Moment of Destiny

(THE PRESIDENT'S PAGE)

At a time when most of our thoughts turn to the future, I am writing this page with less certainty of prediction than I have known before.

It would be pleasant to comment on the session of 1941-42. That was a good year, as the annual report, just off the press, will certify. Attendance held up well; the quality of application showed improvement, testimony to the deepening seriousness of our boys; no deficit in the operating budget appears; a reasonable addition to our resources in the way of gifts was contributed; the University, in addition to its regular offering of courses, directed a variety of helpful services for the understanding and promotion of the war.

With some degree of composure, I could discuss the present session, just under way. Except for the School of Law, which shows marked decline, the enrollment exceeds our expectancies of the summer. Class-work is proceeding normally. Standards of instruction have not suffered. Again we offer numerous courses designed to give boys a special fitness for the imperative of the present crisis. The several reserve units, all operative in our school, give at least a momentary promise of allowing the students to complete their academic work, or a large part of it.

The uncertainty in the minds of all college people—I mean those connected with men's colleges, and particularly non-military colleges for men—arises from speculation as to what may happen next session, and thereafter for the duration of the war.

At this moment the discussions go on in the Congress, following the specific recommendation of the President, for the lowering of the draft age to 18. It is highly probable that the change will be made. These younger boys will not be just additions to the total number of the registered men; these youngsters will be the highly desirable persons, and will almost certainly be placed quickly under military responsibilities.

It does not yet appear whether these young men will be allowed to continue in college until actually needed, either in the present pattern of separate reserve units for the several services or in some unified corps, or whether they will be inducted as promptly as possible into the military forces if not immediately into the combat units and then receive only such specialized training as the military authorities may deem essential for that combat service, or for the auxiliary tasks connected with the military effort.

Upon the answer to that question will depend, I feel sure, the history of Washington and Lee for the next few years. And the answer to that question has not yet been framed.

* * *

To the alumni I can hardly say more than this: Washington and Lee will continue to try to give good training, under whatever conditions, and will seek with all its energies to help in the winning of this war. All the future of Washington and Lee, whatever the impending months may bring to it, depend upon winning this war.

* * *

To the Government, we do not say "Save the Colleges!" Rather we say, "Use the Colleges." We believe the institutions of higher learning, and undoubtedly Washington and Lee, can be of incalculable service for the emergency and for the better world that, pray God, will follow.

The 194th Session Opens

By HAL KELLER, '42

THE great question for Washington and Lee this year probably will not be answered until after November. This question is: will the draft age be lowered to include boys of eighteen? Until that is answered, it would be hard to make an intelligent estimate of the meaning of this year's opening of school. If the plan for taking boys of freshman age into the army were carried out, and if no special deferment were allowed for those in institutions of higher education, all colleges with any men students would be hard hit—Washington and Lee more than most.

That is the dark cloud on the horizon. Otherwise, the picture here looks much as usual: the fall leaves begin to brighten; the campus is still green; the white pillars shine out as always. In this setting the neatly-dressed undergraduates wander back and forth from class to fraternity house, with apparently nothing unpleasant on their youthful minds—which is naturally far from the truth.

Interspersed among these boys are 205 freshmen and 22 transfers; last year there were 261 freshmen and 34 transfers. This is a far smaller loss, one imagines, than the authorities had expected. Altogether, as of October 1, there are 666 boys in school, a decrease of 229 men. Of the 205 freshmen, 104 attended freshman camp.

In 1941 there were 895 students and about 51 professors. Now, with 666 students, there are at least 16 fewer faculty members. (These figures are decidedly approximate because the picture changes so fast.) As the number of students decreases, the number of faculty decreases, which should even things up nicely except that a saturation point will have to come sometime. To replace faculty members at the present moment is difficult.

Yet the faculty of Washington and Lee is at present capable of carrying on. Further changes will modify it, but there is no reason to believe that instructional facilities will not be sufficient. In spite of all the departures, it has been necessary, this year, to add only two men to replace those who have left: Dr. James Holt Starling, late of Duke, in the department of Biology, and E. Carlyle Lynch, '32, as instructor in science and drawing. The list of members of the faculty who have left to aid in the war has been printed in this magazine before, and a more complete list will appear later.

Of the 56 alumni sons registered this year, 14 are freshmen and 42 are upperclassmen. One alumnus, Lieutenant-Commander Charles J. Devine, '16, has two sons in school, Charles, a junior, and Pat, a freshman.

According to the student directory, 36 states, the District of Columbia, and two United States territories are represented in this year's student body. Virginia again leads the list with 138 men, followed by New York with 61 and Maryland with 46. New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania are fourth, fifth and sixth with 45, 36 and 34 representatives respectively. There are 22 men from the District of Columbia, two from Puerto Rico and one from Hawaii.

One fraternity, the Washington and Lee chapter of Delta Upsilon, has closed its house for the duration of the war. In an announcement to the student body, the president of the house said that the members were taking rooms in town because the number of members returning did not warrant keeping the house open. However, the chapter will continue as an active chapter and, in order to be together, will accept the invitation of the Alpha Tau Omegas to eat at the ATO house.

PETE RODRIGUEZ, '41, passed the Puerto Rico bar examination on the 28th of last July and is now associated with his father in the general practice of law at Lares, his home town.

THE leading article in the September, 1942, issue of the national magazine, Taxes, was contributed by Dean Robert H. Tucker. It is entitled "The Excess Income Tax as a Source of Federal Revenue."

Wright, '13, in Important Office

FORMER State Senator William A. Wright, of Tappahannock, long regarded as one of the most popular men who ever went to Washington and Lee University, became chairman of the Virginia Conservation Commission on August 1 by appointment of Governor Colgate W. Darden, Jr.

Mr. Wright, known to his friends all over the State as "Billy," received his B.A. degree at Washington and Lee in 1913. After remaining out of the University for a year, he returned to Lexington and entered the law school, receiving his law degree in 1916.

In his undergraduate days at the University, he lived for a time at the home of his cousin, Dr. George H. Denny, then President of Washington and Lee, and now Chancellor of the University of Alabama.

During his law school days, he shared quarters with the late Clovis Moomaw, of Roanoke, who at the time was a member of the law school faculty and who shortly thereafter, as did Mr. Wright, entered the U. S. Army. Mr. Moomaw, who like Mr. Wright, was a great favorite at the University, lost his life with the American Overseas Forces.

Few students ever took more delight in the life of the University than did Mr. Wright. He was keenly interested in every phase of it, and nothing gives him more pleasure now than to return here and renew his acquaintance with members of the faculty whom he knew in his student days, and also with the people of Lexington with whom he fell completely in love.

He was a member of the undergraduate fraternity of Phi Kappa Psi and the legal fraternity of Phi Delta Phi. He is also a member of the famed "13 Club," and Pan and Sigma ribbon societies. In 1939 he was made an honorary member of the Washington and Lee chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Although Mr. Wright is still comparatively young—51 years of age—he has long taken a prominent part in the public life of the State. He was a member of the House of Delegates of the Virginia General Assembly from 1924 through the biennial session of 1930, and two years later he was elevated to the State Senate, representing the counties of Essex, King and Queen, Middlesex, Gloucester, Mathews and York. He remained a leading member of the upper branch of the General Assembly until he resigned early in July to accept his appointment as chairman of the Conservation Commission.

William A. Wright, '13

In the Senate he served on the most powerful committees, and at the time of his retirement was chairman of the Committee on Roads. Previously he had been chairman of the Fish and Game Committee. His other Senate assignments included the equally potent committees of Finance, Privileges and Elections, Steering, Courts of Justice, and Special, Private and Local Legislature.

He successfully managed the campaign of the late Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, for Lieutenant-Governor in 1937, and subsequently directed one of the State's most successful Jackson Day dinner campaigns.

He is a member of the State Democratic Committee, and in 1940 was the presidential elector-at-large.

During the World War, he went overseas as a first lieutenant in the infantry, and at first was stationed at headquarters of the Sixth Corps. Later he saw service at the front of the Meuse-Argonne sector near Metz and had been in action three months in that area when the Armistice was signed. After serving several months with the Army of Occupation, he returned to the United States in the latter part of 1919 and was assigned to duty in California, but a short time later he was demobilized at Camp Lee, near Petersburg.

Senator Wright, who is unmarried, is a member of the vestry of the Episcopal Church at Tappahannock, a Mason, Rotarian and Ruritan. He organized and is vice-

Football at W. and L. in Wartime

By WALLY CLAYTON and AL DARBY

ALTHOUGH we've been conceded the 'weak sister' of the Big Six and Southern Conference this year, the Generals will win some games," predicted Paul A. "Jerry" Holstein, Washington and Lee's new head football coach, as his men prepared for their game here with Hampden-Sydney, on October 17.

Holstein, a star lineman for the Blue in the late 1920s, assumed duties as head football coach on August 11 after the entire staff of Head Coach Riley Smith, Jack Hennemier, Art Lewis and Harold "Cookie" Cunningham had been commissioned in the Navy to assist with the physical fitness program.

Smith is now stationed at the naval air base at Jacksonville, Florida; Lewis and Hennemier are at Pensacola, Florida, and Cunningham is stationed at the pre-flight school at the University of Georgia, in Athens.

Assisting Coach Holstein with the Generals this season, are H. K. "Cy" Young, alumni secretary, and R. A. "Cap'n Dick" Smith, athletic director. Pres Brown, a regular end last season, helped as end coach until called into the Marines in early October. Perry Simmons, '43, is coaching the freshmen, assisted by Steve Hanasik, '40.

Captain Bob Pinck, Joe Baugher, Brown, Bert Nelson, Charley Didier and Joe Littlepage were the seniors on last year's once victorious grid team, but seven other lettermen and two promising sophomores failed to return in September.

Of irreparable loss to Holstein as he began his practice sessions early in the season, were Captain Bill Gray and Roy Fabian, the 1941 regular guards, who were called into the Navy and Army respectively; Frank Socha, the plunging fullback is now in the Army Air Corps; Jack Tucek, captain of the '41 frosh team, who entered the U. S. Naval Academy three days before practice sessions began; and Sam DiBlasi, another fine 1941 frosh back, who signed a professional baseball contract with the Boston Red Sox. Other lettermen of last season who didn't return were Marshall Steves, a guard, who also has entered the Naval Academy; Floyd McKenna, now in the Army Air Force; and Paul Skillman and Jim Graff, who have dropped out of school.

Four much-used tackles, Lillard Ailor, John Rulevich, Frank DiLoreto and Bill Furman, all answered Holstein's first call as did eight other letter winners from last season. The eight were Bev Fitzpatrick, a guard; Jim Wheeler, Jim Daves and Jack Roehl, all ends; and Paul Cavaliere, Ted Ciesla, Harry Baugher and Dave Russell, a quartet of backs.

Among the most promising sophomores were Dick Working and Harry Harner, both backs, and the Norman brothers, Dyke, a rugged center, and Ray, an end, as pre-season practice started.

Stressing that the 1942 football team is being operated on a physical training basis, preparing the men for "a bigger fight than football," Coach Holstein has invited the entire student body to participate. He said he was "giving the game back to the boys."

As a result of his invitation, Holstein now has a larger squad than the 1941 aggregation, despite a smaller college enrollment. At least five of the men who have seen considerable service in the first two games were men who have never competed for the varsity grid team before—Bill Babcock and Jay Cook, backs with the light-weight team last year, who have shown promise in the first game. Sam Williams, who wasn't out for football last year, has been playing considerable ball at end, and Bill McKelway, who never played any football before, is another end with possibilities. Bob Mehorter, a guard, is developing into one of the best linemen on the squad.

Riley Smith

The gloomy outlook for the 1942 season has been brightened considerably by the excellent morale and spirit of the team. Coach Holstein has called the current team "the most spirited team and student body I have seen in many years."

Despite losses to West Virginia, Kentucky and Rollins in their first three clashes, the Generals still maintain that morale and spirit. All three opponents used freshmen, a practice not allowed in the Southern Conference.

Against the heavily-favored Mountaineers at Charleston, West Virginia, the Blue opened its season under Holstein by outpassing the Mountaineers but finally succumbing, 21-7.

Former Governor Homer A.

Holt of West Virginia, a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, wrote Coach Holstein after that first game commending the "spirited contest and the most creditable showing" of the Washington and Lee team. "We might have won with better breaks," wrote Mr. Holt.

In their second test, against Kentucky at Lexington, Kentucky, a team that had almost defeated Georgia and its Frankie Sinkwich, the Generals threatened in the opening period and were behind only 12-0 at the half. Injuries to ten men, including many of his key players, forced Holstein to use many inexperienced players, and the Wildcats made a field day of the second half, piling up a 53-0 margin over the game but under-manned Generals.

Travel weary and suffering from injuries in the two previous games, the Blue and White traveled by train to Orlando, Florida, to meet the Rollins College Tars for their third engagement. Rollins, boasting one of the best teams in the South, had not been scored on in three previous contests, rolled over the Generals to the tune of a 46-0 score.

"When it comes to winning games with injured men at a possible cost of permanent injury to the players, I'd rather lose all of our games," Holstein said. The physical well being of the men is of major importance, particularly at this time when the nation needs the best of its manpower, indicated Holstein.

When the Generals left for the Rollins game, they were called distinct underdogs. The Florida outfit had whipped both Presbyterian and Davidson by comfortable margins, and the 900-mile trip in a day coach wasn't just what the Doctor ordered.

In considering the possible outcome of the six games remaining for the Generals, the new mentor has conceded the Blue with a good chance of winning four of these games. The four most-likely W. and L. victims are Hampden-Sydney, and Virginia, the only rivals who will appear on Wilson Field this fall, and Davidson and Richmond.

Against Maryland and Virginia Tech, the odds are more decidedly against a General triumph.

However, even three victories would make the 1942 team a success. In the past two campaigns, playing 19 games, the Blue has won only three contests.

Four seniors, three juniors and five sophomores have seen most service in the first games. At ends, Senior Wheeler and "Pinky" Norman, a sophomore, have played most, Ailor and Rulevich, both seniors, have held down the tackle posts; Fitzpatrick, a senior, DiLoreto, a junior, and Michaux, a sophomore, have shared the guard assignments, and Dyke Norman, the fifth first year varsity man, has been at center most of the time.

NOTE: The Generals won over Hampden-Sydney, 20-13, a few days before we go to press.

A Tribute to Dr. Tucker

FEW teachers, however important or far-reaching their work may be, ever attain the recognition they ought to have—if they gain any recognition at all. It was partly for this reason that we were particularly pleased to read in Virginius Dabney's volume on the South, "Below the Potomac, (Chap. VI, pp. 155-6), a tribute to Dr. Robert H. Tucker, Dean of Washington and Lee, which, if less than Dr. Tucker deserves, is at least some recognition of merit.

Mr. Dabney, nationally known editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, makes a survey of the new South in this book, discussing its present problems and probable future, and he devotes a special chapter to Southern education. One of his main points in this chapter is that Southern institutions are handicapped by a lack of funds as compared to some of their Northern neighbors; but he shows that these colleges manage to carry on admirably and that this is partly so because of the loyalty of men who would rather stay in their own section than accept a much higher emolument at richer universities. Dr. Tucker is mentioned as an example of this sort of devotion along with Hudson Strode of the University of Alabama and Robert P. Brooks of the University of Georgia.

To quote Mr. Dabney:

"A third teacher of especial note . . . is Dr. Robert H. Tucker of Washington and Lee. After studying in Germany and at Wisconsin and Chicago, he entered the teaching profession. Shortly thereafter he was recognized as one of Virginia's most progressive citizens, participating in many movements on behalf of more efficient government and a more enlightened attitude toward the underprivileged. He was the first chairman of the Virginia Industrial Commission, following the enactment of Virginia's workmen's compensation law in 1918 and first chairman of the Virginia Commission on County Government, in which capacities he influenced the thinking of the state in important particulars. His quiet and levelheaded, yet courageously liberal, approach to public questions has made his advice sought for decades by governors and other public figures.

"It is such men as these who give the Southern colleges and universities their distinctive cachets, and their strong leverage upon the youth of the South, to say nothing of the many young men and women who come from other sections to study there, despite the relative poverty of most of the educational exchequers. It is fortunate, indeed, that these institutions manage to hold a fair percentage of their most inspiring teachers and most talented researchers and scholars, in the face of the blandishments and temptations from across Mason and Dixon's line." (G.S.J.)

Dean Robert H. Tucker

WILLIAM B. WISDOM, '21, who had built up a flourishing advertising business in New Orleans, was commissioned a captain in the Marine Corps last July. He was prominent in civic activities in his home city and was a member of the board of the Lee archives of Washington and Lee. As a Marine, he believes he will direct Recruiting and Public Relations in Nashville.

His brother, John Minor Wisdom, '25, is stationed in Washington, D. C., as captain in the Army Air Force.

THE FOLLOWING brief tale should indicate to any doubtful alumnus why the Alumni Office is in a constant state of despair over the mail situation: The journey of the letter described below is far from unusual these days.

Not to mention any names, a certain letter, through nobody's fault unless you can blame Circumstances, was shuttled about as follows: From Charleston, South Carolina, to Quonset Point, Rhode Island, to the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Virginia, to the Postmaster, New York City; to Newfoundland and back to New York; to San Francisco, to the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.; to Lexington, Virginia, and at last to its final resting place in Atlanta, Georgia.

Additions to List of Alumni in Service

As of October 12, 1942

NOTE: This list of 479 alumni in service comprises the second published addition to the list of Washington and Lee men in service published in the May, 1942, Magazine. Washington and Lee now has 1001 men listed in the armed forces.

In compliance with the military and naval authorities, we have refrained from giving information about service men save their class and branch of service, and indicating whether or not they are commissioned officers. However, the Alumni Office is vitally interested in other pertinent data, such as actual rank, station, permanent home address, or other address from which mail will be forwarded, special activities, type of service or training, etc.

It is our policy to keep as close a connection as possible with our alumni in this time of stress, and any information concerning alumni in service will be greatly appreciated by this office.

In the listing below, certain symbols have been used to conserve space. These symbols, and their meaning, are as follows:

A, Army of the United States; AAF, Army Air Force; N, United States Navy; NAC, Naval Air Corps; MC, Marine Corps; CG, Coast Guard; MM, Merchant Marine; RAF, Royal Air Force; FFA, Fleet Air Arm; RCAF, Royal Canadian Air Force; RCEC, Royal Canadian Engineering Corps. An asterisk (*) following the above symbols indicates an officer. Asterisks (*) to the left of the name indicate the following: *—unofficially reported missing; **—officially reported missing; ***—officially reported prisoner of war; ****—officially reported killed or deceased.

president of the Bank of Essex, and he is president of the Northern Neck Bar Association.

Mr. Wright is a son of the late Judge T. R. B. Wright, of the Twelfth Judicial Circuit. His wife was the former Margaret Della Preston, of Lewisburg, West Virginia. He was born in the old family home on the Rappahannock River, which now is the main building of St. Margaret's School for Girls at Tappahannock.

Although his legislative duties and the practice of his profession as a lawyer have kept him busy, he has found many opportunities to return to W. and L. and chat with his old friends.

Clifford B. Curtis, '41-Law, is now an Ensign in the United States Naval Air Corps Reserve. He was awarded his Navy wings at Pensacola, and is now on active duty at Port of Spain, Trinidad. (His address in Port of Spain is 11 Pomme Rose Avenue).

George E. Haw, '04, Elected President of Virginia Bar

CLASSMATES and contemporaries of George E. Haw, '04, who remember him as half-back on the famous team of 1902 and a member of T. N. E., Sigma, and Phi Kappa Psi, will be pleased to hear that at a meeting of the Virginia State Bar Association in August, 1942, Mr. Haw was elected the Association's president.

After receiving his law degree in 1904, Mr. Haw went into practice with his father, and this partnership continued until the latter's death in 1930. Since 1918 Mr. Haw has resided and practiced in Richmond, but he still maintains his contacts with his home county of Hanover, of which he is still a voting resident. He was married in 1918 and has one son who is now stationed at Camp Lee, Virginia.

Mr. Haw is the third Washington and Lee president of the Bar Association in the past three years, Kennon Whittle, '14, having been a predecessor two years ago.

EVERETT O. AMIS, '38, left Washington and Lee in 1937 and during a tour of Europe that summer obtained an assistant professorship in English at the College de Garçons in Castlenaudary, France, where he taught until the autumn of 1938. Forced to leave France during the Sudeten crisis, he returned to the United States and took a job as reporter with the Memphis Commercial Appeal. He was called into the service in February, and, after basic training at Keesler Field, was made Corporal with special duty in the Public Relations office.

W. ARTHUR BEETON, '39, received his commission and wings at the Naval Air School in Pensacola in 1940. He then had active duty with operating units of the Atlantic Fleet, which took him to different places all the way from Canada to South America. In May, 1941, he was made District Flight Supervisor with Civilian Pilot Training, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Department of Commerce. In April, 1942, he was promoted to Airways Inspector (Flight), Second Region, Atlanta.

PAUL MULDOON, '41, is an assistant flight commander. He has been a pilot and instructor since June, 1941, and was promoted to a first lieutenancy last February.

CLAUDE SAUNDERS HOWELL, '32, was drowned while fishing in the Nansemond River, in Virginia, in the summer of 1942.

21 Alumni Training at Harvard

WALTER GUTHRIE, '41, (now 2nd Lieutenant, QMC) reported on August 14th that there were then twenty-one Washington and Lee alumni studying in the various service training schools at Harvard.

To quote his letter:

"Lt. (j.g.) Charles Williams, '38, is now an instructor at the Naval Supply Corps School here at the Harvard Business School, and Ensign Tom Bradley, '41, is an instructor in the Naval Indoctrination School which is located at Harvard University.

"In the Quartermaster ROTC course, in which I am an instructor, we have Cadets Derrell Dickens, '40, S. L. Kopald, '43, Henry Roediger, '42, Jerry Hellings, '43, T. C. Buford, '41, and Ted Bruinsma, '40. The latter has recently received his commission as ensign in Naval Ordnance. Allen Snyder, '39, has also received a commission in Naval Ordnance, effective on his graduation here in February.

"Ensign Alvin Fleischman, '41, is now a student in the Supply Corps School here, as is Ensign Murat Willis. Also students in the Harvard Business School but not members of either armed service are Sydney Lewis, Jack Barrie, Bob Wersel, and Horace Jeter. These men are in what is known as the Industrial Administrator Course, leading to a professional degree and in all probability will work in a wartime manufacturing plant. Ensign Morton Barker, '41, was recently in this group but received his naval commission and went to active duty.

"In the Naval Indoctrination School, studying under Tom Bradley, are the following ensigns: Bob Epsy, '40, Jim Hernandez, Ted Hundley, '40, Hank Woods, '42, and Arch Turpin, '39.

"This adds up to a total of twenty-one and is a pretty substantial showing of our men here at Harvard. However, the school is so big that we rarely see much of each other."

JOSEPH ADDISON BILLINGSLEY, JR., '40, was on his way to the American Embassy in Tokyo (of all places!) in the late fall of 1941. On November 26th he had arrived in Shanghai, China, and he was held there subsequently until an exchange of prisoners was effected recently in Portuguese East Africa. Right after the exchange he was sent to Capetown, South Africa.

OLDHAM CLARKE, '28, is a member of a newly formed law partnership, under the firm name of Allen, McElwain, Dinning and Clarke, with offices in the Kentucky Home Life Building, Louisville, Kentucky.

In Memoriam

JOSEPH TURPIN DRAKE, prominent attorney of Port Gibson, Mississippi, died at his home there on June 28th after a long period of failing health.

After receiving his law degree here, he went to Port Gibson and was admitted to the Mississippi bar in 1890, at the age of twenty. He joined his father in practice and later became representative of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley and Illinois Central Railroads in Port Gibson. He was for some time city attorney and for ten years mayor of his home town. A director of the Port Gibson Bank, he served also for a number of years as its vice-president.

He was an officer in the Methodist Church for half a century and taught in the Sunday School a similar length of time, resigning as teacher of the men's Bible class a year ago because of failing health. He also served as church treasurer for about thirty years. His charities were far-reaching, though he never allowed his closest friends to know of the many gifts he made.

He is survived by his wife, three children, four sisters and one brother.

HAROLD M. COLLINS died in Washington on September 24th. He had been on duty in the Division of American Republics of the State Department.

From 1917-1919 he served in the United States Army, reaching the rank of first lieutenant, cavalry, overseas. Returning to the United States, he graduated from the Columbia School of Journalism and later was a high school principal. Mr. Collins entered the Foreign Service in 1921 and served successively as vice-consul at Dublin, and consul at Nantes, Ensenada, Rivière du Loup, Edmonton, and Winnipeg. In 1936 he was made secretary of the legation at San José, Costa Rica. Two years later he was consul at Tampico. He was assigned to the State Department early this year.

He leaves a widow and a son, Lewis Preston Collins.

Former Professor Dies

DR. ADDISON HOGUE, who taught Latin and Greek here for forty years, died on August 9th in Washington, D. C., where he had gone to live after his retirement in 1920. He was a graduate of Hampden-Sydney and had taught there as well as at the University of Virginia and the University of Mississippi. His last years were devoted chiefly to church work. At the time of his death, he was 93 years old.

Service Casualties

TECHNICAL SERGEANT STANLEY ALLEN DOUGLAS, JR., '39, was killed in action on June 11th, while acting as radio operator on a B-23 Liberator Army bomber which was shot down by shrapnel off Alaska.

Al was here only two years, but he had many friends, both in his fraternity, Phi Gamma Delta, and outside it. To them, as well as to the rest of us, his death will bring the war nearer and make its import even graver. It is a long step from a swing tune with the Southern Collegians Orchestra, of which he was a member, to a soldier's death in action over the Aleutian Islands.

After leaving here, Douglas attended New York University for a while and was close to the attainment of a degree when he volunteered for the air force. He was also working for an insurance firm at this time.

He was trained at Scott Field, Missouri, and West Palm Beach. He saw some service in the Atlantic Patrol, operating a device for the detection of submarines. He was then ordered to Alaska on a secret mission.

He was twenty-five years old at the time of his death.

LIEUTENANT JACK ARNOLD REVELLE STEWART, '39, U. S. Army Air Corps, was killed in a plane crash at Tampa, Florida, on September 18th. He had just finished training at Spence Field, Moultrie, Georgia. He had also been stationed in Washington with the Staff.

Classmates and friends will remember Jock well as prominent on this campus, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

He was buried in Arlington Cemetery.

LIEUTENANT RICHARD CLARENCE BURTON, '42, Army Air Force, was killed in a plane crash on September 13, when the dive bomber he was piloting crashed in Beaufort River near Parris Island, South Carolina. He had enlisted in the Air Force on December 17, 1941, and received his wings at Kelly Field advanced flying school in August.

At a special ceremony in honor of Constitution Day last September 17th, representatives of Washington and Lee were selected along with the Art Institute of Chicago to sponsor the laying of wreathes on Washington's statue in Grant Park. Other colleges represented at the ceremony, which featured the sewing of one star on a flag which will be sent to the forty-seven other states for a similar ceremony, were Hamilton and Columbia, honoring Alexander Hamilton.

Class Notes

JULIE W. PARKS has visited the campus only once since leaving school but his affections are still warm for the University and his classmates. He is living in Loch Lomond, Louisiana.

W. T. ARMSTRONG is senior member of the law firm of Armstrong, Cranford, Baker, and Bedford, American National Insurance Building, Galveston, Texas.

In the past we have tried to include in the Class Notes some mention of every man from whom a class letter was received. Now that it has become necessary to reduce the number of pages in the magazine, we are eliminating the names of men from whom no new information was received. Since the information may be a year old, the addresses have probably changed anyway. The names left out are not forgotten. We'd like more information, though.

DR. JAMES A. McCLURE, minister of the First Presbyterian church, St. Petersburg, Florida, writing on June 4 states that his son, Tom, B.S. '40, was commissioned an ensign in the Navy, volunteering for sea duty; John, A.B. '28, who has been practicing medicine for nine years at Welsh, Louisiana, has volunteered for medical service and will be commissioned a first lieutenant; Jim, A.B. '34, and LL.B. '37, is in the Navy.

GREENLEE D. LETCHER has had a long illness from which, we are happy to say, he has now recovered.

1900

J. RAN TUCKER, State Planters Bank Building, Richmond, Virginia, has a son in the armed forces as a first lieutenant in the tank corps.

1898

ERNEST W. RIPPY's company, Ripy Brothers, Distillers, is making alcohol for the government.

DR. W. T. ELLIS is chief surgeon to the Stetson Hospital, the Doctors Hospital, and division surgeon in the Department of Public Safety of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. His offices are in the Hardt Building, Philadelphia.

W. ROSS McCAIN has been living in Hartford, Connecticut, since 1919 as an officer of the Aetna Insurance Company, having come to the Home Office as Assistant Secretary. Since then he has been promoted until now he is president of the group, comprising six companies—two casualty and four fire companies. He is married and has two children—a girl who graduated in 1940 from Vassar, and a son who graduated this year from Deerfield Academy.

DR. WILLIAM ALLAN, after practicing medicine for thirty-five years, says he has quit peddling pills and has taken a job as professor of medical genetics in the new Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Winston-Salem, North Carolina. This occupation has led him into statewide surveys of hereditary diseases, so that he beats up and down the road like a traveling salesman. He gets back to the campus occasionally and says he thinks Washington and Lee is in better shape than he ever saw it.

COL. ARTHUR M. SHIPP, who is an alumnus of both Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee, and loyal to both institutions, has been living in Florida since his retirement several years ago. He and his family have moved to Lexington, where he will make his home. His father, Col. Scott Shipp, was superintendent of V.M.I. for fifty years.

ELBERT W. BOGHER, after twenty-seven years' residence in Merchantville, New Jersey, has sold his house there and moved to Moorestown, New Jersey, an old Quaker community about four miles east of his former home. His older son is a sergeant at Fort Dix, New Jersey, and the younger has sent in his questionnaire. Mr. Boogher is president of the Philadelphia alumni group.

DR. J. MORRISON HUCHESON, member of the University Board of Trustees, and therefore in a position to know, says: "There have been few times, if any, in my recollection when our Alma Mater was more in need of support than at present." His son completed his sophomore year at Washington and Lee in May.

1903

WILLIAM J. ("BILLY") TURNER has been with the Braden Copper Company for the past thirty-three years, with the exception of a couple of years in the United States Army during the first World War, and for the past twelve years has been general manager of the company. He says: "We are now, of course, operating at maximum capacity, producing copper for the war effort, with personnel of employees of over 9,000 men, and all very busy." He is married and has two sons, the elder of whom has just graduated from Harvard, and is a volunteer in the United States Navy. His second son is still at Phillips Exeter Academy.

SAMUEL MCP. GLASGOW, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian Church, of Savannah, Georgia, has turned over his collection of Robert E. Lee pictures—around one hundred and fifty different pictures—to the University to be displayed in the Robert E. Lee Memorial Room in the library. This is a most valuable and interesting collection.

1905

JOHN WEST ADDISON writes a delightful letter to his class agent, so filled with classic allusions and apt quotations that we are tempted to turn it over to the English Department as "Exhibit A" of what the well-educated young college man should know.

1906

C. A. DUNLAP is an engineer on the A.T. & S.F.R.R. He says they have twenty crews working where six do the work in normal times. He is in one of the great wheat growing counties, and the wheat is the best he has seen in many years. His home is in Wellington, Kansas.

CLAUDE P. LIGHT, besides serving as Prosecuting Attorney for Wood County, West Virginia, has so many civic, church, and defense jobs that our limited space makes it impossible to print them all. We wish to nominate him as Public Spirited Citizen No. 1 of Parkersburg, West Virginia.

1907

VINCENT M. MILES after a two year term with the Social Security Act organization, was with the Department of Justice for some time, and then became solicitor of the Post Office Department.

G. W. KELLER is an oil and gas operator, with development work mostly confined to the fields of southern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. He is general manager of the Huntington-Oklahoma Oil Company and the Midway Gas Company with offices located in the First Huntington National Bank Building, Huntington, West Virginia. His son, George Simms Keller, is a student at Washington and Lee.

W. R. J. DUNN, president of the Dunn Construction Company of Birmingham, Alabama, writes that since 1940 his company has given up all other work for war construction. They have finished two jobs for the Army—the Fort McClellan Tent Camp, and the Anniston Ordnance Depot, and were starting work on a Naval Aviation Base. His oldest son, W. R. J., JR., '40, is working with him, and the younger, Claude, was at the time of writing in camp on the West Coast.

DR. W. B. NEWELL is connected with the Independence Hospital, Enid, Oklahoma. He has recently had a rather severe illness following an attack of "flu" from which he is recovering rapidly. He has five children, all of whom are married except one.

1908

ABE SOMERVILLE, Capt. F.A. CASC, is in charge of recruiting and induction at Camp Croft, North Carolina. He says; "My heart is as good as it was in 1906 or 1908. My feet still like to dance as much, but they do not move quite as fast as they did." His son is now a first mate in the U. S. Merchant Marine, and his daughter has just graduated from the Delta State Teachers College of Cleveland, Mississippi.

JOHN W. PORTER is practicing law in Muskogee, Oklahoma. He is married and has four sons; the oldest is an inspector for the government on an army cantonment being built near his home, the second a captain in the Army Air Corps, the third an ensign in the Navy Air Corps, and the fourth expecting to go into air training as soon as he is old enough.

RAY ROBINSON is an apple grower on "Apple Pie Ridge," Winchester, Virginia. He also has an apple by-products company. He was married in 1911 and has two boys of draft age, one of them already in the Army, and, by the way, he is also a granddad.

ROSCOE B. STEPHENSON has been practicing law in his home town, Covington, Virginia, since leaving college. He has three children, two girls and a boy, all of whom are in college; the boy at Washington and Lee. He says in his letter to his class agent: "In closing, I want to extend my affectionate greetings to each member of our class. Our association as members of the law class was so intimate and cordial that the revival of those memories stirs a depth of feeling which time cannot allay. So let me say, God bless each of you."

LIEUTENANT COLONEL LEWIS C. GORDON, C.E., was assigned to duty on December 1, 1941, at Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Military Department, Houghton, Michigan, as Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

ABRAM P. STAPLES, at the last meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General, was elected president of the association. He is attorney general of the state of Virginia.

1909

STUART CHEVALIER is making his home in California where his law firm of Miller, Chevalier, Peeler and Wilson has an office, in addition to offices in Washington, New York, and Chicago. Mrs. Chevalier has recently published a very interesting novel, Drivin' Women. Her book is particularly interesting to Southerners as it deals with the tobacco industry and the problems of the Southern farmer, in which both Mr. and Mrs. Chevalier have long been interested, both as observers and as amateur farmers.

1910

LARRY WILSON has been in the automobile business in Greensboro, North Carolina, since 1925. He married Jane Gilkeson, one of the Washington and Lee belles. They have three sons. All have finished at Washington and Lee and are now working for Uncle Sam. Larry, Jr., '37, is in the Field Artillery; Fill, '37, is Assistant Engineer with TVA; Ben, '39, is in the Army.

BRONSON L. WOOD is a Presbyterian minister at Callaway, Virginia. He is married and has four children. In his letter to his class agent, Bill Streit, he says:

"Yes, all of those names, and yours too, call up a pleasant past, stirring very many memories. That Virginia game. Most of the student body was waiting at Western Union, up on Main Street for the score. When the final wire came in, there was a solid, but not silent, move to the campus. At the south entrance they met Sissy Stevens who did not believe in intercollegiate athletics, and emphasized his convictions with test problems that fell heavily on the fall football schedule, and sprung up again in the spring when baseball season had opened. That Virginia game demonstration commandeered him for a speech, and he was game. Mounting on the terrace for a rostrum, he declared, 'I'd rather you would eat than be eaten; I had rather you would beat than be beaten.' Which was good enough for him, and he was allowed to go his way without further penalizing.

I think there was never any other game that stirred as much enthusiasm.

"Johnny Izard, besides being a star quarterback, was a shark in his classes. There was a legend that Dr. 'Slouch' Howerton who was a freshman in the faculty, graded his first philosophy papers up, passing the lowest man, and that when he got to Johnny Izard he gave him 135."

ALBERT McCOWN, M.D., has been serving since September 1, 1941, as medical director of the American Red Cross, National Headquarters, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

H. A. ("TUBBY") DERR is president of Vanguard Paints and Finishes, Inc., Marietta, Ohio. They are furnishing paints and finishes for a wide variety of uses in connection with the war program, ranging from small accessories for airplanes to ships, including the complete paint requirements for a large number of Mine Planting ships for the Coastal Defenses, and four Submarine Net Tenders for the Navy.

CHARLES J. ELLISON is teaching at Fishburne Military Academy in Waynesboro. He says: "Since the old days, I have done a little bit of everything. I fought through one war without firing a gun, have sold investments and insurance, built roads, started a history of Virginia, served as American vice-consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, advised CCC camps in education, taught first aid for the Red Cross and taught English at West Virginia, Virginia and Alabama (Montgomery). I am still an old bachelor and still suffer from asthma and the lack of money. However, a well made ginricky and a pretty girl distract me no end."

JAMES MCKIM BELL is rounding out his 32nd year in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He is with the Rio de Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power Company, Ltd., running this public utility enterprise in Rio and adjacent territory. His son is a junior lieutenant in the Civil Engineering Corps of the Navy, and his daughter keeps occupied with various war-induced activities at the American Embassy in Rio.

1912

BYRON L. BALLARD is a member of the law firm of Shields, Ballard, Jennings and Taber, lawyers, of Lansing, Michigan. His son, Thomas Byron Ballard, who was a freshman at Washington and Lee last year, is now a second lieutenant of Infantry.

CLAYTON E. WILLIAMS is now a professor-farmer, having bought a farm on the outskirts of Lexington. He re-modeled the house there and is very happy in this new interest, as he says he was born and reared on a farm.

TOM GLASGOW has a large and interesting family: five of his own and an English refugee girl, who is making her home with them for the duration. They are all up and coming. He is president of Glasgow-Stewart and Company, Auto Supplies, Charlotte, North Carolina.

JOHN CRIST is claimed by two classes at Washington and Lee, '12 and '13. However, he does not get into any argument about it and is loyal to both classes. He was elected a member of the Alumni Board of Trustees at its meeting at Finals. His son is in his second year at the University. He is president of the Southern Dyestuffs Corporation of Charlotte, and is the only southern member of an eight-man commission, appointed by the president on the allocation of chemicals in the war effort.

1913

HENRY PEEPLES is in the insurance business in Decatur, Georgia. His son, Henry, Jr., who was in the Class of '43 at Washington and Lee, has completed his primary training as a Cadet in the Army Pilot Training Course at Helena, Arkansas, and was on his way to Basic in April when this letter was written. His father is justly proud of his ability to serve his country in this capacity. His daughter is a sophomore at the University of Georgia.

LEWIS TWYMAN, member of the law firm of Twyman Brothers, Miami, Florida writes such a fine tribute to Washington and Lee that we are quoting it here:

"From my earliest youth I was taught to value education, and I think that to a reasonable extent I have appreciated and valued it, but never in my life was I as glad as I am today that I hold my academic and law degree. When the financial house, at least, is toppling all about us, it is a rather comforting feeling to know that nothing but insanity can rob us of such education as we enjoy. In fact, I have always been glad that I attended the particular school which chance, or someone else, selected for me. However, today when such emphasis is necessarily being placed upon character and when true values are given their proper place and weight, I am doubly glad to be an alumnus of Washington and Lee. Indeed I am more sure now than ever before that if I had the right to re-designate the school of which I am privileged to be an alumnus I would make no change."

1915

BOB SHAW is manager of the Engineering Department of the tubes works of RCA Manufacturing Company at Harrison, New Jersey. He has two children at the University of Wisconsin—one a junior in Home Economics and the other a freshman in Engineering.

1916

GEORGE SHORE, attorney-at-law, Sumter, South Carolina, says: "If any of the members of the class are interested in fishing for black bass with rod and reel or fly rod, I would like to hear from them, or, better still, join them on a fishing trip some day."

1916

EARL B. ROSE, 537 N. Broadway, Lexington, Kentucky, was a visitor to the campus last fall. His son was planning to enter the law school at Washington and Lee this fall, but now expects to be commissioned a second lieutenant. His second son graduated at Culver Military Academy in June, having completed four years of Senior R.O.T.C. work, and his status is not definitely determined. He hopes he will be able to get in one year of college at Washington and Lee.

RUSSELL S. RHODES has been general manager of the Tulsa, Oklahoma, Chamber of Commerce, and in October, 1941, was elected president of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries. His only daughter, Katherine, attended Randolph-Macon College for two years and is now completing her junior year at the University of Oklahoma.

JOHN RAINS writes from Little Rock, Arkansas: "My memory often takes me back to Washington and Lee, more so recently, as my son, John, graduated there this May. Twenty-six years is a long period, but in thinking back, it does not seem like that number of years have passed since my campus days."

1917

HARRY CAMPBELL writes his class agent: "It is hard to believe that twenty-five years ago you and I and the rest of our class were reading and discussing the news of another war and impatiently awaiting Finals at Lexington." He is practicing law in Charleston, West Virginia. Three other members of this class are also practicing law in Charleston: Charlie Peters, Sam Silverstein, and John Preston.

GABRIEL DE LA HABA, writing, on April 23, 1942, was busily engaged in the practice of law in San Juan, Puerto Rico. He says: "My services in this war have been limited to serving as Appeal Agent on one of the local boards and now as Special Assistant to the Attorney General in charge of hearings under the conscientious objector sections of the Selective Service Act." He served in World War I. His oldest son is fifteen.

BOB KANE is attorney for the RCA Manufacturing Company, at Camden, New Jersey. At present they are engaged wholly in manufacturing products to win the war. His daughter, Patty, graduated at Randolph-Macon Woman's College. Her uncle, William Allen White, of Emporia, Kansas, delivered the graduation address.

MARION SANDERS has been with the Hercules Powder Company for the past year and a half, first at the Radford Ordnance Works and later at the Sunflower Ordnance Works, Lawrence, Kansas. He is in the Engineering Department on construction work.

A. G. ("GALLA") PAXTON is now a Brigadier General, U. S. A. His forwarding address is still Greenville, Mississippi.

S. E. DURRANCE, 60 N. Court Street, Orlando, Florida, is president of the Orange County Bar Association and was recently appointed Municipal Judge of Orlando.

GEORGE PRINCE ARNOLD is assistant commissioner in charge of public relations, Virginia Conservation Commission, Richmond, Virginia.

JOHN McCHORD was in Lexington on Founders Day and was "tapped" for ODK. He says it made him feel young again. He is a member of the law firm of Calfee and Fogg, 308 Euclid Avenue Building, Cleveland, Ohio, is serving as Appeal Agent for the Draft Board and conducting a school as one of the directors of the Cleveland Automobile Club for Drivers Defense Corps.

FRANCIS H. STYLES, 15 Merrion Square, Dublin, Ireland, writes: "It is rather interesting that the United States Government should now have two Washington and Lee men in charge of running all its consular activities in Ireland, for Parker Buhrman (LL.B. '17) is Consul General at Belfast, Northern Ireland, and I am Consul in Charge of the Consulate General at Dublin, Eire."

1919

RALPH MOORE has moved from Mt. Clinton, Virginia, where he has been teaching for seven years in the Rockingham Schools to Lynchburg as assistant superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphan's Home. His address is 115 Linden Avenue, Lynchburg, Virginia.

JIMMIE FAIN, The City National Bank of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, writes: "Last Saturday Washington and Lee sent a golf team to Winston-Salem to participate in the intercollegiate tournament held here. Duke, Carolina, Davidson, Wake Forest, V.M.I., Washington and Lee and others were represented. I had an opportunity to meet the boys and their coach. We had a fine tournament; however, Duke won the show and Washington and Lee took fourth place. The thing that impressed me was the fine type of interesting, intelligent boys who came here representing Washington and Lee. If they are representatives of the student body, I am confident that old Washington and Lee has excellent material from which will come leaders in American business, government and Christian leadership."

1920

By CHESTER SHADE, Class Agent, '20-L

T. SELDEN JONES is in practice at Huntington, West Virginia, with offices in the First Huntington National Bank Building. Shrimp modestly avers that he has nothing to say for publication, since his story is well known to our classmates. He says he is still trying to earn enough from our chosen profession to furnish tax-and-eating money, but my private gestapo states this is a gross exaggeration.

ELDON P. KING is now special deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, to which position he was appointed in 1933 after serving in the legal branch of the Bureau since his graduation. Eldon was one of a committee sent to Great Britain in 1934 to study the British tax system. On several occasions he has been called to attend the meetings of the Fiscal Committee of the League of Nations at Geneva and Mexico City with a view to eliminating or alleviating international double taxation of resident and non-resident aliens and establishing principles of international administrative cooperation as affecting tax assessment and collection. Eldon's wife and daughter have accompanied him on some of his travels. They live at 3821 Fulton Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

HAROLD G. ROBERTSON is president of the Liberty Trust Bank, Roanoke, Virginia. He has been in the banking business for 20 years and served as Trust Officer of the Mountain Trust Bank in Roanoke for eight years before going to the Liberty Trust. Harold, of course, sees many Washington and Lee men in his daily rounds in Roanoke. He lives at Salem, Virginia.

ALEX WALKER, who was transferred from Washington to Philadelphia with other "SEC-ites," gives his new address as 407 Penwyn Road, Wynnewood, Pennsylvania. His son, Alexander Hamilton, Jr., is in his third year at Washington and Lee.

RAN CABELL has been living at Virginia Beach since 1940, first on duty at Fort Story, and since Christmas at the Norfolk Operating Base. Previously he had put in a good many years in the Virginia National Guard, and, when the guard was federalized, came in as a Lieutenant Colonel. After eighteen months' service he thought it probable he would soon be headed for parts unknown.

HARRY L. MOORE is professor of Poultry Husbandry at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He was a member of the Washington and Lee Ambulance Corps in World War I. He writes:

"I teach during the spring quarter and have just returned from a field trip with one of my classes, up through Lexington, Harrisonburg and other sections visiting poultry setups. As always when I take a group of strangers through Lexington, I drove through the Washington and Lee grounds and pointed out the different buildings. I could not help but tell the students, the majority of whom will graduate in June and will be officers in the army, of the activities on the campus just 25 years ago when the V.M.I. boys came over and drilled the students two or three afternoons a week; of the boys who left there to go to Reserve Officers' Training Camp; and of the boys who left to go into the Ambulance Unit.

"You will probably recall how Pete Hisle had to be stretched two inches in the gymnasium before the army officers would take him in, and how Sid Johnson and Jim Rowan had to eat two or three meals just before getting on the scales in order to qualify for weight. You will probably remember also that the army officers came just at the time we had exams and those of us who were enlisting in the Ambulance Corps asked that we be examined as early as possible so as not to have to take the exams."

C. D. McCABE just missed going over seas as an air pilot in the last war, as the Armistice was declared while he was waiting for a boat. He will have his chance this time as he is now a captain in the Air Corps.

1921

GRAY FUNKHOUSER is teaching mathematics at The Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire. He is at present engaged in preparing a second edition of a textbook in trigonometry so as to make it more directly applicable to military matters.

R. W. ("POTSY") COLÉ is in the insurance business in Richmond, Virginia. He says: "Twenty years ago (come May 19, 1942), I embarked on the sea of matrimony.

Once or twice I have encountered heavy head winds, but the mainsail is still up, and the flag proudly floats. In addition to my wife, the members of the crew are Robert W. Cole, Jr., 18 next July, and Mary Kathleen Cole, 13 years old next November. If I do say so, it is a hale and hearty crew, and all are thoroughly capable of handling the old ship as she sails along."

A. MILLING BERNSTEIN missed a curve one night in March, 1941, and in the resultant wreck did damage to his left arm, requiring him to remain in the hospital for about a year with the arm immobilized. He underwent innumerable operations, which were all very interesting but somewhat confining. Happily, he now has a useful arm. His son finishes high school this year and will come to Washington and Lee.

1922

J. LINDSAY, D.D., Rector of St. Mark's Memorial Parish House, 2539 Channing Way, Berkeley, California, was awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree from Washington and Lee at Finals in May, 1942.

ROBERT M. BEAR has been made a full professor at Dartmouth College, where he teaches Psychology. He recently had the honor of addressing the Naval War College at Newport, Rhode Island.

W. J. L. PATTON was promoted from assistant cashier to assistant comptroller of the National City Bank of New York (not the Chase National Bank as reported in a recent Alumni Magazine). On February 7, 1942, he became the father of a baby girl. Also, oil has just been struck on some property in Virginia in which he holds an interest. Sounds like his lucky year.

1923

CY HALL has changed his firm since the first of the year, the new set-up being Hall and Altizer, Charleston National Bank Building, Charleston, West Virginia.

GEORGE MASON, Madison, North Carolina, is president of Gem-Dandy, Inc., manufacturers of ladies' foundation garments.

JAY McDONALD is still with the same millinery concern he started with eighteen years ago and is in charge of supervising departments in several states, with his office in Cleveland, Ohio. He says some of the boys still can't get used to the idea of a Washington and Lee football player winding up in the ladies' hat business. However, he says, "Anything can happen," and it has been good to him. His address is 2820 Ludlow, Shaker Heights, Cleveland, Ohio.

THOMAS JEAN ELLIS accepted an appointment about three years ago as assistant attorney general of the State of Florida, and liked living in Tallahassee so well that he subsequently opened a law office there. His address is Centennial Building, Tallahassee, Florida.

JOSEPH R. LONG, is still practicing law at the old stand, 506 Olive Street, St. Louis, Missouri, in spite of the heat and the demands upon his time levied by his service in the Missouri State Guard, in which he is now the proud commander of a battalion of infantry.

1924

TURNER MERRIT, in anticipation of further tire and gasoline restrictions, has changed his address to 604 2nd Avenue, Decatur, Georgia, in order to be within walking distance of his principal after-hours activities, his Boy Scout Troop and his church. This has been an eventful year with him; he has registered under the Selective Service Act; the Atlanta Area Council has awarded him the Scoutmaster's Key at its annual meeting, and he has been elected and ordained as a Deacon in his church.

VICKERS WATTS says: "I'm still single, and a disappointment to everyone except myself. I have half a dozen jobs and don't work very hard at any of them." In addition to these jobs he says he runs a small, one-man, law office, accepting only the work which interests him.

E. D. GIBSON hastens to explain why he is apparently leading a double life. His official residence, where reside his wife and fourteen year old daughter, is 282 West Fourth Street, Mansfield, Ohio. He also has a residence at 1550 Bryn Mawr Drive, Dayton, Ohio, in order to carry on his duties as a member of the Civilian Personnel Branch of Air Service Command, Army Air Forces, Wright Field.

G. S. SPRAGINS went to California after a few years spent in his home town in Arkansas. He has had a wonderful time of it, working in the extensive Bank of America branch banking system, getting married and having two children, a daughter, Virginia, thirteen, and G. S. Jr., now five. He is manager of the West Arcadia Branch, Bank of America, Arcadia, California, where he has built a house.

ROBERT B. CAMPBELL has recently moved to Lorain, Ohio, where he has accepted a call to The Church of the Redeemer. This is the only Episcopal Church in a town of 50,000, and has 575 communicants.

1926

EMMETT W. MACCORKLE is stationed at the Norfolk Navy Yard as a Lieutenant. He says: "The main news with me is the arrival of Emmett Wallace MacCorkle, III, several months ago, (Feb. 10). We hope that he will be ready to enter Washington and Lee with the Class of 1964 which will be just ninety years after his grandfather entered Washington and Lee as a freshman when General Lee was president.

EARL A. CADMUS is practicing law in Portsmouth, Virginia. He was married July 8, 1941 to Miss Elsie Hindman, an alumnus of Mary Baldwin College, and they live at 161 Broad Street, Portsmouth, Virginia.

1927

DAVID H. WICE has accepted a call from Omaha, Nebraska, to Newark, New Jersey, where he is Rabbi of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun, High Street and Waverly Avenue.

1928

GERALD F. HORINE is with the War Production Board in Washington as an industrial specialist. His residence address is 400 Commonwealth Avenue, Alexandria, Virginia.

1929

CHARLIE MERCKE enlisted in the United States Coast Guard on April 7, 1942. He is married and has a daughter born November 27, 1941.

1930

GEORGE JUNKIN (writing in April, '42) said he had been at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, for the past year, where he expected to be until July 1, 1942, at which time he would return to Washington, D. C., as assistant statistician in the Acturial and Analysis section of FCIC.

ROBERT W. MOSLEY has been manager of the Wilson Wholesale Grocery Company at Wilson, Arkansas, since January 3, 1942, and since April 1, 1942, at Osceola, Arkansas. Osceola is only twelve miles from Wilson. This wholesale grocery concern is part of the Lee Wilson Estate, the largest plantation in the United States. It covers 60,000 acres of the richest land in the world on the banks of the Mississippi River in Mississippi County, Arkansas. The plantation includes seven small towns, a railroad, and 46 different enterprises.

ROBERT E. CLAPP, JR., since his last letter to his class agent, has been married, and when his letter was written in May was temporarily living in Baltimore at the Canterbury Apartments, 39th and Canterbury Road. This change of residence was due to his appointment as assistant attorney general of the state of Maryland on June 1, 1939. He has spent his time since then attending to a portion of the duties of the Attorney General's Office in handling the legal problems of the State.

MOSBY JERROW, JR., is still practicing law in Lynchburg, Virginia. The birth of Mosby Garland Perrow, III, on January 19, 1942, brings his total to two children. He has also been elected to the Lynchburg School Board.

1931

ALBERT G. PEERY is still practicing law in Tazewell, Virginia. He reports the birth of a son, George Junkin Peery, born last June (1941).

1932

LLOYD H. RICHMOND joined forces with J. Edgar Hoover in the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 1934, but resigned in 1941. During this time he lived in 14 different cities and accumulated a wife and two children. In private life he is now personnel manager of a Montgomery Ward Mail Order Branch, where he has the future of 2500 people to worry about.

CHARLES A. WOOD, JR., Major, QMC, is stationed in Charleston, West Virginia, with state headquarters of Selective Service. He was married in Lee Chapel on August 30, 1941, to Helen Margaret Elliott. He says: "If you have never pulled away from the front of the Robert E. Lee Hotel with a string of oil cans dangling from under part of your car, you have not seen Lexington!!”

HENRY F. ARNOLD is editor and publisher of the Cullman Tribune, Cullman, Alabama. His paper was rated third best among the weekly papers of Alabama, in a contest sponsored by the School of Journalism at the University of Alabama. He and his wife have many civic interests. They were visitors to the campus about a year ago.

BILL BROOKS, due to the emergency, has shifted from the automobile business to aircraft. He is now with the Fisher Memphis Aircraft Division. His address is 288 N. McLean, Memphis, Tennessee.

COPELAND ADAMS, writing on April 3, 1942, was home on leave from duty with the Navy as a chief petty officer. He expected to do recruiting duty and hopes to be stationed in Virginia. His home is in Blackstone, Virginia.

CHARLIE LONGACRE is teaching school in Elizabeth, New Jersey, but says the teaching is rapidly becoming his secondary occupation as he is engaged in so many local war activities. His address is 32 Raymond Terrace.

CARL B. VICKERS is prosecuting attorney of Fayette, County, Fayetteville, West Virginia. He is married and has three children, one boy and two girls.

E. MARSHALL NUCKOLS, JR., is now general counsel for the Campbell Soup Company.

THOMAS D. (“TOMMY”) ANDERSON is now a Lieutenant (j.g.) Naval Reserve, stationed in New Orleans. His wife and new baby, Helen Sharpe Anderson, are living in New Orleans at 1304 First Street.
