men

Class-agent: *MAJOR STOCKTON HETH TYLER, Seaboard Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va.

COL. C. N. FEAMSTER, 304 Jackson Ave., Lexington, Va., has one son in V. M. I., another entering in September, retired from U.S.A.

WILLIAM H. MASON, vice-president Masonite Corporation, Laurel, Miss.

*R. W. HOLT, 13th and K Sts., N.W., Washington, D. C., chief accountant of the public schools of the District of Columbia; "Quite a large amount of water has passed under the bridge since I was last in Lexington. Washington and Lee is just as dear to my heart and I am just as loyal an 'Albert Sidney' as in the days of long ago."

A. M. DEAL, Statesboro, Ga., of Deal and Renfrue, lawyers: "I want to thank you for your list furnished me, and congratulate you upon your zeal for the cause in undertaking this drive. I am struck by the small number remaining, accounted for and in life of the class of '96. The whole number, including graduates and non-graduates amounting to only 67. As I remember it, the law class alone furnished above 60 applicants for the B.L. degree. I can't imagine that this number should have dwindled to 19 reported in your list. Anything that tends to renew my recollection of Washington and Lee, as well as my connection therewith, always brings great pleasure to me. You happen to be one of the law class whom I remember personally. I also remember very vividly Timberlake, Thrift, Ripy Penn, Paul Penick, Frank Moore, Larimore, Carr, Carlock, Lattomus, and Baker. I feel honored that the records disclose that I was a member of that class."

B. F. (PAT) HARLOW, Lexington, Va., editor and manager of the Lexington Gazette, Harlow's Print Shop, Inc., publication and commercial printers.

S. A. THOMPSON, Stuart, Va., lawyer, is invalid from partial paralysis, of more than one year.

H. V. CANTER, 126 Lincoln Hall, University of Chicago, Urbana, Ill. "Long, long the days, years even, since I saw you! I did not know that you were in Norfolk. In fact, I thought you had returned to Radford to continue the good work of your father there. Washington and Lee has done nobly in its work and expansion since our days there. I am not at all surprised, however, to hear that it is cramped for funds, for this is a fate that has overtaken educational institutions generally. The situation is one of genuine peril and one toward which I fear the public is much too complacent. There is the danger that the severe and drastic cuts being made for educational purposes may injure colleges and universities for years. Meanwhile, to revive the old phrase, it is a condition not a theory that confronts education. Funds are simply not available on the old scale. Normally our own running expenses are seven millions a year. During the past year the University of Illinois saved and turned back to the State more than 22 per cent of this sum. We have had two cuts in salary and are due for further reductions all along the line. I know a high-grade midwest college that has been cut in running budget 53 per cent. I do not know about the salary scale or its maintenance at Washington and Lee, as Dr. Gaines' letter gives no hint on that point. If salaries have not been reduced, this may have to come. I hope the alumni movement may bring substantial relief. With every good wish to you in your laudable effort and to you personally."

D. CUMMINS SATTERWHITE, 67 Carlton St., Brookline, Mass., connected with the New England distribution of LaSalle and Cadillac automobiles.

JOHN EDWARD BURWELL, Floyd C. H., Va.; "I note you say there are 67 of the class of '96 surviving. So far as I know that is correct. Many of the class having passed on, among them, as I am informed, Settle, G. H. Penn, A. B. Hunt, Harry Wurzberger. Occasionally I see J. M. Hooker of Stuart, John R. Smith of Martinsville, O. C. Brewer of Pulaski, and Frank Moore of Lexington. I have never seen or heard anything from Frank Bosshardt, of San Antonio, Texas; Cecil Conner, as you doubtless know, is in the State Senate of Virginia."

*J. W. LATTOMUS, Citizens Bank Bldg., Wilmington, Del., has two sons in the University of Delaware, hopes to see organized a fortieth reunion in 1936.

*BRADEN VANDEVENTER, Citizens Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va., of Vandeventer, Eggleston and Black, lawyers.

DR. RUEL E. EBERSOLE, Norfolk, Va., medical officer in charge of U. S. Marine Hospital, Norfolk, residence 1211 Manchester Ave. "Please accept my thanks for your recent letter which reached me yesterday. I was at Washington and Lee, a member of the class of 1898, leaving Washington and Lee University in 1896 to take up the study of medicine at the University of Virginia, where I graduated with the M.D. degree, in 1900. While at Washington and Lee I was awarded the Luther SeEVERS Birely scholarship for the session of 1895-96, which I appreciated very much. Since leaving college, I spent about 27 years in the U. S. Public Health Service, formerly the U. S. Marine Hospital Service, and was retired for physical disability due to service in May, 1927. As my wife was from Mississippi, we lived in Biloxi, Miss., for about a year and a half following my retirement, but we came here in 1928-29, and my son, now about 20 years old, is a second classman at V. M. I., and will be a law student at one of our Virginia schools very soon. I still live in the past in the old school which in my day was a very high class Southern school, with the Lee spirit still there, although the religious atmosphere there was strongly Presbyterian then. It was very pleasant indeed to meet and talk to our president at the luncheon some months ago, we have a fine man for the office for which he has been chosen, and I hope that I may have the pleasure of again meeting the alumni, at luncheons, or similar occasions, from time to time. With you as the chapter president and Hoffman as secretary, I think the remainder of the alumni should get together from time to time and revive the old spirit which has carried on for so many years. I enclose papers sent me and trust that the alumni may meet some time soon and let us revive Auld Lang Syne."

*PAUL M. PENICK, Lexington, Va., treasurer of Washington and Lee. "Considering the fact that we have been such close neighbors all our lives, we have seen remarkably little of each other. In fact, I do not recall having seen you over four or five times (and then for only a few minutes in passing) since the palmy days of 1896. I saw Charlie Dice in Lewisburg not long ago and he had his class picture in his office and knew pretty well what had become of the boys in our law class. I found what he told me very interesting and have looked up my old picture and have listed on it all the names of those in the picture. If you have this picture, I shall be glad to send you the names in the order in which they come. I wish you would come up here oftener. You have a number of old friends here in Lexington who will always be glad to welcome you. Regarding the subject matter of your letter, as I am in a position to know the present necessities of the University, I am glad to make a contribution to such a worthy cause."

*FRANK MOORE, Lexington, Va., member of the Virginia House of Delegates for Rockbridge County and the City of Buena Vista, has privileges many of his classmates envy him being in this part of Virginia.

*L. W. SMITH, Lexington, Va. Professor of Mathematics, Washington and Lee.

STOCKTON HETH TYLER, Seaboard Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va.

H. H. LARRIMORE, Missouri Pacific Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

W. R. McCAIN, 670 Main St., Hartford, Conn.

Unknown Address

A letter to the following was returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

WILLIAM E. WELCH, Boonville, Mo.

In Memoriam

GABRIEL HOWE PENN

WILLIAM J. TOWLER

November 9, 1932

1895

52 men

Class-agent: *DR. THOMAS J. FARRAR, Lexington, Va.

HOWELL J. DAVIS, Knoxville, Tenn., vice-president of the Volunteer Portland Cement Co.

*GEORGE R. HUNT, Trust Co. Bldg., Lexington, Ky., of Hunt and Bush, lawyers.

*MAURICE MOORE, 611 Pearl St., Lynchburg, Va., celebrated Finals on Alumni Day with Mrs. Moore.

ROBERT J. MCBRYDE, 130 South Fifth St., Louisville, Ky., of James C. Wilson & Co., investment securities.

*REV. FRANK MEZICK, Arrington, Va.

*DEMPSEY WEAVER, 178 Second Ave., North Nashville, Tenn.

*HERBERT BOULDIN HAWES, Spout Spring, Va., writes a letter of such universal and comprehensive sentiment, a creed, so to speak, of an alumnus of Washington and Lee, that it is printed elsewhere complete.

*B. L. ANCELL, Yangchow, China, Episcopal minister, founder and head of Mahan School, closed for six years because he refused to disavow his Christian foundation, then reopened upon his principles at the request of the government.

WM. MCCHESENEY MARTIN, 5055 Waterman Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

1894

58 men

Class-agent: *JAMES VEECH, 3907 Frankfort Ave., Louisville, Ky.

G. E. MERRILL, Colonel U.S.A., 344 Federal Bldg., Milwaukee, Wisc., has a nephew, Billy Allen, a sophomore in Washington and Lee.

*NEWTON D. BAKER, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio, a trustee of the University, of too various, too familiar distinction to brief here.

*H. M. BLAIN, 1738 Calhoun St., New Orleans, La., writes a merry letter saying that his children are all of age and that he still has many pleasant memories of his old friends made in Lexington.

R. R. TURNER, 401 Lyle St., Dallas, Oregon.

DR. H. G. REYNOLDS, City National Bank Bldg., Paducah, Ky. At the head of a large hospital. Time has been kind to him both as to looks and success. He is the youngest looking man I have seen in years who belonged to 1894.

W. J. LINDENBERGER, 149 California St., San Francisco, Cal. He wished he could return to those joyful days when he piloted the winning crew down North River. He wrote in fine spirits and appeared to enjoy his work.

DR. C. W. STRICKLER, 123 Forest Ave., Atlanta, Ga., a brother-in-law of Dr. Geo. H. Denny and a son of a former Rector, his heart is always warm toward Washington and Lee and Lexington where he was well known and liked. His success as a doctor has been very marked in Atlanta.

*DR. JAMES BELL BULLITT, Chapel Hill, N. C. Professor in Medical Department, University of North Carolina, wrote warmly, personally, in fullest devotion to all affairs and the future of Washington and Lee.

HON. NEWTON D. BAKER, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

HARRY BERTRAM LEWIS, Charleston, Ill.

HUBERT NASH DILLARD, Rocky Mount, N. C.

1893

68 men

Class-agent: *HARRINGTON WADDELL, Lexington, Va., principal Lexington High School.

*LON H. KELLY, Rarawha Valley Bldg., Charleston, West Va., lawyer with Brown, Jackson & Knight. Appointed United States Attorney for the Southern District of West Virginia by Woodrow Wilson in 1917. In 1924 became member of the law firm mentioned above. Three children. Robert, student at Washington and Lee, went to France in 1918, graduated at West Virginia in 1924, member of the same firm, Democratic State Chairman, married, one son and two daughters. His daughter Janet is Mrs. Joe W. Savage, whose husband is Secretary to the State Medical Association, three sons, two of them twins. His youngest daughter Virginia, graduate of Goucher College, teaches in the Charleston Public Schools. Residence of Lon H. Kelly, 1416 Quarrier St., Charleston.

FRANK FALLON, 210 South Jefferson St., Roanoke, Va., florist.

*R. L. PECK, SR., Bell Bldg., Springfield, Tenn.,

wishes, as many have similarly expressed it, that his response could be ten times the amount.

*H. W. MYERS, 24 Nakayamate Dori, 2 Chome, Kobe, Japan, writes from the greatest distance, in record promptness "within an hour of receiving your letter." In other parts it runs: "We are still living in a little apartment on a busy, noisy street, but are really very comfortable indeed. Grace sees to it that things are pretty, and they are pretty too. I think we will get back into our own home by September at latest. I have in prospect a most interesting trip this summer. I have been invited to be chief speaker at two conferences in Formosa, one in Tamsui in the north, and one in Tainan in the south of the island. At the close of the conference in Tainan, the friends there are arranging for me to take a climb up some of the high mountains, perhaps Mt. Niitaka, which looms up high above the top of Mt. Fuji, and is the highest mountain in the Empire. This may seem rather strenuous for an aged missionary "veteran" as I am sometimes called, but the last time I climbed Mt. Fuji was in mid-winter, when the top of the mountain was coated with snow and ice. That is a stunt that few Japanese have ever undertaken. It was one of the things that Richard Haliburton bragged about in his book. Another thing that I brag about most inordinately is my ability to go swimming all winter in the bay here. I swam several times in December, once in January and once in February, and this is the fourth winter that I have kept this up. It is really not so strenuous as it seems, and I have never caught cold from the exposure."

*R. E. ACREE, Mayfield, Ky., Obion Valley Tobacco Farm, from grower to consumer, high grade Kentucky Natural Leaf Tobacco. Admitted to the bar in 1894, never practiced. Married in 1912, two grown sons. Conducts his own business, sells by mail, has interesting leaflets for distribution with prices.

CHARLES E. HEATON, Point of Rocks, Md., lives with his mother who is 90, in a country community where he had responsibilities.

T. POLK SMITH, Clarksville, Tenn., married, one daughter living in New York. Since 1897, has been in the tobacco business, now in tobacco brokerage.

*E. M. JACKSON, 604 West 162nd St., New York City, practiced law in Carrollton, Mo., and St. Louis, veteran of Spanish-American War (4th Regt. Mo. Inf., U.S. Vol.). After the war, went to Joplin, Mo., and soon thereafter represented Public Service Corporation in southwestern Missouri, southeastern Kansas and northern Oklahoma. In 1901, he married Miss Nellie Crist, of Kansas City, the union being blessed with two sons and two daughters (inclusive of twins) and the Bed Time Stories consisted largely of Franchises, Rights-of-way and Condemnation Proceedings. Was also president or director in lead and zinc mining companies. In 1910, with his family, he went to New York City, where he settled down as vice-president or director in various enterprises. His hobbies are States Rights, Mid-Victorian Standards, and Bridge.

R. E. WADE, 534 Smithson Ave., Lawrence Park, Erie, Penn., reviews past history.

R. P. ALLEN, Old Spring Hill, Ala., president the County Board of Education, Marengo County, Alabama, cotton planter, recalls with tenderness, his old associations and "As I bring this letter to a close, I pause and ask God to bless the sixty-eight men of 1893 and their families and the families of the others of the class who have passed on."

W. R. BONNYCASTLE, 408 Providence Bldg., Vancouver, B. C., consulting engineer, civil, electric, hydro-electric developments. Was in the Yukon territory. Still in winter when his class letter reached him. Has resided in Canada for twenty-eight years minus four spent overseas, 1915-1919. Went to Massachusetts Institute of Technology for four years after leaving Washington and Lee, served one year in the United States Army in Cuba, was engineer in the western States and Mexico for five years. Prospects of engineering and mining developments now brighter.

*WILLIAM L. DABNEY, 5902 Garfield St., New Orleans, La., sends cordial proof of his regards for all that concerns Washington and Lee.

CHARLES LYONS, Commercial Bank Bldg., Lexington, Mo., of the law firm of Lyons and Ristine.

W. N. BRISCO, 1613 West Clinch Ave., Knoxville, Tenn.

*ROBERT L. HYATT, Monticello, Ark., practiced law in Texas 1893-95, in Monticello 1895-1901, cashier Monticello Bank until 1905, then of the Monticello Bank & Trust Co., then vice-president of Monticello Union Bank & Trust Co.

B. W. PEYTON, manager Hotel Kanawha, Charleston, West Va.

SAMUEL S. LAMBETH, Bedford, Va., an invalid for the past year.

H. W. PRATT, Box 331, Columbia, S. C., is Stated Clerk of the Synod of South Carolina of the Presbyterian Church, unafraid in the face of great stringencies upon his work and his own living.

*EDMUND P. COLES, 200 South Tryon St., Charlotte, N. C., is the local representative of the General Electric Co., responds with less than he would like, but more than most.

WELLS GOODYKOONTZ, Williamson, West Va., attorney, Goodykoontz & Slaven, is in the coal fields.

WILLIAM MELLIN BALLOW, 2 East Lexington St., Baltimore, Md.

DR. GEORGE BOLLING LEE, The Plaza, New York City, member of the Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee University.

DR. JOHN J. FIX, Box 404, Bristol, Tenn., is the director of the Department of Religious Education, Synod of Appalachia.

R. W. JOPLING, Lancaster, S. C., is pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Wife and 16-year old daughter, sees needs close at home and helps supply them.

DR. ANDREW H. WOODS, Psychopathic Hospital, Iowa City, Iowa, is director of this special hospital of the State University of Iowa. Has five children in various universities, helps support two institutions in China.

V. E. FUNKHOUSER, 2425 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo., president Funkhouser Equipment Company, equipment, machinery, supplies for contractors, railroads, industries, is happy to have news.

DR. GEORGE BOLLING LEE, The Plaza, New York City.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

JOHNSON LEE BANKSON, St. Louis, Mo.

ROBERT ECHOLS JORDAN, New York City

In Memoriam

FREDERICK LOUIS SHAFER

June 9, 1925

THOMAS BEEBE RIPPY

May 17, 1929

CHARLES HERBERT BLAND

1929

THOMAS GLOVER IVIE

July, 1931

1892

59 men

Class-agent: *HON. JOHN W. DAVIS, 15 Broad St., New York City

*W. REYNOLDS VANCE, New Haven, Conn. Professor of Law in the Yale School of Law, distinguished in academic and legal attainments, class-agent next year for 1892.

*HARRY A. ALBRIGHT, Columbus, Miss.

*THOMAS JESSE JONES, 101 Park Ave., New York City.

HERBERT FITZPATRICK, Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio.

WALTER McELREATH, Atlanta Trust Company Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

HON. JOHN W. DAVIS, 15 Broad St., New York.

In Memoriam

AUGUSTUS LEE DABNEY

August 23, 1926

1891

52 men

Class-agent: *JOHN M. GRAHAM, Rome, Ga., president National City Bank of Rome.

F. A. FORSYTHE, Lexington, Ky., head of the Kentucky Horsemen's Association, and works for their good in every way. Has four children from 7 to 12.

DR. ALFRED B. CLAYTOR, North Street and Longwood Road, Bedford, Va., reviews his opinions on taxes, tax legislation, tax reforms and the rights of private property.

DUKE HUNTER HUFFAKER, Box 1213, El Paso, Texas.

W. W. GAINES, Atlanta National Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., lawyer, visited Lexington this spring for the second time since 1891.

W. R. McCANN, 305 Hall of Justice, Los Angeles, Cal., harks back, "I have often remembered among other things you and Rees Turpin disappearing over the hills going coon hunting."

JOHN CARMICHAEL, Hagerstown, Md., is called Colonel there.

M. ASHBY JONES, 28 Twelfth St., N.E., Atlanta, Ga., gave up his pastorate in St. Louis last spring a year ago. Preaches, speaks, writes, doing odd jobs in civic life.

DR. J. H. BICKERSTAFF, Blount Bldg., Pensacola, Florida.

DR. MCPHEETERS GLASGOW, 309 Jackson Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

L. N. DAVIS, Ashland, Ky., has been unwell, recovering, recuperating, roaming.

MILES POINDEXTER, 1750 M St., N.W., Washington, D. C., practicing in the Capital.

MONTE J. GOBLE, vice-president The Fifth Third Union Trust Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, a ten million dollar bank, one of the Big Three in Cincinnati.

*FRANK A. NELSON, 823 James Bldg., Chattanooga, Tenn., has warm remembrances and impulses and gives in generously to both.

*JOSEPH A. GLASGOW, Staunton, Va., Circuit Judge.

JOHN M. GRAHAM, Rome, Ga.

Unknown Address

A letter to the following was returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

WILLIAM GREEN, Waco, Texas

In Memoriam

REV. JOHN LOUIS McCLUNG

DR. FRANK ROSS SHERARD

December 30, 1932

MALLORY FREDERICK HORNE

February 8, 1933

1890

43 men

Class-agent: *DEAN DOUGLAS ANDERSON, Tulane University, New Orleans, La., Dean of the College of Engineering.

*FREDERICK M. HUDSON, Box 904, Miami, Fla., of Hudson and Cason, lawyers, Seybold Bldg., "I wish it were possible for me to attend the next commencement and meet some of the old crowd again, but I find that it is out of the question, although I was a little uncertain when I received your first letter. For several summers in recent years I have spent some time in Lexington with my family, but I have not been able to be there in recent years during the session. It is a great pleasure to be in touch again and I should like very much to have the pleasure of renewing our friendships of a little more than 40 years ago. I occasionally go to New Orleans to the Federal Court of Appeals. Judge Nathan P. Bryant of that court, is a good friend of mine, a Florida man, who was at Washington and Lee directly after I left."

*DAVID B. MACGOWAN, 6 Englische Anlage, Berne, Switzerland, a change of residence from Riga, Latvia, where he was Secretary of the Legation, writes with charm and the light and gallant touch.

F. A. COUCH, Shady Spring, West Va., not well, retired from the practice of dentistry to the country and its serenity, from where he writes in a mellow and happy mood of remembrance.

GUY E. MANNING, Captain United States Army, retired, 164 North Remington Road, Bexley, Columbus, Ohio. Started Army career during Spanish-American War and has done nothing else since, regrets the economy law cuts, but has great hopes in President Roosevelt, thinks he will rout old man depression before he gets through, is a Democrat notwithstanding the fact that he was born north of the Mason and Dixon line. "When I was at Washington and Lee I was the only student in the school from north of the line and they used to call me 'Yank' in the most affectionate kind of way." A master Mason, regrets the passing of Bixby Willis. Recalls a week spent in Kansas City with Willis, Jesse Vineyard, Pete Withers and Tout.

*BENTON S. RUDE, Albany, New York, Commissioner, The Capitol, writes from Southern Pines, N. C., where he spends two months in the season, after the close of the Legislature. "I didn't know many of the fellows outside of the law school, though I took Latin on the side, under the tutelage of that master of the subject, Prof. Carter Harris ("Old Nick"). We had in the junior law classes a boy from Mississippi by the name of Joseph Turpin Drake. I never contacted with a brighter brain in my life. Often wondered how he turned out. I thank you for giving me the chance to make the enclosed contribution."

REV. JOHN S. BUNTING, 5544 Cates Ave., St. Louis, Mo. "I have not met but one or two Washington and Lee men since I left the University. I have been very happily located in the Church of the Ascension in St. Louis for a number of years. I find the work of religion now is desperately hard, which, I suppose is the reason for its existence."

H. M. HEUSER, Wytheville, Va., attorney, "I have not kept up with many of my classmates except in the most general way. Many have of course passed away since we separated in June, 1890. Business has called me to Lexington two or three times since and I found the old town and University equipment very much improved during that period. I attended one commencement, along 1915, I think—the time of a special feature complimenting Prof. C. A. Graves. Most of my life has been spent in this, my old home town, practicing my profession, still enjoying good health but wrestling mightily with the depression, and hoping that Roosevelt will down him in the next round. During this period I have been Mayor of my town a few times and have served five terms as Commonwealth's Attorney for the County."

EDWIN T. COMAN, 599 Fourth St., San Rafael, Cal., vice-president of the American Trust Company.

DR. WILLIAM F. (BILLY) WALZ, Lexington, Ky., of the Kentucky Board of Dental Examiners. "There were two men at college with us whom I often think of and wonder what has become of them, George Goddard and Church White. I used to play tennis with them quite often. Ruby Laffoon, our present Governor of Kentucky was in the law school of '89. I see him quite often, in fact every Monday afternoon I have to make a trip to Frankfort and always stop in to see the Governor. I am just entering my 21st year as a member of the Kentucky State Board of Dental Examiners having been appointed for another five year term by the Governor, last year. I take a great deal of interest in this State Board work and give it a lot of my time. It is my hobby."

PLINY FISHBURNE, Waynesboro, Va., of Fishburne & Son, prescription druggists, also interested in Fishburne Military School.

W. D. PAYNE, Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va., of Payne, Minor and Bouchelle, lawyers.

*A. K. BOWLES, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, assistant controller of the Consolidation Coal Company, sends evidence of his sympathy, affection and approval.

HAL. L. NORWOOD, Little Rock, Ark., attorney-general.

*J. T. MORGAN, Memphis, Tenn., of the Happy

Feed Mills, Inc., feeds for farm animals. "I have always had a deep affection for the old school, even though my connection with it was slight. Have graduated two sons there, have a third one there now, and a fourth one 'rarin' to go. The Ring-tum Phi comes regularly to my home, and I have read it assiduously. It was my pleasure to take Dr. Gaines around when he was here some two years ago, fine man. Washington and Lee is most fortunate, I think, in having acquired him. The alumni should back him to the limit."

*GEORGE WALKER ST. CLAIR, Tazewell, Va., president of the Jewell Ridge Coal Corporation, Rector of the University.

*EMMETT R. CONNER, Ft. Worth, Texas, of E. R. Conner & Co., stationers, at Fifth and Throckmorton. "Since leaving school I have been in this business which was started by my father in 1877, and it has been my good fortune to have been able to carry on. I have been able to accumulate a little on the side. Conditions, I hope, will soon change to enable me to retire and enjoy the later days of my life. I gather from your letter one out of ten still living. How thankful we should be that we are of the minority."

C. A. WOOTEN, Helena, Ark., cotton broker, "Life has been full of many good things, and I should not dare to complain about the present. While somewhat bereft of fortune, I still have a happy little family, and my eldest daughter has recently presented us with a little granddaughter. Have another married daughter, and a young son nearing eighteen. Have been planning to send him to Washington and Lee, but unless times improve with me soon, I shall be compelled to forego this pleasure and send him up to the State University. I was back in Lexington in 1915, and for a few days time rolled back and I was almost a boy again."

DEAN DOUGLAS S. ANDERSON, Tulane University, New Orleans, La.

GEORGE WALKER ST. CLAIR, Tazewell, Va.

J. T. NOELL, JR., 303 Madison St., Lynchburg, Virginia.

Unknown Addresses

Letters to the following were returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

GEORGE B. TALIAFERRO, San Antonio, Texas

ISAAC WINSHIP CABANISS, Detroit, Mich.

OWEN WEBLE MASSEY, Macon, Ga.

In Memoriam

COUNT HEDEI FUKUOKA
Japan, November 27, 1932

GUS HOUSKELL HAMPTON
1923

JAMES LITTLE DAVIDSON

October, 1929

BIXBY WILLIS

March 31, 1933

Countess Fumika Fukuoka, daughter of Count Fukuoka, writes: "June 1, 1933

"Dear Pro. Anderson: Thank you for your letter to my father. If this letter had reached him before his death, he would have been very glad with the remembrances of forty years ago. My father died on the 27th of November, last year. He had been ill for about four years but to his last, he had never given up his hope of revisiting America and his Alma Mater.

"Sincerely yours,

59 Kanatomi-cho, Koishikawa,
Tokyo, Japan.

"Miss Fumiko Fukuoka"

1889

32 men

Class-agents: *HON. WADE H. ELLIS, and *JUDGE JAMES QUARLES, Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C.

*J. T. DRAKE, Port Gibson, Miss., of Drake and Drake, lawyers.

*DR. JOHN WILLIAM MOORE, Charleston, West Virginia.

*A. G. EWING, Nashville Trust Company Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

*EDWARD B. McCALL, Briggsville, Ark.

1888

31 men

Class-agent: *CAPT. GREENLEE D. LETCHER, Lexington, Va.

*ERHARD R. GUENTHER, San Antonio, Texas. President Pioneer Flour Mills, an establishment 84 years old. "My daughter, Marie Louise, and I have just returned from a little trip to old Mexico, where, among other things, we drove with an automobile up the volcano 'Nevada De Toluca,' fifteen thousand feet and then down into the crater two thousand feet where there are two lakes; the Lake of the Sun and the Lake of the Half Moon; so named on account of their shapes. The crater has been extinct for many years and the water formed therein is perfectly delicious drinking water. This trip was especially interesting to me, since I had climbed this mountain some forty years ago with burros and mules. I had joined a botanist party, led by a Mr. Pringle, who was collecting plants for the Smithsonian Institute at Washington and the British Museum of the City of Mexico. We had with us a few Mexican soldiers, as guards and a few Indian guides. The ascent then took three days and this last time with an automobile, we did the same in an afternoon, in about eight hours."

JOHN G. HAYTHE, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Va., lawyer.

JOHN P. EAST, 149 Broadway, New York City, counsellor at law, former president of the New York Chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association, loyal, active, practical. His associations in Lexington and the whole community have always been kept in good order.

J. H. GORRELL, Wake Forest, N. C., head of the department of modern languages, Wake Forest College. "It is hard for me to realize that it has been forty-five years since we left college, but since I am just completing forty years of teaching, you are correct in the passage of time. I, of course, can never repay the debt of love I owe to my Alma Mater and I shall never cease to have my heart filled with gratitude for the training given me by the great and good men at whose feet I sat. And I am no less grateful for the fine comradeship and genuine friendship of such men as you, and John Davis, and Lancy Harris and Fitzpatrick and a host of others."

"As my life insurance is (I am afraid) the largest part of what I shall leave of my earthly possessions, I have made as generous provision in my will for Washington and Lee as I could, not in any respect to pay a debt but as a testimony of love. . . . Of course I shall throw all my influence in sending students when the opportunity presents itself. I have both here and in Raleigh made public statements of the greatness and the glory of old Washington and Lee.

"As I grow older my heart is warmed by the remembrance of the few remaining Lexington boys whom I knew and loved."

G. THOMAS DUNLOP, Colorado Bldg., Washington, D. C., attorney and counsellor at law.

JUSTICE HENRY W. HOLT, Staunton, Va., associate on the Supreme Court of Appeals.

LANCELOT M. HARRIS, Charleston, S. C., department of English, College of Charleston, has picturesque memories and recalls them with great charm.

R. E. R. NELSON, 30 East Beverly St., Staunton, Va., attorney of the firm of Timberlake and Nelson.

Unknown Address

A letter to the following was returned. Information requested by Cy Young, Lexington, Va.

EDWARD GRIFFITH DAVIS, Baton Rouge, La.

In Memoriam

DR. PHILLIP PERCY PARRISH

1887

33 men

SANDY P. FIGGAT, 118 South First St., Roanoke, Va., ill from a cerebral hemorrhage on April 28th.

LESLIE LYLE CAMPBELL, 15 Ware St., Cambridge, Mass.

J. E. WEST, Suffolk, Va., of West and Withers, general insurance.

1886

21 men

*GEORGE A. WAUCHOPE, University of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C., head of the English department, through great stringencies himself and all about him, comes back in memory, in gratitude, in generosity.

1885

23 men

*CYRUS GIVENS BROWN, 106 Jennings St., Bennettsville, S. C. "Lexington is my native town, being reared sixteen miles north of Lexington in the country. Am proud of the fact that I am an alumnus of Washington and Lee University. Am one of the "Old Boys," having left the University in 1885, almost a half century ago. Graduated at Union Seminary in 1888. Spent the next four years as a Missionary in Japan. Returned for health reasons in 1892. Since that time have had five successful pastorates. Having reached the age limit, was honorably retired in 1929. Have three children, one son a minister. Now in the Y.M.C.A. work in Roumania. Two daughters, one the wife of a successful business man in Florence, S. C., the other, wife of the Presbyterian minister in Bennettsville, S. C. Lost my wife in 1931. Make my home with my daughters."

1884

19 men

*THOMAS STONEWALL KYLE, Box 458, Gadsden, Ala., president Kyle Realty Co.

In Memoriam

HAVILAND STEVENSON
DAVID HARRIS GOODWIN
FRANK MCGREGOR ROANE

January 2, 1932

1883

19 men

REV. HENRY PETER SCRATCHLEY, Hendersonville, N. C.

In Memoriam

JOHN LEWIS ROWAN

1882

16 men

1881

11 men

1880

9 men

*COL. WALTER S. FORRESTER, Lexington, Va., retired, in ease, with grace, dispenses charm and wit, shares his goods, lives actively, richly.

1879

13 men

* JOHN M. GLENN, One Lexington Ave., New York City.

1878

13 men

1877

11 men

DR. J. H. DILLARD, Box 418, Charlottesville, Va., writes from St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where an educational mission took him.

1876

27 men

*DR. WILLIAM ELLIOTT DOLD, Rivercrest Sanitorium, Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., is the physician in charge, constantly engaged and absorbed in his responsibilities, yet time for a letter filled with memories, with wonderings about the fate and whereabouts of his classmates only three of whom can be reported.

*WALTER H. HOFFMAN, 1518 State St., New Orleans, La.

J. H. PRATT, Box 166, Tampa, Fla.

*JOHN M. ROBINSON, Route 1, Box 282, Shreveport, La., writes from deep and warm remembrances.

1875

12 men

REV. H. S. COE, Edinburg, Va., has had three sons graduate at Washington and Lee and a grandson here now.

1874

15 men

*THE RIGHT REV. JAMES R. WINCHESTER, Bishop of the Episcopal Church, retired, 1515 Spring St., Little Rock, Ark., pays a loving tribute, asks God's blessing, wants the roster of his classmates.

F. E. GOLDTHWAITE, 1453 Marais St., New Orleans, La.

*EMMETT W. McCORKLE, SR., Ashland, Ky., writes in grateful appreciation.

In Memoriam

*THOMAS SMITH PURDIE

April, 1923 —

HARRY ALLEN

1873

15 men

JOHN S. McELROY, Springfield, Ky., agent, Farm Department of the Home Insurance Co., of New York.

In Memoriam

REV. WILLIAM BOYLE

1872

21 men

DR. S. H. CHESTER, Montreat, N. C., spent 35 years in the Foreign Mission Office, now retired, celebrated in Lexington the 59th anniversary of his graduation and received honorary Phi Beta Kappa. Besides Bishop Winchester of Arkansas, the only survivor of the 21 students who formed the guard at General Lee's bier while he lay in state in the Chapel.

ISAAC W. STEPHENS, 800 Eighth Ave., Ft. Worth, Texas, has 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild and his influence will bend them toward Washington and Lee.

In Memoriam

SOLAN EDWARD FRANKLIN ROSE

January 30, 1933

1871

10 men

In Memoriam

ROBERT WITHERSPOON

December 17, 1930

1870

11 men

1869

13 men

E. W. WILLIAMS, 1306 West 6th St., Pine Bluff, Ark., recalls his visit to General Lee in his home, not well now, nearly blind.

J. W. LOCKETT, 5237 Waterman Ave., St. Louis, Mo. "My love for the college is abiding though I haven't visited the college since 1869."

GEO. A. MAHAN, Hannibal, Mo.

"McCRUM'S"

As Always The Gathering Place Of

ALUMNI
STUDENTS AND FRIENDS Of

Washington and Lee

UNEXCELLED FOUNTAIN SERVICE

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA

Class-agents for 1933-34

- 1932—HENRY W. MACKENZIE and ALLEN S. CARR, Building and Loan Bldg., Portsmouth, Va.
- 1931—WALTER E. HOFFMAN, Seaboard Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va.
- 1930—HERBERT G. JAHNCKE, 1807 Calhoun St., New Orleans, La.
- 1929—LEWIS F. POWELL, JR., Atlantic Life Bldg., Richmond, Va.
- 1928—ROBERT F. HOWE, Walton Rice Mill, Inc., Stuttgart, Ark.
- 1927—ZEB H. HERNDON, McDowell Company Bank Bldg., Welch, West Va.
- 1926—BASIL G. WATKINS, Krise Bldg., Lynchburg, Virginia.
- 1925—JOHN COOPER MORRISON, JR., Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.
- 1924—W. GOODRIDGE SALE, JR., Sale, St. Clair & Sale, Welch, West Va.
- 1923—DOUGLAS P. WINGO, 1012 Crawford Bldg., Birmingham, Ala.
- 1922—ROBERT M. BEAR, Department of Education, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.
- 1921—THOMAS X. PARSONS, Colonial-American National Bank Bldg., Roanoke, Va.
- 1920—R. M. CABELL, Covington, Va.
- 1919—L. T. BROWN, Lott-Merlin, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.
- 1918—JOHN H. McCHORD, 308 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.
- 1917—WILLIAM J. COX, Department of Engineering Mechanics, Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.
- 1916—BRUCE F. WOODRUFF, Trust Company of Georgia Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.
- 1915—KI WILLIAMS, Waynesboro, Va.
- 1914—CLARENCE W. SAGER, 26 Broadway, New York.
- 1913—BENJAMIN F. FIERY, Union Trust Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.
- 1912—WILLIAM A. HYMAN, 100 William St., New York City.
- 1911—A. DANA HODGDON, Department of State, Washington, D. C.
- 1910—LAURENCE C. WITTEN, Union Trust Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.
- 1909—DR. JOHN WILLIAM CLAUDY, Rockview Prison Farm, R.F.D. 3, Bellefonte, Penn.
- 1908—DOZIER A. DEVANE, 744 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, D. C.
- 1907—W. L. LORD, Woodberry Forest School, Woodberry Forest, Va.
- 1906—L. PRETLOW HOLLAND, Suffolk National Bank Bldg., Suffolk, Va.
- 1905—DR. E. S. BOICE, 534 Falls Road, Rocky Mount, North Carolina.
- 1904—GEORGE E. HAW, 403 Travelers Bldg., Richmond, Va.
- 1903—REV. J. M. B. GILL, St. Paul's Rectory, Petersburg, Va.
- 1902—DR. WILLIAM ALLAN, Medical Bldg., Charlotte, N. C.
- 1901—MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS, 849 Park Ave., Baltimore, Md.
- 1900—HILTON S. HAMPTON, Citizens Bank Bldg., Tampa, Fla.
- 1899—HARRY ST. G. T. CARMICHAEL, Kyrock, Ky.
- 1898—CHAS. J. FAULKNER, 316 South LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.
- 1897—F. PETRIE HAMILTON, 408 Walnut St., New Orleans, La.
- 1896—STOCKTON HETH TYLER, Seaboard Bank Bldg., Norfolk, Va.
- 1895—HERBERT BOULDIN HAWES, Spout Spring, Va.
- 1894—JAMES N. VEECH, 3907 Frankfort Ave., Louisville, Ky.
- 1893—LON H. KELLY, Kanawha Valley Bank Bldg., Charleston, West Va.
- 1892—W. REYNOLDS VANCE, Yale Law School, New Haven, Conn.
- 1891—JOHN M. GRAHAM, National City Bank of Rome, Rome, Ga.
- 1890—DEAN DOUGLAS ANDERSON, Tulane University, New Orleans, La.

Classes from 1889 through 1868 will have as their class-agent, the Alumni Secretary, who will keep in touch with them himself by personal letters.

PROFESSIONAL DIRECTORY

This directory is published for the purpose of affording a convenient guide to Washington and Lee alumni of the various professions who may wish to secure reliable correspondents of the same profession to transact business at a distance, or of a special professional character. Alumni of all professions who by reason of specialty or location are in a position to be of service to the alumni of the same profession are invited to place their cards in the directory. Rates on application.

THOS. F. OGILVIE LAWYER Atlantic City, New Jersey	GIBSON WITHERSPOON ATTORNEY-AT-LAW 204-208 Lawyers Building Meridian, Mississippi	EDMUND D. CAMPBELL, '18-'22 ATTORNEY-AT-LAW Douglas, Obear and Douglas Southern Bldg., Washington, D. C.
BLANK & STOLLER, Inc. Photographers of Men Official Photographers for the Alumni Magazine 227 E. 45th St., New York 19 S. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.	JAMES R. CASKIE, '09 ATTORNEY-AT-LAW Peoples Bank Building Lynchburg, Virginia	PAUL C. BUFORD, '13 ATTORNEY-AT-LAW 811 Boxley Building Roanoke, Virginia
PHILIP P. GIBSON ATTORNEY-AT-LAW Marcum, Lovins and Gibson First National Bank Building Huntington, W. Va.	Compliments of E. C. CAFFREY, '09	John H. Tucker, Jr., '10 TUCKER AND MASON LAW OFFICES Commercial National Bank Building Shreveport, Louisiana
ELWOOD H. SEAL Seal and Dice ATTORNEY-AT-LAW General practice in the courts of the District of Columbia and Federal Departments Associate Income Tax Specialists Tower Building, Washington, D. C.	CARLTON D. DETHLEFSON ATTORNEY-AT-LAW Suite 301 Bank of America Building 625 Market St., San Francisco, Cal. Telephone EXbrook 0237	GREENBRIER MILITARY SCHOOL Lewisburg, West Virginia H. B. Moore, Principal J. M. Moore, '08, Assistant Principal

LAURENCE CLAIBORNE WITTEN, '10

GENERAL AGENT

Department of Southern Ohio

Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company

1507 Union Trust Building, Cincinnati, Ohio

W. & L., Virginia, Cincinnati, Yale, Harvard, Ohio State, Brown, Columbia, Miami, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania are represented in this Agency. There are usually one or two openings for exceptionally good college men. Applications from W. and L. alumni have the preference.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE 1933

Sept. 23	West Virginia	Charleston, W. Va.
Sept. 30	Roanoke College	. . Lexington
Oct. 7	William and Mary	. Lexington
Oct. 14	Yale New Haven
Oct. 21	Kentucky	. . . Roanoke, Va.
Oct. 28	Princeton Princeton
Nov. 4	V. P. I. Blacksburg
Nov. 11	Virginia (Homecoming)	Lexington
Nov. 18	Center College	. . Danville, Ky.
Nov. 25	Maryland	. . College Park, Md.

For Ticket Reservations Write R. A. Smith, Director of Athletics, Box 891, Lexington, Virginia

FOLLOW THE GENERALS